SPUR NEW MOVE FOR REBUILDING OF SLUM AREAS

Leaders Revise Bill to Aid Capital.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Ald. Lindell [top] and Paul D. Angell.

In a renewal of efforts to give private capital a chance to rebuild city slum areas, a revised bill providing for formation of redevelopment corporations with power to condemn land of "holdout" minority owners was started yesterday on the way toward ultimate presentation to the Illinois legislature. The Chicago Building congress, representing all branches of the building industry, announced completion of redrafting of the proposed measure, which is called "the neighborhood redevelopment corporation law."

Hearings to Start Thursday.

Paul D. Angell, secretary of the Building Congress, disclosed at the same time that hearings on the measure will be held, beginning Thursday, by a subcommittee of the city council's committee on housing. Alderman Arthur G. Lindell [9th] is chairman of both committees.

Angell said the aim of the hearings is to enable the congress and the committees to hear suggestions from all groups interested in solving the slum problem.

The bill, drafted tentatively in August on the framework of a similar measure which died in a legislative jam June 29, 1939, has been revised to meet objections of certain groups, Angell said. The plan retains essential provisions of the old measure, which was known as the public service building corporation bill.

Core of Plan Retained.

Retained as the core of the plan is a provision which would give redevelopment corporations the power of eminent domain or the right to condemn a fraction of property needed as the site for a slum rehabilitation project. Railroads, electric and gas companies, and other public utilities possess such power.

At present private capital has no way to solve the problem created when a few property owners hold out for excessive prices for land needed for slum clearing projects.

One of the major changes embodied in the new draft of the bill relates to machinery for control of the condemnation power which would be granted to the redevelopment corporations. The old measure would have vested that control in the state housing board. Lindell and some others favored local control. The new bill would empower cities, towns, and villages to create redevelopment commissions to supervise the redevelopment corporations.

Many Social Ramifications.

The slum reconstruction problem has many social, financial, and governmental ramifications. Real estate men, county and city officials, and others repeatedly have stressed that rundown areas contribute little tax revenue, while requiring disproportionate expenditure for health, police, and fire protection as a result of inadequate or insanitary housing.

The flight of families from depreciated areas to the suburbs—the trend toward decentralization—is another problem faced by large cities. It is estimated that a belt containing 25 to 30 square miles of depreciated property surrounds the Chicago loop.

These and many other related problems led to the program which the Building Congress has sponsored, with the backing of civic groups, realty and mortgage companies, building labor, contractors, and others.

Shaped to Meet Objections.

Taking advantage of the experience gained with the original bill, the congress, with the aid of experts in law, city planning, zoning, and municipal government, shaped the new bill to meet objections which its predecessor had encountered in the house after having been passed by the senate.

Here are the principal changes made since the first draft of the new bill was drawn up last August:

JURORS REJECT HUSBAND'S PLEA OF INSANE FURY

Erring Wife Sobs as Verdict Is Read.

Bernard Lindner.

A jury of six men and six women in the court of Judge Joseph Graber yesterday brushed aside a plea of "emotional insanity" made on behalf of Bernard Lindner, a betrayed husband, and found him guilty of the murder of his business partner, Albert Neiman. Lindner's punishment was fixed at 20 years in prison.

Mrs. Edith Lindner, who had seen her husband shoot her confessed lover to death in a lawyer's office at 3738 Broadway on Oct. 6, was in court when the verdict was returned. She sobbed loudly and was led away by relatives. During the trial Mrs. Lindner had taken the stand as a defense witness and confessed her adultery with Neiman over a period of several years.

Lawyer Asks for New Trial.

The defendant, who is 37 years old and of the quiet business man type, took the verdict with no outward show of emotion. He remained in his chair, with his eyes downcast, until a bailiff tapped him on the shoulder and led him to a cell.

His attorney, Samuel Hoffman, demanded a new trial, and arguments on this were set for Dec. 27. He declared it was "one of the rankest verdicts ever delivered in the United States."

"I never for a minute believed any jury in America would convict this man," Hoffman said.

Later Lindner declared he was innocent and that the prosecution had told a "lot of lies" about him.

Promises a "Big Surprise."

"The whole story didn't come out," he averred, "and maybe after I have talked with my attorney I'll say something that will be a big surprise."

Lindner said that if he had been acquitted he would have forgiven his wife and gone back to her for the sake of their two children. He asked that his wife be told that he was counting on her to keep up her spirits and take care of the youngsters.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine, who was associated in the prosecution with Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis, pronounced the jury's action satisfactory.

Says Verdict Is Fair.

"The verdict was fair," he averred. "There is law to take care of situations such as Lindner faced. He took the law into his own hands. If he had not been convicted there would have been an incentive for others to settle their family troubles with firearms."

Mrs. Cora B. Troxel of 1235 South 16th avenue, who was chosen forelady of the jury, would comment only briefly on the two hours of deliberations.

"We were generally in accord," she said, "and there were only slight differences to be corrected."

Lindner and Neiman were first partners in a handbook and later in a liquor store in Downers Grove. Lindner learned a short time before the shooting that his wife and supposed friend were carrying on a love affair. Mrs. Lindner promised to give up Neiman, but the promise was not kept.

Temporary Insanity Plea.

Arrangements were then made for the conference in the lawyer's office at which the two men and their wives were present. In his testimony Lindner declared he remembered nothing about the shooting, and expert opinion was introduced to prove he was temporarily insane.

In his instructions Judge Graber told the jury that it should convict if the defendant was mentally capable at the time and to acquit if he was insane.

Torn by Shells, British Vessel in Montevideo

2 Raiders Busy, Belief

New York, Dec. 7.—Reports from two British freighters today indicated that German surface raiders are roaming widely separated parts of the Atlantic. The 4,817 ton Thehata wirelessed that she had sighted a "suspicious" vessel a few hundred miles northeast of the midocean point where a German raider attacked a convoy Nov. 5. The 9,430 ton Port Hobart reported she was being shelled by a raider several hundred miles southeast of Bermuda.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 8, Sunday (AP).—With at least two British warships reported searching the Atlantic for a German raider, the British government early today asked Uruguay to grant permission for the auxiliary cruiser Carnarvon Castle to remain in Montevideo harbor 72 hours to repair damages inflicted by the elusive Nazi ship in a battle Thursday 700 miles northeast of here.

It was expected the Uruguayan government would approve the request, following the recommendations of a commission named to examine the 20,122 ton Carnarvon Castle.

The British cruiser Enterprise, 7,580 tons, and another warship in the vicinity of the battle were said to have taken up the chase of the German raider immediately.

Battle Inside Neutral Zone.

British officials asserted the action was fought well within the neutrality belt set up by American republics, with the Germans as the aggressors. One official said the British auxiliary cruiser challenged a "suspicious vessel" which failed to halt. Then, the official said, the British fired a shot across the vessel's bow.

The other vessel, it was said, then fired broadside and hoisted the German war ensign. Hit by nearly a dozen shells from the raider, the Carnarvon Castle put into Montevideo harbor late yesterday and her captain, H. M. H. Hardy, declared his opponent "ran away so badly damaged that she will undoubtedly be caught and destroyed."

Declines to List Casualties.

Capt. Hardy declined to reveal how many of his sailors had been killed. However, unofficial estimates of casualties ranged as high as seven dead and 22 injured.

The Carnarvon Castle was said to have, among other hits, two at the waterline, four near the waterline, and another directly on the exhaust line, which was out of commission. Another shell struck the starboard part of her superstructure, forward, blowing out that portion of the ship, cutting her antimine belt, and setting a fire which spread over two decks.

The liner showed a strong list to port as she entered harbor, but an official explained she was listed purposely to keep the sea out of the water line hits.

High Speed Chase.

Capt. Hardy issued this statement:

"The engagement lasted one hour and a half. It began with a high speed chase after which the enemy continually tried to end the action and finally disappeared.

"The damage suffered by the Carnarvon Castle, while of a somewhat spectacular nature, is rather superficial and easy to repair."

A half dozen ambulances waited at the dock to transfer wounded men to hospitals but the captain said the ship's doctors had cared for them.

GERMANS DROP 7,455 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON BRITAIN IN NOVEMBER

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (AP).—A total of 7,455 tons of bombs was dropped on British targets during November, DNB, official German news agency, said tonight it had learned from an authoritative source. During the same month, it said, only 475 tons of British bombs fell on Germany.

In the 23 principal German raids of the month, DNB declared, 5,585 tons of bombs were dropped by Nazi flyers. It said 3,521 tons of explosives fell on London, 911 on Birmingham, 629 on Southampton, 610 on Coventry, 196 on Bristol, 129 on Plymouth and 415 on Liverpool. These figures, DNB said, are for explosives and do not include incendiaries.

It added that 272 tons of explosives were dropped on ships and 43 tons on airports.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S ADDRESS PRINTED —50 YEARS LATE

ALVINSTON, Ont., Dec. 7 (AP).—An address which Queen Victoria made to the British parliament in 1890 missed the deadline of the Alvinston Free Press by 50 years, but it has finally reached the paper's readers.

The address ran into three columns of "boiler plate," a metal casting ready to publish. It was consigned to the paper, a weekly, but in some manner the package slipped down into a double wall at the Alvinston railroad freight station and was forgotten.

The station was demolished this week and the package discovered. So Angus MacLean, editor and publisher for the past 22 years, used a column of the "boiler plate" as a special feature in this week's edition.

French Announce Plans for Religious Education

VICHY, France, Dec. 7 (AP).—Plans to return religious education to the schools of France were announced today by Jacques Chevalier, secretary general in the ministry of public education. "Godless schooling has had its day," he said. Religious education in French government supported schools was abolished in 1923.

Reveal Officer Is Killer Using Brother's Name

Johnson City, Tenn., Dec. 7 (AP).—White haired Thomas H. Sapp, veteran of this town's police force, sat in a cell today, charged with escaping from a Texas prison camp and masquerading as his dead brother for the last 10 years.

Police Chief Tom Carriger, describing Sapp as "a straight shooter ever since he's been on the force," said the 55 year old officer escaped the prison camp in 1930 and soon afterwards became a sheriff's deputy here. He subsequently joined the Johnson City police force.

Carriger said Sapp was sentenced to 99 years imprisonment as Emory E. Sapp in 1919 for complicity in the slaying of his first wife.

Trapped by Pension Claim.

Sapp was arrested yesterday on federal indictments charging him with making false pension claims to the veterans' administration and with using the mails to defraud.

Married again and the father of three children, Sapp readily admitted he really was Emory E. Sapp and expressed willingness to return to Texas and "face the music" with the hope that his good reputation here would help him.

The police chief said Sapp, who asked officers to "raffle off my gun to help keep my wife and babies off relief," told him the death of his first wife was accidental and that he was "railroaded" to the penitentiary.

Extradition Sought.

Chief E. A. Seale of the Huntsville, Tex., prison requested authorities here to hold Sapp for extradition.

Police Captain Cad Shoun said Sapp's masquerade was exposed as a result of his collecting a Spanish American war veteran's pension under his brother's name. For the last five years Sapp had been drawing a pension of $60 a month as Thomas H. Sapp. When Thomas H. Sapp's widow in Texas filed a claim for a widow's pension government agents investigated and revealed the policeman as Emory E. Sapp.

Wife to Stick by Him.

Sapp's wife said she had no idea her husband was wanted in Texas as he had not told her of his prison background, or that he had been married before.

"Tom was a devoted husband and was crazy about the children," she said. "I still love him and will stick by him."

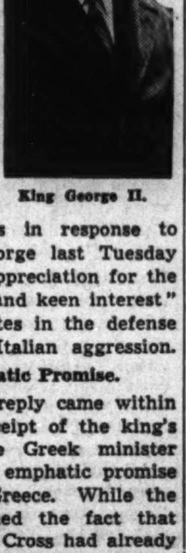
AMERICA TO SEND HELP TO GREECE, ROOSEVELT SAYS

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



King George II.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—Speculation was aroused in the capital today by the disclosure that President Roosevelt has informed King George II. of Greece that "steps are being taken" to extend aid to Greece.

The President's message, sent last Thursday while Mr. Roosevelt was aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa in the Caribbean sea, was made public by the state department. It was in response to one from King George last Tuesday which expressed appreciation for the "warm sympathy and keen interest" of the United States in the defense of Greece against Italian aggression.

Voices Emphatic Promise.

Mr. Roosevelt's reply came within 48 hours after receipt of the king's message thru the Greek minister here. It gave an emphatic promise of assistance to Greece. While the President mentioned the fact that the American Red Cross had already sent funds and supplies to Greece, the phrasing of his message caused discussion whether he was not considering more substantial aid. Some officials believed the President indicated an intention of aiding Greece with military equipment.

This impression was substantiated by a statement from George S. Depasta, counsellor of the Greek embassy, that war materials had been promised his country by United States government officials.

Outlines American Policy.

In response to King George's message the President said:

"I thank your majesty for your friendly message which comes at a time when all free peoples are deeply impressed by the courage and steadfastness of the Greek nation.

"The American Red Cross has already sent substantial amounts of funds and supplies for the relief of suffering in your country and I am sure that my countrymen will give generously to the new organizations which are being established for the same purpose."

"As your majesty knows, it is the settled policy of the United States government to extend aid to those governments and peoples who defend themselves against aggression. I assure your majesty that steps are being taken to extend such aid to Greece which is defending itself so valiantly."

Greek King's Message.

King George's message to President Roosevelt in part said:

"In this hour in which my country is engaged in a hard and unequal struggle, forced upon it by an enemy whose actions are motivated by cruelty and violence, I am deeply moved by the warm sympathy and the keen interest manifested by the great nation whose destinies you guide.

"The noble American people have often in the past rendered assistance to my country in all critical moments of its history, and the recent organization of the Greek War Relief association is further proof that philhellenism continues to inspire Americans of today in their lofty aims.

"Guardians across the seas of the ideals for which thruout the centuries Greeks have lived and died, Americans today are aware that the Greek nation is again fighting for the principles of justice, truth, and liberty. All moral and material assistance will strengthen the heroic Greek army and will bring it nearer to victory."

BRITAIN SEEKS U. S. PLEDGE OF FUTURE LOANS

Backing Wanted If Money Runs Out.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—A two point plan for financial aid to Great Britain is being discussed, it was learned today, by highly placed administration aids, some of whom predicted that it would be adopted.

The plan:

1. The British would use their own investments in this country to buy war supplies, as long as the investments lasted.

2. The United States would make a flat promise to grant loans when those British resources were exhausted. [Some officials suggested that such loans might perhaps be backed by certain British collateral.]

Enough Money to Last Year.

As seen by persons in influential positions the situation is that the British have enough money to pay for their multibillion dollar war purchases here for a year or more, but want to know where the money is coming from after that. The British were said to have raised the question of immediate loans in order to pin down future commitments.

The British view was said to be that the promise of future loans was necessary for these reasons: [a] Bolstering the morale of the British people; [b] Better planning of war purchases; [c] Reassurance of American manufacturers who might be hesitant to make large expenditures for factories and tools to fill British orders unless they knew that they were going to be paid.

Confers with Morgenthau.

An indication of the American view that the British ought to spend their own money before getting loans was seen in the conversations between Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr, and Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury. They started their talks Friday and will meet again Monday.

Both told reporters they were not talking of loans "at this time" but were discussing the "facts" of British resources and purchases.

Altho, officials said, it is not ordinarily polite for sovereign governments to ask collateral when lending money to each other, the collateral question is very live in the United States with reference to Great Britain.

Islands as Security.

In congress and elsewhere, talk centers on asking the British to put up their gold, securities, West Indian Islands, or other assets as security for an American loan. In the far east and Africa the British also own vast rubber, tin, and other strategic material sources which may figure in the loan question.

Certain officials took the view that same type of collateral might be necessary to popularize the loan idea with Americans, who remember that the British still owe more than 5 billion dollars on unsecured American loans of the world war era.

The collateral idea, they continued, might be combined in some cases with the idea of the British spending their own resources first.

Own Industries in U. S.

For instance, the British own many important American industries—great rayon, soap, canning, and other companies. It would, apparently, make little difference whether the British were asked to sell these investments outright to get cash, or were lent the cash with the properties as collateral which would become American property if the loans went into default.

Total British empire investments in this country are nearly 5 billion dollars, of which about 2 billion 800 thousand dollars is United Kingdom investments. However, not all of these are salable or suitable for collateral.

The British might be able to raise another billion dollars on their Latin American investments, but American opinion is divided on the desirability of this. Some economists, including several in the government, have said privately that for the sake of postwar readjustment, it might be better to let the British keep their stake in Latin America.

Mortgage on Gold Urged.

Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board advocated recently a loan to the British secured by their future gold production, which is about 800 million dollars a year. Since the British are selling us all the gold they mine anyway, this appeared to be the least controversial of the proposals.

Questions about the possibility of acquiring some British West Indian islands in consideration of either cash or loans brought some surprising answers in administration circles. Altho the islands might have some strategic value, some officials say they would be financial liabilities. One said the Virgin Islands were an example of how such island purchases cost large sums in relief, public works, and defense, while yielding little revenue.

WHAT BRITAIN WANTS!

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 7. — What does England want and expect from the United States? American newspaper men have been asking this question for months.

Off-the-record spokesmen of the government are more precise, but the official answers go no further than Lord Lothian's statement to the American press regarding "financial resources" and Minister of Economic Warfare Hugh Dalton's suggestion that the United States might send more airplanes and also refuse to do business with any country now doing business with the axis powers.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent can add that what official Britain actually wants is all "the guns, airplanes, and ships the United States can send, including destroyers."

Lack of frankness on the part of the British government has been due to a paradoxical situation. There is the "London can take it" school, which has attempted to prove the only effect of the bombings on England was "an increase in the will and determination of the common man" for victory.

Works Both Ways.

This is good propaganda if it is intended to inspire the United States with admiration for the fighting prowess of the British people. But it is also the wrong kind of propaganda when help is needed.

The one side argues that if America thinks England is losing the war, the United States becomes defeatist. The other insists that telling the United States frankly the problem of what is needed is the only way wholehearted support can be obtained.

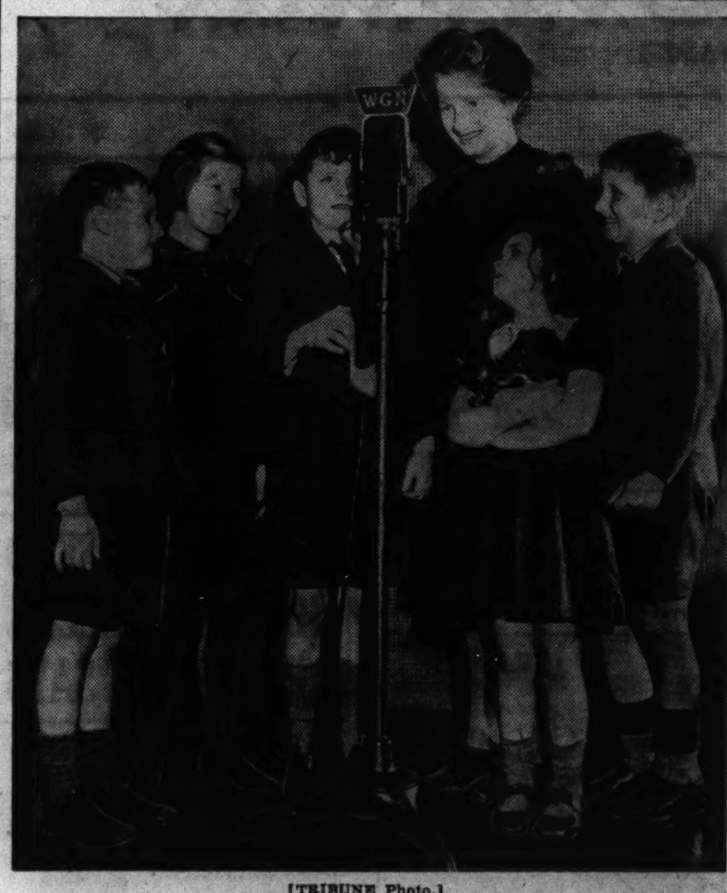
British government spokesmen—including ministers in the war cabinet—carefully refuse to be explicit even in "off-the-record" conversations. The reasons given are that Britain is not asking anyone for anything and besides, it does not want to offend the American government by going over its head.

Change in Nazi Tactics.

The impression inferred is that Britain has hoped the American people will be convinced that this is "America's war as well as Britain's" and if that is done there no longer will be doubt about America's donation to the British cause. Moreover, if this idea is stressed it also may put America on a wartime production basis.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent personally is not satisfied with expert opinion which minimizes the blitzkrieg tactics. In his opinion there never was a war in which more devastation was done at less cost to the enemy and this, of course, is working both ways. If Germany has changed its tactics and is concentrating now in the industrial areas—Coventry, Birmingham, Southampton, and Bristol—this, according to the Sunday Times air correspondent, is only copying British tactics calculated not to waste bombs on mere civilian demoralization.

Young Refugees Heard on W-G-N



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Aided by Laughton

Six English refugee children, en route to new homes in this country for the duration of the war, appeared yesterday on two W-G-N radio programs during their stopover in Chicago. They were heard on June Baker's Homemakers program and on Uncle Harry's Jamboree, and after that toured Tribune Tower and visited the Lincoln park zoo.

Richard Lloyd, 8 years old, and his sister, Sheila, 7, left later for Knoxville, Tenn., where they will stay with family friends. Shirley Dauncey, 10; her brother, John, 8; Dorothy MacDonald, 14, and Sam Pakenahm-Walsh, 10, went on to Philadelphia.

All the children live in Kingsbridge, near London, and journeyed eight weeks from England on a tramp steamer that docked in Los Angeles. There they received hospitality from Charles Laughton, noted English actor, and his wife, Elsa Lanchester. Laughton, who appeared last September on W-G-N, telegraphed Frank Schreiber, studio manager, suggesting that the studio staff look after them while they were in Chicago.

NAZI RING DOES A LIVELY MEAT TRADE IN HEARSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—Meat and sausages packed beside a coffin on a hearse proved profitable for a while to meat bootleggers in Schlesiengrabe, near Breslau. Two women worked up a friendship with a hearse driver and induced him to let them pack the meat into a coffin and drive thru the countryside to their best customers. Later they grew more daring and packed the meat into laundry baskets beside the coffin. A village policeman, puzzled by the presence of a hearse at a house in which nobody had died, detected the ring. The bootleggers were sent to prison.

POILU PRISONERS BUOY SPIRITS IN CHRISTMAS PLAY

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (AP).—In a congested prison camp in the middle of Nazi Germany, French prisoners of war produced a play of the Christ child today in a pathetic effort to buoy their spirits for the approaching Christmastide.

Strangely enough they performed the entire play in German, memorized under the direction of a Berlin language master.

The play was part of a demonstration for foreign newspaper men of the German army's attempt to prevent its million and a half war prisoners from developing the dread "barbed wire" sickness.

This term is the German equivalent of the American term "stir-craziness," which sometimes comes upon prisoners long behind bars. The Germans say that many of their own people were "completely ruined" by their long world war confinement in French prison camps.

Camp Holds 45,000 Prisoners.

The camp is at Luckenwalde, 30 miles from Berlin. It is fenced in by two walls of barbed wire and contains 45,000 French prisoners, most of them white.

The language master explained that the Christmas play sprang up from language studies offered to all the prisoners to give them something to do to take their minds off their burdensome incarceration.

The French amateur actors threw their best into the play but it was a heart-breaking effort to bring about a brighter outlook among the hall full of prisoners, fresh from the mud-spattered and rain-soaked streets of the camp.

Nevertheless, the individual performers were applauded generously and there were laughs for a comedian. German officers were frank to admit it is a terrific task to keep up the spirits of the soldiers, some of whom have been behind the wire for more than a year.

Seek Remedy in Work.

All German camp officers are chosen because they, too, were prisoners during the world war and thus know from first-hand experience many prisoner problems.

For the most part they are trying to find work for their charges because work, the commandant said, "is the best remedy for barbed wire sickness."

A thousand men from the camps are employed in factories and on farms in the vicinity and others are given work tending the camp, cooking and handling the mass of mail.

The soldiers are permitted to send cards to their families. One had written plaintively to his wife, " . . . was the baby a girl? I am content to be just a father."

Shell Torn Warship Enters Port for Repairs

Her sides and superstructure scored by more than a dozen shell hits, the British auxiliary cruiser Carnarvon Castle put into the harbor at Montevideo, Uruguay, after a battle with a raider 700 miles away. The German ship "suffered much more damage," the captain of the Carnarvon Castle said.

NEW TECHNIQUE TAKES BLUR OUT OF RADIO PHOTOS

Press Wireless Achieves News Picture Triumph.

An amazing triumph in the transmission of photographs overseas by radio has been achieved by Press Wireless, Inc., operated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other American newspapers and press associations, after three years of research and experiment.

Press Wireless, Inc., handles the transmission of news reports via overseas wireless for 100 newspapers, magazines, and press associations in the United States, and an equal number abroad. About three years ago, according to Joseph B. Pierson, president and general manager of the company, it began experimenting with the facsimile transmission of news reports, maps, and drawings.

The problem the researchers faced was to eliminate fading, which causes white streaks in radio transmitted pictures; static, which causes black streaks, and an "echo" effect which causes black dots.

The Press Wireless scientists developed a theory that these interferences, natural to radio, did not occur thruout a particular wave band, but that they were concentrated at certain, but varying, points along the band. If a station was receiving along the entire wave band, as in normal reception, it would get interference. However, if it should be possible to select only the portions of the band free from interference, the static, fading, and echo could be eliminated.

The research staff developed equipment for "sweeping" the wave band. That is, the receiving equipment included a beam, traveling with the speed of light across the particular wave band it was receiving. This beam would be in contact with the limited points of the wave band where interference concentrates for so short a time that the interference would not be carried back into the receiving equipment proper.

The "sweep" system was tried out for several months between Chicago and New York, and it worked effectively under adverse conditions especially created for test purposes. The next step was to try it over the Atlantic.

War Halts French Tests.

A test set was sent to Paris. "Sweep" transmission was tried for only two days in Tours before the radio staff had to hide their equipment and flee as the Germans overran the country. After the fall of France the Berlin government became interested in the experiments and Pierson arranged for them to continue from Berlin. The German technicians hooked up the "sweep" equipment with their regular wirephoto transmitter. Thus photographs were sent, rather than facsimiles of line drawings, as had been originally planned.

The unusual clarity of these pictures received over the Atlantic, the complete freedom from the blemishes and blurs caused by interference, convinced the research staff that it was ready for the transmission not only of facsimiles, but actual photographs on a commercial scale.

Press Wireless, Inc., is now arranging to provide this new, remarkably clear wireless picture service to newspapers and press associations thruout the country.

Typhoon Off Philippines Kills Nine Fishermen

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 7 (AP).—At least nine fishermen were swept to their deaths in a typhoon which slashed off the Philippines southeast of here, reports from the provinces disclosed today. The typhoon poised 120 miles east of Manila, its progress checked by a pressure area.

DOG SAUSAGES APPEAR WHEN DUTCH SEARCH FOR MEAT FOR SUNDAY

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands [via Berlin], Dec. 7 (AP).—Sausages made of dog meat were confiscated by authorities at The Hague today while housewives thruout Holland sought, in most cases vainly, meat for Sunday dinners.

It was the second week-end with meat virtually nonexistent. The small quantities available in some places were tainted, some purchasers complained.

Mutton and horse meat, available until recently, have disappeared from the markets, the slaughter of horses and sheep having been forbidden.

Authorities of the German occupation force said they were taking energetic measures to relieve the shortage, which they ascribed to the refusal of farmers to sell their cattle. They said the farmers feared the animals would soon be confiscated and were marketing none in order to have an excess of stock to meet the expected requisition.

Breeders have been ordered to sell part of their stock of milch cows, and must dispose of one-fifth of their present herds by March 1, 1941.

The measure was pronounced necessary not only to provide meat but to ration fodder so that a milk supply can be assured for next spring.

SHIP LOSSES FOR BRITAIN NEARLY DOUBLE YEAR AGO

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP).—The threat of the German U-boat to the commerce by which Britain lives is sharply defined by the figures compiled by neutral sources which put average weekly British, allied, and neutral shipping losses at 84,000 tons for the last 12 weeks compared to an average of 43,000 tons a year ago. The average weekly loss for the war is put at 62,000 tons.

The reasons for this increase, according to neutral naval sources, are the new German submarine bases in France plus bombing and scouting aircraft which operate between 600 and 700 miles west of Ireland.

LONDON HAS 2D RAIDLESS DAY IN 3 MONTHS' SIEGE

Only Minor Air Activity Is Reported Elsewhere.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Dec. 8, Sunday (AP).—Royal air force bombers "successfully attacked targets in Germany, as well as ports in enemy occupied territory" during the night, it was announced today. No raids were reported over Britain during the night.

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP).—London today enjoyed its second raidless day in 92 days of air siege following heavy attacks last night on German held air fields and bases in France, Holland, and Belgium. No air alarm has disturbed the city since 9:30 in Friday.

Except for minor air activity on the east and southeast coasts, the rest of Britain also was free of raids thruout the day, the air ministry announced. Bombs fell in East Anglia, but it was declared that only "a few people sustained minor injuries." Two German planes were reported shot down.

Bombers Range Over France.

Strong squadrons of heavy British bombers ranged far inland from the French coast last night to blast airdrome after airdrome, while the Germans were pounding again at Bristol, important west coast port thru which supplies have been going into the industrial Midlands. Many fires were set off in Bristol, it was said, a hospital and many other buildings damaged, and an unstated number of persons killed or injured.

At Melun, 27 miles from Paris, planes dropped explosives which "threw masses of débris into the air and a pilot could clearly see fragments of a building flying in every direction," the air ministry news service reported. Two planes were reported missing.

Score Direct Hits.

Direct hits on hangars at Chartres were followed by a "spectacular fire"; gasoline tanks were blasted near Lille, in northern France, and other inland airports were bombed and machine gunned, officials said.

One bomber, they said, dived down to 500 feet over the airport at Le Touquet, a former gambling resort, on the channel coast, "so his gunner could spray the field with accurate fire." Low-flying bombers also were reported to have attacked other coast airports and "invasion ports."

Flying fields at Brussels and Harskamp, in Belgium, and at Rotterdam and Eindhoven, in Holland, were reported "straddled with bombs." At Chateaudun, near Chartres in the plain of Orleans, the airport was attacked twice and fires were seen in the wake of the bombs, the ministry said.

Claim Bristol in Flames.

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (AP).—The center of the big British port of Bristol was left in flames by a night bombing attack which damaged the harbor district of the city, DNB, German news agency, reported today. The agency said fires also were started in London.

Informed sources said other overnight attacks were directed against the south coast centers of Southampton, Bournemouth, and Brighton.

Denies She'll Wed

MADELEINE CARROLL.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 7 [Special].—Film Actress Madeline Carroll and the handsome Marquis Richard de la Roziere arrived here together today at Union air terminal aboard an American air lines plane amid rumors that the friendship of the couple might develop into matrimony. But Miss Carroll denied that marriage is contemplated.

And the marquis, who booked passage on the plane under a fictitious name, fled dramatically from the field, hiding himself from the press under a coat.

Miss Carroll said the marquis was here on business. However, he fled to an automobile which had been brought there for him by Miss Carroll's manager. When asked where he might be found, Miss Carroll readily named a Beverly Hills hotel.

The marquis, a lieutenant in the French air corps, is said to be a member of a prominent Maryland family.

BLITZ SHATTERS BRITISH PLANE INDUSTRY—NAZIS

Claim Plants Pulverized or Paralyzed.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—Three months of the fiercest air bombardment the world has ever seen—Germany's wholesale air offensive against Britain—has shattered a great part of the British air industry, it was said here today.

Germans declared that, as matters stand to date, approximately 50 per cent of the British airplane and air motor industry is either pulverized beyond repair or at least paralyzed for some time to come because vital parts or machines which cannot be replaced immediately have been hit.

This result of the air offensive is believed to be of greater importance than the daily bombardments of British ports. Germans point to the ever weakening counter raids by the royal air force as proof of what they call the growing disintegration of the British air industry. So far as Berlin is concerned, it has experienced no raids for quite a while.

Weak Forces in Raids.

The few British air raids on Berlin in the last weeks undoubtedly have been carried out with weak forces and the bombs dropped were of small size compared to some of the destructive bombs weighing 3,600 pounds which the Germans drop over British centers.

In a broadcast, Gen. Quadt of the air force said that British bombers raiding Berlin are able to carry only a maximum load of 1,100 pounds, whereas German planes, owing to the much shorter distance from French and Belgian bases to British centers, can carry an average bomb load of two tons.

Effectiveness of the German antiaircraft also was said to have reduced the carrying capacity of British planes, forcing them to fly part of the way at altitudes up to 25,000 feet.

Forced to Reduce Number.

All these factors together, the Germans declare, compel the British to reduce the number of their night bombers to a small force compared with the hundreds of German planes nightly raiding the British Isles.

It is claimed that assistance from America cannot quickly improve the position into which Germany's mass attacks have put British air industries, especially the motor industry. It is asserted that "American production of air motors for the coming year or so hardly will be able to satisfy American requirements." The further claim is made that wholesale exports of American motors are not to be expected for a long time to come.

To add to the destructive power of their air raids, the Germans now have constructed a device whereby medium bombs also can be carried by pursuit ships and air destroyers.

Germans Hold American Woman

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

HOPES FOR EARLY RELEASE OF U. S. WOMAN IN PARIS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—Maynard Barnes, American chargé d'affaires in Paris, reported to the state department today that after six days of effort he had established direct contact with Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, clerk in the embassy, and that she was held by German police in a small Paris hotel.

Barnes reported that Mrs. Deegan was "well treated and in good health" and expressed the hope that she would be "released shortly."

No official information of the charge against Mrs. Deegan was made public, but it was understood that she was accused of assisting British officers to escape from occupied France. The American embassy handles British affairs in Paris and it was said here it was quite possible Mrs. Deegan might have talked with British subjects.

Secretary of State Hull told newspaper men the embassy in Paris was "taking all appropriate action" to secure Mrs. Deegan's release. She was taken into custody by German authorities Dec. 1.

Nicaragua Children to Get One Bitter Gift—Quinine

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 7.—All poor Nicaraguan children will receive quinine, clothes, candy, and toys for Christmas as a result of the efforts of Mme. Salvadora Somoza, the president's wife. She has enlisted women thruout the republic to collect funds and present the gifts. Many of the poor children have malaria, and the quinine will be given to them several days before Christmas.

MILLIONS ASKED TO IMPROVE AIR BOMB DEFENSES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 [Special].—A recent survey of the United States fleet disclosed it is deficient in protection against air attack, Naval Secretary Frank Knox said in a letter to Senator Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.] and made public today. Knox recommended that congress authorize an expenditure of 300 million dollars for changes and alterations to put the ships in better condition to protect themselves against airplane attacks. The letter said details of the work which Col. Knox recommends are confidential.

"The purpose of the proposed legislation is to authorize major improvements in the antiaircraft defenses of combatant vessels," Knox wrote. "Information on developments in the European war, augmented by experience obtained during our own fleet maneuvers, has conclusively indicated the necessity of improving the means by which our combatant vessels may oppose aircraft attacks."

FOUND DEAD; THROAT SLASHED.

The body of Miles J. Wallace, 42 years old, 50 North Washtenaw avenue, unemployed, was found yesterday in the rear of 2429 Lake street. His throat had been slashed and police said he apparently had killed himself.

Nervous, Ankles Swollen, Backache, Kidneys Strained?

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. Worry, Colds, working too hard, or overeating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Money Back Guarantee

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess Acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. A printed guarantee with each package of Cystex insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, under this positive money back guarantee. Don't take chances on any Kidney medicine that isn't guaranteed. Get Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c. The guarantee protects you.

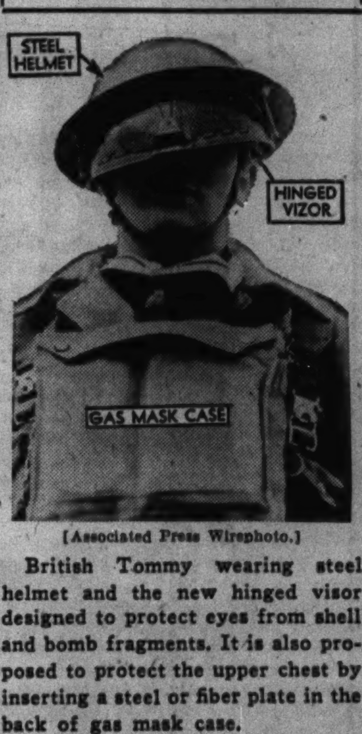
BRITAIN'S TROOPS MAY DON ARMOR WHEN IN BATTLE

Plates to Protect Chest Urged by Experts.

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Armor Comes Back



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

British Tommy wearing steel helmet and the new hinged visor designed to protect eyes from shell and bomb fragments. It is also proposed to protect the upper chest by inserting a steel or fiber plate in the back of gas mask case.

LONDON [By Mail].—British military experts are studying possible advantages of re-introducing body armor to safeguard the lives of front line fighting forces. Some practices of the middle ages already have been revived in attaching eye masks to the front of modern steel helmets. They serve the same purpose as vizors did in olden days. Serious experiments are being conducted with various other devices designed to extend protection to other vital parts of the body.

When firearms came in, armor went out. The military experts of that period decided that troops could not fight in armor thick enough to withstand a musket ball. But this argument, in the light of up to date experience, is shown to be only a half truth. It has been proved that most of the missiles which kill or seriously wound soldiers are "slow moving" objects, such as fragments of shells or bombs, which could be checked by sections of armor worn over the heart, lungs, and brain.

Steel Helmets Introduced.

Body armor dropped out of general use by the early eighteenth century. It was revived in part during the last war when steel helmets were introduced.

Sir Richard Cruise, a leading British surgeon-oculist who concentrated during the world war on studying eye wounds, declares that 70 per cent of the men who lost their sight then would not have done so had they been equipped with a light visor protecting their eyes from tiny fragments of shells and bombs.

Another prominent surgeon, Kenneth Walker, who served on the western front in 1918, reported that while more than 33 per cent of the soldiers killed then died from wounds in the chest and just below the throat, only 3 per cent of the casualities brought into field dressing stations were so wounded. This area covers the heart and main arteries. Even small splinters may cause wounds from which the victim may bleed to death in a very short time if unattended.

Suggestions for Body Armor.

Military medical authorities agree that in this conflict even more than the last, the majority of wounds will be caused by the so-called slow moving missiles.

For protection of the lower part of the throat and upper part of the chest, it is suggested that a thin steel or tough fiber plate about 10 inches square should be supplied and worn in a pocket set in the back of the gas mask case, which in the "alert" position is carried high up on the chest.

Another suggestion is that the soldier's trench shovel should be designed so that with the handle removed, it could be slipped into the gas mask pocket and thus serve as armor plate.

The eye vizor which the British army is now adopting is fixed to the front of the steel helmet and can be drawn down to cover the eyes when under fire. This vizor is about nine inches long and three and a half inches wide. It is perforated with hundreds of tiny holes and is slightly curved and hinged to slip up into the crown of the helmet when not in use. The navy, too, is beginning to issue this vizor.

FRANCE TO END CITIZENSHIP OF DE GAULLE, AIDS

Gen. De Gaulle.

VICHY, France, Dec. 7 (AP).—The council of ministers of the Vichy government announced tonight that Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the "Free French" leader, and several of his supporters will be deprived of French nationality.

Besides De Gaulle, those mentioned were Gen. Georges Catroux, whom De Gaulle has named as head of the "Free French" movement for the Red Sea area; Col. Edouard Rene Marie De Larminat, former chief of staff of the French near eastern armies, and Gen. le Gentilhomme.

GREEKS TAKE NEW TOWN; TIRANA BY CHRISTMAS IS CRY

Delvino Falls; Close In on Argyrokastron.

ATHENS, Dec. 8 Sunday (AP).—Greek soldiers, shouting the new battle cry, "Tirana by Christmas," have taken Delvino, about 10 miles northeast of the newly captured seaport of Porto Edda, and are closing in on the Italian base at Argyrokastron, it was reported early today.

The Greek high command reported the capture of Delvino and said its soldiers had fought "successful local engagements" against the Italians at various points along the front from the sea to the Jugo-Slav frontier. Prisoners were taken.

All Italian bases in southern Albania now are behind the Greeks except Argyrokastron, and it apparently is ready to fall.

Italians Flee Town.

Italian forces were said to have abandoned the town, leaving part of it in flames, and converging Greek vanguards were reported already to have established contact, ready to push in.

[Despite their rapid advance, the Greek soldiers apparently have cut out a big order for themselves with ambitions to be in Albania's capital in less than three weeks. Tirana is 90 miles north of Argyrokastron, but they are separated by wild mountains in an almost roadless country. If the Greek hope is fulfilled, it seems more likely that it will be done by mountaineer troops on the northern front.]

Take Over Roads.

In preparation for occupying Argyrokastron, dispatches from the front said Greek forces have taken over the road between captured Porto Edda and Delvino and the road south of Argyrokastron.

At least 3,000 Italian prisoners were said to have been taken Friday and many were reported being flown back to Greek camps to save time and avoid clogging roads in the mountainous frontier region.

Among materials newly reported captured in the occupation of Porto Edda, one of the main sea gateways for Italian supplies, were 100 howitzers, a weapon on which the Italians relied heavily in their attempt to invade Greece.

Advance Toward Elbasan.

On the northern front, a Greek spokesman said Greek troops were advancing toward Elbasan, 25 miles from Tirana, along the Pogradetz-Elbasan road and up the Devol river valley.

British bombers were reported to have made a new attack on Italian forces at the Albanian port of Valona Friday and to have scored a direct hit on a munitions dump. An Italian motor truck concentration and military building also were said to have been bombed.

[Other dispatches said the Athens press and radio had reported revolutionary sentiments among the Albanians and acts of sabotage both in Albania and Italy. Albanian troops have at times turned against the Fascist government, it was asserted. In Italy, sabotage was reported in Trieste, Florence, Milan, and Fiume, where two submarines and Premier Mussolini's private yacht were said to have been damaged. Outbreaks against Fascist rule were said to have occurred in southern Italy.]

Italians Admit Loss.

ROME, Dec. 7.—The Italian people today learned for the first time that Pogradetz, on the northern end of the Albanian battlefront, had fallen to the Greeks.

[The Greeks announced its capture a week ago.]

"In Albania," today's high command communique said, "the enemy continued its pressing on our extreme north wing on the group of mountains west of Pogradetz, limiting its activity on the rest of the front to local attacks. Our counterattacks have permitted the retaking of various positions."

DOCTOR BEATEN BY HOODLUM GANG. Dr. Daniel B. Heffelfinger, osteopathic physician, was beaten and robbed of $20 by four young hoodlums in front of his home at 1945 East 72d street, police reported yesterday.

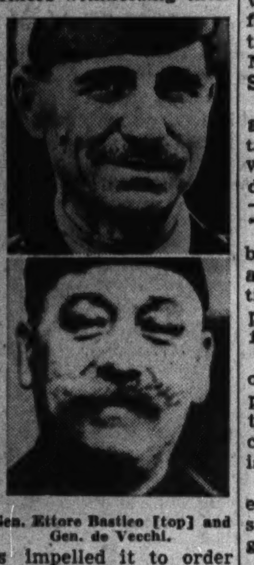
DUCE THREATENS FARMERS; SECOND WAR CHIEF QUITS

Warns: Store Produce or Go to Prison.

ROME, Dec. 7 (AP).—Heavy penalties for Italian farmers withholding their production from compulsory storage and for mine owners failing to speed up operations were disclosed today almost coincidently with the resignation of the second high fascist military commander within two days.



Gen. Ettore Bastico [top] and Gen. de Vecchi.

At the same time, the government's needs impelled it to order "the greatest impetus" in the production of war materials generally.

Leaves Dodecanese Command.

With the same phraseology used yesterday in announcing the resignation of Marshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of staff of the Italian armies—"at his own request"—the government told the people that Gen. Count Cesare Maria de Vecchi di val Cismon had left his command in the Dodecanese Islands to be succeeded by Gen. Ettore Bastico.

Just as in the case of Marshal Badoglio—who, said many gossips, had advised against the campaign against Greece—official quarters and the newspapers maintained silence as to the reason for this newest military shakeup.

Gen. Bastico, who led Blackshirt troops in Ethiopia and Spain, was called from his command of Italy's northern army of the Po to govern the Dodecanese and command their armed forces.

Agreement with Mussolini.

Gen. Ugo Cavallero's acceptance of Marshal Badoglio's old post was taken as sufficient evidence that he was in agreement on military policy with the supreme Commander, Premier Mussolini himself.

The cabinet's decision to penalize recalcitrant farmers was made Dec. 3, but was made public only today. For any farmer withholding his production from storage, it provided imprisonment for a year and the confiscation of his crop.

The penalty provided for mine operators not beginning work within prescribed limits, or not developing their properties adequately will be cancelation of their concessions—that is, their right to operate.

The Fascist party acted to strengthen morale among both civilians and soldiers. An intensification of propaganda was ordered.

NORTHWEST LUMBER STRIKE IS SPREADING TO MILLS IN OREGON

Portland, Ore., Dec. 7 (AP).—Nearly 13,000 Pacific northwest lumber workers were idle today as Washington's lumber strike over wages spread to one Oregon sawmill and threatened others.

The Clark-Wilson plant, employing 500 men, closed in Portland after C. I. O. pickets appeared early today and C. I. O. longshoremen refused to pass picket lines to load lumber for Baltimore.

Thirty-seven western Washington sawmills and five logging operations were halted. Union spokesmen said four more mills, two at Seattle and two near Renton, would be closed Monday, completing the tie-up in the Seattle area.

A lumber shortage already was felt at Camp Murray, Wash., where contractors said completion of the northwest army base barracks might be delayed.

REPORT RUSSIA GIVES BULGARIA PROMISE OF HELP

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 7 (AP).—King Boris of Bulgaria was reported tonight to have been told that soviet Russia would help him if Bulgaria's neutrality should be endangered. The king returned today from his residence near the Black sea port of Varna, where he was said to have been visited by a soviet emissary.

It was reported the emissary also told King Boris that Bulgaria should not attack her neighbors.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

CHINA, BRITAIN DRAFT WAR PACT, JAPANESE HEAR

English Rule Over Army Called Possibility.

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 7 (AP).—Japanese local press reports said today that negotiations are under way in Chungking for a "secret Anglo-Chinese military alliance."

The papers credited "reliable Chinese sources" for their information, and said the negotiations were between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chungking government, and Sir Archibald J. K. Clark Kerr, the British ambassador to China.

According to the reports, the alliance provides:

1. Britain will assist China in transporting war materials and other goods from India, Burma, and Singapore to China.

Aid in Air Provided.

2. Aircraft assembly plants will be established in India, Burma, and Singapore to supply Chungking with aircraft.

3. Chinese south seas natives in British possessions will be induced to support Anglo-Chinese coöperation.

4. All land and air forces under Chiang's command will be under the command of Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, commander in chief of the British far eastern forces at Singapore, in the event Britain declares war against Japan.

New Jap Demands Reported.

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 7 (AP).—A dispatch from Kunming, China, to the Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao, said today the Japanese were reported to have made new major demands on the government of French Indo-China.

The dispatch declared it was learned authoritatively that the demands included immediate Japanese representation in all departments of the Indo-Chinese government and a voice for the Japanese army in the Indo-Chinese police system.

The colonial government was reported to have forwarded the demands to the French government at Vichy.

Report 2 Siamese Attacks.

HANOI, French Indo-China, Dec. 7 (AP).—The government said today that two Indo-China border cities were machine gunned by Thailanders [Siamese] yesterday.

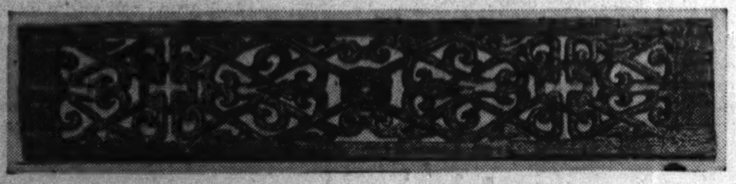
A Thai plane sprayed the water front of Vien Tiane, important border city, with machine gun bullets, and Poipet was fired upon from across the Mekong river, the government said. No casualties were reported. The French did not retaliate, the government added.

The government said many hundreds of communists had been arrested in a drive against subversive elements in Indo-China.

Solving a Chinese Puzzle

[Field Museum Photos.]

C. Martin Wilbur (left) and Tokumatsu Ito putting together an intricate Chinese carved wood grille which arrived at the Field museum in fragments. Below is view of the grille after restoration.



Curators at the Field Museum of Natural History patiently worked over a scrambled batch of jig saw puzzle pieces that are more than 2,000 years old—then found they had restored the inside cover of a coffin.

The intricately fashioned grille was placed on exhibition in the museum yesterday. The pieces, which were in a "powdery-punky" condition, were unearthed from an ancient tomb at the city of Ca'ang-sha in Hunan province, central south China.

C. Martin Wilbur, curator of Chinese archaeology and ethnology, conducted research concurrently with the restoration work, to determine the age and origin of the rare specimen. He said the grille provides a starting point for a study of old Chinese lattice patterns, and that it sheds new light on Chinese coffin customs.

CARDINAL FLAYS ATTEMPT TO GET NATION INTO WAR

Should Think of Peace, Says O'Connell.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 7 (AP).—Cardinal William O'Connell, declaring this nation should keep out of war and work for a permanent peace, today denounced propagandists for war at home and certain expatriates he said were seeking to have America become a sort of tail-end of a foreign empire.

Cardinal O'Connell.

"Not only should we keep out of war as the best thing for America and Americans," said the cardinal in an interview on the eve of his 81st birthday, "but we might well be turning our thoughts toward a speedy and permanent peace."

Example of Hysteria.

The cardinal said it is hard for him to understand why propagandists are allowed to cry down the normal wish of the American people for peace.

"What is their purpose?" he asked. "They cannot be real Americans, because real Americans think of their own country first.

"There are certain expatriates—I think you know whom I mean—who are raising their voices in loud accents with the preposterous proposition that America sink her individuality and become a sort of tail-end of a foreign empire. If this is not an example of exalted hysteria I don't know what could be."

Opposed to Propaganda.

He said it still was a mystery to him that the voices of people who haven't found this country good enough to live in altho they got their incomes here should be allowed to be raised and even applauded.

"We can't have a permanent peace without justice," he added. "That was the trouble with the Versailles treaty. It was not just. Power politics in Europe is not a basis of justice."

BANDIT SLASHES VICTIM'S THROAT AFTER KIDNAPING

Jay Baugh, 19 years old, an attendant in the filling station at 410 East 35th street, was in serious condition in Michael Reese hospital last night after a colored bandit slashed his throat. Police are holding Stanley Johnson, 23, of 3555 Rhodes avenue, who is said to have confessed.

Baugh, who identified Johnson, said the latter came into the station, walked him two blocks at gunpoint, then took him by cab to 52d street and the elevated tracks where he was forced to surrender $50. When he struggled the bandit slashed his throat.

Detectives Edward Rasmussen and Arthur Condon of the Stanton avenue station arrested Johnson near his home and found $50, a gun and a knife with a four inch blade. Baugh lives at 3242 Normal boulevard.

TAVERN OWNER SHOT TO DEATH BY YOUNG BANDIT

John Modelski, 45 years old, owner of a tavern at 3000 West 47th street, died in Holy Cross hospital early today less than an hour after being shot during an attempted holdup. Lieut. Thomas Breen of the New City police said that Modelski was in the tavern with two customers and that one of them held him up when the other went to a washroom.

The second customer, Joseph Patrovsky, 5330 West 26th street, Cicero, told police he heard three shots and ran into the barroom to find Modelski lying behind the bar. Patrovsky said the other customer was about 19 years old.

WINDSORS PLAN PRIVATE VISIT TO MIAMI TUESDAY

Wally Going to Dentist for Major Operation.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP).—The duke and duchess of Windsor will arrive from Nassau Tuesday for a "strictly private" four day visit to Miami, during which the duchess will undergo a major dental operation.

She has been suffering from an infected tooth which has been quite painful for several months. An early plan to have it treated in Miami was abandoned until two weeks ago when physicians decided the infection was injuring her general health.

Go Direct to Hospital.

The duchess will submit to the operation at St. Frances hospital in Miami Beach, probably a few hours after her arrival. A general anaesthetic is planned, as it probably will be necessary to scrape the bone, attendants said.

The Windsors, with one aide-de-camp and two servants, will go directly to the hospital upon their arrival aboard the S. S. Munargo. The party probably will remain there overnight before entering a hotel for the duchess' recuperation before their return to Nassau late Friday.

Thru his aides, the duke made clear in advance that the trip is to be private; that he will accept no invitations and make no appearances in public except when necessary.

Mayors Plan Reception.

It is planned for the mayors of Miami, Miami Beach and Coral Gables, with a British embassy representative from Washington, British consuls and a limited number of other officials to greet the Windsors when they arrive.

The duchess expects to join the duke in greeting the reception committee and in meeting newsmen. She has not curtailed her customary duties because of the infection.

It will be the duke's first visit to the United States since 1924, when he was the prince of Wales.

ROOSEVELT FINDS BAD FISHING WEATHER AT SEA, SO HE WORKS

ABOARD THE S. S. MAYRANT AT SEA, Dec. 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt, proceeding on his Caribbean defense inspection cruise, spent considerable time today in his quarters aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa. He worked on official papers delivered yesterday by two navy planes from Puerto Rico.

For two hours the President stopped to look over a fishing ground in a cove near an island, but the weather was rough and he did not leave the Tuscaloosa. The cruiser then continued its cruise toward an unannounced destination.

The President and his party last night attended a smoker, which featured deck movies, boxing by crew members, a drummer contest, and music by a hill-billy band.

[A dispatch from San Juan said President Roosevelt was believed to have been in Puerto Rican waters yesterday.]

PAN-AMERICAN PLANNING DAILY HOPS TO EUROPE

Montclair, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP).—Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan-American Airways, Inc., said tonight that his company would inaugurate daily non-stop trans-Atlantic flights on overnight schedules next spring when airships larger than the present Clippers have been completed.

Next summer, he added, Pan-American would begin daily flights to "every important city in Latin America" as part of a long range program aimed at "hemisphere solidarity."

Trippe also announced that Pan-American would extend its flying service to Singapore this month. He added that for "very important" reasons he could not disclose the purpose of this extension.

He predicted that the side which maintained "control of the air" would win the war in Europe and said a German victory would prove a "challenge to the hard won leadership [in commercial aviation] now held by this country."

FRANCO ASKS U.S. LOAN TO REMAIN NEUTRAL IN WAR

Deal Hinges on Foodstuff for People of Spain.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 [Special]. —Generalissimo Francisco Franco has assured the United States government he intends to keep Spain neutral in the war, and in return has asked for a credit of $100,000,000 to buy foodstuffs to feed his people.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, at his press conference today, indicated that the United States government has not yet agreed to grant Franco's request.

It was learned from an unimpeachable source, however, that the United States is willing to allow the American Red Cross to supply Spain with a few million dollars' worth of foodstuffs.

Test of Good Faith.

If the food gets into the right hands, and it is demonstrated that Spain will be able to keep its promise to stay out of the war, all or part of the requested credit may be granted, this source said.

A report from Madrid tonight that the United States had authorized the departure of a merchant ship for Spain with 10,000 tons of wheat was said to be premature.

Before the Red Cross begins to feed Spain, it was learned, it wishes to be in a position to supply also milk and vitamin concentrates to the children of France. To do this the Red Cross must obtain assurances from French and German authorities that Red Cross agents will be allowed to control distribution.

British Hold Key.

The Red Cross must first obtain from the British government a promise of safe passage.

It was said that if the United States helps Spain in return for a promise of neutrality, it will be at the request of Great Britain. It is believed possible, in view of this situation, that the British government may relent to allow shipments to French children. There is no intention, it was said, of trying to feed the French adult population.

Lord Lothian, British ambassador to Washington, is believed to have recommended the proposal to his government.

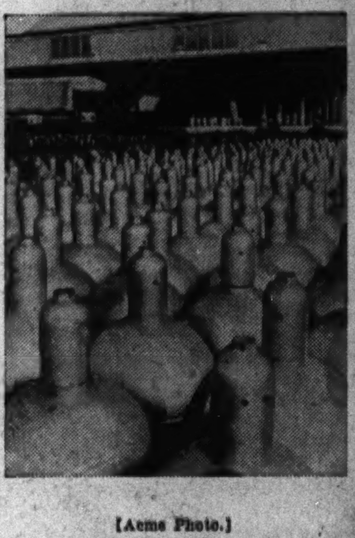
Kennedy Turns Down Bid to Address Antiwar Group

Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain, has declined an invitation to address a massmeeting of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee here Dec. 20, but he may speak in Chicago after the first of the year, the committee announced yesterday. By telephone from Palm Beach, Fla., Kennedy told Capt. William J. Grace, chairman of the committee, that he was resting from the strain of his former office.

BRIDGE CLOSED FOR REPAIRS.

City Engineer Loran D. Gayton announced yesterday that the Franklin-Orleans street bridge will be closed to traffic until 2 o'clock this afternoon for repairs.

Where Oil Is Made



[Acme Photo.]

According to the German censor, this is a view of one of the halls in the "heart of Germany's war fuel industry." It is in one of the synthetic oil plants at Leuna, which have been frequently bombed by Britain.

FORM U. S. GROUP TO GET FOODS TO INVADED NATIONS

New York, Dec. 7 (AP).—A "national committee on food for the five small democracies" with former President Herbert Hoover as honorary chairman was formed today to "save millions" from the "inevitable famine and pestilence which confront them."

These Oppose Plan.

Coincidentally, opposition to the "Hoover plan for feeding conquered populations in Europe" came from "25 outstanding women" who said in a statement that America's own national security would be endangered by any action making easier "Hitler's task in holding the small conquered nations in subjection."

Among those listed as signers were Helen Hayes, actress; Margaret Culkin Banning, author; Marion Edwards Park, president of Bryn Mawr college; Mrs. Sherwood Anderson, wife of the author; Alice Duer Miller, author, and C. Mildred Thompson, dean of Vassar college.

Listed as members of the national food committee were former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and several cabinet members in the Hoover administration; Gen. John J. Pershing, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, former governor general of the Philippines; Hendrik Willem van Loon, author; Alice Roosevelt Longworth, 37 educational leaders, and 29 theologians.

Act As Clearinghouse.

The national food committee said that before the next harvest there would be in Finland, Norway, Holland, Belgium, and central Poland, "a tragic problem of the loss of lives of millions of children, of women and of men, and the aftermath of a stunted and diseased generation."

The committee said its purpose was to act as a clearinghouse for expression thru which the German and British governments could agree with a neutral organization in a plan whereby domestic food supplies of the five countries "can be protected from the occupying armies" and supplemental supplies "can be imported thru the German and British blockade and protected."

The opposing group of women asserted that "the sooner Great Britain is victorious, the sooner will these small nations be freed from their miseries."

"If at any time the British government should find it possible in the successful prosecution of the war to permit limited supplies of medicine and milk for children to pass thru the blockade," their statement said, "we will urge the United States government to coöperate, but we oppose the application of any pressure whatsoever upon the British people or their government which will jeopardize the outcome of the struggle."

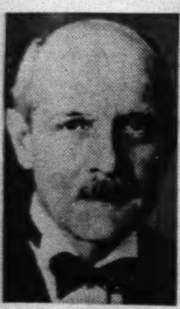
FRANCO HINTS AT COLONY GRAB AT FRENCH EXPENSE

Receives Vichy Envoy; Asks Good Will.



Francois Pietri.

MADRID, Dec. 7 (AP).—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, referring generally to Spain's colonial aspirations, declared today that "whoever may have intentions contrary to Spain's legitimate ambitions cannot long boast of keeping our friendship."

He made the remark in receiving the new French ambassador, François Pietri, and said he was confident of France's "good will——" a good will to be made manifest in "a most sincere acknowledgment" of the "notorious and serious injustice" done Spain in the past.

Asks No More Errors.

France, he added, should not return to "past error," and upon this point would depend the relations that may prevail between the two countries "in the universal enterprises which destiny orders us to carry out."

It has been set forth many times here that Spain feels she ought to have a larger place in Africa.

Spirit Unchanged.

Spain's past grandeur, Franco said, was "not a whim of destiny, but the fruit of an undying spirit."

"You may be sure that the spirit of the Spanish nation has not changed and that we desire now, as a few months ago, that the strictest justice prevail when peace is reborn in this suffering world."

CRASH OF ARMY TRAINING PLANE FATAL FOR TWO

Campbellsburg, Ky., Dec. 7 [Special].—Two army flyers, killed in the crash of their training ship near here last night, were identified today as aviators from Chanute field at Rantoul, Ill., who were long overdue from a routine night flight.

The victims were Second Lieutenant Victor V. Kilmer, 29 years old, an air reserve officer who formerly operated a commercial airport at Flint, Mich., and Staff Sergeant Owen E. Cecil, crew chief of the 111th observation squadron of the Texas National Guard at Houston.

The plane plunged into a farmer's cornfield near this town, 50 miles northeast of Louisville, at 9:30 p. m. last night. No information concerning the cause of the crash was obtained immediately.

Kilmer and Cecil left Chanute field at 6:45 p. m. yesterday on what is termed a local night flight. Such trips are of a distance of not more than 200 miles and end at the same field from which they started. They were due back by 3 a. m. today.

BRITISH TO USE U.S. PLANES FOR FIGHTING SOON

Earlier Models Lacking in Fire Power.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—American fighter planes soon will see action in Europe. American military and naval aviation experts are eagerly awaiting the test of the fighting capabilities of the American air fleet.

Altho American fighter planes have been reaching England in increasing numbers since the outbreak of the war, virtually none has seen any action whatsoever.

This fact has puzzled Americans. They have heard of Hurricanes and Spitfires battling against the Nazi Messerschmitts and Heinkels, but nothing of the American types which have been sent abroad.

Used for Training.

The answer is that American planes sent to England thus far have not been used for fighting because they have not been deemed worthy of battle. They are being used to train British airmen, who go out to meet Nazi invaders in British planes.

The planes, received by the British until recently, have been of inferior types, according to experts of the British mission making purchases of planes and other war materials in this country. The planes are highly desirable for training, but not fit for fighting save as a last resort.

The American fighters received thus far lack offensive power and defensive equipment of the latest type such as armor and bulletproof fuel tanks. Their speed leaves something to be desired but this deficiency is not so important as the others.

Fire Power Too Low.

Most of the American fighter planes received are armed with two and some with four machine guns. British planes of the same type have eight which are capable of cutting a wing or tail off an enemy plane. New British models will carry 12 machine guns.

The deficiency in American planes cannot be met by adding more guns. Fighter planes are built about their firing power, the whole design must be revamped to give greater firing power or maximum efficiency.

Further American planes received by the British are lacking cannon. America has been slow in the development of aerial cannon. No satisfactory weapon has been perfected for use of planes. British and German planes mount cannon. Newest British models will mount four cannon and eight machine guns.

The war has exposed a serious handicap in American bombers—the lack of a revolving turret or tail gun which is operated by remote control. In recent months tail turrets have been added to American bombers.

U. S. Gets Trainers.

It is estimated that at least 80 per cent of American fighting planes being manufactured today are destined for Britain. Under the President's rule of thumb formula, which contemplates a 50-50 division of the planes manufactured, the United States army and navy are receiving their quota largely in training planes and the fighters are going abroad.

Military aviation experts here are following with interest German bombing tactics. It has been reported recently that the Germans are bombing areas rather than definite targets by daylight from 30,000 feet and hitting particular objectives only by chance. Daylight bombing has proved so costly in lives and planes that Nazi planes have been driven to higher altitudes.

American experts say that the army's flying fortresses, equipped with the Sperry bomb sight, can easily drop bombs effectively from heights even greater than 30,000 feet.

WISCONSIN HUNTERS ENCOUNTER A FLEEING DOE—FACE TO FACE!

[About two months ago a correspondent at Belleville, Ill., sent a dispatch to THE TRIBUNE telling about a farmer who grafted whistles on watermelons so that internal gas would blow the whistles when the melons were ripe. Undertaking to go the Belleville correspondent one better, John S. Brush of Niagara, Wis., sends the following dispatch. He says he is "personally acquainted with the persons mentioned below and their veracity normally is above question."]

Niagara, Wis., Dec. 7 [Special].—Local hunters today disclosed that they had seen a freak doe while hunting Nov. 25 in the area northwest of Dunbar, Wis.

Three men—Lester Rhodes, stationary engineer; Alex Kjell, carpenter foreman, and Edward Beuhler, water plant attendant—all from the local paper mill, reported seeing the freak at points as much as two miles apart.

They described the strange doe as running backward thru the woods at great speed. As nearly as the three men could observe, the doe's hind legs and fore legs had been reversed by nature, thereby making the backward motion a natural one.

There was some difference of opinion as to how the doe was able to see its course, but they all agreed it traveled thru the woods with all the speed of a normal deer.

These men and others are spending much time in the woods near Dunbar, seeking photographic corroboration of their stories.

NOTICES OF WRIT READY TO SERVE ON CITY BOOKIES

First Assistant Attorney General Edwin T. Breen announced yesterday that notices were ready for service on 1,300 Chicago handbook operators informing them that continuation of their business had been forbidden by Circuit Judge Maurice V. Joyce of St. Clair county [East St. Louis]. The notices will be given to Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien tomorrow for distribution. It is the sheriff's duty to serve such court orders, Breen said.

Personal service is expected, according to Breen, but if the person named is not found on the premises notice of the injunction will be left with any one there. A copy of the injunction may be posted on the door or wall, he added.

State's Attorney Courtney said he would work out a program with his assistants whereby action would be taken against any violators of the injunction. Any persons named in the injunction who are arrested as keepers of a book will be subject to prosecution for contempt of court.

125 MILLION PUT INTO OBSOLETE PLANE ENGINES

Packard Tooling to Build Motors 2 Years Hence.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 [Special].—The 1,000 horse power airplane engine is obsolescent for fighting use, altho the Packard Motor company is tooling to produce $125,000,000 worth of such engines for the United States and Great Britain, aviation experts said today.

This engine certainly will be obsolete by the time actual production begins, they said. The Packard company predicts an output of six a day beginning July 1, 1941, and peak production of 27 a day by Sept. 1, 1941.

Germany has the first of its 2,300 to 2,600 horse power engines in use. The English are almost ready to put a 2,059 horse power unit into service. Both nations for months have been producing 1,500 and 1,600 horse power plants.

9,000 and Options on More.

The Packard order calls for 3,000 engines for the United States and 6,000 for Britain, with options on 15,000 more. These are Rolls Royce Merlins, of the same size and type now being used in the famous Hurricane and Spitfire planes in England.

Packard engineers said that while the contract specifies only 1,000 horse power, they are hopeful of developing from 1,250 to 1,500 horse power within the framework of the present design. The Merlin is a V-12 upright liquid cooled engine based on years of research.

The earliest Merlins delivered about 950 horse power for takeoff. Later this was boosted to 1,078. Still more recently, improvements have brought the horse power up to 1,265, using 100 octane fuel.

Two Years to Get Ready.

Experts here predict that it will be two years or more before Packard is ready to turn out these engines. It was reported that the English blue prints did not coincide with the Merlin engines actually torn down and measured, because improvements had been introduced without changing the blueprint specifications.

Metric measurements must be translated into inches, and specifications must be adapted to American metals and American accessories. Moreover, the entire process facing the Packard engineers at Detroit is a mass production job. The plant now being built must be so tooled that ordinary automotive machine operators can do the work customarily done by highly skilled craftsmen. Precision is paramount.

Use Twin V Motors.

The modern fighting plane engines now appearing in Europe are X types, with two of the V-12 motors joined to deliver their power to a single propeller shaft. There is a common crankcase, and the engines are arranged with one V upright and one V inverted to make the X.

The Rolls Royce Vulture, with 24 cylinders, has a claimed output of 2,059 horse power. Of somewhat similar design are the double Daimler-Benz, of 2,580 horse power, and the double Junkers, with a claim of 2,600 horse power.

The latest single Daimler-Benz and Junkers motors are credited with 1,500 and 1,600 horse power, respectively, altho both came out several years ago at about 1,000.

Glad to get any kind of engines at present, the army says there still is usefulness for the 1,000 horse power units in pursuit planes. For one thing, they need new planes for training purposes. However, their plans call for engines running as high as the Germans' maximum of 2,600 horse power.

Radial Engines Going Out.

The Pratt & Whitney plant at Hartford, Conn., is producing three types of radial engines, of which the Double Wasp is credited with better than 2,000 horse power at takeoff. Also of the radial design are the Wright company's Cyclones, with the Duplex model reaching 2,000 horse power. However, the radial engine is little used in late model European planes because of wind resistance.

Allison company at Indianapolis is achieving moderate production of the V-12 liquid cooled type, with 1,200 horse power for the single V and 2,400 for the double or X model. Continental and Lycoming are producing 1,200 horse power units of the liquid cooled flat type.

If the Packard plant were to receive instructions to produce the Rolls-Royce Vulture, virtually the Merlin "doubled," there would be a need for redesigning of crankshaft, crankcase, accessories, and possibly other features. This would involve retooling.

Aviation men here pointed to the editorial statement in the English magazine The Aeroplane which said:

"In the battle for command of the air, seven of the best aeroplanes in the world are worth more than 10 of the second best."

STEINWAY, EXECUTIVE OF PIANO FIRM, ASKS END TO WAR IN EUROPE

William Steinway, one of the senior members of the house of Steinway, piano manufacturers for 87 years, called yesterday, during a Chicago visit, for an end of Europe's "senseless slaughter" and a chance for men to go back to making their "bread and butter."

For 36 years, Steinway has been European manager for his firm. He has made 20 round trips between the United States and Europe and owns homes in London, England, and Hamburg, Germany. "I'm a neutral," he said, "and my only wish is for the armies to disband."

Steinway left Hamburg shortly after the outbreak of the war and is now on a tour of the company's representatives in America. Yesterday he visited L. G. La Mair, president of Lyon & Healy, Inc.

"This is not the first war the firm has gone thru," he said, "but music—and pianos—go on and on. And this time it will be no different."

TRIBUNE HOLDUP SUSPECT HELD IN BOND OF $50,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7 [Special].—Refusing to make a statement other than that he will fight extradition, Peter Allegretti, 30 years old, arrested here as a suspect in the robbery of a Chicago Tribune money car last July, today was arraigned on a fugitive complaint before Municipal Judge R. Morgan Galbraith. Bail was set at $50,000 and hearing on the complaint set for Tuesday. Allegretti was jailed after a manhunt which led Illinois officers halfway across the continent.

LET CONNECTICUT, 'ARSENAL OF U. S.,' LIE UNGUARDED

Plants Exposed; No Air or Sea Defense.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 7.—Altho the government has placed millions of dollars' worth of war contracts with Connecticut industrial plants, it has done little or nothing to protect this vital seaboard arsenal against the possibility of attack from the air or sea.

This policy which, under certain imaginable conditions might lead to a paralysis of production without which no defense effort could be successfully prosecuted, is considered in some quarters as indicating the desirability of relocating defense industries in less vulnerable inland areas.

Connecticut manufacturers, however, assert that it is imperative for the government to provide for the defense of the state's existing plants. They point out that many facilities are irreplaceable—duplicated nowhere else in the country—and that in view of the current need for speedy defense production, protection of existing plants should be the first consideration.

Harbors Unprotected.

Harbors along the Connecticut coast line stretching from New York state are quite unprotected as well as inaccessible to any big warships which might seek shelter. Airports are inadequate and vulnerable and highways are full of bottlenecks, kinks, and holes.

These are observations based on a 300 mile tour thru the Nutmeg state. They coincide with the views expressed by E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Manufacturers association of Connecticut in his address of Oct. 31.

"We have, here in Connecticut, investments totaling millions of dollars which are being put to work in the interest of national defense," said Hubbard. "In addition, and more important still, we are leaving unprotected thousands of workers in our defense industries.

Not One Antiaircraft Gun!

"Today in this great arsenal that is Connecticut not a single antiaircraft gun guards her industries. Her harbors are, comparatively speaking, without defense, and her air defense is woefully weak, even with the establishment of air corps base at Brainard field, Hartford."

Another source asserted there was one antiaircraft gun in Connecticut, a weapon of world war vintage stored in a barn at Milford, Conn. However, modern ammunition will not fit the gun.

HIGHWAYS.

Following the coast line and plunging into the turgid traffic of all the coastal cities is the old Boston Post road, the only thru traffic artery between Boston and New York. At several points traffic is slowed to a snail's pace.

Worst bottleneck is at New London where a rickety two lane bridge spans the Thames river. On Wednesday, for example, the bridge opened and motor lines were strung out for miles and delayed half an hour to permit passage of two freighters. Caught in the motor queues were workmen returning from the Electric Boat company plant, the navy's principal supply of submarines, and the submarine base several miles up the river.

Another bottleneck bridge is over the Connecticut river at East Hartford, home of the United Aircraft subsidiary producing airplane engines. On Thanksgiving eve, partly due to a snowstorm, it took drivers two hours to cross. Back country roads are winding, narrow, hilly turnpikes. There are five roads between New Haven and the capitol at Hartford but none is wider than two lanes.

HARBORS.

There were no harbor nets to trap invading submarines until last summer, when the navy started building them. Now they are stored at the New London submarine base, but how long it would take to install them is a secret.

Heavy coast defense guns are mounted at Fort H. G. Wright on Fishers Island, off New London, and guarding the entrance to Long Island sound, but no antiaircraft guns.

Bridgeport and New Haven, teeming centers of the machine tool industry, have been agitating for years for the government to dredge their harbors to 30 feet, but the proposals are languishing in Washington. Vessels bearing coal, iron, oil, and other heavy products cannot enter the present 25 foot channels.

AIRPORTS.

The army has announced its intention of leasing Brainard field, the Hartford airport, to the air corps, but details remain to be ironed out and it may be months before the step is finally taken. It will be headquarters for the 57th pursuit group and 30th air base group, with 100 planes, 200 officers, and 1,700 enlisted men. No ground defenses were seen at any of the airports.

Asks Allowance

THOMASINA MIX MATTHEWS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7 [Special].—Before Mrs. Thomasina Mix Matthews, 19 years old, may receive an allowance from the estate of her deceased father, Tom Mix, cowboy actor, she must wait until a full inventory of the property with claims against it are filed with the court.

This was the ruling of Superior Judge Jess E. Stephens when the daughter asked that she be granted a reasonable allowance from the estate of her father.

5 ARMY OFFICERS OFF FOR EUROPE; MISSION SECRET

New York, Dec. 7 [Special].—Five American army officers, flying to Europe on a secret mission, were aboard the Atlantic clipper today when it took off for Lisbon, Portugal. They refused to reveal their destination, but it was understood they would continue to London.

The mission was headed by Lieut. Col. Vernon E. Prichard of Fort Knox, Ky.

State Guernsey Breeders Will Meet in St. Charles

BROOKS REPORTS $13,623 SPENT IN RACE FOR SENATE

Slattery Lists $18,114 as His Expenditures.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 [Special].—Campaign expenditures totaling $479,937 were reported to Secretary of the Senate Edwin S. Halsey by 95 candidates for 35 senate seats at stake in the recent election.

The Illinois winner, Wayland Brooks, Republican, reported contributions of $16,320 and expenditures of $13,623. His Democratic opponent, James M. Slattery, received contributions totaling $18,728 and spent $18,114.

Indiana's Raymond E. Willis, Republican winner, reported $9,354 contributions and an incomplete list of expenditures amounting to $4,505. His adversary, incumbent Sherman Minton, Democrat, had contributions of $4,085 and expenditures of $3,586.

Vandenberg Spends $20,000.

Republican Arthur H. Vandenberg, who won reëlection in Michigan, listed $20,736 contributions and $20,647 expenditures. In losing to him, Frank Fitzgerald, Democrat, had $1,280 contributions and $1,481 expenditures, and Elmer Johnson, independent, had $43 contributions and expenditures.

Minnesota's Henrik Shipstead, Republican winner, received contributions of $50 and spent $150. John E. Regan, Democrat, had $1,050 contributions and $1,982 expenditures. Elmer Benson, Farmer Labor, received $292 and spent $271. Carl Winter, independent, had $1,535 contributions and $1,411 expenditures.

La Follette Used $2,441.

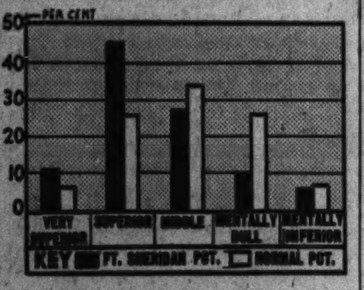
As a result of the Wisconsin race, Robert M. La Follette, Progressive winner, reported $4,343 contributions and $2,441 expenditures. James E. Finnegan, Democrat, received $237 and spent $346. Fred D. Claussen, Republican, listed $70 contributions and $347 expenditures.

A survey of the filed reports showed that the largest expenditure was made by Representative Bruce Barton, New York Republican, whose unsuccessful campaign against Senator James M. Mead, Democrat, cost $36,667. Barton received contributions of $36,714. Mead reported expenditures of $30,104 and contributions of $30,349.

Col. Gatewood's Flying X Rodeo Opens in Coliseum

Col. A. L. Gatewood's Flying X rodeo opened yesterday in the Coliseum and will continue thru Dec. 15. The cast of performers includes 60 cowboys, 15 cowgirls and a herd of wild horses. Among the stars are Emily Jean Davis, 12 years old, a fancy rope twirler from San Benito, Tex., and Helen Clancy Hammerschmidt, a star rider like her father, "Foghorn" Clancy, the famous bronc buster.

Superior Selectees



Comparison of mental ratings of the 1,477 men recently inducted at Fort Sheridan with the normal percentages.

Statistics released yesterday at Fort Sheridan showed that more than half of the 1,477 men inducted into the army under the draft law in the 6th corps area thus far are classed as either "very superior" or "superior."

Classification tests were given at Fort Sheridan to all the men from the three states of the corps area—Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin—who were sent there immediately after induction. Similar tests will be given every draft inductee, as well as every other enlisted man in the land forces.

The following table indicates the percentage of selectees placed in each of five classes on a basis of the tests, compared with the normal percentages of citizen life in what the scientists call the "normal distribution curve:"

1 Very superior	11	7
2 Superior	45	26
3 Middle	28	34
4 Mentally dull	10	26
5 Mentally inferior	6	7

These figures indicate that the percentage of men classed as "very superior" is four points higher than normal and the percentage of those classed as "superior" is 19 points higher than normal. The percentages of those classed as "middle" and "mentally dull" are lower than normal.

Officers commented that one reason for the high average probably is that virtually all these inductees are volunteers, many of them men of education who wished to get their training over with at once.

360 TO GRADUATE AS NAVY RESERVE ENSIGNS AT N. U.

Three hundred and sixty midshipmen will be graduated from a four months' course in the special naval school on the Chicago campus of Northwestern university Thursday. Exercises will be held in Thorne hall at 10 a. m., the graduates emerging as ensigns of the naval reserve.

The students have spent 30 days at sea aboard a battleship and three months in school here studying navigation, seamanship, and gunnery. Three hundred members of the class have asked for active duty and will be assigned to the battle fleet immediately after graduation.

130 MEN IN U. S. GETTING US INTO WAR, SAYS HOLT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—Senator Rush Holt [D., W. Va.], declared today that of 130,000,000 persons in the United States "we have less than 130 men who are responsible for getting America into this war."

"If these individuals were removed from their places of influence we would be building for peace instead of war," he said. He declared he would name the men soon when he takes the floor in the senate. He added:

"The administration has put pressure on congress to stop investigation of those foreign forces which desire to plunge us into blood drenched Europe. They dare not face the facts but they cannot escape the punishment that is the lot of any who are responsible for the deaths of others."

Beats 'Stop War' Candidate for British Parliament Seat

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP).—Gerard Summers, Conservative, was elected to parliament from Northampton today, defeating W. S. Seamark, a "stop the war" candidate. The vote was 16,587 to 1,167.

U. OF C. SURGERY CHIEF GETS JONES MEMORIAL POST

Dr. Dallas B. Phemister, chairman of the department of surgery in the University of Chicago's medical school, was named yesterday by President Robert M. Hutchins to be the first holder of the new Thomas D. Jones professorship. The chair was established by the board of trustees in honor of the late Thomas Davies Jones, attorney and industrialist, who was a benefactor of the university and its medical school. Dr. Phemister is a past president of the American Surgical association.

See This New Dodge

That everyone is Talking about

VISIT YOUR DODGE DEALER...PUT THIS 1941 LUXURY LINER THROUGH ITS DEMONSTRATION PACES!

If you haven't seen this great new Luxury Liner, then help yourself now to the eye-filling treat that all America is talking about! You've got to see it close up...to understand how Dodge has made tomorrow's styling a reality today!

And if you haven't driven it—well, you've missed the thrill of a brand-new experience! For when you put this handsome, big Dodge through its paces you're bossing power that laughs at hills...and ignores the toughest going! You're getting the ride that tops them all for sheer smoothness.

You're boss of the famous "Scotch Dynamite" engine... greatest of a long line of powerhouses that helped Dodge build its world-wide reputation for dependability. It means economy on upkeep!

Yes, on top of new beauty and economy, Dodge engineering leadership is evident in new safety advances, too. For example, the new trunk lid to the luggage compartment practically lifts itself. New safety wheel rims hold the tire to the wheel even if a flat should occur.

And now Dodge offers you the matchless combination of Fluid Drive* with Floating Power, giving unbelievable smoothness and ease of handling.

Stop in and see this new Dodge today. And remember, it still sells for only a few dollars more than smaller, low-priced cars.

Tune in Major Bowes, C.B.S., every Thursday, 9 to 10 P.M., E.S.T.

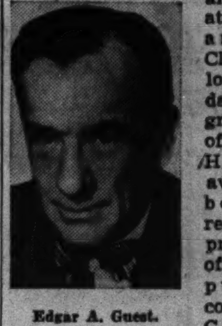
TRAFFIC CLUB'S GOOD FELLOWS PLAN BIG PARTY

1,400 Reservations Made for Annual Luncheon.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.



Edgar A. Guest.

Fourteen hundred members of the Traffic Club of Chicago, their families, and guests will attend the fifth annual Traffic Club Good Fellow luncheon Friday noon in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Every available seat has been reserved, reports L. R. Capron, chairman of the group's public affairs committee and Good Fellow party.

With the money raised by this luncheon 450 baskets will be taken to 400 unfortunate families in Chicago on Monday morning before Christmas. Large families will get two baskets. Seventeen hundred and ninety-four boys and girls are listed among the recipients, announces John Middleton, chairman of the toy committee.

Hundreds to Aid Work.

The distribution of these baskets will be from the Chicago Tunnel warehouse at 746 Jackson boulevard. Captained by J. H. Burke, hundreds of members of the club will meet there at 9 a. m. to distribute the baskets.

The program Friday will be divided into two parts. On the first will be a brief talk on Christmas by the Rev. Carl Matties, pastor of the Tabor Lutheran church, 3542 North Sunnyside avenue, and the principal address of the afternoon, made by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The second part will be all entertainment, led by the poet, Edgar A. Guest of Detroit.

Stars to Be Presented.

Other entertainers will be Margit Bokor, Hungarian soprano, of the Chicago Opera company; Lillian Gish and Percy Waram and "Father's four sons" from the play "Life With Father," at the Blackstone theater; Joe Lewis, "king of the night clubs," and the singing star, Tamara, from the Chez Paree; Miss Irma Cooper, soprano, chosen best woman singer in the 1940 Chicagoland Music Festival contest; Frank Paris and his marionettes, now appearing in the Empire room of the Palmer House; Rhythm Willie, harmonica virtuoso; the Libonati Trio, xylophonists, representing the Balaban & Katz Chicago theater; the WLS Rangers and Christine, from radio station WLS, and Lew Diamond and his orchestra.

Closing the show will be 48 boys and girls, members of the Children's a cappella choir of the Tabor Lutheran school, directed by John G. Reich.

E. R. Gustafson is president of the Traffic club.

[There are three ways to become a Good Fellow. They are described on the coupon that appears in the Metropolitan section of today's Sunday Tribune.]

ABBOTT ESTATE GIVES N. U. $50,000 FOR MOUTH STUDY

Northwestern university reported an additional $50,000 gift yesterday from the Clara A. Abbott estate. The money is to be used for the study and treatment of harelip, cleft palate, and similar facial or oral abnormalities. The study will be under the direction of Dr. Frederick W. Merrifield of the medical and dental faculties. The Abbott estate, which gave the university $1,665,000 earlier this year, was set up under the will of the widow of Dr. Wallace C. Abbott, founder of the Abbott laboratories.

FOUND DEAD IN FARM SHED.

Henry Fasse, 63 years old, a farmer, was found dead yesterday in a tool shed near his home on Roselle road six miles south of Palatine.

LET'S GET DOWN TO ACTUAL FACTS!
ABOUT THE NEW DRIVES

Oldsmobile's "no clutch" Hydra-Matic Drive has proved such a sensational success that many manufacturers have brought out new devices for 1941—with similar sounding names and with claims to similar advantages. There are new kinds of shifts, new kinds of transmissions, new clutch systems, new controls, new "drives." What these devices really do, in comparison with Hydra-Matic Drive, is shown in the chart below. Check their accomplishments carefully. You'll find that this fact remains: Just one kind of drive is completely automatic...has no clutch pedal at all...and never requires any manual shifting, even for quick acceleration. That is the original Hydra-Matic Drive, built and backed by General Motors, introduced by Oldsmobile and now proved by millions of miles of driving in the hands of nearly fifty thousand owners!

Names of the various devices that are compared with Hydra-Matic Drive in the chart below will be gladly furnished upon inquiry at our showrooms. Come in for complete information.

	DOES IT ELIMINATE THE CLUTCH PEDAL?	DOES IT DO AWAY WITH ALL CLUTCH PUSHING?	DOES IT GIVE YOU FULLY AUTOMATIC SHIFTING?	DOES IT GIVE FULL ACCELERATING POWER WITHOUT MANUAL SHIFTING?	DOES IT HAVE A SPECIAL PICK-UP GEAR?	DOES IT ALWAYS REMAIN IN GEAR WITH NO FREE WHEELING?

100 CAR OWNERS GET 1941 'GOTTA DRAG' NUMBERS

Regular Sale of Plates Begins Tomorrow.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7.—Cash and carry sale of 1941 automobile license plates will begin next Monday at the offices of the secretary of state—here and at 336 South Ashland boulevard in Chicago. Today, 57,000 plates were mailed to owners who are retaining their 1940 numbers.

Today's mail included the first 100 numbers for 1941, the "upper crust" of the low number "I Gotta Drag" club. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, for a second successive year, retained No. 1 for himself.

Hayes Get Three Low Ones.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, was given No. 11—making the third number lower than 100 held by him and his wife.

The complete list of the first 100 license numbers for 1941 follows:

1. Edward J. Hughes, Springfield.
2. Henry W. Austin, Oak Park.
3. Louis L. Emmerson, Mount Vernon.
4. H. T. Hollingshead, Chicago.

Under the automobile license law, reassignments are compulsory upon the secretary of state if requested with the regular fee payment before Dec. 1.

Hughes Keeps Old System.

The legislature in 1935 authorized the secretary of state to change the numbering system at his discretion to save the taxpayers the expense involved in his office answering about 200,000 requests for special numbers; to eliminate the seven digit numbers by introducing a letter of the alphabet, and further to aid the police by giving the numbers some geographic significance. Hughes chose to retain the old system, which is part of his patronage. Last month he was the only Democrat to retain state office in the general election.

Divorced

MRS. CORNELIA POOLE.

Cornelia Warren Fairbanks Poole was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Robert A. Meier Jr. in the City court of Chicago Heights from Frederick A. Poole Jr., 1366 North Dearborn street. In her bill, filed shortly before the hearing, she charged cruelty, asserting that her husband twice became intoxicated and struck her. The first time is alleged to have been Sept. 28 in a Chicago club, and the second time Nov. 23 in their home.

Mrs. Poole, the granddaughter of Charles Warren Fairbanks, former Vice President of the United States, is living with her mother, Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks, at 1500 Lake Shore drive. Her father, who died two years ago, was president of the Indianapolis News. Poole is the son of Frederick A. Poole, railway printer, who lives in Barrington. They were married June 7, 1934, in St. Chrysostom's church. Mrs. Poole's sister, Countess Ruggero Visconti of Milan, Italy, was her attendant, and Count Visconti was best man.

Mrs. Poole, who was represented by Attorney Roman E. Posanski of Calumet City, waived alimony. There are no children. The only witness was Dorothy C. Mitchell of 222 East Chestnut street.

NO HOLIDAY FOR BEES.

Shenandoah, Ia., Dec. 7 [Special].—There's no rest for Harry Pease's bees. They gather Iowa honey in the summer and when Pease drives to Texas for the winter, he takes a swarm with him. He carries along enough honey to feed them on the trip and until they get established.

DIES IN PLUNGE FROM BEDROOM ON 12TH FLOOR

John Medlock, 61 years old, retired member of the Price, Waterhouse & Co. accounting firm, with Chicago offices at 33 North La Salle street, leaped or fell to his death yesterday from a bedroom window in his apartment on the twelfth floor at 3740 Lake Shore drive. His body landed in a courtway of the building.

Medlock retired four years ago and had been in ill health during the last three months. He returned from a Wisconsin sanitarium Friday. His nurse, Miss Gertrude Frishey, left him in his room and found the window open when she returned. His body was then discovered.

Medlock was born in Scotland and came to this country in 1903. He joined the accounting firm that year and had been with the company until his retirement. His widow, Mary, three brothers and a sister survive.

GUNMEN RAID LIQUOR STORE.

Two gunmen robbed Louis Leaf, manager of a liquor store at 2857 Clybourn avenue, of $300 yesterday after forcing him to open the safe.

HATS OFF TO TWO GIRLS

Who Have Just Driven a New De Soto with*Fluid Drive and Simplimatic Transmission—COAST-TO-COAST, NO SHIFT

1 Meet The Two Girls. Joselyn Reynolds, N. Y. City, and Virginia Campbell, Washington, D. C. Not professional drivers...but typical girl drivers. Here's their story:

2 "At the take-off, Mr. Pisciotta, N. Y. City official, sealed the meter on our '41 Fluid Drive De Soto. If we shifted or used the clutch, this device would record it!

3 "Two cars went over the same route...the second one, with conventional transmission and clutch, was also equipped with the sealed counter device.

4 "What traffic! But even through the worst of it—on the busiest streets, in the biggest cities—we didn't have to shift or use the clutch once! It was fun!

5 "Talk about Stops and Starts—we made thousands at rail crossings, at state lines. But still no shift—no clutch-pushing! Driving long distances was so easy!

6 "We had a real feeling of confidence driving that big De Soto around even hairpin curves. It just hugged the road—it felt solid, yet handled easily!

7 "Heavy traffic didn't bother us a bit. De Soto Fluid Driving with Simplimatic Transmission is wonderfully easy. We drove mile after mile without tiring.

8 "Planning to head for the desert for some real driving thrills. The long stretches ahead didn't worry us—in our smooth-riding De Soto, we'd have comfort all the way.

10 "At Palm Springs, where you see all kinds of foreign cars and expensive cars, many a head turned to admire our beautiful De Soto!

DE SOTO SIMPLIMATIC WAY

11 "Mayor Bowron welcomed us to Los Angeles; checked the seal and recorded the counter. Score: Not a single shift in 3,070 miles!

12 "Pity the gearshifters! The conventional car recorded shifting 4,097 times; the clutch pedal depressed 4,162 times!"

*Available at moderate additional cost.

YOU TAKE THE WHEEL! We urgently invite you to try this New Experience. Get behind the wheel of this Flashing New De Soto. You'll discover the newest thing in cars—Driving Without Shifting!

COMMERCE BOARD TO STUDY DEMAND FOR BUS FARE CUT

Probe of Company Profit Figures Indicated.

Charges that excessive profits are received by the Chicago Motor Coach company and should be passed on to the public thru a reduction in the 10 cent bus fare brought these developments yesterday:

1. Roy D. Keehn, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, which has the authority to determine utility rates, said that the rate controversy will be considered at a meeting of the commission on Tuesday. He indicated the matter may be assigned to commission experts for investigation and examination.

2. Harry R. Booth, assistant attorney general in charge of the commission's legal division, reiterated his assertion that the commission had the legal right and enough data to issue an interim order directing the bus company to reduce its fares.

3. Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th], whose attempt to have the city council petition the commission for such an order was shelved last week, announced that he would renew his efforts at the next city council meeting to bring about an immediate reduction of fares.

Tells of 12 to 14% Profit.

In a written memorandum received yesterday by Keehn and the four other members of the commerce commission, Booth charged that an examination of the 1939 earnings of the bus company showed the company is earning a profit of at least 12 to 14 per cent on its real valuation—more than double the 6 per cent he contends is a fair allowance.

Booth declared the profits should be reduced by at least $500,000 a year. Altho he made no specific suggestion on just what fare reduction should be made to lower the profits by that amount, transportation experts said this could be done by instituting a fare of 10 cents a ride or three rides for a quarter. At present the fare is 10 cents straight, with half fare for children 7 to 12 years of age and high school students.

The commission members were told by Booth that in his opinion section 36 of the utilities act gives them the authority to issue an interim order reducing the rates, pending final settlement of the matter, if the commission determines that the company profits are excessive and that final determination of the matter would require more than 120 days.

Foresees Delay in Inquiry.

"It appears that a complete investigation of the bus company's affairs would consume more than four months," Booth wrote. "Since the company appears to be earning at least 12 to 14 per cent on its own depreciated investment, there can be no doubt that the temporary provision in section 36 was meant to apply specifically to this situation."

Booth said that in the past the commission had acted in similar situations by issuing citations against utilities, ordering them to show cause why their rates should not be reduced and why an interim reduction order should not be issued,

Keehn said yesterday he had received Booth's recommendations and that Booth had discussed the matter previously with commission members. He would not say whether he planned to follow the suggestions and issue a citation against the bus company.

BAR UNION PROBE AIRS HUMPHREYS' VIEWS ON LABOR

What Gang Chief Murray Humphreys thinks of the union labor movement was revealed yesterday in the examination of a transcript of testimony taken from George B. McLane, business agent of the bartenders' union. McLane's conversation with Humphreys was as follows:

"He [Humphreys] said, 'Why don't you have some sense? You have been in the labor game all your life, you ain't got a quarter, you have a home and mortgage on it.'

"I said, 'I can go to sleep at night and put my head on a pillow, I don't have to smoke a pipe to go to sleep, and I ain't going to push nobody around for you or anybody else.'

"He said, 'That is the trouble, we call it business, and you call it pushing people around.' And I said, 'You ain't going to push them around and I ain't either.' He said 'There is no use you getting excited; you stay here, draw your salary and your job will not be bothered and anything you see that ain't all right, close your eyes and you will draw your pay and never be bothered'."

TWINS BORN; ONE WHITE BOY AND A COLORED GIRL

Hookerton, N. C., Dec. 7 [N. Y. News].—This little backwoods town of 300 persons revealed to the world tonight a freak of nature—a black girl and a white boy—twins—born to a Negro couple. The white child is an albino.

Altho the twins were born Sept. 5, hardly any one knew of their existence because of the reluctance of their parents, Herbert and Olivia Strong, to disclose the odd prank the stork played.

"I don't know how folks'll take it," said Herbert, a 30 year old WPA worker. "Me and Livvy are tickled to have twins and the white one don't make no difference to us. We love it just like the black one. But folks is bound to talk."

Mrs. Strong is 27 years old and the mother of three other children. They have named the girl Lucy May. The boy was named Eddie Ray.

The Strongs say their families have lived near Hookerton since slave days and so far as they know there is no white blood in the veins of either.

WORKERS APPEAL TO LABOR BOARD IN PLANT DISPUTE

Employés of the Kellogg Switchboard company plant at 66th street and Cicero avenue, who are members of three unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, sent a telegram to the labor board in Washington, D. C., yesterday asking the board's aid in a controversy with the company.

The unions called a strike June 26, which lasted until Oct. 1. The members seek a 20 per cent increase in salaries, a closed shop, and vacations with pay. The unions say they won the right to act as bargaining agency for the employés in a vote last April.

In their telegram the unions said they did not want to call another strike because it would interfere with national defense orders. The members voted down a strike Friday night. Involved are the Electricians', Machinist', and Carpenters' unions.

HERO POLICEMAN STRICKEN; SEEK DONORS OF BLOOD

Lieut. Maurice Byrne of the Rogers Park station, winner of a Tribune hero award in 1926, was in Grant hospital last night in critical condition. A request for donors of type 4 blood was sent over the police teletype system.

Lieut. Byrne, operated on for stomach ulcers Wednesday, has had daily transfusions and was placed in an oxygen tent yesterday. His sister, Miss Ellen Byrne, a trained nurse, is with him.

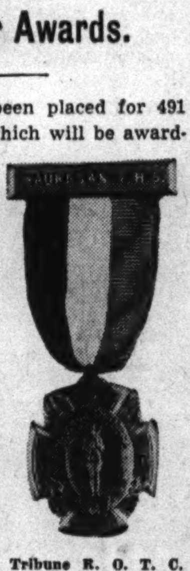
The lieutenant, who lives at 934 North Le Claire avenue, won the hero award for capturing two of three armed robbers after one of them jammed a revolver against his stomach. Byrne disarmed his immediate opponent, wounded and disarmed a second, and drove the third one off. He was later captured and all were found to be ex-convicts.

Got $64.30? You Should Have—Treasury Says So!

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—The average person had $64.30 in cash on November 30—$1.63 more than a month earlier and $7.43 more than a year ago. The treasury made those calculations in reporting today that money in circulation totalled $8,521,101,609 at the end of November.

R. O. T. C. CADETS IN 6 STATES WIN TRIBUNE MEDALS

72 Institutions Included in Honor Awards.



Tribune R. O. T. C. Medal.

An order has been placed for 491 Tribune medals which will be awarded this semester to Reserve Officers' Training corps cadets in 72 universities, high schools, and military academies in six states. The medals are given each year by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to cadets who have shown excellence in military work. That they have stimulated interest in the R. O. T. C. is evident from enthusiastic letters received from the heads of universities, high, and military schools.

The Tribune medals were first awarded in 1935. The number of schools to which they have been sent has grown each year. Typical of the attitude of the schools toward the medals is a statement by Capt. N. C. Gillette, professor of naval science at Northwestern university.

Tells of Widened Interest.

"I appreciate the interest in our unit shown by Col. Robert R. McCormick and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE," he said. "I will be pleased to accept the medals on behalf of the unit and I assure you that they have real value in promoting interest among the young men of the unit."

Burrett B. Bouton, superintendent of the Howe Military school, Howe, Ind., wrote: "I am sure that our cadets will aspire to do a better job than last year because of these awards made possible by Col. McCormick, and that his program will bring out a higher standard of performance in our R. O. T. C. unit."

Grover C. Drillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, Mich., wrote: "I think it is a splendid thing for an influential paper such as THE TRIBUNE to show an outstanding patriotic interest in national defense in such a way."

FEDERAL AGENTS TRACE CASH PAID GANGS BY UNIONS

Aid Inquiry Into Nitti's Rule of Bartenders.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Danny Stanton.

Federal and state investigators were reported yesterday to be working together in tracing huge sums of cash said to have been taken from labor unions by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and his gang and racket ally, Danny Stanton. The unions involved were described as being affiliated with the bartenders' union, which, according to Business Agent George B. McLane, had become the gang's private property.

Specifically, according to Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, information is being sought about the alleged payment of $1,800 a month to Stanton from the Waiters' union. Also, Crowley said, the law enforcers want evidence concerning payments to Stanton from the Miscellaneous Union of Hotel and Restaurant Employés.

Fifteen Unions Involved.

McLane testified before the September grand jury that Stanton drew considerable money from these two unions and that Nitti received regular tribute from the joint council, which has authority over 15 unions, Crowley explained.

Clarence Converse, ace investigator of the intelligence department of the federal bureau of internal revenue, attended sessions of the trial in Criminal court of Nitti and four of his alleged aids on charges of conspiring to seize control of the bartenders' union and its $125,000 treasury. This trial ended last week with the refusal of McLane to repeat to the jury the testimony he gave the grand jury.

Crowley said Converse was in court as an observer. His office and that of United States Attorney J. Albert Woll are coöperating in all matters relative to gangsters' revenue.

Union Heads Deny Charges.

Crowley said Guy Swinehart, head of the Waiters' union, and James Blakely, head of the Miscellaneous union, had contradicted McLane and denied the story of payments to Stanton. The investigation by the federal and state agents is to include the questioning, mostly in secret, of other officials and members of those unions.

Whatever is disclosed will be made public to supply the members of the bartenders' union all possible information on the subject prior to the election of officers of the union on Jan. 6, the prosecutor said.

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne of the Circuit court is to supervise this election. Judge Dunne appointed Roy D. Keehn receiver of the union last August on the plea of McLane to remove it from gang domination. Recently he denied McLane's petition to remove the receivership and dismiss the business agent's suit for accounting of funds. It was reported that Nitti was back of the move to have the suit dropped. McLane is seeking reëlection.

Union Members Intervene.

Judge Dunne acted to retain the receivership on a motion of Attorney Raymond F. Hayes, representing a number of bartenders who intervened in McLane's original action.

Yesterday Judge Dunne was asked to decide whether the union should make its usual Christmas donations. These consist of $5 to each of 150 to 200 unemployed members, $50 each for four feminine employés' of the union's offices, $75 each for its unpaid executive board members, $50 for each business agent, $25 each for the clubroom secretary and porter, and $10 each for four elevator operators, two maintenance men, three scrubwomen, and two letter carriers. The court is to rule on the question Tuesday.

LOWER BRANDON POOL IN EFFORT TO FREE SLUDGE

Engineers Try to Get Faster Flow.

The water level in Brandon pool in Joliet was lowered one and one-half feet yesterday in an effort to obtain a velocity of flow great enough to scour away sludge accumulations in the bottom of the pool. The lower level will be maintained at least until tomorrow morning.

Since last Monday the five mile long pool has been receiving more sludge than it has been discharging. This was caused by an experimental 10 day increase in lake water diversion to the Illinois waterway. Until now the flushing has resulted in sweeping sediment from the upper channel and depositing it in the pool.

Explanation by Engineers.

Engineers of the sanitary district explained this result yesterday by reference to the wide differential between the velocity of flow in the channel and in the pool. Above Lockport power house the impetus of increased diversion has raised the speed of flow to approximately two and one-half feet a second.

Below Lockport where the pool begins, engineers estimate the flow to be less than one foot a second. The difference is caused by the greater width of the pool, which has an average width of 700 feet, according to H. P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer.

Velocity in a stream is affected by width and depth. By decreasing either, greater velocities may result. Lowering the level of the pool will, in effect, decrease the depth and accelerate flow.

Will It Do Any Good?

Whether the expected increase in velocity will be great enough to scour away any part of the estimated 1,000,000 cubic yards of sludge in the bottom of the pool is something engineers declined to predict yesterday.

Lowering the level of the pool will not have any effect on the amount of diversion from Lake Michigan since this is controled at the Lockport power house above the pool.

An increase from 1,500 to 10,000 cubic feet a second in diversion was authorized by the Supreme court for a 10 day experimental period. The increase was recommended by Monte M. Lemann, special master in chancery, appointed to hear evidence on the plea of Illinois for an increase in diversion of lake water thru 1942.

VIOLENT 'TOSCA' GIVES 4-11 ALARM TOUCH TO OPERA

Rose Pauly Sings with Explosive Passion.

"TOSCA"

[Opera by Giocomo Puccini to a text by Illica and Giacosa after the Sardou play. Presented by the Chicago Opera company in the Civic Opera house, Saturday evening, Dec. 7, 1940.]

THE CAST.

Tosca	Rose Pauly
Cavaradossi	Jan Kiepura
Scarpia	John Charles Thomas
Angelotti	John Lawler
The Sacristan	Vittorio Trevisan
Spoletta	Giuseppe Cavadore

Conductor, Leo Kopp.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Anybody who went to the opera last night merely to relax will next time try something soothing like a 4-11 fire. For one thing the piece was Puccini's melodramatic "Tosca." For another, the performance was as violent and furious a one as even "Tosca" ever receives.

Rose Pauly, the great Hungarian soprano who has become famous for her work in such psychopathic parts as Electra and Salome, this time tackled the rôle of the comparatively normal Tosca. She did it with such explosive passion, however, that Tosca at times seemed to yield nothing to her sisters on the score of madness.

A Smoldering Quality.

Even in the first act, before Mme. Pauly had become well worked up, there was a smoldering, feverish quality underlying nearly every word she uttered and every movement she made. It looked for a moment as if she were about to tear Jan Kiepura up with her bare hands. This crisis passed, but the volcanic art which had made it so powerful persisted and actually grew in intensity as the performance progressed.

Mme. Pauly often sacrificed musical line to dramatic intensity, but the result was so superb that it was impossible to complain. And the dire voice colorings which her absorption in her part enabled her to produce were often of a quite overwhelming loveliness.

Realism Is Terrific.

The soprano was ably abetted by Mr. Kiepura, whose tenor voice rang out above all the tumult with a commanding beauty of tone. Even John Charles Thomas, after a reserved start, threw caution to the winds and began to live his part as determinedly as the others. The realism of the second act was terrific—but at one point, alas, all this blood and thunder over-reached itself and drew giggles instead of shudders from the audience.

Conductor Leo Kopp coöperated admirably with the principals and gave those tremendous preluding chords the very color and texture of doom. Other features of an extraordinary performance were John Lawler's intelligently sung and acted Angelotti and the high comedy of Vittorio Trevisan's great Sacristan.

The evening was punctuated with big bursts of applause—proof that the drama of the piece had successfully leaped the footlights and infected the audience.

'MARTHA'S' FACE LIFTED

"MARTHA."

[Opera by Friedrich von Flotow to a text by Wilhelm Friedrich Riese. Presented by the Chicago Opera company in the Civic Opera house in a new English translation by Baum, Ronell, and Lert, Saturday afternoon, Dec. 7, 1940.]

THE CAST.

Lady Harriet ["Martha"]	Helen Jepson
Nancy ["Julia"]	Suzanne Sten
Plunkett	Douglas Beattie
Lionel	James Melton
Sir Tristram	Lorenzo Alvary
The Sheriff	John Daggett Howell

Ballet Theater.
Conductor, Kurt Herbert Adler.

Our old friend "Martha" came back into the répertoire yesterday afternoon and at first we hardly knew her.

For one thing, this old time German opera was done in English instead of in the traditional Italian. These men and women of the time of Queen Anne spoke, puzzlingly enough, in an earthy 1940 American idiom, with a little Broadway slang and East End cockney thrown in.

For another thing, there was a new staging of the opera. This does not mean merely that old properties had been painted up, but rather that a great deal of brand new construction work had been done.

The scene in the farmhouse has been changed to show both the outside and the inside. The new arrangement included a pony [to pull the farmers and their serving girls up to the door] and a cow [to give the stage its proper bucolic atmosphere]. A fine flock of Chicago police department horses were added later. So the performance was a great success even on the score of its wealth of animal life alone.

W-G-N OPERETTA TELLS STORY OF LOVE AND PLOTS

"Sweethearts," Victor Herbert's operetta of love and intrigue, was presented last night over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network by the Chicago Tribune Theater of the Air. Singing leads were taken by Marion Claire and Jan Peerce, with Virginia Haskins of the Chicago Opera and Ray Charles of the W-G-N chorus supporting them. The W-G-N Concert orchestra and ensemble was directed by Nathaniel Shilkret.

Speaking parts in the romantic story, which begins in a Bruges laundry and ends in the royal palace of Zilania, were filled by Louise Barclay, Bret Morrison, Fran Carlon, Olan Soule, Cornelia Osgood, Donna Reade, Janet Logan, Bob Jellison, Willard Waterman, and Marvin Mueller.

The studio audience included Frederick Jagel, Chicago, Metropolitan, and San Francisco Opera tenor, and Dorothy Kirsten and Janet Fairbanks, Chicago Opera sopranos. The production was directed by William A. Bacher.

CROWN OF ANDES DISPLAY CLOSES IN CHURCH TODAY

A three day display of the famous crown of the Andes with its 453 emeralds valued at $4,500,000 will be ended today at Our Lady of Sorrows church, 3121 Jackson boulevard.

Warren J. Piper, 31 North State street, custodian of the crown and representative of the American syndicate that bought it from Popayan, Colombia, where it was constructed in 1593, has announced that the crown will be dismantled and the jewels marketed.

The principal jewel is the Atahualpa emerald, which weighs 45 carats and was worn by Atahualpa, the last Inca of Peru, on the day he was captured by the Spanish, according to Piper.

MELODRAMA ON TWINKLING TOES IN 'BILLY THE KID'

Today's Ballet Will Offer an Exciting Epic.

BY MARCIA WINN.

An exciting epic of America's wildest west will be danced out on the stage of the Civic Opera house this afternoon. Men—and a few women—will die like flies, broncos will buck, knives will glide into backs, and pistols will fire a mute fire. A three day gun battle will take place within five minutes, and the west's most sweet-faced outlaw, Billy Bonney, will strut with a Macbethian melancholy.

It is swift, pungent, acrid melodrama, permeated with the strength of the pioneers, and if you think you don't like ballet because it is all fluttery gauze, ballerinas, and little twinkling toe dances, the Ballet theater's "Billy the Kid" this afternoon will be a revelation. Even the ballet company went unwontedly enthusiastic after its final rehearsal yesterday and broke into unorthodox applause.

The Music Is Familiar.

"I think," observed jubilant Alexander Smallens, the musical conductor, "that this is one of the greatest scores we have written in America."

If the music sounds familiar, there is good reason. It, like the ballet, is pure American. Much of it is composed of old ballads, handed down from generation to generation. Composed by Aaron Copland, it combines the old reel tunes of the Cumberland gap with Mexican gringo songs and western frontier ballads. Even the familiar "Kippy-yi-o" is included.

Enlarged Version Offered.

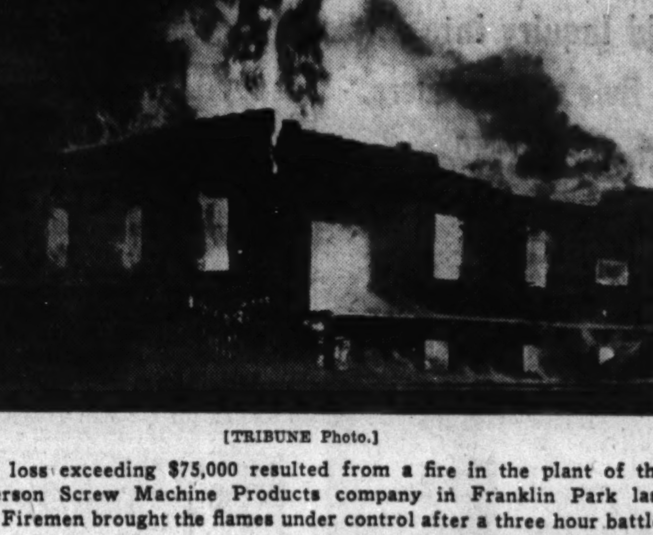
Today is not the première of "Billy the Kid." Lincoln Kirsten produced it for the now deceased Ballet Caravan with Eugene Loring, who today [as when Kirsten produced it] dances The Kid, as choreographer. It now is being given, an enlarged version, thru the courtesy of Kirsten.

"Billy the Kid is a part of our history," Richard Pleasant, director of the Ballet theater, explained. "He should be danced.

"It's like an art gallery. Some people want to see the classical: say, Rembrandt. Others want Modigliani or Picasso. This is—well, experimental, modern, and completely American."

Today's bill of fare also includes the Chicago première of Anthony Tudor's "Dark Elegies," as well as "Capricioso" and "Blue Bird."

Fire Destroys Defense Plant



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A loss exceeding $75,000 resulted from a fire in the plant of the Henderson Screw Machine Products company in Franklin Park last night. Firemen brought the flames under control after a three hour battle.

Hunt for Cause

Damage estimated at $75,000 to $100,000 was caused by a fire yesterday that destroyed the plant of the Henderson Screw Machine Products company at 9400 Grand avenue, Franklin Park. Most of the loss was accounted for by special machinery and stock on hand. The building was a one story structure about 200 by 200 feet.

The flames broke out in mid-afternoon and the fire departments of Franklin Park, Schiller Park, and River Grove fought for hours to bring them under control.

The Franklin Park police said the company was turning out products used in the defense program and that an investigation would be made to determine whether there had been any sabotage. The cause of the fire was unknown.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

ILLINOIS IS TOP STATE IN HONORS AT STOCK SHOW

Wins 45 Championships; Indiana Second.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Illinois was first in the number of championships won, 45, and in first place ribbons, 156, it was announced last night when the exposition passed into history after eight days of spectacular events.

Indiana was second in championships, with Iowa and Ohio tied for third and Oklahoma and Michigan following. Iowa was second in first place ribbons, with Indiana, Ohio and Michigan following.

Ontario led the Canadian provinces in both divisions, with nine championships and 29 firsts.

Attendance Breaks Records.

The attendance broke all records. B. H. Heide, manager, estimated the closing day's crowd at 63,000, bringing the grand total to 461,000. The previous record was 448,000, set last year.

Members of the 4-H club and the other exhibitors of the show went home with $1,150,000 that they realized from the sale of their animals. And they had in addition $100,000 in prize money.

The 401 farm boys and girls who took part in the junior live stock feeding contests received $70,000 from the sale of their cattle, sheep, and hogs.

One of the major events of the final day was the auction sale of 250 beef steers exhibited by agricultural colleges and breeders. They brought an average of 15¾ cents a pound, with the top price 16¼c.

Finest Stock Exhibited.

Manager Heide said of the show: "Its outstanding characteristic was the quality of the live stock exhibited. American breeders have learned that there is no purpose in exhibiting any but the finest stock, and the finest in the history of the show was seen here this year.

"The show was more than a live stock and hay and grain show. It was an educational exposition. The record breaking attendance shows Chicago's interest."

CHICAGOAN HEADS SURGEONS.

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 7 (AP).—Dr. Albert H. Montgomery of Chicago was elected president of the Western Surgical association today, succeeding Dr. Alfred Brown of Omaha. Next year's meeting will be in St. Paul, Minn. Others elected today included Arthur R. Metz, Chicago, secretary; Dr. Harry B. Zimmerman, St. Paul, recorder.

Illinois First in Live Stock Show

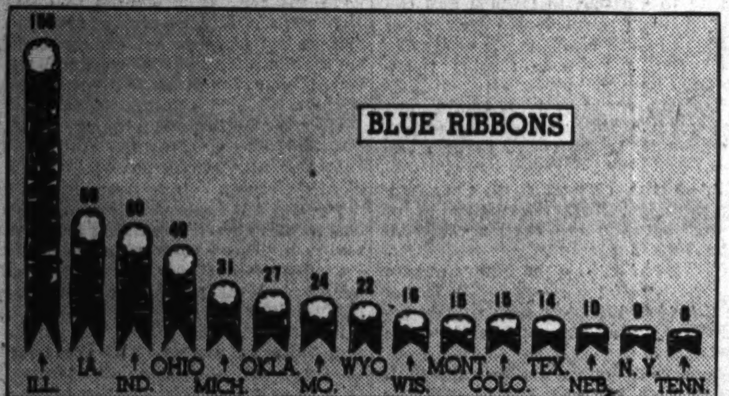
Illinois took first place in both championships and blue ribbons in the International Live Stock show. The heights of the bars in both graphs compare the numbers of victories of the high winning states.



WOMAN KILLED AND 7 INJURED IN CAR COLLISION

Policeman Driver of One Auto in Crash.

Mrs. Carrie Bengston, 37 years old, 1631 Jackson street, Rockford, was killed yesterday and seven persons were injured when two automobiles collided on a country road six miles northwest of Elgin in Kane county. Policeman John Stadler of Elgin was driving one car, in which were five passengers. Miss Erna Hinz, 34, of the Rockford address, was driving the other car, in which Mrs. Bengston and her daughter, Cornelia, 10, were riding.

Parks Pensioner Killed.

Nick Yacullo, of 3126 Polk street, a pensioned employé of the west parks, was killed when struck near 717 South Sacramento avenue by an automobile driven by Rudolph Weber, 3451 North Ashland avenue.

Norman Weatherbee, 3, was fatally injured in Joliet when he ran into the side of a car driven by George Rompf of that city. The boy lived at 821 Cass street, Joliet.

Dolphia L. White, 51, and his son, Robert, 21, both of East Chicago, were killed Friday night when their car, driven by the son, overturned as they attempted to pass a truck three miles east of Westville, Ind., on U. S. highway 6.

Struck by Car; Dies.

Sterling Yancey, 58, colored, of 7111 Yale avenue, died in Provident hospital of injuries incurred Tuesday when struck by an automobile at 71st street and Wentworth avenue.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 812 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 592 were killed in Chicago, where 22,250 were injured in traffic in the same period.

60 Young Naval Recruits Join for Service Until 21

The navy recruiting station here announced yesterday that of the 107 recruits enlisted last week 60 were 17 years old and enlisted for a junior, or minority cruise. These men will be discharged on their 21st birthday.

FRIENDS TO FETE RETIRING HEAD OF RECREATION BODY

In tribute to his half a century of civic welfare work, friends of Edward L. Burchard, retiring executive secretary of the Chicago Recreation commission, will give a dinner for him Thursday in the Merchants and Manufacturers' club, in the Merchandise Mart. Burchard is leaving his post because of ill health and will go to California.

Dr. Edward Scribner Ames, who recently retired as minister of the University Church of Disciples of Christ, will make the principal address. Nathaniel Leverone, chairman of the board of the Automatic Canteen Company of America, will preside.

Burchard has been in charge of the recreation commission since it was established in 1935. Prior to that he was secretary of the Chicago Community Center conference and secretary-treasurer of the National Community Center association. From 1929 to 1935 he was secretary of the educational council established by the superintendent of Chicago schools.

Two Suspended Policemen Are Ordered Reinstated

Policemen Peter Schaack and John McMahon, who were suspended from the force Nov. 28, were ordered reinstated yesterday by Commissioner Allman. Schaack, who is assigned to the accident prevention bureau, and McMahon, assigned to the criminal information and statistics bureau, were suspended during an inquiry into charges that they were inattentive to duty in a personal injury case. They were exonerated by the police trial board.

Tavern Owner Fires Gun at Dog; Hits Customer

When a dog ran into Andrew Dobscher's tavern at 235 West 47th street and tried to bite him, Dobscher grabbed a gun and fired a shot at the dog. He missed the dog but slightly wounded a patron, John Laspisa, 4714 Wells street. Tomorrow Dobscher will be arraigned in Stockyards court on a charge of disorderly conduct.

DISCLOSE SLAIN BANDIT'S RECORD AS EX-PAROLEE

Robber a Fugitive from Missouri Prison.

Police records disclosed yesterday that the bandit who was shot and killed Friday night while attempting to rob a gasoline station at Cicero avenue and Augusta boulevard was a former parolee from San Quentin prison in California and had been sought for nearly two years for violating a conditional release from the Missouri state penitentiary.

The slain bandit was Edward Bickley, 28 years old, who lived with his wife and child at 825 South Kedzie avenue. He was shot by Earl Stafford, the station attendant, after Bickley had forced Stafford into the station washroom. Stafford, the victim of five previous robberies, seized a pistol which he had hidden in the washroom and came out shooting.

Sentenced to 5 Year Term.

Acting Capt. Frank Walsh of the Austin station said Bickley was arrested in Huntsville, Tex., in 1929 and served a year in prison in Texas for making and selling whisky.

He was arrested near Los Angeles for burglary and larceny in December, 1931, and was sentenced to five years in San Quentin. In July, 1935, he was paroled to a sister, Mrs. Frances Lagios, 750 South Campbell avenue, Chicago.

Bickley was discharged from parole in October, 1935. Then, in December, 1936, he was arrested near St. Louis, Mo., for burglary. He was granted a conditional release in January, 1938, after serving a little more than a year of a two year sentence in the Missouri penitentiary.

Vanishes After Release.

T. P. Sullivan, state supervisor of paroles, said Missouri authorities asked the parole office here to watch Bickley's activities. Bickley disappeared after his release and Missouri prison officials issued a warrant for his arrest. His whereabout from then on were unknown.

Bickley was identified at the county morgue yesterday as the robber who held up Edward Fenton, a gasoline attendant at 901 North Cicero avenue, on Nov. 29. Fenton said the robber had carried a sawed-off shotgun and was aided by two companions. A shotgun was found in Bickley's home.

An accomplice in Friday night's holdup sped away when Bickley was shot. He is being sought.

THE DECISION FOR PEACE OR WAR.

David Darrah of THE TRIBUNE foreign staff reports from Vichy that peace feelers are being sent out from several quarters and that the French are watching the situation carefully, believing it to bear a great resemblance to the period in 1916 when overtures were made and when the conciliators thought they had an opportunity. It is fairly clear now that in the other war the prospect of American intervention determined the attitude of the allied governments. Virtually assured of American aid, they gambled on victory and won. The American people didn't know that they were committed.

French officials believe that peace offers have been forwarded thru Sweden and that overtures have come thru the Vatican. Capt. M. M. Corpening of THE TRIBUNE reported in July, on what he regarded as reliable authority, that King Gustav had been asked to act as an intermediary with Great Britain after the capitulation of France. The German propaganda ministry ordered the correspondent to leave Berlin after the publication of this report, not on the ground that the story was untrue but because of the general prohibition forbidding correspondents to send out any speculations or surmises on terms of peace. The proposal, as Capt. Corpening was informed of it, stipulated that Great Britain should retire to its empire, abandoning any influence in continental affairs, which should be dominated by Germany.

The answer to these reports of peace feelers might be found in the vote of the house of commons rejecting a proposal of compromise, 341 to 4. That would seem conclusive, but at the same time the official British statements on the progress of the war have taken a new turn which has given rise to much speculation. The first of these statements was made by Sir Nevile Henderson, the former British ambassador to Berlin. It could be regarded as unofficial because Sir Nevile is not in the government at present. It was to the effect that Germany could not be kept down always and that settled conditions could only be obtained when the Germans and the British could work together. "We are ready to do it," he said. "The trouble is Germany has to be taught somehow."

About that time Lord Lothian, British ambassador returning to Washington, caused a stir by saying that Britain was approaching the end of its financial resources. It would need, in addition to supplies and material, some financial aid. Then British ministers in London began to reveal that German operations were damaging. Ronald Cross, minister of shipping, in a broadcast to the British people said that "the rate at which we are building ships does not make up for our losses." The destruction, which was 20,000 tons weekly before the Germans had their new bases in conquered territory, had increased to 60,000 tons a week.

Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, confirmed what Cross had said and added that unless the "best minds in the admiralty and other services have found ways and means to counter the U-boat, aerial, and torpedo menace, our plight will become very serious indeed." He admitted that the German raids on England had slowed up construction of war material and of ships and that the production and building programs "were not up to expectations because of the difficulties created by the blitzkrieg."

Such statements and such reports certainly would encourage the Germans to redouble their efforts in the hope of knocking the British out. The reports may not tell the German high command anything it didn't know, but they gave excellent propaganda material and the British must have calculated the effect of their observations and admissions before making them. It would seem probable that the purpose is one of two things, or both—to come to a showdown with the United States and force a decision on American aid, and also to prepare the British public for a peace very different from the one outlined in the war aims at the beginning if America does not intervene.

If America is going into the war and the British government can be assured of that, the peace overtures may be peremptorily rejected just as the proposal was when it originated in parliament. If the United States is not going in with its own ships and its own planes in the near future, then the British might ask Hitler to reduce his terms to something discussible and undertake to explore the idea of fitting the British empire into the scheme of a new Europe.

The French, who have a big stake in whatever decision is to be made, are watching events in Washington to pick up their clews. It may be that again the United States will determine at this time whether there is to be a peace of adjustment or whether the war is to go on till one side wins a victory which will give it the power of dictation.

It would be a mistake to assume that the United States has a force which could be thrown in on the British side and be decisive. We are raising men and equipment for an army but it won't be ready, even for the defense of our own shores, within a year. We couldn't produce an expeditionary force within two years or more, and one at all adequate to meet the armies of continental Europe, even if it could find a landing, would require probably twice that time.

Our ships could be of some assistance and our aviation might add something to the British defense and British striking power, but not decisively. England is now getting our equipment and that aid is pledged for the future in the quantities desired. Financially, we have a deferred problem. It may not be pinching now, but our economy faces a precarious future. Settlement day will come and we don't know what its terms will be.

It would be a great mistake to think that the United States could supply the men and material to defeat Hitler on land. Opinions formed by ignoring facts or by dealing in illusions may be very costly. If the United States should become a decisive factor within a reasonable time, the British might be justified in basing their war aims on expectations of greater assistance here, but the fact is that nearly everything America can do is being done, and for a long time there would be little more that could be offered. That should be the basis of calculations and should control the decisions.

A BUSY DAY FOR MR. BROWNE.

George B. McLane, an official of the bartenders' union, told an interesting story to the Cook county grand jury on Sept. 27. His testimony has been made public following McLane's recent refusal, for reasons best known to himself, to repeat the story to the Criminal court jury trying Frank Nitti and other gangsters on the charge of seizing and looting the union.

McLane testified before the grand jury that Nitti and Danny Stanton, another gangster, had placed their hoodlum lieutenants in control of a half dozen or more of the Chicago locals of the International Union of Hotel and Restaurant Employés. They are siphoning off in excess of $100,000 a year collected from members of these unions, he estimated.

McLane seems to have laid out a job for Edward Flore, international president of the hotel and restaurant workers. At its recent convention the American Federation of Labor recommended to all its affiliated international unions that they adopt any needed measures to root out gangsters from their organizations.

And if Mr. Flore feels unable to cope with the situation in his capacity as international president of his union, he can assume his other title as vice president of the A. F. of L. and urge his colleagues on the federation executive council, as directed by the convention, "to apply all its influence to secure such action as will correct this situation."

Returning to McLane's testimony, one finds the following questions and answers:

Q.—Did you have a meeting with Nitti in reference to your candidacy for the presidency of the bartenders' [hotel and restaurant employés'] international union? A.—In the middle of 1938, yes, sir, at the Bismarck hotel.

Q.—Who was present? A.—George Browne, international president of the stagehands' union, Willie Bioff, Nick Dean, Romano, Nitti, and myself.

[Bioff and Dean, tools of Nitti and appointees of Browne in the stagehands' union, have served time for pandering and robbery, respectively. Louis Romano was the gangster with whom Nitti later supplanted McLane.]

Q.—What did they say about making Browne?
A.—He [Nitti] said he made Browne.

We leave the reader to muse on the spectacle of George Browne, member of the A. F. of L. executive council, applying all his influence on George Browne, international president of the stagehands' union, to kick out of office in that organization George Browne, tool of the gangster, Frank Nitti.

THE ITALIAN FRONT.

The Greek advance in Albania continues with unabated vigor and undiminished success. Some British parliamentarians are urging Mr. Churchill to undertake a decisive movement in the Mediterranean, with the purpose of knocking Mussolini out. Such a strategy must be tempting, but there is also a dilemma.

If Great Britain could make a major military operation in an Italian campaign, the undertaking would probably bring the Nazis in on Mussolini's side. So long as the principal effort is that of the Greeks and so long as the British intervention is little mentioned and not given importance in the news, Il Duce's prestige requires that he play his own hand. He can hardly ask Adolf to come in and help him conquer this small nation which he invaded so carelessly and with such high expectations.

One of the principal pillars in Mussolini's Fascist edifice is the military power of the new Roman empire. If anything could injure that legend more than the retreat in Albania has done it would be the call for German aid against so small a foe. There is some reason for measuring out British aid so carefully that the Nazis' participation in the war will not seem justified. If it became necessary, Hitler would have no scruples about marching thru Bulgaria or any other Balkan country. It would be a little more dangerous than the invasion of the Low Countries because it might alter Russian policy. But rather than permit the busting of the axis by the defeat of Italy, Hitler might have to take his chances.

If France were still in the war, the stroke against Italy would be the natural one and it might succeed. But if France were still in the war, the Italians would not have tried their Greek adventure. Even without France the temptation to carry the war to Italy must be great, but it must be remembered that Great Britain has not as yet an army which compares in numbers or equipment with the forces mustered against it on the continent. The British probably consider that they could not draw sufficient forces from their island for an Italian campaign without weakening the home defense against invasion. Number one British problem is still the defense of Great Britain.

Editorials of the Day

PILGRIM HATS.

[New York Times.]

With a charming pageant of remembrance and an affectionate greeting to her English godmother, the Massachusetts Plymouth celebrated Thursday the anniversary of her first Pilgrim Thanksgiving in 1621. May we, with no irreverence to that rite of ancestral piety, turn to one little detail which has long puzzled us? The picture in this newspaper of the Thanksgiving dinner shows most of the men wearing those peaked stiff hats which generations of engravers and caricaturists have made the symbol of the Puritan and the Brownist. Short hair was the fashion of artisans and peasants. The Puritan "gentleman" wore his hair long, as the portraits of Cromwell and his generals illustrate. Archbishop Laud was as ferocious against long hair as any Puritan could be. The word "Roundhead" didn't come in until after the Restoration. After the civil war parliamentarian and cavalier may have differed in dress almost as much as in opinion. The first Pilgrims must have worn the clothes common to their respective classes in the reign of James I. We know very little about the clothes they wore in this country except for the information given in wills. In the words of the late Prof. Roland Usher, they were "poor country people":

A simple smock and trousers of coarse cloth, a simple gown of ample folds for the women, heavy shoes, and either no hats at all or caps of skin must have been the rule in the first years.

Long blue frocks were worn by some New England farmers and farm laborers far into the 19th century. The sumptuary laws in New England were never enforceable. As Plymouth grew more prosperous, even Elder Brewster could sport a violet colored cloth coat and a pair of black silk stockings. Till somebody enlightens our darkness we shall continue to believe that the early Pilgrim symbolic peaked hat is at best an anachronism, perhaps in its degree as mythical as Mrs. Hemans' translation of the "sandbars and mudspits" off Plymouth Rock and Puddle Dock into a "stern and rockbound coast."

CANADA LOOKING AHEAD TO THE AFTER-WAR PERIOD

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7 [By Associated Press correspondence].—Canada is looking ahead, altho preoccupied with its war effort, and there is a surprising volume of public and private discussion of problems likely to arise when the war is over.

Some Canadians foresee a merger of the British commonwealth and the United States, with Canada as the hub of an English speaking union. In general, however, the Canadian attitude toward the United States still is cautious.

Nevertheless, even those who hesitate to advocate any revolutionary change in the status of the two countries emphasize the necessity of far greater coördination in the future. Business men, noting the production crisis which arose when Canada suddenly found herself drastically dependent on American factories while her war industry still was geared to England's, have begun to insist on closer coördination between all lines of Canadian and United States production. As the magazine Canadian Business has put it, people are beginning to see that in Canada and the United States "virtually all problems are mutual—not merely those of defense."

The problems that may arise resolve themselves broadly into four main questions:

1. What sort of new world order is coming out of this struggle; for what kind of democracy, political and economic, is the world to be made safe?
2. What will be the character of Canadian-United States relations, from the viewpoint of Canada as a link between the British commonwealth and the United States?
3. Where will Canada fit into the Pan-American picture?
4. How will Canada's industry, now swiftly expanding under the whip of war needs, fit into the postwar setup?

These are large questions, particularly the first, since it raises in turn the question of ultimate war aims.

There has been a vast amount of editorial comment and other discussion, some of it originating in England and published here, to the effect that a new kind of democracy is being forged under the sledge hammer blows of total war.

There are even forecasts of far-reaching developments inside Britain when the war aims of this newly emerging democracy shall be crystalized in the form of a clearly stated program. That will not come, the Canadian weekly Saturday Night predicts, until Britain's defensive battle has been clearly won and the time comes to launch the long awaited offensive on the continent of Europe.

Under the caption "Britain's Coming Crisis" this publication says the "prevailing effective unity" in Britain now is due to the fact that British labor is coöperating wholeheartedly with the Conservatives in what is obviously a fight for the sheer existence of Britain.

Once the existence of Britain no longer is in question, the workers who have daily risked death for home defense may weigh the price of a grand offensive "in scales unknown to officialdom, or the city, or the aristocracy," the article says, adding that in the resultant internal controversy "there will be at stake a whole social order, a whole economic system, and the future of international relations, including colonial relations, for an indefinite period."

Parliamentary debate on Canada's war effort has included somewhat similar foreshadowings of a popular insistence that this war must be fought, not to defend the old order but to shape the new.

Speakers have insisted that there must be no repetition of the postwar poverty of returning soldiers such as characterized the end of the last war. Some have demanded a clearer statement of war aims to convince the people that the sacrifices they will be called on to make will end internal inequalities as well as foreign aggression.

The trend of Canada's future relations with the United States has been underscored by creation of the permanent joint defense board and a rapidly widening coöperation between the two countries in all matters affecting the security or welfare of North America.

"The link forged by the Canada-United States defense agreement is no temporary axis," Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told the house of commons recently. "It is part of the enduring foundation of a new world order, based on friendship and good will."

There is also a tendency to concede that, whatever the outcome of the war, Canada and the United States henceforth will have to strive for a common foreign policy before either of them gets into another war—not merely some form of friendly collaboration after the war has begun. As a writer in the University of Toronto Quarterly has expressed it:

"We cannot hope to occupy half a continent without deciding the nature of our relations with the other half. We cannot possess vital coastlines fronting on two oceans without recognizing that our neighbor—to whom, whether we admit it or not, we look for protection in case of attack—has also interest in seeing that no other state is provoked by our actions into an attempt to seize those positions."

As to Canada's attitude toward the Pan-American union, here again recent developments suggest the trend toward a new position. The Canadian position heretofore has been that the Pan-American union is a union of republics, and Canada is not a republic; is, in fact, a kingdom with George VI. as reigning monarch.

Recently, however, the dominion government announced its intention to open Canadian legations in Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro, and soon afterward preparations were made to send a Canadian trade delegation to the West Indies and Latin America. Some observers interpreted these moves as a prelude to Canada's entry into the Pan-American community.

Canada's relations with Latin America naturally are tied up with the postwar future of Canadian trade and industry. Some pessimistic forecasters fear that when the war is over and the munitions boom collapses Canada's vastly expanded industry may be reduced to competing with United States manufacturers for the markets of South America, especially if Germany emerges from the war strong enough to dominate Europe's trade.

Others, however, foresee a great migration of British factories to Canada—regardless of the outcome of the war—which would make Canada the center of a trade with South America which formerly had its headquarters in England. Canada then would be entering the South American market not with articles already manufactured more cheaply in the United States, but with "English" wares formerly produced in the United Kingdom.

The trend in this direction is indicated by the fact that British capital already is financing new plants in Canada instead of rebuilding English factories destroyed in bombing raids.

That colossal economic readjustments are inevitable, regardless of how the war ends, is acknowledged generally here. That is one reason why Canadians, in and out of parliament, are insisting that their government keep its eye on postwar problems as well as the immediate task of waging war.

WHEN VITAMIN REINFORCEMENTS ARE NEEDED.

WHEN the word "vitamin" was first heard, a few decades ago, it was received with mild curiosity. But physicians went further. They wanted to know the whys and wherefores of these dietary essentials. In consequence, thousands of research workers the world over began investigating the subject.

We are now in possession of enough knowledge to warrant the statement that a goodly proportion of our deficiency diseases can be remedied. In many cases it is as simple as finding out what element is missing and supplying it. Today these substances are looked upon not only as restorers of health but as preventive measures against illness.

But we must not allow the pendulum to swing too far. The great majority of our population has learned to employ a balanced dietary régime. For them vitamin capsules, liquids, or powders are wholly unnecessary. We can look upon these preparations as aids to health—if and when they are needed. But we must not become obsessed with the notion that they are cure-alls.

Not long ago I saw a report on a carefully supervised group of children, varying from 7 to 14 years of age, all of whom had recovered from rheumatic fever. These youngsters had been fed generous doses of our alphabetical friends without the slightest effect upon the occurence of colds or respiratory infections.

But here is a different situation. Surgery may be advised for any one at any time. There is ample evidence to indicate that a proper vitamin balance must be secured before the procedure. Of course, in emergencies this may not be possible. In osteomyelitis [infection within the bone] particularly, injections of vitamin C are now regarded as indispensable. If this factor cannot be furnished thru fruits and vegetables a convenient artificial form is available.

This emphasizes the excellent results which many surgeons attain when the patient is prepared adequately before operation. It encompasses that intangible thing we call "reserve" or "resistance." The person who is run down and poorly nourished will require a far longer convalescence than the one who is in tiptop condition. It is the part of wisdom to hold the sufferer for study for a week or even longer, reinforcing his food intake with these vital accessories. Deliberate caution in this matter will save many lives.

Again there is every reason to believe that patients fare far better subsequent to gall bladder removal if they are provided beforehand with a plentiful ratio of vitamins B complex and K. Perhaps C should be included also, as, somehow or other, this component does have a bearing on infection.

The individual who possesses a sufficient amount will be surprised to find how quickly it is destroyed in his own body when he runs a fever. If he is to combat an ailment successfully, whatever it may be, extra doses of C will be helpful. Furthermore, if it is present in normal quantities, wounds will heal more rapidly and more firmly. Fortunately cevitamic acid [C] may be administered with great benefit in both fractures and lacerations.

We have reached a rather high standard of surgical efficiency, but we must not be content so long as any one fails to survive. Attention to the body's forces that have the power of fighting for health may turn the tide in the right direction.

MAY BE MINOR.

A. Z. writes: To get rid of piles must a person go to a hospital or can the operation be done in a doctor's office?

REPLY.

Much depends upon the character and the location of the hemorrhoids. The external type may be removed in the physician's office.

DRIVE LEAD OUT.

C. T. writes: Is lead poisoning curable?

REPLY.

Yes. The metal can be driven into the bones and rendered harmless temporarily. Later, gradual elimination may be brought about.

UNFOUNDED.

S. D. writes: I have heard that viosterol is hard on the kidneys. Is this true?

REPLY.

There is no evidence to substantiate this statement.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts 5 points. Then look for the correct answers on page 7, part 2.

2. The size of an ordinary table is approximately 24 ins. square 30 ins. square 36 ins. square 42 ins. square
3. When a team attempts to steal a lap in six day bicycle races it is called a Threat Pickup Jam Sprint
4. The blotting device used in colonial days was Grass Cloth Sand Wool
5. If you took a ride in a buckboard your motive power would probably be a Speedboat Dog Automobile Horse
6. You don't need to have specific knowledge of dates in Bible history in order to make a perfect score in this problem. If you employ your "horse sense" and vague recollection of antiquity, you can still get 5 points here. For each correct matching below you deserve one point. Associate the incidents on the left with their approximate dates in the right hand column.

[d] Division of the kingdom	[y] 1015 B. C.

THE ARMY'S BUYING WAYS.

Lemont, Ill., Dec. 2.—We wish to lay before you facts pertaining to the procurement of supplies for our national defense.

Our company is the oldest manufacturer of aluminum cooking utensils in the world. We made and introduced the first aluminum cooking utensils that were ever offered for sale 48 years ago, since which time we have been successfully and continuously producing them in this place.

We have experience in making aluminum cooking utensils. We have a plant splendidly equipped for that purpose and our facilities are and have been at the disposal of the army and navy.

Being bred and born American citizens, the future of our country means a great deal to us and so anxious are we to serve and help that all our quotations to the army and navy have been upon a cost basis without a cent of profit.

Imagine how we feel, when quoting a price to the army quartermaster's department of 95 cents for an article, to have the order turned over to another bidder at $1.075 each, because the army requested half by Jan. 31 and the other half by April 30, and our proposal, owing to our ability to get aluminum sheet and circles, was to deliver 80 per cent of the first half before Jan. 31 and the balance in approximately equal monthly shipments which would complete the total amount before April 30.

We cannot become reconciled to the fact that the amount we agreed to deliver was so close to what the army desired that they would spend $2,300 in excess of the necessary amount to gain no material benefit. We agreed to deliver in addition to the 16,000, 10,000 in February, therefore, leaving no doubt as to our going right along with the order, and also the fact that the entire requirement would be delivered in the desired time.

The particular order in question is not solely the issue. We wonder how many more similar transactions are happening and who is paying for it; who is suffering? Surely business men in making their decisions take into consideration more than just a hard and fast rule that means little. If we were to run our business on that basis we would not have been here 48 years, neither would THE TRIBUNE have been in existence as long as it has been operating.

Our complaint is not a monetary one inasmuch as our proposal carried no profit to us, but if our facilities are of no benefit to our country in these times of national defense, why the hue and cry about an emergency?

We cannot make tanks, we cannot make battleships, we cannot make airplanes, but we can make and know how to make some things that the army desires and those are the things we want to make for the army and we are willing to let the army make the price if we can only break even.

MALE AND FEMALE CANARIES.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—In the 15th century a sailing ship stopped for water at one of the lonely Canary Islands and discovered it was inhabited by a wonderful singing bird. They named it the canary. Capturing a great quantity of them, they transported them to Germany where they have been bred by the hundreds of thousands each year and shipped all over the world.

Up to 1939 most of the canaries received in the United States were imported from Germany. Then came the blockade, stopping the supply. This stimulated the raising of canaries in the United States, and we find 1940 supplying most of the trade.

A singing male canary has a standard value. The female canary sings only in rare cases, and then stops abruptly and does not sing again.

The male singing canary has a market value greatly in excess of that of the female. This leaves an opportunity for unscrupulous dealers in canaries to foist on an unsuspecting public female canaries for male singers.

Remember you get what you pay for and pay for what you get. This applies to birds as well as everything else. The moral is do your Christmas shopping at stores with a reputation.

A WISE BIRD.

FROM AN OLD OPERAGOER.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—From all reports the Civic Opera is enjoying a brilliant season. I only hope that in its efforts to win new support it is not going to lose the friendship of those of us in Chicago who have faithfully attended it for many years.

I have tried several times this season, at least a week in advance, to obtain tickets in my usual price range, only to be told that only $4 seats are available. Also it has been my custom for many years to occupy a seat in row F of the dress circle at a cost of $2.20, and this year I was informed that the price of these seats was $3.30. It seems to me that such a jump in price is unwarranted, and that if the management of the opera is determined to pack the theater with hoi polloi by such widespread advertising and ballyhoo as they have employed this year, they should scale down the prices of the dress circle and main floor rather than raise them. Or maybe they don't mind leaving their old friends out in the cold.

OPERA LOVER.

MR. HENDERSON TO "SUCKERS."

Lake Orion, Mich., Dec. 4.—Apparently Mr. Leon Henderson, economist and price fixer on the NDAC, subscribes to the Hopkins-Ickes-New Deal cynicism toward this citizenry. At any rate, we are led to wonder just why he uses the appellation "sucker" to brand any one who would like to know the exact financial status of the United States of America.

Mr. Henderson, as a guest of "Information Please," remarked with a depreciative laugh and in the presence of some millions of listeners that he had forearmed himself with information concerning the national debt with the idea that some "sucker" [to quote his exact designation] might ask for this information.

We might be doing Mr. Henderson an injustice. It's possible that he meant to imply that we're suckers for having allowed a bunch of crackpots to run our national debt to 45 billions and create a deficit of 25 billions, in the face of a hostile world, without having produced a single gun or tank and without having made any attempt to provide facilities for making them.

In which case we are not only in total agreement with Mr. Henderson, but also admire his fortitude.

ORREN LESLIE.

CAROLS, NOT BY TORCH SINGERS.

Maywood, Ill., Dec. 2.—Before long radio stations and program sponsors will be having their artists render the Christmas carols. In years past I have listened to many of these programs and have heard the beautiful Christmas carols literally "butchered."

Artists [?] who devote their entire time for 51 weeks of the year to "blues, cowboy, hill-billy, etc.," cannot give just one week or less of their time to these songs.

Why don't sponsors and stations wake up and for the occasion either secure the services of some one qualified to sing them or have their singers take sufficient instruction to enable them to do it?

Yours for Christmas carols not sung the "blues" or "torch" way.

SERVING FOREIGN NATION.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—It is my impression that there is a law against a citizen of the United States serving in the armed forces of any foreign nation. If there is such a law, please state exactly what it is.

R. R.

"Whoever, within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, enlists or enters himself, or hires or retains another person to enlist or enter himself, or to go beyond the limits or jurisdiction of the United States with intent to be enlisted or entered in the service of any foreign prince, state, colony, district, or people as a soldier or as a marine or seaman on board of any vessel of war, letter of marque, or privateer shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than three years." U. S. Criminal Code, Sec. 22, page 720.

There is no United States law against "serving" in a foreign army. The United States is not in a position to control what goes on outside our borders.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT A CITIZEN.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me if a man's wife becomes a citizen by him taking out his papers. He was marrried in the year of 1906 and his second papers were signed Oct. 29, 1925.

C. E.

No. If the man was naturalized after Sept. 1, 1922, as indicated, his wife did not become a citizen thru such naturalization. Under an act of congress approved Sept. 22, 1922, the citizenship of married women on and after the latter date is independent of that of their husbands. However, she may apply for final papers, without a declaration of intention [first paper], as the alien wife of a citizen, provided she has lived in the United States continuously for at least three years in pursuance of a legal admission for permanent residence.

GIFTS REDUCE U. OF C.'S GOAL TO $8,500,000

Donors Advised on How to Save Taxes.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The University of Chicago's campaign for a $12,000,000 fund to carry it thru the next decade with undiminished excellence, has reached a point where the goal is now only $8,500,000, it was announced yesterday by Donald Bean, executive director of the fund campaign. This campaign, which began last Oct. 18 as a part of the 50th anniversary celebration, has already improved the university's operating position by more than $140,000 a year.

Several large gifts have been made to the university during the last year, including $1,000,000 from the Clara A. Abbott trust, $1,500,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, and between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 from the estate of Orson Wells. Valuable real estate has been given by Marshall Field and Albert D. Lasker.

The alumni have pledged $310,000, with $56,000 coming from the alumni and nonalumni members of the faculty and staff. The trustees have made contributions during the year of nearly $2,000,000.

A unique appeal is being made to the university's friends on the basis of tax exemptions for donors, showing how they can save money by giving.

The federal statute permits benefactions up to 15 per cent of net income in any one year. The legal staff in the treasurer's office, with the aid of tax experts, has made a study of tax exemptions relating to gifts. It is shown, for instance, that the true cost to an estate of seven or more annual gifts aggregating $250,000, would be only $45,671.42.

"If all of the university's friends could afford the pleasure of making the $250,000 contribution at a net cost to their estate of $45,671 [$6,525 a year for seven years], the institution's financial problems would be easily solved," Bean said.

He mentioned also that if the net taxable income is $100,000 the real cost to the donor of gifts aggregating $10,000 is $3,466. And so it goes into the smaller brackets.

Spirit and Service.

To President Robert M. Hutchins, the fund campaign, while vital to the institution, is less interesting than the opportunity afforded by the anniversary year celebration to bring the spirit and service of the university to the attention of the public which must support it. The gloom and uncertainties of the times only make the existence and work of the university more imperative, in his opinion. The theme of the anniversary is "New Frontiers in Education and Research."

"A world in chaos has left its intellectual heritage in the keeping of America," it is stated in an anniversary program pamphlet. "If additions are to be made to that heritage in science and the arts, this country must make them, largely thru its universities. The University of Chicago, as one of the great universities, must be able to assume its part of that heavy responsibility."

The university's financial problem results from the shrinkage in the rate of endowment income from 6.2 per cent to 4.14 per cent during the last decade. In effect this is the same as if 33 per cent of its endowment of $72,502,175 had been wiped out.

Archbishop Will Deliver Jubilee Sermon for Priest

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch will deliver the golden jubilee sermon for the 50th anniversary celebration of the ordination of the Very Rev. Thomas M. Bobal, at noon mass today at St. Cyril and Methodius Bohemian Catholic church, 5009 South Hermitage avenue.

CENTRAL CHURCH WILL MARK 65TH YEAR OF SERVICE

Service This Morning in Orchestra Hall.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Sixty-five years of religious leadership in Chicago's loop will be solemnly observed this morning by Central church in Orchestra hall. The congregation will assemble to celebrate the anniversary of its foundation, and will pledge itself anew "to the worship of God, and to the establishment of his kingdom among men."

Bernard E. Sunny.

Dr. Harold W. Ruopp, minister since September, 1939, and the fifth in succession to that office, will conduct the service. The topic of his anniversary sermon will be "The Church of My Dreams." Bernard E. Sunny, member of the board of trustees since 1902 and its president for the last 22 years, will read the Scriptures.

Honor Ex-Chorus Director.

Dr. Daniel Protheroe, who for 30 years directed the Central church chorus, will be honored by three concerted numbers and one hymn in the service. The present director is William Hughes, who will conduct the chorus of 86 voices.

Dr. Ralph Wakefield, pastor of Irving Park Methodist church, as president of the Chicago Church federation, will bring anniversary greetings from all Protestantism. Dr. J. Harry Cotton, newly elected president of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, also will assist in the service.

Memorials to Five Ministers.

In front of the pulpit will be five floral memorials, four to the preceding ministers—the Rev. David Swing, 1875 to 1894; the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, 1895 to 1899; Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, 1899 to 1919; Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, 1919 to 1939—and one for Dr. Protheroe, who died in 1934.

Among the congregation will be descendants in the third and fourth generation of 50 well known Chicagoans who, 65 years ago, each raised $1,000 to assure the permanency of Christian teaching, at a time when the city was being rebuilt after the great fire, and to retain Dr. Swing in Chicago.

Yule Symbols to Blaze from Lights of Skyscraper

The Christmas cross and the star of peace will shine in light from the Palmolive building at 919 North Michigan avenue at dusk this evening in a preview of the annual Christmas eve display. The star, to be formed by lighted windows in the top 16 floors of the building, will be shown on the south side of the building and the cross will be on the north side. The lights will be on until 8 p. m.

COMET'S FESTIVE LIGHT TO BATHE CHRISTMAS SKIES

Newly Discovered Cluster Growing Rapidly.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The great star that guided the Wise Men to the little town of Bethlehem so long ago may have been a comet such as will be visible in our sky during Christmas week.

The unusual Christmas sky across the United States this season will result from the appearance of a new comet, called Cunningham's comet, and the close proximity of two bright planets, Saturn and Jupiter.

The comet, which was discovered Sept. 18 by Leland E. Cunningham of the Harvard observatory staff, altho not yet visible to the naked eye has been growing brighter and by Christmas and before should be visible in the western sky after sunset.

A Comet of 4 B. C.

A comet of 4 B. C., about the time of the Nativity, is recorded by the Chinese to have been visible for 70 days. The late Dr. Edwin B. Frost, director of Yerkes observatory, thought that the Star of Bethlehem might have been a nova or exploding star.

"The proximity of the two bright planets is part of a triple conjunction that last took place 258 years ago, in 1682 and 1683, and before that in the year 7 B. C.," said William H. Barton Jr., executive curator of the Hayden planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History.

"The great astronomer Kepler was so impressed by the conjunction of these two planets, Saturn and Jupiter, in 1604 that he figured back and found that in the year generally accepted as the Nativity these two planets were not only close together as they are at present, but had been joined by the planet Mars, to form an extraordinary sight in the sky."

Body of the 13th Magnitude.

At the time of its discovery the Cunningham comet was of the 13th magnitude. Heavenly bodies of less than 6th magnitude are not visible except with a telescope. A star of first magnitude is two and a half times brighter than one of second magnitude.

The new comet was to attain a magnitude of between 6.2 and 3.7 by Dec. 17, according to a charter plotted at Harvard. For Christmas night it was predicted the magnitude would be between 5.0 and 2.0. The comet is following closely the path predicted for it. It is scheduled to reach perihilion [nearest the sun] on Jan. 16, at which time it will be about 35 million miles distant from that body.

Dr. Oliver J. Lee, director of the Dearborn observatory of Northwestern university, and two assistants, Dr. Ralph Baldwin of the university astronomy department and Robert Torp-Smith, a student, recently made telescopic observations of the new comet.

Growth of Brightness Slow.

At that time it appeared to be about 7.5 magnitude, according to Dr. Lee. In his opinion it was growing in brightness more slowly that the rate predicted for it, yet he thought it would be sufficiently bright by Dec. 22 to be seen without a telescope.

Dr. Lee reported that the comet appeared rather fuzzy, with a broad, indefinite, and short tail.

Cunningham's comet is thought to be one of the periodic group, which will return to the sun at intervals. Comets at a great distance from the sun are illuminated by that body of light, but when they approach close to the sun their own gaseous material is activated and shines by its own light.

Comets are hazy, star-like objects composed of three parts, the nucleus, the coma, and the tail. The comet is made up of gases and small particles.

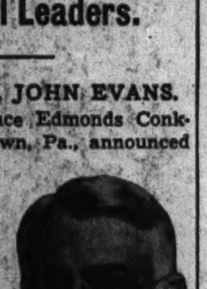
EASTERN PASTOR ACCEPTS POST AS CHICAGO BISHOP

Conkling Sends Word to Episcopal Leaders.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Wallace Edmonds Conkling of Germantown, Pa., announced yesterday his acceptance of election as bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, to succeed the late Bishop George Craig Stewart. Bishop Elect Conkling was elected by a special convention of the local diocese on Nov. 28 in St. James church, Wabash avenue and Huron street.



Bishop Elect Conkling.

Dr. Conkling's decision to accept was first made known yesterday to the vestry of St. Luke's church in the Philadelphia suburb where he will celebrate his 18th anniversary as rector today. Then he telegraphed his acceptance to the Rev. Crawford W. Brown of Elgin, chairman of the notification committee of the diocese of Chicago.

Chosen on Second Ballot.

The youthful but prematurely gray haired bishop elect, who resembles the late Bishop Charles Palmerston Anderson of Chicago, who became presiding bishop of the American Episcopal church, is, at 44, one of the youngest men ever elected to head a see as important as Chicago. He was chosen on the second ballot of the adjourned special convention after a deadlock for 17 ballots on Sept. 24.

Suffragan Bishop Edwin J. Randall, who will assist the bishop elect after the consecration ceremonies, announced that the process of ratification of Dr. Conkling's election and acceptance will take several weeks. He added that the consecration rites probably will not be held before late February. The Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker of New York, presiding bishop of the church, sets the consecration date. The rites may be held either in Chicago or in Germantown.

Visits Chicago Leaders.

Dr. Conkling spent several days last week in Chicago conferring with lay and clerical leaders of the diocese. He will be the seventh prelate to hold the title of bishop of Chicago. Dr. Conkling announced yesterday that he would remain rector of the Germantown parish until after Christmas, when he will visit Chicago in preparation for his assumption of diocesan leadership.

The bishop elect is a native of New York state and an alumnus of Williams college, Oxford university, and Philadelphia Divinity school.

COAL FIRM HEAD SHOT TO DEATH; HELD A SUICIDE

Bluefield, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP).—W. A. Richards, 44 year old president of the Sovereign Pocahontas Coal company, was found dead of a bullet wound at his home last night and Morton Wagner, assistant prosecutor, said he had killed himself. Wagner said no inquest would be held.

Richards, who had been identified with the coal business in West Virginia since 1924, returned yesterday from a New York clinic where he underwent a physical examination.

Richards came to Bluefield in 1924 as general manager of a coal group composed of the Ashland Coal and Coke, Majestic Collieries, and Pemberton Coal and Coke companies.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

DIETRICH—Ida Dietrich. In memory of my beloved wife and our dear mother, who passed away one year ago, Dec. 8, 1939.

Happy years we spent together,
Lonely are our hearts today
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For my dear wife and mother we loved so well.

LOVING HUSBAND,
DAUGHTER, AND SON-IN-LAW.

NOTRE DAME CONQUERS SO. CALIFORNIA, 10-6

BEARS MEET REDSKINS TODAY FOR PRO FOOTBALL TITLE

WILDCATS NAME PAUL HIEMENZ MOST VALUABLE

Elect Chambers 1941 Football Captain.

Honor Roll

THE complete list of 1940 nominees for The Chicago Tribune's silver trophy, awarded annually to the Western conference football player judged most valuable to his team, follows:

Paul Hiemenz, Northwestern, center.
George Paskvan, Wisconsin, full back.
Claude White, Ohio State, center.
Mike Enich, Iowa, tackle.
Dwight Gahm, Indiana, center.
Tom Harmon, Michigan, half back.
George Bernhardt, Illinois, full back.
Dave Rankin, Purdue, end.

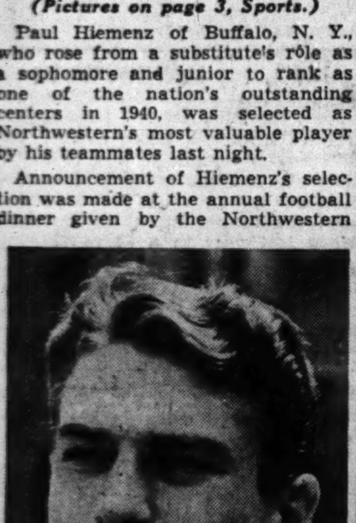
Paul Hiemenz of Buffalo, N. Y., who rose from a substitute's rôle as a sophomore and junior to rank as one of the nation's outstanding centers in 1940, was selected as Northwestern's most valuable player by his teammates last night.

Announcement of Hiemenz's selection was made at the annual football dinner given by the Northwestern University club of Chicago in the Stevens hotel. The affair was attended by an overflow crowd of 1,600 alumni and students. Hiemenz becomes a candidate for The Chicago Tribune silver football given each year to the player adjudged most valuable to his team in the Western conference.



FLOYD CHAMBERS.

N. U. Last to Select.

Floyd Chambers of Salt Lake City, Utah, a junior and right half back on this year's team, will captain the 1941 Wildcats, it was announced at the dinner. Chambers was a bulwark in the line, playing consistently all season. Both Chambers and Hiemenz were guests at the dinner along with other varsity and freshman football players.

Northwestern was the last of the Big Nine members to select its most valuable player.

A special committee of twenty-one, including the Big Nine coaches, will select the one adjudged most valuable of the nine nominated by each team.

Hiemenz proved to be the Cinderella boy of the 1940 Wildcat eleven. His fighting spirit which overcame physical shortcomings—he weighed only 178 pounds—proved contagious.

Hiemenz played barely enough in his first two years to qualify for his letter. During that period he served as understudy for Johnny Haman, a 60 minute player.

Plays Iron Man Rôle.

In the first 1940 conference game, against Ohio State, he intercepted one of Don Scott's passes to set the stage for Northwestern's drive to a 6 to 3 victory.

Twice injured in the Wisconsin game on the following Saturday, he refused to leave the field and played 55 minutes. He played out the full game against both Minnesota and Michigan. While excelling as an offensive player he attained stardom from his brilliant defensive play.

Hiemenz is a senior in the engineering school where he is majoring in industrial engineering.

Thirty-one major letters, four minor letters and 39 freshman numbers were awarded at last night's banquet.

Hawaii Eleven Launches Its Season; Wins, 33 to 7

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 7 (AP).—The University of Hawaii opened the major Hawaiian football season today with a smashing 33 to 7 victory over San Diego State college in a color packed Shrine benefit game. Twenty bands, hula girl shows, and drill teams entertained the 22,000 spectators before the game and at the half.

Winner Gets Game's Richest Playoff Prize

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—The capital of the United States becomes the athletic capital of the world tomorrow, when, amid a panorama of pageantry and intense rivalry, the Chicago Bears and Washington Redskins battle for the richest championship in the history of professional football.

A capacity crowd of 36,034 will pay $112,508, a record gate for the playoffs, to see the Bears, winners of the Western division of the National Football league, throw their power against Washington's superb passing attack in an attempt to avenge a previous disastrous visit to Griffith stadium this year.

Stakes in the battle are high. The winning players' share will be approximately $900 apiece. In addition to this, victory carries with it possession of the Ed Thorp trophy, emblematic of the world championship, and qualifies the triumphant squad as the National league's representative in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S All-Star game next summer.

Bears Are Favorites.

A grimly determined Bear team arrived this morning to find itself the 9 to 5 favorite with no takers for a flood of Chicago money, altho the Redskins whipped them, 7 to 3, here on Nov. 17, and 28 to 21 in 1937 in the last playoff in which either of these teams participated.

Weather forecasters predicted rain tonight, but promised it would be fair and colder tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock [E. S. T.], the hour of the kickoff. The game will be broadcast on a chain for the first time in the eight year history of the playoff, being carried from coast to coast on a Mutual hookup. The Chicago outlet will be W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE station.

After a brief workout in Griffith stadium, where the gridiron forms a dry island in a vast expanse of slippery clay mire, Coach George Halas announced Bob Swisher, fleet little Bear half back and pass defense star, would be ready to face the Redskins. Swisher suffered a heel injury in the Cardinal game last week when the Bears clinched their place in tomorrow's contest with a 31 to 23 triumph which gave them a record of eight victories against three defeats for the season.

Halas May Alter Lineup.

Halas was undecided about his ends and right half, but said he contemplated no other changes in the lineup which has opened nearly all games this season. Dick Plasman and George Wilson, two veterans, will start at the ends if the field becomes slippery tonight and Gary Famiglietti will begin at right half. But if the field is fast, Halas prefers to start George McAfee, the sensational rookie from Duke, and two freshman ends, Bob Nowaskey, a former George Washington star and White House favorite, and Hampton Pool, the Stanford guard who has been made over into a wing man.

Washington is less fortunate physically, having two important members of its cast out with injuries. Bill Young, veteran tackle, is lost definitely and there is little possibility that Bob Hoffman, rookie blocking back from Southern California, can play.

The Redskins, victorious in their first seven games and beaten only twice in 11 starts, present a striking contrast to the Bears. There is no evidence of concern among the players or club officials.

The Bears Are Mad.

Anonymous letters addressed to the "world's greatest crybabies" and bitter denunciations in the local press after the 7 to 3 defeat here three weeks ago have aroused the Bears to a fighting fury. They are making more of a personal issue of the contest. The Redskins view this attitude as a break in their favor and fanned the flame to new intensity today with denials that motion pictures verified the Bears' claim of a foul on the last play of the game. All in all,

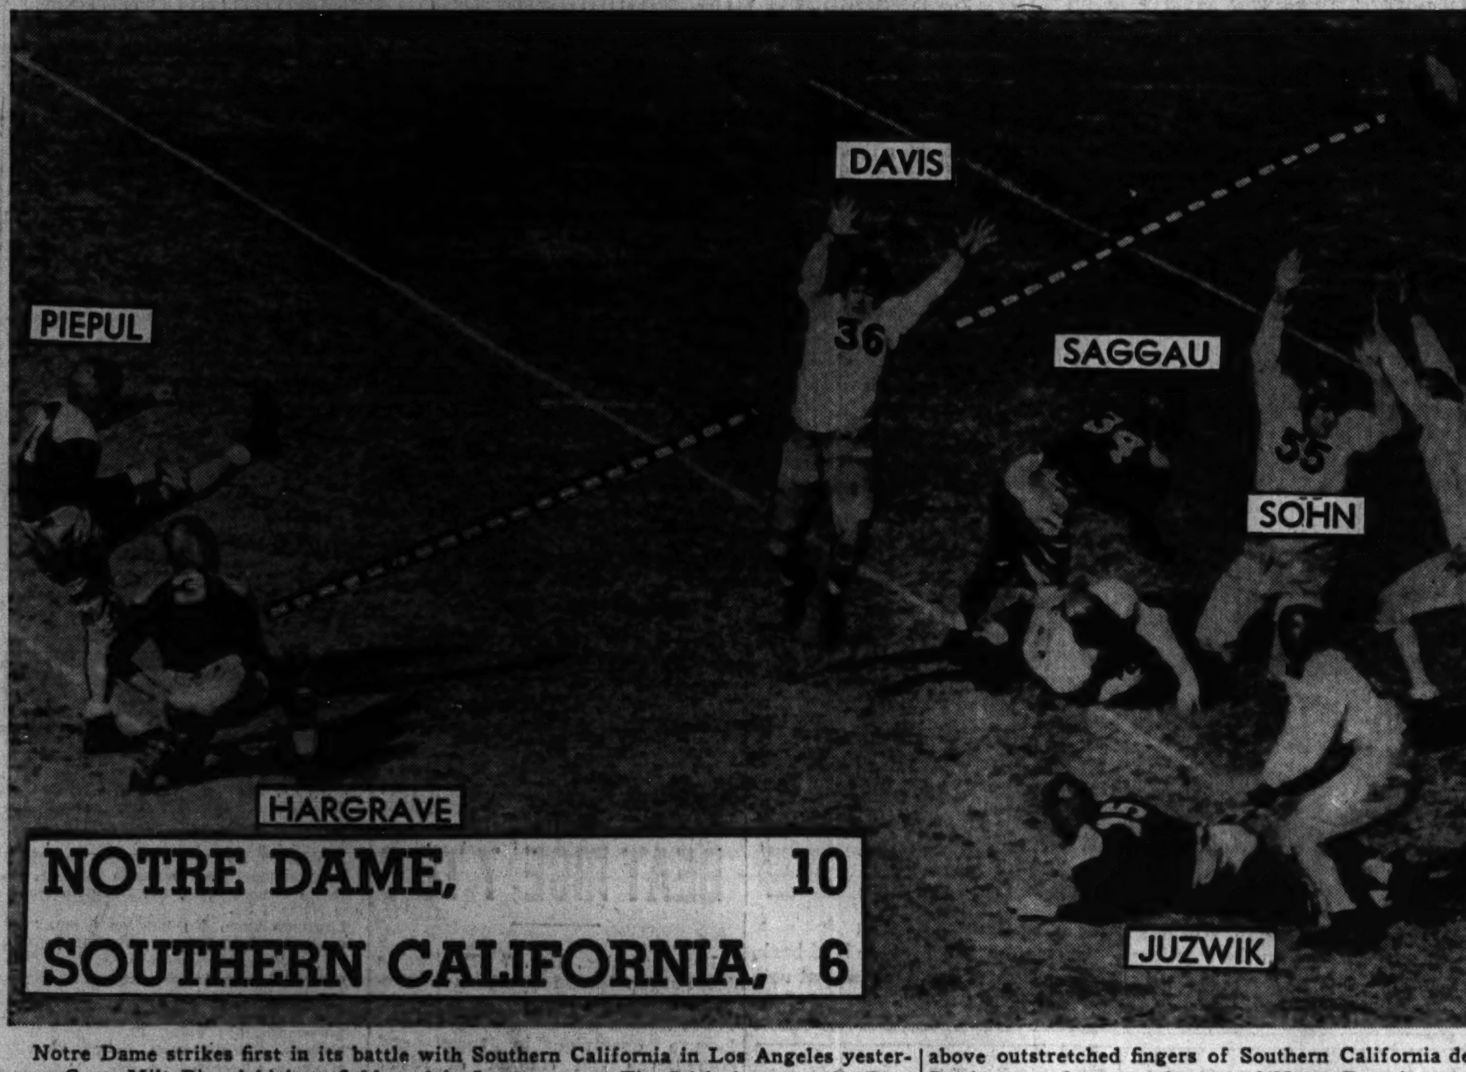
IRISH STRIKE FIRST, BUT TROJANS ARE QUICK, TOO!



Notre Dame strikes first in its battle with Southern California in Los Angeles yesterday as Capt. Milt Piepul kicks a field goal in first quarter. The Irish drove to the Trojans' 17 yard line, and with Bob Hargrave holding on the 25, Piepul kicked it safely above outstretched fingers of Southern California defenders. It was a big day for Piepul. In the second quarter he scored Notre Dame's touchdown on a plunge thru center from the 3 yard line, and then added the extra point.

BIG TEN VOTES TO RETAIN BAN ON BOWL GAMES

It's Texas A. & M.

WACO, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP).—Texas A. & M. was designated tonight as the Southwest conference host team to oppose Fordham in the post-season Cotton Bowl game to be played in Dallas, Tex., on New Year's day.

Dr. Henry Trantham of Baylor university, president of the Southwest conference, said that A. & M. had accepted the invitation extended by the conference.

Southern Methodist university won a share of the conference title today by defeating Rice Institute, 7 to 6, but had informed Dr. Trantham before the game that in the event it defeated Rice it would waive its claim on the Cotton bowl in favor of the Aggies. The Aggies defeated S. M. U., 19 to 7, five weeks ago.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Rose bowl question which has bobbed up periodically in Western conference council rooms was slapped down again yesterday when the faculty committee, without a dissenting vote, retained its ban on participation in the Rose bowl, or any other post-season football game.

The decision not to relax its stand against extra contests was a costly one to those who are boxoffice minded. The visiting team's share of the Pasadena game receipts is roughly $100,000.

The decision also was a blow to the Pacific Coast conference, which had invited the Western conference to send its champion into the arena annually against its own winner.

The Secretary Explains.

Announcement of the decision was made by Prof. Frank E. Richert of Illinois, new secretary of the faculty committee.

"The Western conference faculty representatives, without a dissenting vote, decided to retain its present rule against postseason football. This pertains not only to the Rose bowl game, but also to any charity football games that may be proposed," said Prof. Richert.

The last time the faculty committee took a vote on the Rose bowl was in 1938, when it took the stand which was maintained yesterday.

Tho there was no doubt but that the professors' group would continue the postseason ban the Rose bowl question was regarded as the most important one to be considered during the three day December meetings of the conference.

It's a Quiet Affair.

Richert said there was little discussion on the proposal at the meeting and that it was one of the most peaceful sessions in years. Those schools in favor of the Rose bowl tieup, he said, realized they didn't have a majority to put it over, so made the negative vote unanimous.

Three football players and a swimmer were given an additional year of eligibility in another ruling by the Fired by Notre Dame's quick field goal, Southern California roars back in the opening period as Full Back Bob Peoples (No. 21) breaks away from Quarter Back Hargrave (No. 3) and another Notre Dame tackler. Peoples ran forty-six yards from this point for the Trojans' touchdown.

NAME RAY BLADES NEW '41 MANAGER OF NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 7 (AP).—Charles Hurth, business manager of the New Orleans Pelicans, announced today that Ray Blades, former St. Louis Cardinals' manager, would pilot the Pelicans next season.

Blades started his baseball career with Memphis in the Southern in 1920. He joined the Cards in 1922 and, except for 1929 which he spent with the Houston Texas league club, and Rochester of the International, was in their lineup until 1933 when he went to Columbus as manager.

He piloted Columbus to its first American association pennant in 26 years and two successive little world series championships, then became manager at Rochester in 1936.

In 1939 he took charge of the Cardinals and brought the team in second. Last season the club got away to a poor start, and Blades was relieved by Billy Southworth.

MENTION THREE FOR OHIO JOB AS RUMORS SPREAD

The rumor that Francis Schmidt is thru as Ohio State's football coach developed yesterday to the point where guesses were being made as to his successor.

Names prominently mentioned were Dr. George Hauser, Minnesota line coach; Red Blaik, Dartmouth, and Buck Shaw, Santa Clara. It was pointed out, tho, that there is little likelihood any of the three would leave the comparative safety of their present posts and step into the troubled situation at Ohio State.

MICHIGAN SWIM TEAM TOO GOOD; RIVALS KNOW IT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 7 (AP).—Matt Mann, University of Michigan swimming coach, returned today from the Western Conference meetings in Chicago with only two Big 10 meets on the schedule of his championship team.

"Chicago is out of Big 10 football because it was no good," said Mann grimly. "Michigan is out of Big 10 swimming because it is too good."

Mann said he had scheduled Purdue at home and Iowa on the road but that other schools declined to meet the Wolverines.

DIAMOND HARUMS INVADE CHICAGO SEEKING BARGAIN

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The baseball fellows who didn't make much headway with their haggling over ivory last week at the Atlanta, Ga., market will start to flock into Chicago today prepared to continue their schemes to get something worthwhile for something not so good.

The occasion for the influx of big leaguers is the annual business meetings of the American and National club owners but while the latter are engaged in their legislative efforts, the managers will be pursuing one another thru the lobby and hallways of the Palmer House, each hoping to catch up with a sucker and thus consummate a player deal.

That there really will be some swapping is indicated in two ways. One is that just about all of the majors want to trade and the other is that most of them accomplished nothing in Atlanta, altho they talked plenty.

It's a Long List.

Here are just a few of the thoughts that'll be flitting thru the heads of some of the managers for the next few days:

1. The Cleveland Indians want an experienced outfielder who can hit.
2. Brooklyn's Dodgers, already loaded up by free use of money, crave a worthwhile outfielder.
3. The St. Louis Browns are short of catchers.
4. The White Sox are thinking of two infielders and an extra fly-chaser.
5. The Cubs might fall easily, as usual, if anybody offers a pitcher.
6. Boston's Bees won't exactly shy away if cash is mentioned. Neither will the St. Louis Cardinals.
7. Frankie Frisch would be very happy if a pitcher could be added to his Pirate staff.

Tigers Are Handicapped.

8. Detroit's Tigers are wide open to suggestions but can't act unless the American league's ban on trading with the champions is rescinded.
9. Bill Terry will be on the hunt for an infielder to bolster the Giants' defense.
10. Boston's Red Sox have vacancies for a catcher and some pitchers.
11. The Cincinnati Reds are well satisfied since putting over the deal by which they acquired Jim Gleeson and two others from the Cubs, but will continue to snap up bargains.
12. The New York Yankees will be looking around to see what can be done about acquiring pitching help.

Quick Action Planned.

The business sessions of the two leagues are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday with Commissioner K. M. Landis' annual joint meeting on Thursday but the whole thing may be finished in two days. Presidents William Harridge of the American and Ford Frick of the National have decided they can complete their affairs by giving a few extra hours to the Tuesday session. In that event Landis will call his joint gathering for Wednesday.

The joint session is devoted exclusively to proposals previously submitted to the commissioner, who votes

PIEPUL, EVANS LEAD VICTORY MARCH OF IRISH

Peoples Runs 44 Yds. for Trojan Score.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7.—This was a great day for the Piepuls and Peoples. They did all the scoring as Notre Dame defeated Southern California, 10 to 6, in the 15th game of a series marked by spectacular individual achievements, bitter rivalry, and constant friendship.

Notre Dame's Piepul kicked a field goal, scored a touchdown and a point after touchdown to account for his team's total. Southern California's Peoples turned in the most spectacular play of the game when he spun thru the middle of the Irish line, eluded two defenders, ran thru Bob Saggau's outstretched arms and raced forty-four yards for a touchdown.

Notre Dame's victory, scored before a crowd of 83,000 in a temperature of 82 degrees, enabled the middle westerners to retain their lead in the series, which now stands at eight victories for the Irish and six for the Trojans. The teams played a 13 to 13 tie in 1936. The Notre Dame-Southern California competition is the oldest intersectional rivalry involving a team from the Pacific coast.

Irish Finally Look Good.

Notre Dame today looked like the team that whipped College of the Pacific, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, and Illinois in impressive fashion. The Irish were off the mark more quickly, blocked more sharply and tackled more effectively and in general played a harder, more explosive brand of football than they have shown in their last four games.

This was the season's finale for both teams. Notre Dame wound up its schedule with a record of seven victories and two defeats. Southern California won three, lost four and played two tie games.

There were heroes galore in this furiously waged contest, but the star studded battle produced no more glittering performer than Notre Dame's sophomore half back, Owen [Dippy] Evans, who sparked his team to the touchdown that clinched victory.

Evans Leads Parade.

Southern California was leading, 6 to 3, when Evans entered the fray at the start of the second quarter. In 11 plays the Irish marched eighty-five yards to the goal. As soon as Evans got into action everything seemed to work. Passes clicked for neat gains. Runners broke thru and got away for substantial gains. First downs were linked together in devastating fashion. Always it was Evans who was leading the parade.

Let's take a look at the detail of that great Notre Dame drive, because it was the decisive point of the game. Notre Dame got the ball on its 15 yard line at the start of the second period when Robert De Lauer, attempting a field goal, was engulfed by a wave of green shirts who broke thru the big Trojan line.

Steve Juzwik, who played 58½ minutes in midsummer heat, picked up three yards. Evans dodged his way thru the right side of the U. S. C. line for ten and a first down on his 28. Evans whipped a pass to Ray Ebli, left end, who caught the ball on the Trojans' 45 and ran to the 37 before he was grounded.

Evans Speeded Up.

After Piepul made a yard and Evans lost two, Juzwik threw a delayed pass to Bob Hargrave for thirteen yards and a first down on Southern California's 25. Evans, who almost ran over his interference, gained nine yards in two trips and Juzwik sped around the Trojans' right end for a first down on the 11.

Evans hit thru his right guard, ran into a nest of tacklers and apparently was trapped for a loss, but plowed his way to the 3 yard line.

REDSKINS' OWNER EAGER TO MEET ALL-STARS AGAIN

And Bears, Too, Hope for Another Chance.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—George Preston Marshall, heap big chief of the Washington Redskins, thinks he has a date in Chicago next August. Listen to big chief's pow-wow.

"Ever since 1938 when the College All-Stars whipped my Indians," Owner Marshall said this afternoon as he lapsed naturally into the lingo of a heap big business man, "I have yearned to get back into this great rivalry. Washington has taken a lot of verbal punishment for the licking we received from the college boys coached by Bo McMillin. Green Bay was whipped the year before we got the walloping of all time. Green Bay had its revenge last summer.

"If you want to write any item concerning the 1941 All-Star game just put capitals on the sentence, 'Washington Will Win.' I am very tired of having the Giants, the Bears, and the Packers tell how they whipped the All-Stars. Certainly we want to beat the Bears, but we already have beaten the Bears this year. We now must do it again in order to get at the All-Stars. That is our incentive."

Baugh Seconds the Motion.

Marshall's enthusiasm is seconded by Sammy Baugh, who led the All-Stars of 1937 to victory over Green Bay, and who was held impotent in the 1938 game when he played for the professionals. Sammy never has tried to explain his failure in the All-Star contest against the 1938 college boys. Marshall has that answer.

"We had a mighty fine first team in the pro season of 1937," Marshall says, "but when we brought the boys to Chicago we had two strikes on us. In the first place we had trained here in Washington in the heat and the squad was far from condition. Then we lost Cliff Battles, whose running complemented Baugh's passing. Battles had signed as back field coach at Columbia. That night in Soldier's field, after Sammy left the game, our passing was the best attack the All-Stars had."

This alibi also might have included reference to blocked kicks as well as intercepted passes.

Halas' Desire Keen, Too.

Marshall's desire to be represented in the 1941 All-Star game is no keener than that of George Halas, coach of the Bears, who oppose the Redskins for the pro title tomorrow. The All-Star game originiated with the Bears representing the professionals. When the pros finally came to the showdown they settled for a scoreless tie in 1934 instead of a five touchdown victory. The Bears had a second chance but they managed only a 5 to 0 victory in 1935.

Halas didn't wish to talk today about the All-Star game, and this is readily understood, since his players still have the recent 7 to 3 defeat by Washington to consider. But if the Bears come thru tomorrow afternoon you may be able to hear in Chicago the Halas shout, "Bring on the All-Stars." After all, the Bears never have scored a touchdown in this All-Star rivalry.

While George Marshall is bragging of the complete sell-out for tomorrow's game, and while he is telling visiting newspaper men that the eastern half of the National league now has taken the play away from the west, he has reserved his loudest praise for his band of 105 musicians.

A $10,000 "Amateur" Band.

"The Redskinn band cost us $10,000 this year," Marshall admitted, "but our team received three times that amount in publicity."

No other single factor in the success story of the Washington team, which left Boston after the 1936 season and migrated to the capital, matches the Redskin band. Indeed, the name of Redskins comes from adaptation of Boston's one time baseball Braves [now the Bees] and should be a constant reminder of the pioneer days of professional football. This huge band plays without pay and it has a waiting list of more than 30 [who also receive tickets to home games] and eagerly anticipates the four out of town trips owner Marshall guarantees.

On these trips a special train is assigned to the band. This train carries two diners and a baggage car in which the bandsmen change uniforms. And all bills are sent to Marshall. Each musician furnishes his own instrument except for the men who work on the bass horns and the drummers. The band leader, his assistant, and the librarian are paid. The others toot for the pleasure of being a part of the parade.

Eastern Teams Show Profit.

Marshall also insisted today that the eastern half of the league finally has taken the lead away from the west where the Bears and Packers furnished the nucleus for the present organization.

"All five teams in the east made money this year," Marshall insisted. "Cleveland, the Chicago Cardinals, and Detroit, show a deficit." Marshall admitted, however, that Pittsburgh just has joined the black ink group but Philadelphia, so he asserted, has been a member of this financially successful list for three seasons.

There is no doubt, of course, that tomorrow's playoff is another triumph for the professional league and, in particular, for George Preston Marshall. All tickets [36,033] have been reserved and sold. Marshall is unalterably opposed to any general admission tickets.

Coaches from all over the United States will attend. Some are looking for any ideas. Many, including Maj. Biff Jones, Nebraska coach, and his assistant, Glenn Presnell, want information on the T formation. Nebraska will meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1, and Clark Shaughnessy, Stanford coach, knows the T formation as well as George Halas. Shaughnessy also will be on hand. He arrived today after stopping in Chicago earlier in the week.

FOOTBALL'S BIGGEST PRIZE IS AT STAKE

Half Back Andy Farkas, who suffered a knee injury in setting a 1939 season's scoring record, has played only a short time for the Redskins this season, but hopes to be in readiness for today's playoff game.

Joe Stydahar, veteran Chicago tackle, is rarin' to go in Washington today. He was on the sidelines in the Bears' final game of the regular schedule and is well rested.

Bears Battle Redskins for Title Today

it promises to be one of the bitterest championship games since the playoff was instituted in 1933, when the Bears last held the world's championship.

Famous coaches, government officials, and stage celebrities gathered in the hotel lobbies today as the advance guard of visitors mingled with Washington rooters, the most rabid in the league. Everywhere the opinions agreed that it would be a wide open game, with Washington having the edge if the score is close.

The Bears, it is argued, and not without reason, have been the least impressive in close games and won only two, against Detroit, 7 to 0, and Green Bay, 14 to 7. In both cases, Washington's chief hope lies in the passing of Sammy Baugh and Frank Filchock. Baugh is the more dangerous of the two, but it was Filchock who passed to Dick Todd for the touchdown that won the Nov. 7 contest.

CISCO ATTEMPTS TO HALT STREAK OF NATE BOLDEN

Tony Cisco.

Nate Bolden, 1937 intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, who gained national recognition by a recent knockout of Henry Chmielewski, will attempt to add the rugged Tony Cisco to his victory string in a 10 round bout tomorrow in Marigold Gardens. Altho Bolden may be more skillful, his opponent from Norristown, Pa., is no soft touch. Tony utilizes a bobbing maneuver to get into close quarters. Once there, he unleashes lefts and rights to the body until his foe falls or holds on.

In addition to this asset, Cisco will have an eight and one-half pound weight advantage. Tony carried 164½ pounds when he held Lloyd Marshall to a draw decision in 10 rounds in Pittsburgh on May 21. In his triumph over Chmielewski, Nate scaled only 156. Prior to this notable achievement, Bolden lost a disputed verdict to George Burnette in Detroit Nov. 1, a setback which came as a surprise in view of the fact that the Chicagoan handed Burnette a lesson in a previous meeting in White City.

Supporting matches will bring together Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight, and Art Ehrlich of Peoria; Cyclone Williams, heavyweight, who calls St. Louis his home, and Mickey Hayes, Milwaukee; Ralph Balcolm, Muskegon, Mich., bantamweight, and William Hawkins; Matt Milovitch, Milwaukee, 133 pounder, and Bobby Ryan.

Willie Joyce, Gary lightweight, who holds two decisions over Lew Jenkins, New York 135 pound standard bearer, and Joe Ghnouly of St. Louis are principals in a 10 round headliner in Hammond Civic center tomorrow. The card, offered under the auspices of Hammond Post, No. 16, American Legion, will include five other contests. These matches follow:

Young George Dixon, Chicago, vs. Indian Jimmy Maddox, Terre Haute, Ind., 135 [4].

Stanley Murczek, Chicago, vs. Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor, 155 [4].

Joe Dupont, South Chicago, vs. Johnny Norton, Indiana Harbor, 132 [4].

The 30th ward club will sponsor its 16th annual Christmas cheer amateur fight show in the 132d Infantry armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, Wednesday. Assessor John S. Clark and Committeeman Edward F. Upton head the committee in charge of the event, which promises to be one of the most attractive ever held on the west side. . . . John Egan has been reëlected as president of the Veteran Boxers' association of Illinois.

Rufus Jones and Dale Haddock have been added to a wrestling program in White City tomorrow. The show is featured by matches between the Irish Angel and Oki Shikina, and Al Williams and John Swenski. Rudy Kay is paired with Jack Moore, and Bill Canny with Benny Cohn.

Duck Hunting Season to End Next Saturday

BY BOB BECKER.

Thousands of hunters in the central zone of states have only a few more days in which to use their waterfowl guns and then the 1940 season is over. The regulations specify that next Saturday at 4 p. m. the duck and goose hunters must cease firing. That will be the end of the 60 day open season.

After Dec. 14, shooters will have to get below the "Mason-Dixon waterfowl" line to continue their fun with the mallards and the honkers. The season in the southern zone will not end until Dec. 31.

As the season draws to a close, reports indicate that duck and goose hunting was excellent in some sections and pretty thin in other areas. Northern shooters are complaining that they didn't get the ducks they should have bagged this fall, considering the big flight of birds southward.

Fast Migration; Poor Shooting.

But there isn't much doubt that the mild early fall, the severe cold wave early in November, and the change in the migration route of millions of birds, may be held responsible for much of the poor shooting in some of the states. We had reports from Canada which told of tremendous numbers of birds staying in the far north until much later than usual and then rushing southward in a hurry. A flight like that doesn't give hunters in some sections much shooting.

Lyman Howe, editor of the Prairie du Chien Courier, a veteran duck hunter, reports that only about one-fifth of the number of ducks that fell to hunters' guns last fall were shot this year in that area.

In southern Illinois, the goose hunting started late due to the mild weather, thus reducing the kill. However, after the unprecedented take of birds around Horseshoe lake last fall, hunters should have expected some reduction in the number of honkers that would drop to their 12 gauge guns.

Luck in Illinois Varies.

Along the Illinois river the hunters' luck varied. Some of the properties had superb shooting until the big freezeup. On our trips down the river we never saw more birds in certain marshes than we watched from our blinds. On each hunt we were lucky in getting fast mallard, pintail, and teal shooting.

One of the big surprises on a trip that we made to Clear lake was the extraordinary jacksnipe hunting that we found when the temperature was 12 above zero. Altho we had a lot of fun with the jacks in Wisconsin this fall, we saw no snipe shooting comparable to that at Clear lake when we joined H. C. Sherman of Chicago and John Darling of Topeka for a combined offensive against the fast flying jacks.

In one hour and five minutes we had our three limits. It was the first time in all our years of hunting that we ever had seen so many jacksnipe in a marsh when the temperature was considerably below the freezing point.

With the waterfowl season coming to a close, hunters will find the wild goose flocks in southern Illinois at their highest for these last days of the open hunting season.

S. [illegible] U. LOOSES ONE BIG DRIVE TO BEAT RICE, 7 TO 6

Houston, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP).—Tackle Joe Pasqua kicked Southern Methodist university into a tie with the Texas Aggies for the Southwest conference championship today and ruined the last chapter of Rice's football season.

Rice was leading 6 to 0 in the fourth period when the Methodists scored. Then Pasqua came into the game and sailed the ball above the crossbars to give S. M. U. a 7 to 6 victory.

Southern Methodist, however, relinquished all claims to consideration as a candidate to represent the conference in the Cotton bowl, Rice wound up in a deadlock with Texas for third place.

Rice Rolls Up 190 Yards.

Except for the one offensive burst by S. M. U., Rice was far the better team, rolling up 190 yards on the ground as it drove goalward five times. The Mustangs' net running yardage was 27 yards.

Southern Methodist's winning touchdown came on a great passing exhibition which began on its own 15. Ray Mallouf, quarter back, pitched five passes to carry the Methodists practically the entire eighty-five yards to the Rice goal line.

The first three, one to Red McClain and two to Bill Mullenweg, backs, gained fifty-five yards to the Rice thirty. Then Mallouf found Mullenweg with another heave on the 9. McClain gained four yards on a reverse and Mallouf shot the touchdown pass to E. L. Keeton, end.

Score on Theft and Passes.

Rice scored in the second, Half Back Dick Dwelle intercepted a pass on his 5 and raced to the Owl 26. Then he sailed a shaft to Bob Brumley, Rice's power house full back, on the 44.

On the next play, Dwelle tossed a long pass to Little Barron Ellis, half back, who raced across standing up. Brumley had no chance to attempt the extra point because of a poor pass from center. Lineups:

DE PAUL WINNER OVERKALAMAZOO QUINTET, 48 TO 18

De Paul university's basketball team last night routed Kalamazoo college, 48 to 18, before an overflow homecoming crowd of 1,500 in De Paul's gymnasium. Kalamazoo was defeated by Loyola Friday evening, 46 to 39.

Homecoming De Paul stars of the past, including Willie Phillips, Roy Adams, Nick Yost, Bob Near, and Stan Szukala, saw Coach Bill Wendt use three full teams in the game, which was high lighted by the floor work of two sophomores, Carter O'Rourke and Ed Bogdanski. The scoring attack was paced by Co-Captain Eddie Gainer, 6 foot 1 inch center, who made five field goals and two free throws. De Paul led at the half, 24 to 10. Lineup:

Badgers Whip Marquette in Opener, 38-32

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7 [Special].—Wisconsin opened its home basketball season with a 38 to 32 victory over Marquette before 9,000 tonight.

Marquette tied the score three times but never was able to forge ahead during the second period, at the outset of which the Badgers held a 13 to 12 margin. Four players were removed on personal fouls during the last 15 minutes of the game. With the score tied at 23-all, Wisconsin gradually began to pull away, its margin once stretching to 9 points.

Bill Komenich was the big gun in the Marquette attack, with 14 points. Johnny Kotz, a sophomore, led Wisconsin, with 8 points. Lineups:

W-G-N, MUTUAL TO BROADCAST PRO GAME TODAY

Station W-G-N and 120 other stations of the Mutual network will be on the air today with a play by play broadcast of the national professional football championship battle in Washington, D. C., between the Chicago Bears and Washington Redskins.

The broadcast will begin at 12:30 p. m., C. S. T. The coast to coast hookup is sponsored by the Gillette Safety Razor company, the same concern which brought the nation's listeners the exclusive account of the world's series last fall.

Red Barber of WOR, New York, who did the world's series broadcasting with Bob Elson of W-G-N, will be at the microphone for today's battle.

Notre Dame's Five Trounces Ill. Wesleyan

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 7 [Special].—Notre Dame won its third consecutive game tonight, defeating Illinois Wesleyan, 34 to 28. Bob Smith, senior guard from Joliet, Ill., set the pace for the Irish with eight points, but Bob Crabtree, Wesleyan sophomore from Danville, Ill., led the scoring with 10. Notre Dame led at the half, 18 to 13. The Irish failed to score from the free throw line, missing all four of their chances. Lineups:

PURDUE WINS, 65-41

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 7.—Purdue's defending Big Ten champions won an easy 65 to 41 victory over Macomb Teachers tonight to give the Boilermakers their second victory in as many nights.

Macomb, due largely to the sharpshooting of Ed Willard, was able to play on fairly even terms with the Boilermakers during the first period and trailed only 29 to 24.

Purdue's regulars entered the game at the start of the second half, however, and before Macomb could get its bearings had run the lead to 40 to 24.

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 7 [Special].—Indiana's basketball team opened its schedule here tonight by defeating Georgia, 44 to 31, before 4,100. The Hoosiers, defending National collegiate C. A. A. champions, jumped into a 17 to 4 lead before the invaders scored their first field goal after the game was 15 minutes old, and were ahead at the half, 23 to 9.

Coach Branch McCracken, testing some new Indiana sophomore material, used 15 men in various combinations. Coach Elmer Lampe of Georgia sent in only two substitutes for the weary southerners who defeated Chicago and lost to Illinois in the last two nights.

Spartans Lead Early, 3-0; Then Attack Fades.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 7 [Special].—Michigan's basketball squad overwhelmed Michigan State tonight, 42 to 14, before an opening night crowd of 4,000 in Yost fieldhouse.

The Wolverines dominated thruout after overcoming a brief Spartan three point lead at the start. George Ruehle, Mike Sofiak, and Herb Brogan paced the attack. Sofiak led the scorers with four baskets and a free throw for nine points. Ruehle and Brogan followed with eight points each, and Fitzgerald with six.

Lead 24 to 9 at Half.

Playing without Guard Chet Aubuchon, Michigan State showed poor team play and failed to gain control of the backboards as Jim Mandler of Chicago, sophomore center, teamed with tall Bob Fitzgerald to handle that job for Michigan.

The Wolverines were definitely on their game. They connected with the basket from all angles and ran up a 24 to 9 lead at half time. On the defense they showed unexpected strength by breaking up the Spartan floor game, and holding the foe to five points thruout the second half.

In their "all out" play, the Wolverines were guilty of 15 personal fouls. Guard George Ruehle was banished with four personals after 12 minutes of the second half.

Wolverines' 6th in Row.

The victory was Michigan's sixth in a row over State and the 11th out of the last 13 meetings. Lineups:

Trade Minded Big Leaguers Invade Chicago

if the two leagues are at odds. Eleven items, many of them covering features of no interest to the fans, are on this year's program. One of general interest involves night ball. Another involves Landis, whose third seven year term expires in 1942.

The American league has proposed that the commissioner's term be extended to Jan. 12, 1946, the day the present 25 year major league agreement expires.

Would Limit Night Games.

Last year the American league granted the St. Louis Browns the right to play 14 night games instead of the legal seven. The National league didn't extend the same privilege to the St. Louis Cardinals, who play in the same park. So the National has submitted a proposal to make the seven game limit an intermajor league restriction.

The two leagues also will vote on a proposal which, if accepted, would establish a "disability list," not to exceed two players who, once on the list, because of injury, would not be eligible for 60 days. Under the present setup an injured player is supposed to be carried as a member of the active list, which is limited to 25 for most of the season.

Much time in the league meetings will be consumed by consideration of plans to handle the cases of purchased or drafted players who might be called into military service. Provision will be made to protect the interests of buyer and seller in such cases.

Contestants to Compete in Seven Classes.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

A new bowling competition in which bowlers will compete in classes, according to their averages, and determined solely on the basis of high scores rolled, will be introduced in Chicago next month. The contest will be operated by a group to be known as the League of Leagues and will be open only to bowlers competing in A. B. C. sanctioned leagues.

The League of Leagues, headed by Howard McKay and having its offices at 1609 Tribune Tower, will begin signing up leagues this week, and will start competition the week of Jan. 26. It will be open to women as well as men, the sole requirement of a league participating being an A. B. C. sanction. The only requirement for a bowler to win a weekly first prize is that, competing in his regular league, he bowl a higher score than any one else in his class in the contest.

The plan is simple. It provides that each bowler be placed in one of seven classes, his class to be determined by his average on Jan. 20 [he must have bowled three weeks or nine games to compile that average]. Classes start with averages of 190 or more, to be known as Class A, and extend thru Class G, which is for bowlers having 140 or less. The spread in each class is ten points and no bowler may drop more than one class below that in which he originally qualifies. Presumably the average will fluctuate from week to week with the addition of each week's scores.

The classes in which the bowlers will range are: Class A for averages of 190 or over; Class B, 180 to 190; Class C, 170 to 180; Class D, 160 to 170; Class E, 150 to 160; Class F, 140 to 150, and Class G, 140 and under.

League secretaries will turn over the score sheets of each week's bowling to the League of Leagues, and the man or woman having the highest three-game score in the entire competition for that week in each bracket will receive the top prize of 15 cash awards to be awarded in each bracket. Prizes will be the same in each bracket, meaning that the individual who bowls the highest score any given week in the 140 to 150 bracket will receive the same prize as is given to the top man in the bracket of 190 or over.

Grand Prizes Offered.

In addition to the weekly prizes, a grand prize will be paid to the individual in each bracket with the high score for the entire competition.

Attracting more than half of the sanctioned league bowlers, the competition is expected to pay $100 as a top weekly prize in each bracket and $2,000 as a final grand prize in each bracket. League secretaries will participate in the regular competition, also for special prizes to be paid on the same basis as the grand prize. A total of 105 prizes—15 in each bracket—will be paid weekly or 1,050 in all; plus the seven grand prizes and secretaries' prizes.

The competition, opening with the week starting Jan. 26, will continue for ten weeks. The cost of participation will be ten cents per night or $1.00 per bowler for the entire period.

Mail Checks Weekly.

The secretaries will be furnished score sheets by the League of Leagues to replace their present sheets and will post each week's score in a special column designated therefor, mailing the sheet to the League of Leagues for tabulation. Winners will be determined at the league offices and checks for the weekly prizes will be mailed by the treasurer. The treasurer is operating under a $30,000 bond.

Each week's list of prize winners will appear in THE TRIBUNE, publication to take place on the morning following the day on which checks are mailed.

Sparta, Slovak Soccer Teams Battle Today

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta Ogden Dairy, National soccer co-champion, will meet the Slovaks in a third round National challenge cup match today in Sparta Stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue. This game was postponed from last Sunday due to cold and snow.

The Spartans will be handicapped by the loss of Jimmy MacDermott, still under suspension.

The Slovaks, who won the International league's First Division championship last season, have proven their worth in the Major Division. Their best performance was to hold the champion Swedes to a 1 to 1 tie. Today's game will be a test of speed versus skill. Sparta, possessing the superior skill, will face a bunch of youngsters who will keep the veterans on the go for the full 90 minutes.

In a preliminary game at 12:30 o'clock, the University of Chicago team will oppose the Sparta Seconds. All other soccer games in Chicago, scheduled for today, have been postponed. Lineups:

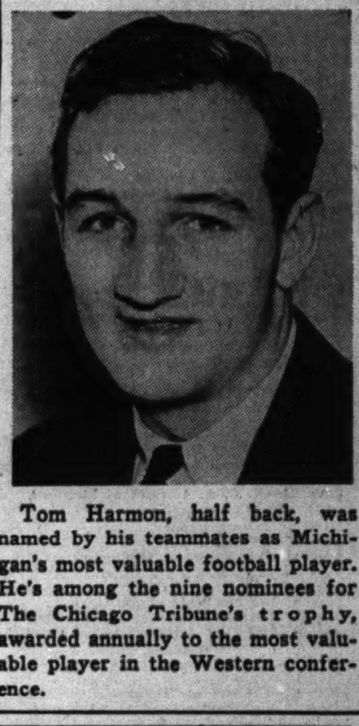
Remember Goose Goslin? He's Going to Be Married

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP).—Leon [Goose] Goslin, onetime slugging major league outfielder and for the last two years manager of the Trenton, N. J., club in the Interstate Baseball league, applied today for a license to wed Miss Marian Wallace, Philadelphia social worker.

THE BEST IN THE BIG NINE, CHOSEN BY THEIR TEAMMATES



Tom Harmon, half back, was named by his teammates as Michigan's most valuable football player. He's among the nine nominees for The Chicago Tribune's trophy, awarded annually to the most valuable player in the Western conference.

Claude White of Portsmouth, O., center, was voted most valuable at Ohio State. He played 391 of a possible 480 minutes for the Buckeyes.

Dwight Gahm of Louisville, Ky., an unsung hero, is Indiana university's nominee in the poll of a committee of 21 who will select the winner of The Tribune silver trophy. Gahm, center, was named the Hoosiers' most valuable player.

Iowa has nominated Mike Enich of Boone, Ia., "iron man" tackle, who played 397 out of 420 minutes in seven major games.

Last of the nine nominees selected is Paul Hiemenz, named most valuable last night at the Northwestern football banquet.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 7 (AP).—Big Hank Goldup slipped thru the Boston team in the last two minutes tonight for a score that gave Toronto a 3 to 2 victory and consolidated the Leafs' grip on the National Hockey league leadership.

The goal climaxed a third-period drive by the Leafs to overcome a deficit that followed a quick scoring act by Boston in the second. Gordie Drillon tipped home Bingo Kampman's shot for the other Leaf goal in the third to tie the score and set the stage for Goldup's dazzling dash.

Bobby Bauer and Jack Shewchuk counted for the Bruins' four minutes apart midway thru the second period to wipe out the margin set up by the Leafs when Sweeney Schriner scored early in the game. The lineup:

JOHNNY BASSLER SIGNS AS COACH FOR THE BROWNS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 7 (AP).—Johnny Bassler, former American league catcher, was signed today as a coach by the St. Louis Browns. Bassler, for three years coach with the Cleveland Indians, succeeds Walter Holke as Brown coach, but Holke will remain in the St. Louis organization. Bassler, 45 years old, starred with the Detroit Tigers. He now lives in Los Angeles, Cal.

The Browns also announced the resigning of Marty McManus as manager of their San Antonio, Tex., league farm and of Arthur Scharein as pilot of their Three-Eye league team, Springfield, Ill.

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP).—Wilberforce university of Xenia, O., and Florida Agricultural and Mechanical college of Tallahassee, Fla., played a scoreless tie in the eighth annual Orange Blossom Negro football game here today.

A.A.U. Acts on Pan-American Games Plans

Denver, Colo., Dec. 7 (AP).—National A. A. U. governors voted today to recommend that the present American Olympic association be supplanted by a United States Amateur Sports confederation to govern this country's participation in any international athletics.

Earlier the executive committee urged that no permits be issued to amateur athletes for competition in Germany. No time limit was set. The board of governors probably will rule on this tomorrow.

President Laurence di Benedetto appointed a nine-man committee headed by Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, former A. A. U. president, to confer with other sports groups in the Olympic association in setting up the machinery of the proposed sports confederation.

Pan-American Games Planned.

Mahoney directed an A. A. U. committee which studied proposals for Pan-American games patterned after the Olympics. The first running of these' will be in Buenos Aires in November, 1942.

Mahoney termed the plan one of "far reaching importance" and spoke of "the efforts of Nazi and other totalitarian governments to lead South American countries away from a sympathetic attitude toward the United States."

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympics committee, worked with Mahoney on the Pan-American games proposal. The two men headed opposing factions in the A. A. U. prior to the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin, Brundage for participation by the United States, Mahoney against it.

May Not Be Easy.

Brundage told the convention that the 1942 games in Argentina would be out of season for track athletes in this country and would be no runaway for the United States.

The proposed confederation would have the authority, if it is approved by other organizations in the present Olympic association, of setting up an Olympic committee in the future.

Committee members with Mahoney include Judge Murray Hulburt, Fred Rubien, and Charles L. Ornstein, all of New York; A. C. Gilbert, New Haven, Conn.; Aaron M. Frank, Portland, Ore.; Fred L. Steers, Chicago; A. A. U. Secretary Daniel J. Ferris, and the A. A. U. president.

Honor Five Athletes.

The governors today ratified five candidates for the James E. Sullivan memorial award, presented by Brundage, and also approved a revised plan of selecting aspirants in the future. Hereafter each of the 41 A. A. U. district associations will select one candidate and a national committee will choose the winner from this field, in turn submitting its choice at the national convention.

SPOTTING THE PINS

The setup of teams and individuals participating in major bowling events in Chicago during the next few weeks is nearly complete, and entries in two of them, the men's and women's city tournaments promise to set records. The third is Schalk's fifth annual five-man sweepstakes, scheduled for Jan. 4 and 5, with 80 teams competing for $4,000 in prizes, including a $1,000 top.

Secretary Al Sindelar has received entries from 1,481 five-man teams, 1,750 doubles teams, and 3,362 individuals in the men's city tournament. These totals compare with last year's record entries of 1,248 teams, 1,268 doubles, and 2,612 singles. The tournament will be held in the Gold Coast recreation, starting Dec. 26. Five man events will run 16 consecutive nights, not including New Year's eve and New Year's day, and will be followed until Feb. 22 by doubles and singles on week-ends.

Expect 500 Women's Teams.

The women's tournament, opening the Jan. 4-5 week-end at Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, will run three week-ends on 40 alleys, and is likely to attract more than 500 teams, according to Secretary Betty Ramsey. This total includes a new junior division for 130 average bowlers and under. Entries close Dec. 14. The secretary's address is 1042 Waveland avenue.

Schalk's sweeper, the nation's standard in this type of competition—four games across eight alleys—calls for 20-team squads on Saturday, Jan. 4 at 8 and 11 p. m., and Sunday at 2 and 5 p. m. The first squad Saturday will include teams from Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, St. Louis, including the two time winner and defending champion Bowes Sealfasts. Buffalo, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Peoria, and Detroit teams will roll on the second squad. Sunday's first squad includes most Chicago and suburban teams and the second squad Chicago Classic, Milwaukee, and Kansas City teams.

Classic league teams are bowling at the Midwest tournament in Kansas City this week-end, hence no Classic league schedule tonight. . . . Today's primary bowling event in Chicago will be the 11th annual Quarter Century Bowlers association reunion at Gold Coast recreation. Men who have bowled for 25 or more years are invited. There'll be bowling, with prizes, and entertainment.

Rolls 182—in 3 Straight Games.

Happenings in Schalk's Mixed league: Earl Fox rolled three 182 games, getting a strike and spare in the 10th frames of the 2d and 3d games; George Cook, a 169 average bowler, marked up his second 668 series; Pepper Printing, an 815 average team, got 2,734 on games of 898-884-952. Marjory Farmer rolled the first 600 series, a 616 with a 237 game. . . . Merchandise National bank handed Merchandise Mart its first double defeat of the year in the Mart Major, the bankers rolling 2,823, or three pins less than the Mart. Arthur Royds hit 634, Ray Dickover, 620. . . . And in the City and County Employés' league, Dickover got 657 as the Health Department rolled 2,926 in scoring a triple over Flynn's County Clerks. Gayton's City Engineers lost two while dropping 15 pins more than Horan's Bailiffs, and Weber's B. L. I. got a 2,709 to 2,702 series triumph in winning twice from Gill's court clerks. . . .

Hyde Park recreation is about to let contracts for the installation of 16 more alleys, doubling the size of its present layout at 5120-28 Lake Park avenue. A playroom for children, league clubroom, and ping pong and billiard tables will be included. Hyde Park announces its second annual $5 sweeper, to be held Jan. 4, 11, 18, and 25. Prize list: $1,000, with top of $200. Entries close Dec. 31. Call Hyde Park 7770. . . . Art Murphey's 190 average not only leads, but holds a five point margin over the runnerup among individuals in the Traffic Club of Chicago league. Firemen lead the league with 24-12, followed by the Engineers, 23-13. Four teams share a third place tie, three games back.

Two months ago 10 firemen from the 10th battalion strolled into the Lawrence bowl to try their skill. They liked it, and within two weeks enough more were lined up to permit organization of a six team league. Then the boys over in the 13th battalion heard of it. So, come tomorrow competition will begin in two more six-team circuits, made up of fireos from the 13th, 3d, and 27th battalions.

Scores of Women's Leagues.

The Insurance Women's club bowlers hit their best totals of the year at the Chicago Towers club last week. Gladys Faehse, New Century Casualty, bowled 587, including a 211 game, while Connie Colliton, Royal Indemnity, marked up 542 with a 230 game.

Women's scores:

CHELTENHAM—Petie Whitson, 207, 536.

Competition in the Riverview Monday league is close. Gopher Stamp & Die, with 20 won and 10 lost holds a two game margin over Haas Manufacturing, which in turn is three games ahead of Mickelson's. But the spread between Mickelson's and the three teams tied for last place in the eight team circuit is only two games.

Ronnie Long was the hot man of the South Shore Major as he anchored Victor Cartage to a triple over the Wakeford Hardwares with a 725 count. In his final game, good for 266, he hit for seven in a row, picked up a 4-7-9-10 rail for a spare in the ninth, then struck out. Tony Unhoch's 683 also helped the Victors pile up a 3,013 total.

A stubborn No. 6 pin on the big twelfth was all that stood between Henry Dinkelman and a perfect game, nevertheless Henry piled up 222, 233, 299 for 754 as his team, North Town Recreation, won two games from Monte Cristo on a 3,121 count in the North West Traveling league. Meanwhile North Center broke its tie for the lead with the Keeley Beers by turning back the Keeleys twice—despite Roy Kulow's 682 for the losers.

Husband of English Net Star Is Nazis' Prisoner

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP).—Peggy Scriven, Wightman cup tennis player who was married only nine days ago to Flight Lieut. F. H. Vivian, was notified today that he is a prisoner of war in Germany.

HAWKS TO MEET LEAGUE CHAMPS IN GAME TONIGHT

The Chicago Blackhawks, who defeated the New York Rangers, 4 to 1, last Sunday, and operated almost completely in reverse while losing to the Detroit Red Wings, 5 to 1, Thursday night, face a major test tonight when they meet the Boston Bruins, National Hockey league champions, in the Chicago Stadium.

The Bruins apparently have hit their stride of last season, having driven home 27 goals in the last seven games—starting with a 2 to 0 triumph over the Hawks on Nov. 21. Their opponents have been limited to 14 goals. Bill Cowley has been the No. 1 man in Boston's drive. Against the New York Americans last Sunday, Cowley made six points to tie the 11 year old mark of Pit Lepine. He is averaging one and one-half points per game.

Dumart Returns to Duty.

Also, the return of Porky Dumart—who has been out with an injury—has brought back the Bruins' famous "Sauerkraut" line of Bobby Bauer, Milt Schmidt, and Dumart, which finished last season as Nos. 1, 2, and 3 in individual scoring in the league.

The Hawks spent 90 minutes practicing Friday and repeated yesterday, placing emphasis on passing. It was a repetition of the practice that preceded the Wings' game. The Chicagoans' passing appeared to be well nigh perfect just before that battle, but failed dismally under the actual game test.

Gottselig Is Ready.

Manager Paul Thompson announced yesterday that Johnny Gottselig will be in the opening line-up against the Bruins. It will be Gottselig's first appearance of the season. The veteran left wing is the oldest player in point of service on the team and tonight marks the start of his 13th season as a big time player.

SITES SELECTED FOR 80 ILLINOIS PREP TOURNEYS

Quarter-Final Centers Named by Whitten.

Assignment of 80 tournaments for three of the four preliminary stages in the 1941 state prep basketball race was made yesterday by C. W. Whitten, executive secretary of the Illinois High School association, who tossed in a few surprises with the addition of a complicated time schedule.

The new quarter-final series of tournaments, to be used in Illinois for the first time in history, will start within 48 hours after the 16 sectional meets have been completed, and will end only three days before the opening of the combined semi-final and final tourney.

Winners of the 16 sectional meets, ending on Saturday night, March 15, will advance to quarter-final tournaments on Monday, March 17. Survivors of these competitions in Centralia, Elgin, Peoria and Springfield, ending Tuesday, March 18, then will move on to the abbreviated state meet in the University of Illinois gymnasium, in Champaign, on Friday and Saturday, March 21 and 22.

Old Plan Abandoned.

In recent years, 15 sectional tourney winners and the Chicago Public School league champion, qualified for the state meet, with four days of rest between the sectional finals and the start of the final tourney.

A field of approximately 900 teams is expected to enter the race, which will start with 60 district tournaments, Feb. 26 to March 1. The district centers will be chosen as soon as the schools can be grouped in regions. The eight schools of largest enrollment within each region automatically will qualify for 60 sectional meets, scheduled for March 5 to 8 inclusive. The small schools in each region will be forced to play in the district or subregional stage. The winners and runners-up in the districts will advance to regional play.

New Chicago Procedure.

For the first time since 1936, the Chicago league champion will not qualify automatically for the state meet. Tournament sites:

CHAMPIONS ARE NAMED AS HORSE SHOW CONCLUDES

Empress Delaine Wins $2,500 5 Gaited Stake.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The International horse show closed last night after a succession of glamorous performances in which champions were crowned in every class of competition from the doughty little harness ponies, thru the sleek trotters and the picturesque saddle horses to the magnificent hunters.

Empress Delaine, owned by Hubert S. Silberman, master of Delaine farm, near Morton Grove, took one of the show's most highly cherished titles when she scored in the $2,500 stake for five gaited horses.

Also Wins Mares' Title.

Earlier in the week she had taken the championship of the mares. Last night her strongest opposition came from Irving Florsheim's Hurricane, which had been crowned king of the geldings on Tuesday evening. This handsome stepper had to content himself with second prize last night while H. Leslie Atlass' High Tide was third.

Empress Delaine's triumph climaxed a brilliant series of performances in the last two seasons. She placed second to Midnight Star in the grand championship saddle horse event in the 1939 International show. This year she has been a consistent blue ribbon winner in a strenuous campaign.

Midshipman, a smooth moving, finely built chestnut gelding owned by George Sadlier of Indianapolis, came out on top in one of the most colorful events of the program, the $1,000 championship hunter stake.

With Max Bonham keeping a sure touch on the reins, Midshipman negotiated the eight jumps in masterful fashion. His manners and his conformation, which counted as well as his performance, also made a favorable impression on the judges and he was returned the winner over a large and formidable field.

Second place went to Miss Lucy Kaufman's Demopolis and third to Mrs. J. B. Stokely's Best Le Sou.

Lady Nina Triumphs.

The Peak stables, which have been exhibiting every season thruout the 40 year history of the show, won the $1,000 heavy harness championship stake. Lady Nina, admirably handled by Ralph Peak, took the blue ribbon, beating Nan-Su farm's Selection, Miss Judy King's Cyncoed Armada, and other good ones.

Irving Florsheim's Red Top farm representatives won the greatest number of first prizes in the course of the show, taking 12 blue ribbons and two seconds. A. C. Thompson's Happy Way farm showed consistent strength with 10 firsts, 8 seconds, and 8 thirds. Standing of the leaders:

Owner.	1st.	2d.	3d.
Happy Way	10	8	8
Heyl Pony farm	5	6	5
Nan-Su farm	5	4	3
B. C. Flanery	5	2	5

Evening.

SHETLAND PONY, Single in Harness—Won by Blue Heaven, owned by Happy Way farm, Oaklawn, Ill.; Locust Flame, owned by Happy Way farm, second; Ome, owned by Happy Way farm, third.

CULVER CADETS TRIUMPH, 32-27, OVER PREP FIVE

Culver, Ind., Dec. 7 [Special].—The Culver Military academy basketball team won its second start of the season today and stopped the Culver High school Indians' unbeaten string at seven straight, 32 to 27.

The Cincinnati Polo club defeated the Culver Military academy in an indoor game, 14 to 8 today.

Edwards Leads Scoring as Wheaton Beats Concordia

The Wheaton college quintet handed Concordia of River Forest its second straight defeat last night, 46 to 36, in River Forest. Led by Edwards, guard, the Crusaders dominated the first half, building up a lead of 27 to 14. Edwards, high point man of the contest, made all his 15 points in the first half.

faculty committee. They are John Petty, full back, and Pete Timperman, guard, both of Purdue; Helge Pukema, Minnesota guard, and James Welsh, Michigan swimmer. The football players appeared in only one game each in 1938 because of injuries or illness. Welsh, likewise, was out virtually an entire season because of illness.

Dr. Karl Leib of Iowa was elected chairman of the faculty committee, succeeding Prof. W. J. Moenkhaus of Indiana. Prof. Henry Rottschaefer of Minnesota was chosen as delegate to the National Collegiate Athletic association meeting in New York Dec. 30-31.

Fencers Go to Midway.

Out of a discussion among the athletic directors came a proposal that the four officials for conference football games be teamed thruout the season in the interests of increased efficiency. In Maj. John L. Griffith, conference commissioner, again was vested the authority of selection, assignment and control of the officials. It is considered possible the suggested teaming of officials will be tried.

Additional winter and spring sports schedules were drawn up. The fencing tournament was awarded to Chicago on March 15 and the Midway school also was selected for the tennis tournament on May 29-30-31. Ohio State will be host to the conference wrestlers on March 7 and 8, and the gymnastics meet will be held at Iowa on March 15.

Most of the delegates caught trains for home early yesterday afternoon, so the conference basketball coaches will have plenty of elbow room this morning when they convene for a meeting with officials in the Sherman hotel. They were unable to meet during the Friday or Saturday sessions because their teams were playing last night.

Illinois Conference Elects.

The Illinois College conference had a lively session yesterday in the same hotel. Bruce Lineburg of Lake Forest was elected president, J. J. Stratton of Illinois college, vice president, and C. L. Miller of Millikin, secretary.

An intricate chart which allots points in relation to the won and lost record of the conference teams in seven sports gave the composite athletic championship to Illinois Wesleyan. The Bloomington school was followed by Bradley, Illinois college, and Knox. Following are tournament dates awarded:

FIFTY CARS TO RACE TONIGHT ON MIDGET CARD

Fifty midget autos will race tonight in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue, with their drivers seeking the midwest indoor title. The first race will start at 8:30, after 90 minutes of time trials.

The championship race will be the Farewell to Arms handicap, a 100 lap grind, for which drivers will qualify in four elimination races. A purse of $1,000 will be the prize. Outstanding among the contenders will be Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis, four times national indoor champion and current defender; Wally Zale, Ted Duncan, and Ray Richards of Chicago, and Tony Wilman of Milwaukee.

Eight cars will start in each elimination race. Twelve drivers will qualify for the 100 lap race, with two alternates.

MAROONS' PREP BASKET TOURNEY TO OPEN DEC. 23

All 40 Chicago public high schools for the first time in the history of the event will compete this year in the University of Chicago's 23d annual high school basketball tournament which opens in the Midway fieldhouse on Dec. 23, Nelson H. Norgren, the Maroons' high basketball coach announced yesterday.

The tournament drew its participants from among the leading high schools of the nation until 1931 when it was restricted to the Chicago area.

The newcomers, in addition to the 32 entered in 1939, are Medill, Morgan Park, Rooosevelt, Lake View, Fenger, South Shore, Bowen, and Steinmetz.

Enlargement of the tournament will add one day to the playing schedule. First round games are set for Monday, Dec. 23, and in the afternoon on Tuesday, Dec. 24; second round games on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 26 and 27; quarter-finals Monday, Dec. 30; semi-finals New Year's eve, and the final at 4 p. m. New Year's day.

Irish Triumph Over Trojans Before 83,000

The center of the Notre Dame line cleared a path for Piepul and he crossed the goal standing up. His kick from placement was good and Notre Dame led, 10 to 6.

Notre Dame made its field goal four and a half minutes after the opening kick off. Billy Bundy, of the tennis Bundys, ran back Notre Dame's kickoff thirteen yards to his 27 and on the next play Bob Robertson, who played a grand all around game, quick kicked out of bounds on Southern California's 48.

Juzwik Gains 19 Yards.

Juzwick ran nineteen yards around the Trojans' right end the first time he got his hands on the ball. Piepul, Juzwik and Saggau collaborated in making a first down on U. S. C.'s 19. Notre Dame's offense bogged down and on fourth down Piepul, standing on his 25 yard line, with Hargrave holding the ball, booted the ball squarely between the uprights.

Southern California roared back from this early setback with terrific force and lightning rapidity. Piepul kicked off to Robertson, who returned thirty-three yards to his 43. Jack Banta on a reverse dashed around Notre Dame's right flank for eleven and a first down on the South Benders' 46. On the next play Pieples, with clever faking, spun thru the center of the Notre Dame line, sidestepped or bowled over four prospective tacklers, and legged it all the way to the goal for a touchdown.

Saggau had a chance to down Peoples, but his tackle was ineffective.

Southern California later in the first quarter had another good scoring opportunity, but Notre Dame put up a brilliant defensive stand that broke the hearts of thousands of Trojan sympathizers.

Juzwik, Dove Save Irish.

The situation was set up when Robertson, on the same play that sprang Peoples loose for a touchdown, galloped forty-five yards to Notre Dame's 19, Juzwik and Bob Dove bringing him down from behind. O'Brien threw Banta for a two yard loss and Laiber, who played the best game of his career, nailed Peoples for a yard loss. Robertson tossed a pass to Peoples, who was tackled on the 7 yard line for a first down.

Laiber stopped Robertson after he had advanced two yards. On the next play O'Brien coöperated with Laiber in hurling back Banta for a loss of four yards. Robertson cracked thru center for four yards as the first quarter ended.

Then came De Lauer's attempt to score a field goal which ended with Notre Dame covering him before he could make the effort. The Irish took the ball on their 15 and the Trojans' last scoring opportunity had vanished.

Hargrave Sturdy, Too.

Hargrave shared the endurance record with Juzwik this afternoon. He, too, saw 58½ minutes of service. Rarely have players been on the field so long since Elmer Layden took charge of the Notre Dame eleven.

The Notre Dame squad tomorrow will have lunch at the ranch of Mrs. E. L. Doheny, a custom that has prevailed since Knute Rockne first brought the South Bend eleven west in 1926. The party will leave for home tomorrow night.

GERRY ADVANCED TO NINE GOALS IN '41 POLO RANKING

Nichoalds Promoted from Five to Six.

New York, Dec. 7 [Special].—Four men stand alone at the top in American polo—two at the "perfect" rating of 10 goals and two others at nine goals—in the new handicap ratings made public by the United States Polo association for 1941 and effective immediately. Chicago gains one six-goal star in Robert Nichoalds of the Oak Brook Polo club, who was raised from his 1940 rating of five goals.

The two 10 goal players are Stewart Iglehart of Meadow Brook and Cecil Smith of Texas, who hold ratings they had last year. Thomas Hitchcock Jr. ended his 10 goal standing of many years as a star in American and international matches by going on the inactive list.

Aknusti Now at 30 Goals.

Elbridge T. [Ebby] Gerry, who led Aknusti to the national open championship, was advanced from eight goals to share the nine goal bracket with Winston F. C. Guest. Gerry also was named chairman of the United States Polo association to succeed Robert E. Strawbridge Jr., who has served the maximum four years permitted.

The play of Aknusti's other three members also was recognized with advances of one goal apiece to make the quartet a 30 goal team. Gerard S. Smith, who rode at No. 1, now is rated at seven goals; Robert L. Gerry Jr., No. 2, is at eight goals, and Alan Corey Jr., back, is at six goals.

Lowered from nine goals to eight were Michael G. Phipps and Eric Tyrrell-Martin, an Englishman who is on the inactive list. Robert Skene, Australian, who is in active war service, also is in this bracket. Other eight goal stars are Aiden Roark and Eric Pedley of California, and Gerald Balding, British internationalist who now is in army duty.

Seven Promoted to Six.

Harry Evinger of Texas was raised from six to seven goals with Gerard Smith to share this bracket with Elmer Boeseke of California, George Oliver of Texas, and Pete Bostwick and Billy Post of Long Island.

Lifted with Nichoalds and Corey from five to six were Clarence Starks of Fairfield, Charles Von Stade of Long Island, and the three Barry brothers of Texas—Harold, Paul, and Roy.

The veteran Gerald Dempsey and George Mead Jr., Yale player, were boosted from four to five goals, as were Robert Smith of San Mateo and J. C. Walker of Hawaii.

More Newcomers on List.

Eleven Oak Brook poloists in addition to Nichoalds were listed in the handicap changes. Highest ranking of these was Courtney Burton, moved up from two goals to three. Claude Mackey broke into the ratings for the first time at two goals to rank even with James A. Hannah, who was lowered from three goals. Paul Butler, Carl Johnson, and Donald Rice each was dropped from two goals to one.

Two Oak Brook newcomers, Fred Gloor and W. A. Townsend, were ranked at one goal. Two others appearing on the list for the first time were Rudolph Maslek and Curtis Mitchell, but they were given no [0] goal ratings, the same as Clifford Harrison, who was lowered from one goal.

Ranchers Win in Junior Polo Playoff, 11-5

The Ranchers, made up of three brothers, Jim, Tom and Mike Healy, won the Metropolitan Polo league junior title by defeating the Woodland Polo club, 11 to 5, in a playoff last night in the 124th field artillery armory. The teams were tied for first place at the conclusion of the league race last spring.

Mike Healy led the attack for the Ranchers by scoring six goals. Claude Mackey of Woodland, however, scored the most sensational goal, a 60 yard drive. One of Tom Healy's goals resulted after he gained possession of the ball deep in defensive territory and retained control until he scored.

The 124th Field Artillery polo team, national junior champions, defeated the Detroit Rangers, 10 to 9. Lieut. Bill Fergus of Chicago and Volney Bayley of Detroit staged a spectacular scoring duel, with Fergus getting five goals to four for the Detroit ace. The 124th trio forged ahead, 6 to 4, at half time on three goals in the second chukker, one by each member of the team. In the final chukker Detroit staged an inspired rally that kept the artillery players on the defensive.

Carroll Basketball Team Wins Over Beloit, 34-32

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 7 [Special].—The Carroll college basketball team defeated Beloit tonight, 34 to 32, in a close game in which the fives never were more than two points apart. Carroll led at the half, 15 to 14. George Jennings, Carroll guard, was high scorer with three field goals and six free throws. Will Harman, Beloit guard, counted three field goals and two free throws before leaving on fouls. Altogether seven players were ejected on personals.

HARLEM VS. ALPHA.

The Harlem Globe Trotters, world professional basketball champions, will make their first Chicago appearance since their thriller with the College All-Stars, when they meet the powerful Alpha Fraternity quintet tomorrow night in the Savoy ballroom.

INDUSTRY HOLDS NEAR CAPACITY OUTPUT LEVELS

Expansion of Steel Works Planned.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

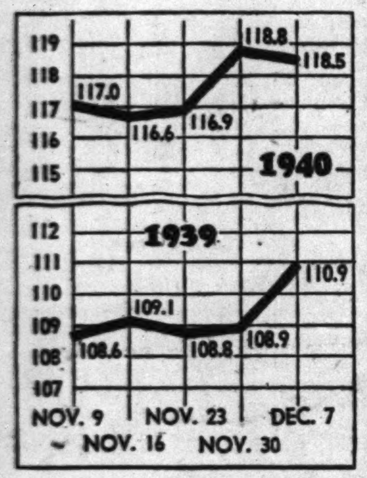
American industry, straining to turn out an unprecedented volume of defense equipment and at the same time keep abreast of mounting orders for normal commercial requirements, continued at near capacity levels last week. Merchants thruout the country received a generous share of the increased income resulting from the expanded operations.

Sir Frederick Phillips discusses British finances with treasury.

Steel mills moved closer to the point of full capacity production and laid plans for increasing their facilities by projects which thus far involve the expenditure of more than 50 million dollars. Bethlehem, rated the nation's foremost armament producer, added 18 millions to the total of contemplated expenditures which already had included 20 to 25 millions for new United States Steel facilities.

Ask if Britain Can Pay.

The major question in the minds of industrial and governmental officials directing the procurement of arms for the United States and England was Britain's ability to pay. Momentus conferences began in Washington, D. C., with Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, promising a full report on the state of his government's finances.



The course of industrial activity in recent weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, which is based on 1929-'30 activity as 100.

The construction industry, already the busiest in a decade, looked toward a still higher level of operations next year as various arms and other plants move beyond the blue print stage. October and November construction awards topped a billion dollars in each month, setting peak levels, and continue the trend in the latest weekly compilation of Engineering News-Record.

Four of the six components of the Associated Press index of industrial activity reached 1940 peaks during the week, but the overall barometer was held down by contra seasonal declines in automobile output and railway freight traffic.

Activity Index Declines.

The combined index eased from 118.8 to 118.5, based on 1929-'30 activities as 100, but retained a substantial gain over the 110.9 level of the corresponding 1939 week. The index follows:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Automobile prod....	114.0	119.4	107.8
Steel mill act.......	*130.1	129.7	124.6
Cotton mfg act......	*139.4	138.0	133.0
Elect. pwr. prod....	*135.9	134.7	128.8
Residential bldg.	*123.4	121.4	98.3
Total carloadings ..	76.1	77.5	75.5
Composite index ...	118.5	118.8	110.9

[*New 1940 high].

Automobile production was believed to have passed the peak of the autumn rise, and some authorities asserted an increasing share of the industry's facilities would be devoted to defense production. Trade estimates placed November retail sales at the highest point in the industry's history.

Surveying retail trade, Dun & Bradstreet said: "Some city stores noted that crowds were reaching peak proportions earlier than last year and that shoppers were doing more buying and less looking than usual on their first trips."

New Financing Soars.

The volume of Christmas trade, which Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones has estimated would reach historic heights, was bolstered by expanding industrial pay rolls, increased dividend payments to shareholders of many corporations, and a number of bonus payments for employes.

Wall street had its biggest week of new financing in several years, with $265,249,300 recorded by Poor's Publishing company, but listed stock and bond prices remained in a narrow groove. Prices were held down as the result of selling to establish losses for income tax purposes, and by investors' realization that higher taxes are taking an increasingly larger share of corporate profits. In reflection of this, New York Stock exchange memberships sold down to $33,000, the lowest in 41 years.

3 More Plane Builders Will Expand Plants

Plant expansions totaling $9,580, 381 to increase aircraft construction were announced yesterday by three corporations.

Consolidated Aircraft corporation will double its facilities by constructing a $7,000,000 parts plant, Edgar M. Gott, vice president, announced. Eight new buildings will be erected about a mile north of the present Lindbergh field plant, San Diego, Cal.

Consolidated has a backlog exceeding $325,000,000 for army and navy bombers, and warplanes for Britain.

Another contract provides for a $1,597,491 addition to the engine plant of the Aviation Manufacturing corporation, Lycoming division, at Williamsport, Pa. Another for $982,890 covered additions to the plant of the Fairchild Airplane and Engine corporation at Hagerstown, Md., and for the construction of a separate complete plant.

Expansion Work Progress.

The Ford Motor company announced that work on its $21,000,000 airplane engine plant was proceeding on a 24 hour a day schedule, with three eight hour shifts at work every day except Sunday. The building is scheduled to be ready for the installation of machinery and equipment for making the motors by late next March. When full production is reached, the plant is expected to turn out 15 engines a day, plus spare parts, for use in new high performance bombers and pursuit planes.

The war department announced orders totaling $5,946,877 for uniforms, shoes, ordnance, and chemical warfare supplies, including a $125,033 order for gloves to be supplied by the Wells Lamont Smith corporation, Chicago.

Two Chicago Firms Share.

Two Chicago companies received other war department orders. The Guiberson Diesel Engine company, which has been given several orders recently, got another contract for $2,926 of engine parts. Aeromotor company will supply steel forestry type observation towers at Barksdale Field, La., costing $4,200.

The war department authorized the construction of two general hospitals, one costing $1,525,000 at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Ind., and another costing $2,776,200 at Atlanta, Ga.

Whitcomb Locomotive company, Rochelle, Ill., received a $41,342 order from the navy.

LONDON DIAMOND TRADE SETS UP EXCHANGE UNIT

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The London diamond trade this week founded the Diamond club to act as an exchange between buyers and sellers. The exchange is supplementary to the trade channel of the Diamond corporation and Diamond Trading company acting as a world syndicate.

A new diamond polishing factory has been set up in London, employing Belgian and Dutch refugee workers. Altho the British government is supporting the immigration of skilled continental European diamond workers who are fugitives in France and North Africa, it is regarded as unlikely output will be substantial for a long time.

The shortage of polished luxury diamonds created last spring by the German occupation of Amsterdam and Antwerp has not been relieved and prices are rising.

OIL COMMITTEE URGES RETAINING COMPACT FORM

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 7 (AP).—A revision committee recommended today that the interstate oil compact be renewed in its present form and declared that "no other agencies than we now have will be necessary to accomplish the aims of conservation" in member petroleum states.

J. H. Alphin, representative of Gov. Homer M. Adkins of Arkansas, told the commission "appropriate steps would be taken when the Arkansas legislature met to put Arkansas into the compact."

The commission reëlected Gov. Leon C. Phillips as chairman, Andrew F. Schoeppel of Kansas, vice chairman, and P. J. Hoffmaster of Michigan, second vice chairman.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 [Special]. —Japanese shipping has been placed under what amounts to general government supervision, the American consulate in Kobe reported today.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. TO BUILD MACHINERY OF BIG ATOM SMASHER

Electrical equipment for a machine that will occupy the space of a two story house and will weigh 4,900 tons has been ordered from General Electric company to operate the University of California's new atom smasher, it was announced yesterday. Known as the 100,000,000 volt cyclotron, engineers say it will be so powerful that its atom smashing beam of electrons will melt an ordinary brick as quickly as a blow torch would melt a pound of butter.

The electrical equipment's chief function is to make ordinary electric current capable of operating the giant 184 inch atom smasher. It will take more than a year to build. The machine will contain a magnet 56 feet long, 30 feet high, and over 15 feet wide.

Construction of the super atom smasher was made possible thru a $1,150,000 grant by the Rockefeller Foundation and an additional $250,000 received from other sources.

NEW DOMESTIC OILS FOR PAINTS ARE DEVELOPED

Farm Products Fill Industry's Needs.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

The newly emerging concept of the American farmer as a supplier of raw materials to industry is being recognized in the search by industrial chemists for drying oil substitutes in paints and varnishes.

Representatives of agriculture, chemistry, and the paint industry are drafting plans to develop domestic supplies of drying oils to replace in part the imported products.

A joint committee of chemists and members of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer association and the National Farm Chemurgic council was organized recently in Washington, D. C. The group's function is to promote the utilization of American substitutes for such drying oils as tung oil from China, oiticica and linseed oils mainly from South America, and perilla oil from Manchukuo.

Provide Protective Film.

Such products are necessary in paints and varnishes to produce a hard, elastic, quick-drying protective film. Tung oil is one of the best drying agents obtainable.

The high price of tung oil and the interruption of its shipment from China by Japanese military operations has encouraged the development of new chemical processes in this country to produce synthetic and substitute drying oils almost as efficient as tung oil.

An outstanding development in the search for these substitutes was the commercial application by Armour & Co. of continuous fractional distillation to obtain synthetic drying oils and other products from soy bean, cotton seed, corn, or fish oils.

When the Armour process was made public last spring, the company had a distilling unit capable of producing more than 15 million pounds of separated fats and oils a year.

Tung Oil Prices Higher.

The company was selling the newly developed drying oils at 13 to 15 cents a pound in competition with imported tung oil at 25 cents. Tung oil is now quoted at about 27 cents a pound. The reception of Armour's synthetic oils, called "neo-fats," has influenced the company to start construction of an additional unit at its soap works to cost $500,000 to $750,000.

Armour is represented on the joint committee to develop use of domestic sources of drying oil by E. W. Wilson, assistant general manager of the company's soap works, and M. L. Sheely, technical director. Another Chicagoan on the committee is Arnold Yerkes of the International Harvester company.

Another substitute for tung oil made from an American grown bean has been reported by Paraffine Companies, Inc., San Francisco, Cal. Details of the process have not been disclosed but Samuel A. Cohen, chief technician for the company, said the substitute is as good or better than tung oil, and can be sold for about 13 cents a pound.

Employ Another Substitute.

Dehydrated castor oil, made by removing the 5 per cent water content from the oil, is being employed in the paint and varnish industry in increasing volume as a drying agent, according to J. C. Weaver of the Sherwin-Williams company, world's largest paint and varnish manufacturer.

Consumption of dehydrated castor oil expanded from 3½ million pounds in 1935 to almost 11½ million pounds in 1939, with 1940 consumption expected to double that of last year.

Weaver asserted in a recent report that the processed castor oil can be used alone or in combination with other drying oils. It is similar to tung oil in that both yield a frosted, minutely wrinkled film. When castor oil is combined with the proper resins, it produces a hard, durable finish.

Urges American Crop.

Urging an American castor bean crop, Weaver said that tung trees develop slowly and that oiticica trees seem limited to the tropical habitat of Brazil, but that castor beans can be planted in the south and yield crops after one year. Most of the castor beans imported come from Brazil.

Tung trees have been planted in gulf coast states and the domestic industry is producing several million pounds of tung oil a year—still only about 1 per cent of annual requirements. The paint and varnish association and various state departments of agriculture as well as federal agencies have encouraged the tung oil development in this country.

Companies Unite to Make a Tank-Carrying Plane

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7 (AP).—Daniel Sickels, New York engineer, arrived today to act as "liaison officer" between the Douglas Aircraft company and the Amerian Tank company of New York in the development of a tank carrying plane. "Of course the plan is in the formative stage and might take a year or two to work out," he said. "But Russia has been trying out the idea and reports from Europe show that Germany also is making experiments with tank carrying planes."

Lobby Fee Not Expense, U. S. Court Decides

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP).—The third United States Circuit Court of Appeals refused in a split decision today to permit the Textile Mills Securities corporation of Passaic, N. J., to deduct from its 1931 income $92,500 paid three congressional lobbyists.

Judge John Biggs Jr.

Denouncing lobbying as against the public interest, the court said in a majority opinion:

"We cannot see how proximate causation can be established between the efforts of lobbyists and the passage of desired legislation except where the efforts extend to actual corruption of individual members of a legislative body."

Acted for German Firms.

The Passaic company paid the three men the $92,500 for their part in urging congress to indemnify German textile firms for $80,000,000 in property seized in this country during the world war. The German companies, which had engaged the Securities corporation on a contingency basis, were finally indemnified by the 70th congress.

Judge John Biggs Jr. asserted in the majority opinion that the expenses could not be allowed because they were not made in the ordinary course of business.

Dissent Calls It Legal.

The dissenting opinion, written by Judge Albert B. Maris, took the position that since lobbying never had been outlawed by congress, the expenses should be allowed. It was an "unfair presumption" he said to infer unethical conduct on the part of the lobbyists.

The case evolved out of $45,000 paid Ivy Lee, New York; $40,000 to Warren F. Martin, former assistant attorney general of the United States, and $7,500 to J. Reuben Clark, former solicitor for the state department.

JONES REPORTS 1940 BUILDING AT 9.9 BILLIONS

Washington D. C., Dec. 7 [Special]. —Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones today announced that a rise in private construction had boosted preliminary estimates of total construction during 1940 to approximately $9,925,000,000. This is the largest figure since 1930, and an increase of 2½ per cent over 1939.

As for next year, Jones declared that "the large volume of contracts awarded late in 1940 assures high activity for the first part of 1941. Altho work relief construction may decline as business expands, it will be offset by increased private building and defense construction.

"Private residential, commercial and factory building will all show substantial gains in 1941 if demand is not restricted by an increase in prices and costs."

PANAMA CANAL TRAFFIC, TOLLS DROP THIS YEAR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 [Special]. —Reduced ocean traffic due to the war is reflected in the lessened traffic of vessels passing thru the Panama canal and the amount collected in canal tolls, the governor of the Panama canal reported today to the war department.

In the first 11 months of this year, 4,646 ocean going vessels passed thru the canal, compared with 5,439 in the corresponding period last year. Tolls were $18,398,553, compared with $21,867,148 in the same period last year.

In addition to ocean going vessels, 883 small vessels passed thru the canal in the first 11 months of this year, paying an additional $29,011 in tolls.

Chicago Banks Handle More Checks in Week

Chicago banks cleared checks totaling $347,700,000 last week, compared with $334,400,000 in the preceding week and $312,300,000 last year, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The figures follow:

PRODUCE IMPORTANT PERFUME INGREDIENT FROM COAL, NITROGEN

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 7 (AP).—Domestic production of indole, an important constituent of perfume, from coal and nitrogen, was announced today by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Officials said the substance, developed after an extensive research program, was fully equivalent in purity, strength, and odor to supplies formerly imported from central Europe.

Occurring in most natural floral odors, indole is the ingredient that gives natural jasmine its distinctive odor.

STEEL MAKERS ARE USING COKE FROM ENGLAND

New York, Dec. 7 (AP).—Small shipments of British coke are being made to this country, and plans have been prepared to increase these imports to a rate of 2,000,000 tons annually, well-informed trade quarters reported today.

Coke, which is an essential ingredient of pig iron, is normally produced in sufficient quantities in this country to meet the demands of the steel trade. Present consumption of coke, with steel mills near capacity, is about 48,000,000 tons annually, so that the planned imports would represent about a 4 per cent addition to the supply.

Steel men said there had been "a little tightness" in coke deliveries lately, but expressed the opinion there was no immediate fear of shortage. One steel man said the move was "largely a matter of accommodation" for the British, who are now the largest single consumers of American steel.

GROWERS VOTE ADOPTION OF COTTON CONTROL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—Grower approval of a proposal to continue the federal cotton marketing control program in 1941 was apparent tonight.

A tabulation of more than half the estimated votes in today's referendum showed 92.5 per cent in favor of the production and marketing quotas. The agriculture adjustment act requires a favorable majority of two-thirds to make the restrictions effective.

Officials plan to limit cotton sales to the production of 27,900,000 acres, the same as the 1940 limitation.

Approved in Illinois.

Sparta, Ill., Dec. 7 (AP).—The cotton growers of Illinois, concentrated in the southern tip of the state, approved marketing control programs for the 1941 crop by a vote of 167 to 61.

IF DRY HOLES AID SCIENCE, STATE HAS BIG OIL WEEK

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 7 (AP).—Wildcat oil ventures, even tho abandoned as dry, long have been considered valuable to the oil industry because of the geological data they provide.

From that standpoint, Illinois wildcat exploration this week contributed more to science than to the state's production figures for there were failures in at least nine counties which already have producers.

On the other side of the ledger there were only two developments, the recovery of oil from a deeper formation in the 25 year old Allendale field of Wabash county and from a wildcat test in Washington county.

Fifty-two oil wells were completed in the state this week, 13 of them dry holes, and there were 364 active operations this week-end.

ARGENTINE PLAN MEANS NEW BAN ON GOODS OF U.S.

Permits Strong Rule by Government.

By HAROLD TATUM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 7.—With Argentina facing an unprecedented economic crisis, the country's fiery finance minister, Dr. Federico Pinedo, has made known a plan of action which would place further restriction on imports from the United States.

Federico Pinedo.

The Pinedo plan next year would limit the imports of automobiles, agricultural machinery, and other items classed in the same group from the United States to 24,000,000 pesos, or about $5,664,000 in United States money as converted from the "free" pesos at 23.60 cents. This would amount to only about one-third of the estimated total imports from the United States for 1940 .

Altho the United States takes some goods from this country in exchange, the amount has been almost negligible in offsetting the loss of the European trade, Argentina's largest market before the war began. Argentina has mostly agricultural products to export, of which the United States can accept little because of its own abundance.

Viewed as Daring Scheme.

Pinedo's plan seems to be an effort to live up to his reputation as a daring and resourceful financier. A lively discussion in congress is expected when the various bills designed to give effect to the plan are laid before that body.

The texts of these measures have not been disclosed but Pinedo's report to the government on the existing situation together with an outline of what he considers necessary measures to meet it has been handed to the press in instalments and fully meets the description of being one ot the most ambitious economic financial schemes evolved in this country. Further, it implies a state intervention in private enterprise hitherto unattempted outside the totalitarian nations.

Other Phases of Plan.

In addition to restriction on United States imports the other high lights of the plan are: [1] special 15 year loans to finance local industrial development; [2] the construction of workmen's dwellings on a large scale; [3] the purchase of agricultural surpluses at minimum prices, and [4] a call upon private banks to deposit additional reserves with the Central bank as a basis of credit expansion, with the Central bank guarantee that the cash position of the private banks will be protected.

The report begins by stating that the country's present economic crisis has arisen from the inability to dispose of a large part of its produce and that such accumulation of commodities will go on unchecked so long as the war continues.

"It is necessary to face the real situation," the report says. "Exports will not reach the minimum registered during the worst period of the world depression; an enormous accumulation of unsalable produce must of necessity cause a great crisis.

"Either the surpluses must be left to rot with calamitous consequences for all branches of trade and business, or the state must take charge of the surpluses. The former course is unthinkable."

25 Year Amortization.

For the amortization of the loans for the construction of workmen's dwellings on which it is proposed to spend from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 pesos next year, a period of 25 years is established.

As it would be impossible to obtain funds for all the schemes by means of the usual loans, the report says it will be necessary to find them within the banking system.

"In times of prosperity such a step might lead to excessive inflation, but at present it will merely act as a corrective to the factors which have reduced the purchasing power of the population," the report contends.

A broad hint that plans had been studied under which the British owned railways would be turned over to the government in payment of sterling trade balances was contained in one section of the report.

Britain Turns to Brazil for More Minerals

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 1 [by air mail].—The British freighter Fast Wales now docked at Victoria and loaded with 8,000 tons of iron ore sold to Britain by the Brazilian Company of Engineering Services represents the first important ore deal between Brazil and Britain since the war began.

Lord Willingdon heads British mission.

According to reliable information, several orders already have been placed with Brazilian iron ore producers and exporters thru the British Chamber of Commerce of Rio, acting on instructions from the British embassy.

Interest in Minerals.

A British mission, headed by Lord Willingdon, which has spent two weeks between Rio, Santos, and Sao Paulo, and is en route to Buenos Aires, appears to have taken an exceptional interest in Brazil's mineral possibilities.

The mission is seeking good will in the Americas, trade agreements with countries where such agreements do not exist, and formulas to solve problems created by the British blockade which impairs South American exports. It may try to arrange special credits, possibly guaranteed by holdings of British investors, or to buy products thru some triangular scheme, the United States entering into the deal as guarantor.

While most Brazilian leaders were talking about frozen and canned meats, several members of the British mission were reported paying more attention to minerals and have been studying ways to develop steady purchases of ore in Brazil, in exchange for British manufactured goods, which are badly needed in Brazil.

A high Brazilian official, who was attached to the British mission during its stay in Rio, said the British envoys also were quite interested in Brazil's transportation facilities from producing centers to convenient ports along the Brazilian coast.

Kinds of Metals Sought.

The mission's interest in Brazilian minerals appeared to be strongest regarding nickel, aluminum, manganese, chrome, tungsten, cobalt, vanadium, quicksilver, diamonds, and platinum. Many of these already are under exploitation here.

In addition Brazil, possesses a series of metal alloys convenient for use in the steel industry, such as titanium. Mining engineers and geologists have reported that nickel deposits in the Sao José do Tocantins mines are second to none with the exception of those in southern Ontario, Canada.

Brazil was the largest diamond producer in the world until the discovery of diamonds in South Africa, but in spite of the great reduction suffered in its output the Brazilian diamond production for 1939 reached 208.244 karats.

Platinum Found in Quantity.

Platinum, free or associated with gold and diamonds, is found in fairly large quantities along the Abaeté river and other minor streams in Minias Geraes and Bahai. Brazilians expect that with the improvement of commercial relations with Britain their country soon will have an opportunity to show not only the extent of its great mineral resources but that its mining industry is able to compensate the heavy losses sustained in export commodities due to the war and consequent loss of practically every European market.

CHAMBER URGES GUARD AGAINST PRICE BOOSTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—The United States Chamber of Commerce urged all business men today to "guard against unwarranted price increases."

Asserting that the "long-term interests of every one in prices are identical," the chamber's board of directors said in a statement that while "self-regulatory measures" had prevented undue fluctuation thus far, the public should not assume "that prices will necessarily remain where they are."

"Prices are frequently subject to forces over which management has no control, either individually or collectively," the board said.

WAR PUTS VAST NEW BURDEN ON BRITAIN'S RAILS

But They Carry On Despite Bombs.

BY GUY MURCHIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—What have three months of intense aerial bombardment and some artillery bombardment done to England's railroads? What change has war brought in traffic over Britain's 50,000 miles of tracks and in the jobs of her 600,000 railway employés?

The most striking change brought about by the war is the great increase in the volume of freight by rail. Increasing submarine activity of the enemy has severely curtailed coastwise merchant shipping, especially on the eastern and southern coasts, and has drastically reduced the port of London's peacetime import and export total of 61,000,000 tons. Railroads have assumed an added burden and now carry such materials as coal from Newcastle and from Wales to London instead of leaving most of it to the merchant marine. Nearly all the imported foodstuffs must now come to London by rail from the west coast ports.

Troops Make Added Burden.

The movement of troops and army equipment about the country has further added to the railroads' task. Since the beginning of the war a large number of special trains has been handling these irregular and extra loads. This is still being done despite the numerous delays, detours, and serious "inconveniences" resulting from the bombardment of lines and bridges.

A few direct bomb hits on moving trains, numerous machine gun attacks on trains and railroad personnel, and numerous bomb hits on railroad lines and equipment have been reported. In London alone there are 14 important railway terminals. Censorship will not permit mention of how many have been hit, but this duplication of equipment and facilities has been beneficial in the war, permitting rerouting and the use of substitute terminals should a terminal station get hit or the lines leading to it be blocked off by damage.

Damage Quickly Repaired.

The average time required to repair the damage done by a single bomb along the tracks, according to a railway representative, is three to four hours. This makes it clear why the railroads are not more seriously crippled by bombardment.

Partly because of their vital function at present and partly because of their privileges in the past, the British railroads are notoriously pampered by the government. They are guaranteed a profit of £40,000,000 [about $160,000,000] annually and up to £43,500,000 [about $174,000,000] of any additional net revenue they may earn while under government control, which began Sept. 1, 1939. Beyond the £43,500,000, they may have half of the net profits up to £56,000,000 [about $224,000,000], a figure which they have never yet attained.

This generous treatment has been reflected in market value of railroad stocks which, since the war began, has risen on an average of more than 66 per cent.

Profit Despite Bomb Damage.

By permitting coaches to become crowded to capacity, by making each freight locomotive haul the maximum number of cars possible, and by raising rates proportionately to the increasing costs, British railroad managers are able to maintain their ample profits even thru the trials of the present nightly bombardments. The total rate increase is 16% per cent—10 per cent on May 1, and 6 per cent additional on Dec. 1.

The 580,000 railway employés in Britain at the start of the war have been increased to more than 600,000 and each must work harder than ever to maintain service thru the blackout, bombardment, and increased burden of traffic.

The wartime life of all railroad employés is strenuous, but trainmen and signal men have particularly dangerous jobs because they are not permitted to leave their posts for air raid shelters during their hours of

STOCK MARKET SHEDS LETHARGY IN BRISK RALLY

Steels and Shipbuilding Shares Lead Rise.

New York, Dec. 7 (AP).—The stock market today shook off some of its lethargy and finished a generally do-nothing-week with a selective rally centered on steels, shipbuildings, and industrial specialties. Active favorites were up a point or so at the close and a few showed advances of 2 to 3.

There was nothing particularly outstanding in the news, either from the war or home business sectors, to promote the rally, and brokers attributed it mainly to the feeling of traders that, after about 12 weeks of slanting downward, the list was due for at least a technical comeback.

Tax Selling Continues.

Year-end tax selling continued to put brakes on many stocks and fears of what the tax bill may be next year kept speculation in check.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .3 of a point at 44.1, the only advance in the last six sessions. The composite was unchanged Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, was off .2 Thursday and again unchanged Friday. Transfers amounted to 403,877 shares compared with 335,580 last Saturday.

Steels in Van of Rise.

Prominent on the swing were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Crucible Steel, Midland Steel Products, New York Shipbuilding [at a new 1940 high], American Shipbuilding, Newport News Shipbuilding, American Telephone, Western Union, du Pont, International Paper preferred, and General Outdoor Advertising A.

Consolidated Edison slipped a trifle and oils, rails, rubbers, coppers, and merchandisings were only moderately ahead. Chrysler got up 1¼ at the last. General Motors was up ⅛.

COTTON

Hedging sales gave American cotton markets an easy undertone yesterday, and while there was a moderate rally from the low prices in sympathy with securities the close was unchanged to .05 cent a pound lower.

Cash cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent lower, with New York 10.38 cents; New Orleans, 9.99 cents; Galveston, 9.87 cents and Houston at 9.88 cents a pound. Futures prices follow:

WOOL TOPS SET SUCCESSIVE '40 PEAKS IN WEEK

Copper and Rubber Rise; Hides, Lead Ease.

Wool tops for delivery this month attracted the major buying interest among commodity futures last week and advanced to successive 1940 highs. Copper, rubber, and Santos coffee also showed improvement, while hides, lead, and tin were lower.

December wool tops reached a peak of $1.22 a pound and closed the week at $1.21 for a gain of 4 cents. The cash market bid was 3½ cents a pound at $1.21½. Broad demand was stimulated chiefly by huge government orders.

Copper Regains Strength.

Copper recovered from recent weakness and advanced 0.08 cent a pound to 10.92 cents in December futures. Lead futures continued to recede, closing off 0.06 cent a pound at 5.17 cents in December. Tin futures were 0.05 cent lower at 49.95 cents a pound.

Rubber futures were active and advanced 0.37 cent a pound to 20.82 cents in December. The cash price was 0.13 cent ahead at 21 cents. Hides declined 0.13 cent a pound, December at 12.64 cents. Silk futures eased ⅛ cent a pound.

Coffee Futures Advance.

Trade optimism over a marketing quota system and advances in foreign markets lifted Santos coffee futures to new highs. December deliveries gained 0.28 cent a pound at the near peak level of 6.41 cents. Trading in domestic sugar futures lagged pending announcement of the 1941 quota but March contracts inched ahead 0.02 cent to 1.94 cents.

The Associated Press weighted wholesale price index of 35 cash staples, based on 1926 as 100, rose to a 1940 high of 77.68 but closed the week at 77.38 for a net gain of 0.41. The Dow-Jones commodity futures index declined 0.06 to 56.47.

UNITED STATES PHOTOGRAPHIC INDUSTRY RISES

Supplies Own Materials, Avoids 1914 Shortage.

The United States is the source of all materials for the expanding American photographic industry which is avoiding the difficulties of the world war days and is increasing its export of finished products, a survey disclosed yesterday.

Eastman Kodak company, the leading domestic manufacturer of photographic supplies, reports that its operations are not endangered by any shortage of materials growing out of the war. This enterprise and its American subsidiaries themselves supply all these vital items such as paper for sensitizing, gelatin, sensitizing dyes, and synthetic organic chemicals. When the war broke out in 1914, however, the company had to make frantic efforts to accumulate supplies from abroad, mostly from Germany, officials said.

Sales Rise This Year.

Sales volume of Eastman in the United States increased 7.82 per cent in the first 24 weeks of 1940, in comparison with the same period of 1939. The annual report earlier this year said that "the prospects of increased business in South America are bright; sales in China, Africa, India, and Australia are good."

The Bell and Howell company, Chicago, reported that the South American market demand for its products is stronger and that South Africa is providing a good outlet.

As an example of the expansion of the American photographic industry, one company reported that domestic made substitutes have been found for Belgian film and plates which it uses in a rotogravure process. It reported also that a manufacturer in this country is bringing out a lens and shutter said to be superior to the Carl Zeiss lens and Compur shutter which it uses in its German made camera. The American products will sell for about the same price as the German.

Builds in United States.

As a result of the Nazi invasion, the Gevaert company, which made the film and plates in Belgium, is building a factory at Williamstown, Mass., and is scheduled to start production on rotogravure supplies in March. The Autotype company, which manufactures in England carbon tissue used in rotogravure work, has shipped enough equipment to this country to start an independent factory, probably on Long Island, N. Y.

Buyers can obtain a complete line of American made products, including low priced and expensive cameras and equipment, as well as unfinished materials, and no longer need depend upon Europe for any photographic supplies, it is said.

CHICAGO STOCKS END WEEK-LONG SLIDE ON RALLY

The minor rally that developed Friday on the Chicago Stock exchange to break a week-long decline was sustained in yesterday's short session. Thirty-seven of the 68 issues traded yesterday recorded gains while 18 held at Friday's levels. Chief buying interest centered in Chicago corporation and Commonwealth Edison. The investment company issue closed at 1, up ⅛ point, while the utility at 28⅝, was up ¼ point. Viking Pump common and Elgin National Watch common reached new 1940 highs.

Turnover during the week aggregated 130,000 shares compared with 127,000 the preceding week and 168,000 in the corresponding 1939 period. Of 186 issues traded during the week, 86 declined, 58 advanced, and 42 closed unchanged.

SPIEGEL SALES IN NOVEMBER DROP 4.83 PCT.

Sales of Spiegel, Inc., mail order firm with offices in Chicago, declined 4.83 per cent in November below the corresponding month last year, M. J. Spiegel Jr., president and general manager, reported yesterday. Net sales for the month were $6,105,618, compared with $6,415,591 a year earlier. Aggregate business for the first 11 months of 1940 gained 1.46 per cent, totaling $47,010,261, compared with $46,331,833 in the corresponding period in 1939.

Charge Grain Operator Violated Exchange Act

Moses Eisemann, a former member of the Chicago Board of Trade, has been summoned to appear before a federal referee here Monday to answer charges of violating the Commodity Exchange act. The charges, filed recently, alleged that Eisemann traded in bids and offers on the Winnipeg grain exchange, an operation that is specifically banned under the act.

COAL DECLARED BEST AND CHEAPEST WAY TO BIGGER POWER OUTPUT

John D. Battle.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal association, declared today construction of steam generating plants would be the "cheapest and most immediate way" to provide additional power if needed for defense purposes.

He referred to indorsement of the St. Lawrence hydro-electric project by President Roosevelt as a cheap source of power, and declared:

"Surely there can be no need for devising new sources of power so long as the nation's premier power medium and greatest natural resource, bituminous coal, remains close at hand in virtually inexhaustible supply."

Battle described as "self-evident truth" that immediate work on the St. Lawrence project would "divert to its construction men and materials in huge amount, now needed in present ship building, aircraft construction, and munitions plants."

BUYERS BID U. S. BONDS UP; AWAIT NEW FINANCING

New York, Dec. 7 (AP).—Bond buyers pushed up prices for United States government issues as much as 10-32d point today in advance of federal financing anticipated next week.

Corporate issues shunted back and forth over a narrow range. The foreign dollar group showed a little more strength but trends were tangled.

Demand for federal issues, brokers said, was based on the desire to invest money in tax-exempt securities before recent agitation to remove such exemption on new issues came to a head. Prices responded easily to only modest buying.

Overseas issues marked up included Italy 7s at 47, German 5½s of '65 at 11½, and Cuba 4½s of '77 at 53⅜. New South Wales 5s of '58 dropped 2¼ to 52, and Norway 4s lost a point at 35.

In the domestic list traders made little effort to single out any one group for special attention.

New York City to Have $4,000,000 Bus Terminal

New York, Dec. 7 [Special].—Plans for a $4,000,000 privately owned interstate bus terminal near the center of Manhattan were revealed today. The terminal will be built by a corporation headed by Harold W. McGraw, vice president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing corporation.

duty. Signals are, of course, vital to railroad operations, particularly in the blackout, when trains are not permitted to have headlights.

Lights Invisible to Planes.

Altho the signal lights show clearly to approaching trains, they are equipped with long hoods which railroad officials say render them invisible to any aircraft under actual flying conditions. Men who patrol the lines looking for bomb damage during or imdediately after the raids also have a dangerous and difficult job.

In times of emergency extra men are called to duty by a system of messengers something like Paul Revere used in summoning the Minute Men. Special notices flash on the screens of nearby movie houses and runners race to the pubs, rounding up men to repair the fresh damage to the line.

The speed of trains during air raids formerly was restricted to 15 miles an hour for passenger trains and 10 miles an hour for freights, but this rule has been relaxed to 25 and 15 miles an hour, respectively, during daylight raids when it was found no more accidents than normal resulted. Such precautions, however, are not generally appreciated by the public which frequently complains about the delays and more particularly about the absence of information.

Difficult for Passengers.

For example, a passenger from London arives in a Midlands junction two hours late. He learns the name of the station, from which the large sign boards have been removed, by questioning fellow passengers. A time table which no longer contains a map is of no use to him in catching another train because the bomb damage has changed all train times.

Officials seek to keep the enemy from knowing train whereabouts, so even after the telegraph lines are repaired and they are advised when the train is due, they keep the information secret until the train actually appears.

HOGS STAY NEAR SEASON'S LOWS; CATTLE MIXED

The hog market last week held only slightly above the lowest point of the season. The average price was $6.10 a hundredweight, compared with $5.45 a year ago. There was a mild rally late in the week, based on the belief that the peak of the winter's marketing is past. Final prices showed gains of 5 to 25 cents compared with the preceding week.

Cattle markets were erratic. Steers and yearlings closed strong to 25 cents higher. Heifers were steady to 25 cents lower. Calves declined 25 cents. After a sharp rise the week previous on the strength of government orders for canned meat, low grade cows arrived in larger numbers last week and slumped 50 to 75 cents in value. Beef cows showed a similar downturn.

Little change occurred in the lamb trade. Most classes finished on a parity with a week earlier. Old sheep sold steady to 25 cents lower.

HALTS ALLEGED MOVE TO BOOST PRICE OF COAL

Control Board Issues Distributor Ruling.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7 (AP).—The bituminous coal division, to halt what it said was a move to increase minimum mine prices for soft coal, ruled today that wholesale coal distributors could not act as personal sales agents for producers except under special conditions.

Officials said the division had found that certain distributors, by arrangement with some producers, were using the sales agent designation falsely to increase cost of production figures on which the division bases minimum mine prices. Eventually, they said, this would result in higher consumer cost and more profits to the producer.

Has Stipulated Discount.

The licensed distributor receives, under the coal code, a stipulated discount below the minimum mine price when he buys coal for resale. This discount represents his minimum profit. If, in competition with other distributors, he can resell the coal at more than the minimum mine price he claims the differential. The coal he sells belongs to him. He is in business for himself.

A sales agent of the producer, however, does not own the coal. He sells for the producer, receives a commission based on the price he can obtain, and is not handicapped by the legal distributor discounts, which average 10 cents to 12 cents a ton. Officials said some sales agent commissions ran as high as 40 cents a ton or more.

Foundation for Boost.

At present, they said, the practice does not seriously increase consumer cost, but it lays the foundation for producers to show the division a higher cost of operation and gives them a basis for demanding an increase in minimum mine prices.

Hereafter, the division ordered, anyone not legally certified as a bona fide sales agent for a coal producer would not be allowed commissions exceeding the distributor discounts.

GAINS AND LOSSES.

Investors who are analyzing their security holdings to determine whether they can reduce their federal income taxes for 1940 by judicious selling of securities before the end of the year should be familiar with the provisions of the tax laws affecting capital gains and losses.

Capital gains and losses refer to the profit or loss resulting from the sale of capital assets—stocks, bonds or land. The length of time the assets were held before sold determines how the loss or gain on the sale affects the individual's income tax.

The law divides capital assets into two classes: Short term and long term. Each class is distinct and cannot be used to offset the other.

Short term capital assets are those held not more than 18 months before sold. Gains or losses on the sale of short term assets are taken at 100 per cent for income tax purposes. Short term losses can be deducted only from short term gains but not from other taxable income.

If a net short term gain results, it is fully taxable and is added to the individual's other income for the year, subject to the normal and surtax rates. A net short term loss cannot offset other income but may be carried over and deducted only from short term gains in the next year to an amount equal to the net taxable income for 1940. Such a carryover from last year may be applied this year.

Long term capital assets are those held for more than 18 months. For tax purposes, long term gains and losses on assets held from 18 to 24 months are reported at two-thirds of their full amount. On assets owned more than two years, only one-half of the gain or loss is taken into account.

Long term losses are subtracted from long term gains. Net long term capital gains are either added to other income or are taxed separately at 33 per cent and the smaller resulting total tax is paid. Net long term capital loss is deducted from other income or is treated separately as an offset against the tax to the extent of 33 per cent and the larger resulting total tax is paid. Net long term capital losses cannot be carried over into the next year.

Immediate repurchase of assets sold for a profit is allowed by the income tax law, but a loss cannot be taken on a sale if the same assets are bought back within 30 days. Some other security of similar quality, however, may be repurchased without waiting the 30 days.

SPUR NEW MOVE FOR REBUILDING OF SLUM AREAS

Backers Revise Measure to Aid Private Capital.

organization called the redevelopment commission, to be created by the city, village, or incorporated town.

2. Restrictions on redevelopment corporations made more elastic, to prevent perpetual freezing of the character of the neighborhood.
3. Provision made for appeal by a redevelopment corporation when a redevelopment commission rejects a project.
4. Maximum limits on developments are raised from 40 acres to 80 acres.

Safeguards Are Provided.

The measure would provide that a corporation seeking authority to launch a slum clearing project must show that the area involved is a blighted area, that the project conforms to the city's master plan of zoning or planning, and that no undue hardship would result for families occupying the development site.

Judicial review of development commission rejection or approval of a project is provided, including appeal to the State Appellate and Supreme courts. Condemnation of property would not be permitted until at least 60 per cent of the needed area had been bought or optioned.

The bill will be presented during the legislative session opening Jan. 8.

GRAIN MARKETS STAGE RALLY AS SHORTS COVER

Week-end evening up on the part of shorts resulted in a strong rally in the grain markets on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. The upturn followed an early decline which carried prices into new ground on the current decline.

Wheat prices rallied about 1 cent from the bottom level. December finished ⅛ cent net lower and the distant months ⅝ to 1 cent net higher. Corn was ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher. Oats advanced ⅛ to ⅝ cent. Rye declined ⅜ to ½ cent. Soy beans were ⅜ to ⅝ cent lower.

Scattered liquidation by holders of December wheat and corn had some effect on the general markets early. December wheat declined to about 2⅝ cents above May at the close, compared with 3½ cents premium at one time Friday. December corn which sold 1½ cents over May on Thursday was traded yesterday at ½ cent under the deferred future.

MOTORS—TRAFFIC—HIGHWAYS

SOUND ALARM! ILLINOIS POLICE SHAKEUP NEARS

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7.—Motorists might well join the coppers in worrying about a forthcoming shakeup in the personnel of the Illinois state police. According to precedent, most of the 300 members of this staff will be replaced in the first couple of months of the administration of Governor-elect Dwight Green, who is to be inaugurated on Jan. 13.

In the last general shakeup, eight years ago, there were many aspects of the turnover unpleasant for automobile drivers. Political recruits with uniforms, stars, and guns are dangerous and annoying. That's why the public might well share some of the uneasiness of the policemen who are now looking around for other jobs.

The fault is one of the system. In Illinois, the state police are under the spoils system. Politicians look upon the department as just so many jobs to be awarded to precinct electioneers.

Some States Are Sensible.

In other states, including Indiana, Michigan, and Missouri, the highway police have been removed from politics. They obtain appointments by competitive examinations with strict minimum requirements. They are not petty party workers in a political machine.

Eight years ago, after the late Henry Horner succeeded Louis E. Emmerson as governor, Republicans surrendered their uniforms to Democrats. Experienced policemen were replaced by inexperienced men named on recommendation of ward committeemen and county committeemen thru the Democratic patronage bosses.

The ward committeemen named men most efficient in delivering votes, not the men most likely to become good policemen. Some had beer bellies. Some talked with broken English, couldn't write an arrest slip legibly and couldn't spell common street and city names. Others were too old or were otherwise unfit for active physical duties.

Others were tempermentally unfit to carry a gun and star. Arms and badges were too much authority for their mental balances.

Voice Many Complaints.

With novice policemen riding the highways, there were complaints of truck lines being shaken down. Motorists complained of verbal abuse for inadvertent infractions of minor traffic regulations. There were reports of speed traps.

In eight years under the Democratic administration, most of the undesirable and unfit element in the Illinois state police department was dropped. A few, with more political drag than others, still remain on the force and have even received substantial promotions, not for merit, but solely because of the power of their political sponsorships.

Gov. Green faces a tough job in trying to reorganize the state police without a repetition of the unhappy experiences of eight years ago. The late Gov. Horner tried to do the job without too much imposition on the public, but he was sorely pressed by his patronage managers to "turn the rascals out." Doubtless the Republicans will want to clean house [remove the Democrats] in the state police.

Green Faces Tough Job.

If Gov. Green wants to reform the Illinois police system, to remove it from politics, he faces another difficult task. It has been tried at sessions of the legislature in the past. Each political party favored a civil service that would perpetuate jobs for itself. Neither party favored a civil service that might work to the political advantage of the other. The reform proposals got nowhere. They stumbled on party partisanism.

So motorists next year probably will encounter inexperienced policemen on the highways, men unaccustomed to authority, unfamiliar with traffic problems, and too self-conscious of their stars and their guns. It's not a pleasant outlook.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

TAX EVADERS.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—I have for the last week or so been reading about the police arresting motorists for having defective mufflers or none at all. I believe this is a good thing, and should be continued, and I suggest that they go after the motorists who live and work in Chicago and do not pay the city or state for license plates, but drive on our streets with out of town plates.

The other day on Broadway and Lawrence I saw a Pontiac car with Iowa plates, a Chicago vehicle 1938 sticker, and a testing lane sticker from 1938. Another case near the Palmolive building a car with Indiana plates and this party works in that building.

I know there are thousands of such cars in Chicago. What about these fellows?

A. C. BRUNS.

HORNS.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Tonight, going down Wabash avenue, I wondered if it was Halloween or a school boy parade. There were six Yellow cabs standing at Monroe street with a red light at the corner. All of the cab drivers were blowing their horns in unison. Then a couple of Checker cabs and three private cars joined in blasting their horns. Why?

There was a law one time in Chicago about noisy horns, but that was before Mr. Kelly was mayor. Will we have to wait for the next election to get a mayor who will stop the loud horns or will our present mayor have a little regard for our nerves? In New York there is no such racket, and New York has more traffic than Chicago.

C. CAVANAUGH.

EATING AND SLEEPING.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Regarding the complaint of Manley Sanford whose letter was published in the Voice of the Traffic recently, if you suggest to him Duncan Hines' "Adventures in Good Eating" and also "Lodging for a Night," I think his troubles would be over.

AUTO SURPLUS IS CREATED, JUST IN CASE OF TROUBLE

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7 (AP).—Having geared its production facilities at a level slightly higher than consumer demand since the new model year began on Oct. 1, the motor car industry now has all its dealer outlets stocked with passenger cars and a modest accumulation of reserve stocks under way.

This is entirely in accord with the car makers' plans when they swung into 1941 model output, altho most of them are convinced that the normal productive activities of the industry can be carried on regardless of the demand of the national defense program—for the present model year at least.

The building up of a surplus at this time has been described in some authoritative quarters as a "logical" step in the planning of the current model year. The normal production facilities of the industry are considerably more flexible right now, it is pointed out, than they will be once armament manufacture gets into full swing.

Foresee Material Shortage.

That, of course, will not be during the present model year, but some of the manufacturers believe its initial effects—whatever they may be—must make their appearance in the next few months. There may be a shortage of raw materials and a diversion of skilled labor from normal to emergency activities, or an upsurging demand for new cars resulting from increased employment, or a combination of all these factors.

In any event, say the trade authorities, a reserve stock of new cars will be a distinctly helpful "cushion" for whatever develops between now and midsummer.

Last spring the industry had on hand one of the largest surplus stocks of new cars in its history. The supply totaled nearly half a million units in addition to vehicles in dealers' hands. Yet it was liquidated rapidly under a demand that may have been foreseen by the manufacturers' sales managers. Fears that the armament program might interfere with new car assemblies stimulated retail demand during the latter part of the 1940 model year.

Some of that apprehension still exists, but in considerably lesser degree than was the case eight months ago.

Armaments Come First.

The car makers have said much concerning the importance to the national economy of maintaining normal productive activities at high level despite the huge rearmament undertaking. At the same time they have made it clear that the armament program comes first.

It is interesting in this connection to recall some of the production achievements of the industry. In 1929 its assembly plants turned out 5,621,045 cars and trucks. Approximately 2,000,000 of that total were made in three months. It was said afterward that had the occasion required it, the assembly plants could have produced twice that number of vehicles.

The industry had another 5,000,000 unit year in 1937—the volume was 5,016,437—and its production facilities were only partly engaged.

Since the beginning of the current model year it has been operating on schedules that would produce approximately 5,500,000 cars and trucks, if maintained until next Sept. 30. There is no expectation of that volume for the 1941 model year. The estimate, which includes some hope as well as expectation, ranges from 4,500,000 to 4,650,000.

It is significant, however, that the present high rate of output has been maintained with few plants working more than two eight hour shifts five days a week.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Give a Christmas present to the automobile! That's the suggestion made by Chevrolet, and other manufacturers are echoing the thought. Among the many items suggested are glareproof rear view mirrors; a windshield washer which, at the touch of a button, releases a stream of water on the windshield; heavy fender guards for protection against bumps; fog lamps; auto compass which may save time to a driver puzzled by direction; seat covers; illuminated visor mirror and radios.

Appointment of Stewart W. Munroe as general sales manager of the Chrysler sales division of the Chrysler corporation, has been announced by David A. Wallace, president of the Chrysler division. He will be responsible to Charles L. Jacobson, vice president in charge of sales. Munroe has been connected with the automobile industry since he finished preparatory school at Phillips Andover. His first auto job was with the old Stevens Duryea company.

Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., reports satisfactory public acceptance for the new Americar, which made its debut at the automobile shows this year. The new car is stressing economy in operation.

Buick engineers report that new and more efficient types of insulating materials are being used to give quietness of operation and ride. One sound damper is a dash mat which is made of a combination of exploded fiber and jute. Rock wool, treated to prevent dusting, is being used to insulate car occupants against noise and heat, both from within and outside the car. Asphalt impregnated felt is another insulating material used.

Now that the winter cold is here, service men are advising motorists to see that their spark plugs are cleaned and regapped to ensure easier starting. If this is done, another advantage is a saving on fuel consumption. It is suggested that the spark plugs be given attention every 4,000 miles.

Cars taken from the Pontiac assembly line are being subjected to artificial rainstorms to make sure that they are leakproof. Water is driven against windows, windshields, and doors with greater force than most driving rains.

TELLS HOW CITY CAN REJUVENATE DOWNTOWN AREA

Realty Man Lists Results in Oakland, Cal.

BY AL CHASE.

[Real Estate Editor.]

Dudley W. Frost.

A program designed to reverse the trend of decentralization and bring prosperity to depreciating downtown business districts was outlined by Dudley W. Frost of Oakland, Cal., manager of that city's Downtown Property Owners Association, Inc., in an address before the Chicago Real Estate board. The completely rejuvenated central area of Oakland was described by Frost as "probably the country's outstanding example of successfully combating decentralization of a long established central business district."

Coöperation of three big business and civic organizations over a period of eight years has resulted, Frost said, in a complete transformation of outmoded buildings. Other results attained are: Better transportation facilities, adequate parking for shoppers, assessment adjustments, advertising and promotion, zoning, and publicity.

Started Eight Years Ago.

Oakland's effort to save its main business district started eight years ago when a new uptown shopping center threatened the long established "loop district." A group of larger property owners formed the Downtown Property Owners' association and set up a definite program to save the area. A "war chest" of $100,000 was raised.

"The first task was to put the downtown house in order," Frost said. "The association retained architects to make colored sketches showing how old-fashioned buildings could be remodeled and brought up to date.

"Contractors quoted cost figures; bankers and holders of mortgages were consulted. The city officials were highly in accord with the proposed program, as it would maintain adequate property values for taxation purposes, and coöperated in revising building ordinances where necessary in order that work might proceed.

Reduce Fire Hazards.

"Insurance companies also were glad to coöperate because they recognized that in modernizing these old-style buildings local fire hazards would be reduced.

"To date 34 modernization projects have been completed in downtown Oakland, many extending an entire block in length and including a number of stores in one project. Old fashioned buildings had their antiquated architectural features removed and were converted into modern streamlined structures housing attractive stores. The cost ranged from as low as $5,000 up to $150,000.

"The first project, tackled in 1932, proved the soundness of the plans. A building at a prominent traffic intersection was given a 'face lifting' and streamlined frontage. Altho previously vacant for more than a year, the ground floor space was rented before the job was finished.

Taxes Are Adjusted.

"One of the largest tasks was that of tax adjustment. Properties where income had greatly depreciated still were being carried on assessment rolls at a high figure. The association employed experts to treat the downtown district as a whole, instead of individual properties, in gathering facts helpful to the assessor.

"A fair valuation was reached by considering the property income and valuation as of today. These recommendations were presented to public officials to prove that downtown assessments were too high. County officials gave their full coöperation and property adjustments covering the districts were made which resulted in large savings to owners and merchants."

Operates Parking Stations.

The Downtown Merchants Parking association, Inc., one of the three bodies responsible for the reclaiming of the business area [the other two were the Downtown Merchants association and the Downtown Property Owners association] operates six conveniently located parking stations. No parking charge is made if shoppers present a ticket validated by a store member. During 1939 these stations operated to capacity, handling 1,084,726 autos.

Last year the city manager of Oakland appointed a traffic committee. This group made a scientific study, after which legislation affecting motor traffic and parking was completely modernized. Busy traffic intersections in outlying districts were channelized so that motorists might be freed from driving hazards in going to the central business district.

"The success of the downtown Oakland improvement program is an excellent example of how property owners, merchant tenants, and civic officials can get together for their mutual interests," Frost said, "and coöperate in correcting adverse conditions, in checking business decentralization, and in stabilizing established property values."

S. O. HOUSER ELECTED HEAD OF OAK PARK REAL ESTATE BOARD

S. E. Houser.

S. O. Houser, vice president and treasurer of the George R. Hemingway organization, Inc., Oak Park, was elected president of the Oak Park Real Estate board at a meeting last Monday. Houser, who was vice president of the board, succeeds Mrs. W. H. Wright, first woman president of the organization. Herrick R. Goodwillie and Maude B. Jacques were elected directors for three years each, and Charlotte E. Rackow for the remaining two years of Houser's term as director. Other officers will be elected by the board of directors tomorrow afternoon. Installation of new officers will take place at the annual installation banquet on Jan. 6.

LA GRANGE PUTS 64 LOTS BACK ON ITS TAX ROLLS

Sixty-four vacant lots in La Grange, all of them delinquent in both special assessments and general taxes for nine and 10 years, have been foreclosed by the village and bid in by the original owners. Suit was filed last July and the redemption completed last week.

Joseph T. O'Brien, tax specialist, who managed the suit for the three property owners, said that the delinquent taxes and special assessments amounted to about $102,000. The lots were bid in for approximately $23,000. All are now back on the tax rolls, O'Brien said.

Thirty-nine of the lots are owned by Bruno R. Drake of Riverside, vice president of the Cicero State bank; 20 by Catherine Wilson of Chicago, and five by J. H. Winterbotham & Sons, also of Chicago.

RENTS DEARBORN MADISON CORNER FOR RESTAURANT

Paul H. Lipschultz, for many years an operator of loop restaurants and taverns, yesterday leased 6,000 square feet of basement space in the two story building under construction at the northwest corner of Madison and Dearborn streets. He will open a rathskeller type of restaurant about Jan. 15, following a reported $25,000 expenditure in fittings and furnishings.

Charles L. Schrager, of Charles L. Schrager company, building agent, said the lease is for 13 years at a guaranteed rental exceeding $130,000 for the term, plus a percentage of gross profits.

The lessors are the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, John R. Thompson Jr., and Henry M. Henriksen, trustees of the John R. Thompson estate.

NORTH AREA READY TO GREET KRIS

VILLAGE BUILT ON THE IDEA OF BRITISH HAMLET

Kenilworth Looks on First 50 Years.

When the Kenilworth Historical society held its annual dinner last month, most of the 180 guests were surprised to learn that Kenilworth, which claims to be the smallest incorporated village in the world, was laid out just 50 years ago. Miss Dorothy Sears of Winnetka, daughter of the founder, Joseph Sears, pointed out the fact to Clive J. Taylor, program chairman, who incorporated it into a historical "information please" stunt.

Only persons who have lived in Kenilworth 20 years or more, whether the residence has been continuous or not, are eligible to join the society. From the membership, Mrs. Henry Taylor Jr., Mrs. Carol Sanborn Krum, Horatio H. Chandler, and Richmond W. Kenyon were chosen for the board of experts. Mrs. Taylor, a charter member and one of the oldest residents, had most of the answers on the tip of her tongue.

Perhaps the most authentic report of the early history was given at the first annual meeting of the society on Oct. 30, 1922, in the home of Mrs. Joseph Sears, Waverley place, Kenilworth. The hostess was then an elderly, frail lady who had never addressed a group in her life, but she told the story of the founding of Kenilworth just as her husband and his associates had accomplished it.

Part of Her Story.

Part of her story follows:

For several years the Searses had been looking for a country place in which to rear their three children. In 1889 an opportunity came to buy a 225 acre tract extending from Sheridan road to the North Western railroad and from the Dan Mahoney farm on the south to Winnetka avenue.

Since Mr. Sears could not finance the project alone, the Kenilworth company was formed. Remembering the Warwickshire country in England, with its hamlets buried in trees, hedges and climbing roses, Mr. Sears decided to make this picture a reality and started by naming the village "Kenilworth."

He obtained the land from Charles E. Simmons, land commissioner for the North Western railroad. Members of the company were Mr. Sears, president; Ingolf K. Boyesen, attorney; Charles S. Smith, in charge of sales; William H. H. Sears, a brother, in charge of improvements; Frank P. Burnham, architect, and Joseph Mitchell and John J. Nutt, directors.

Soon Is Thriving.

Work on the village started in January and by that summer Kenilworth had become a thriving center. A direct road was cut from the station to the lake, allowing an unobstructed view of the water. Mr. Burnham drew the plans for the station, Kenilworth hall, Kenilworth Union church, and the three original houses for company members.

George Kruse, a Dutch tenant farmer on the property, was in charge of laying pipes, paving the streets and planting trees in the parkways. He did much of the work himself and served the village continuously until his death in 1918.

By Dec. 31, 1891, the village had three miles of sewers, water works to supply a population of 2,000, gas works, two and one-half miles of macadam streets with concrete sidewalks lighted with boulevard lamps, breakwaters on the beach, a stone railway station, Mrs. H. H. Babcock's School for Girls, Rugby School for Boys, a postoffice, express and telegraph offices, public and private telephones and 12 homes, with two under construction.

Unusually Large Lots.

To quote from Mrs. Sears' paper: "To start with city conveniences, lots of unusual size, and a homogeneous entrance to the town instead of haphazard, nondescript business buildings, created interest among students of the subject. The plan had been successful in the east, but was considered visionary for the west."

All the village functions were carried on by the company until Feb. 4, 1896, when the birth of Manniere B. Ware made the population 300, the number necessary for incorporation as a village. J. A. Culbertson was the first president.

Mr. Sears realized that a church was essential in any village and in November, 1892, the Kenilworth Union church was dedicated. The Church of the Holy Comforter in 1898 with services in the homes of the several Episcopalian families.

Church Is Built.

When the two private schools closed in 1904, Mr. Sears built a public school on the site of the present gymnasium.

Mr. Sears spent all the later years of his life in his English village and died in 1912. His wife remained in their home at 517 Sheridan road until her death seven years ago. At that time, Miss Sears moved to Winnetka. She has two brothers, Joseph Allen Sears in Northbrook and Phillip R. Sears in Seattle, Wash.

The historical society is keeping old documents and pictures of historical value and hopes soon to find an appropriate place in which to display them. Maj. Reed G. Landis of Glencoe was elected president to preside at the dinner next fall.

Stage, Charity Joined at the Guild Theater

Amateur dramatic groups on the north side and suburbs are contributing a variety of stage entertainment for the holiday season. In Evanston the Guild theater, 616 Church street, is combining a good neighbor act with the presentation of "Double Door," by Elizabeth McFadden.

Patrons are asked to bring a toy to add to the collection of old and damaged playthings which the Evanston Boy Scouts solicit annually. Then the Scouts, in coöperation with the city firemen, repair and repaint the toys and distribute them to Evanston's poor youngsters on Christmas. They have been doing this for 20 years. A large wire basket has been placed in the theater lobby for the toys.

This Week and Next.

Performances of "Double Door" will be given this week and next on Wednesday thru Saturday nights. Ian Keith is directing the production and Hope Summers, producer, is cast in one of the leading rôles as Victoria Van Bret. Other leading parts are portrayed by Judith Alden, Althea Murphy, Don Brockell, and James Dexter, supported by Gordon Buck, Francis Fabian, Leighton Carey, Doris Hargis, Patricia Kevlin, and Karl Berning.

Students in Holy Angels academy in Milwaukee will give their third and last performance of "Jeanne D'Arc" this evening, with Sally Morris in the title rôle. She appeared in the same rôle yesterday afternoon and Denise Flynn portrayed Jeanne on Friday night. Regina Imse repeats the prolog and Barbara Plant, Patsy Cohan, and Helen Bodden play the other leads.

Menorah Society Play.

Back in the loop, the Menorah society of Northwestern university will offer the comedy "First Lady" next Saturday and Sunday nights in the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street. The play, a satire on the political and diplomatic situation in Washington, D. C., by George Kaufman and Katharine Dayton, is under the direction of Esther Sachs.

Sylvia Weiner and Clark Auster will be cast in the leads, supported by Morris Goodson, Allen Levine, Estelle Finkel, Mildred Rattner, and Maynard Duboe. Others in the cast are Ada Grusin, Margery Rudoy, Harold Blumenthal, Jerome Calnitz, Annette Lerner, Mel Koral, Milton Schafer, Stanton Kramer, Jack Berman, Oscar Holtzman, Pearl Frank, Gloria Kolodny, Alwood Smith, Berde Scher, and Rose Weinberg.

A new group of players which will offer mainly mountain folk lore plays has been organized by James Hargis Connelly, 162 East Ontario street. Their first play will be Lula Vollmer's drama of the Carolina hills, "Sun-Up," featuring Eva Fitz Gerald as Ma Cagel.

The first performance will be at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday, Dec. 17, in Kimball hall, Jackson boulevard and Wabash avenue, under the sponsorship of Dorothy Eagles, director of the North Side Animal shelter. Other characters will be portrayed by Patricia Fagin, Fred Barkau, Tommy Ulbricht, Lionel Mlin, Russ Rubin, Dick Salzman and Bob Meely.

Offer Shakespeare.

Chase park players and the Kelvyn park ballet will offer Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" with a cast of 35 amateurs on Friday and Saturday nights and next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Chase park fieldhouse, 4701 North Ashland avenue. William Stigall is directing the play and Olive Bernard the ballet. Some of the Elizabethan costumes and two of the stage sets were designed and made by the Chase players.

Leading rôles will be taken by Tom Conway, Jeannie Bolan, Fred Haase, Frank Eberhardt, Paul Foster, James Tambini, and Jimmy Wilson. In the supporting cast will be Beatrice Sandiford, Dorothy Papke, Edward Mahoney, Robin League, Patricia Bolan, Jeannette Groves, Alice Kogan, Marion Erzig, Charles Duckworth, Lorraine Basso, Robert Bannister, Carl Guiney, Jean Laldy, Frances Winters, Henrietta Buck, Larry Van Gorthem, Jean Rinchicso, Dan Sullivan, Ilon Comer, Joan Heschek, Catherine Musso, Anna May Fielder, Muriel Thiebaut, Alice and Shirley Samuelson, Jean Ann Akers, and Dolores Robinson.

Comedy at Amundsen.

The Amundsen High school drama class will present the comedy, "Charm School," Wednesday evening in the school auditorium, 5110 North Damen avenue. Miss Marion Philbrick is directing the cast composed of Merle Strassheim, Jerome Hansen, Ethel Field, Olive Williams, Grace Ackerman, James Weaver, Fred Tuisl, and James Honan.

Art students are making the scenery, under the direction of Frank Slepicka, and music will be provided by the Amundsen orchestra, conducted by Forest L. Bucktell.

The senior class at Sullivan High school will offer "Room Service" as its class play on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Dec. 17 and 18, in the school auditorium, 6631 Bos-

Strong Dramas Fill Amateur Stages of the North Side

Strong, tense drama is caught in this family crisis created by a struggle between a domineering sister, head of the family, and the brother's young wife in "Double Door," the Evanston Guild theater's current production. Members of the cast in this scene are (left to right) Patricia Kivlan, a maid; Leighton Carey, a secretary; Judith Alden (kneeling), a younger sister; Doris Hargis, a maid; Althea Murphy, the young wife; Don Brockell, her husband, and Hope Summers, head of the family. The play will be offered Wednesday thru Saturday this week and next.

Diana Jannotta, 2718 Lunt avenue, will play Gwen, the ingenue lead, in Senn High school presentation of "The Royal Family," on Wednesday and Friday nights in the school auditorium, 5900 Glenwood avenue.

[Marshall Photo.]

Margery Rudoy and Oscar Holtzman, members of the Menorah society at Northwestern university, are in the cast of "First Lady," to be presented on Saturday and Sunday nights in the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street. Esther Sachs is directing the satire of the political and diplomatic life in Washington, D. C.

[Rosen Photo.]

Sally Morris, a student at the Holy Angels academy in Milwaukee, will make her second appearance in the tile role of "Jeanne D'Arc" this evening at the school. Here Jeanne, on trial for heresy, has just heard the judges' ultimatum: "Abjure instantly or be burned as a witch."

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bettye Perkins, 1708 Greenleaf avenue, will be seen as Christine Marlowe in "Room Service" on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Dec. 17 and 18, at Sullivan High school, 6631 Bostworth avenue. This comedy has been chosen as the senior class play and is being directed by Julius Becker, head of the drama department.

SWEDISH BAZAR TO OPEN FRIDAY AT LOOP HOTEL

Chicagoans of Swedish descent will bring their homeland into the Hotel Sherman this week-end when they gather for the annual Christmas bazar sponsored by the American Daughters of Sweden. Proceeds will be used to continue an annual scholarship for freshmen women at the University of Chicago, according to Mrs. Hedwig Melinder, 5359 North Paulina street, president.

Doors will open Friday morning on a replica of the Skansen, an outdoor museum of Swedish folklore; displays of Swedish foods, knit goods, dolls and Christmas cards, and a large collection of Swedish antiques, some of them more than 200 years old. Authentic folk dances will be presented by the Swedish National dancers as part of the entertainment.

North siders assisting with arrangements are Mrs. Elin B. Schunk, 4720 North Hamilton avenue; Mrs. Ivar Ericson, 5156 Clark street, and Miss Anita Engberg, 6620 North Maplewood avenue. The bazar will close Sunday night.

Portraying Carolina Hills' characters in Lulu Vollmer's "Sun-Up" will be Patricia Fagin, 4114 North Kedzie avenue, as Emmy; Fred Barkan, 701 North Michigan avenue, as Rufe, and Eva Fitz Gerald, 701 North Michigan avenue, as Ma Cagel. Jimmie Connelly and his players will offer their premiere performance on Tuesday, Dec. 17, in Kimball hall, under the auspices of Dorothy Eagels, founder president of the North Side Animal shelter.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

WITHIN seven months Our Towner Eddy Howard has written 15 song hits, but he'll leave the singing of them to the crooners. Howard who lives in Evanston, left crooning to Bing Crosby and others seven months ago when his first song, "My Last Goodbye" was published. Before that time he sang with various orchestras. He followed up his first song with such recent hits as "A Million Years Ago," "Careless" and others. Before he was "bitten," as he calls it, by "the song-writer's bug" he had intended to become a physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bernberg, 1218 Lunt avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday. They have two sons, Cecil and Abe; five daughters, Mrs. Etta Salinger, Mrs. Nessie Kessler, Miss Sophie Bernberg, Mrs. Mildred Nekritz, and Mrs. Ruth Wilkomer; ten grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

WHEN the 28th annual chrysanthemum show closed last week, Lincoln Park's attendance records were shattered. The show was open for 23 days. In that time 152,566 flower fans visited the Lincoln Park conservatory, beating the record attendance figure of 1938 by 35,920. With the closing of the mum show, the conservatory will be open to the public from 8 o'clock in the morning to 5 p. m. daily, Sundays and holidays. A Christmas flower exhibit will be held from Dec. 21 thru Jan. 5.

THERE is usually an Our Town angle to the latest European war news. Maurice Burke, 6050 North Rockwell street, 17 year old student at the Central Y. M. C. A. High school, came from Bucharest, Rumania, less than a year and a half ago. He formerly was a Boy Scout, in the same group with Prince Michael. Maurice's family at one time had a summer home next door to that of Magda Lupescu. Altho he has been in the United States only a short time, Maurice has traveled from coast to coast. One of the most impressive things about the country, he says, is our system of roads and highways. He likes the United States because, he declares, "a democratic form of government and way of living are my ideals, and here I may say what I think without having to be afraid of the next fellow."

Adelbert V. Newman, former executive of Quincy, Ill., region of Boy Scouts of America, has been transferred to the post of executive director of the Waukegan area, which includes Waukegan, North Chicago, and Zion.

AVIATION GOOD FELLOWS PLAN GIFTS FOR POOR

The eighth annual Aviation Good Fellow ceremonies will take place at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 23, in the auditorium of the Chicago airport, 6200 South Cicero avenue. After the program more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy will be taken to poor families thruout the city.

Charles Miller.

Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for the campaign this year. Mr. Miller was a second lieutenant in the 16th squadron of the A. E. F., and saw six months' service in France during the first world war.

Specific plans for carrying out the work this season were made at a meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Churbuck, 6740 South Oglesby avenue, 1939 chairman of the Aviation Good Fellows. William Westlake, also a former leader of this movement, again was selected as public relations head for the campaign.

2 Feature Movie Problems Up at Evanston Meeting

Members of the Better Films Council of Evanston will hear a talk on the double feature movie problem Tuesday evening in the suburb's public library. The talk will be given by William D. Galligan, manager of a Chicago movie house.

TINSEL, LIGHTS MAKE STREETS AND SHOPS GAY

Civic Groups, Clubs to Hold Parties.

Christmas will come to the north side this year in a blaze of tinsel and colored lights accompanied by community singing of centuries old carols. On the busier street corners in almost every neighborhood and suburb, giant balsam and spruce trees are being erected and trimmed with a shower of sparkling lights and ornaments.

And as the loudspeakers in the thronged shopping districts blare forth "Silent Night" and other hymns, there will be the steady, happy clicking of comptometers in stores adding up new highs in Christmas sales. Merchants predict that this season will be one of the most prosperous in years.

One of the busiest Yuletide seasons on the north side is already in the making in the Lake View district. At the six-point corner of Lincoln-Belmont-Ashland avenues a 40 foot Christmas tree towers over the shopping crowds, adorned with hundreds of ornaments and colored electric lights. The tree was dedicated by Santa Claus himself last week.

Many Parties Scheduled.

Parties by Swedish-American and German-American organizations, social clubs, lodges and civic organizations have been scheduled for almost every evening during the next three weeks. Many more parties will be held by the Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A.

An annual Yuletide show will be staged by the Neighborhood Boys club Dec. 22 at Lane High school under the direction of Robert Buehler. The 100 tenants of an office building at 3325 Lincoln avenue will be guests at a turkey dinner Dec. 24 to be given by Harry A. Starf, manager of the building.

On Dec. 17 the Lake View Community council will sponsor a Christmas celebration dance to be held at the Social Turner ballroom, Paulina street and Belmont avenue.

Will Sing Carols.

In keeping with tradition, Protestant churches in many north side sections will send corps of Christmas carol singers thru the streets on Christmas eve. They will sing the familiar hymns in front of lighted apartment buildings and to crowds of last minute shoppers.

A prevue of 1941 toys was held last week along Clark street between Catalpa avenue and Argyle street. The street has been decorated with Yuletide trimmings along the mile and a half stretch by the Uptown Clark Street Business association.

Lamp posts along Michigan avenue from the Drake to the Stevens hotels are to be decorated with wreaths of Christmas greens.

On Howard Street.

On Howard street the business men's organization has made plans to decorate light posts with large placards bearing the season's greetings and with Christmas trees and wreaths. A community Santa Claus will make his appearance soon.

In Evanston merchants have set up an old-fashioned Christmas tree in Fountain Square, the suburb's loop district. A new schedule of store hours will go into effect tomorrow. Merchants will keep open from 9:30 o'clock in the morning to 9:30 in the evening until Christmas eve when the stores will close at 6 o'clock. Thomas Airth is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce decoration committee.

In Winnetka and Hubbard Woods merchants will repeat the decorating scheme of last year. On Elm street, Winnetka's shopping district, they will place six-foot trees on both sides of the street at 50 foot intervals. Along Lincoln avenue light poles will be decorated with neon stars, wreaths and Christmas bells. Similar decorations will extend thruout the business areas of Hubbard Woods.

In Charge in Winnetka.

Abe Fell is general chairman of the decorations committee of the Winnetka Chamber of Commerce. District chairmen include Miss Elsie Thal, Roger Taylor, Walter Zick, Victor Killian, Byron Warnes, Jerry Worel and Donald Rogers.

To encourage the Christmas decorations of homes in Niles Center, three contests will be held by the suburb's East Side and West Side Property Owners' associations and the South Park Improvement association. A grand prize for the winning home will be given Dec. 27 by the Chamber of Commerce.

Prerequisites for Peace to Be Sunday Forum Theme

The Rev. George Gibson will speak on "Achievable Prerequisites for Peace" before the Chicago Sunday forum at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Olivet Institute church, 1441 Cleveland avenue. The speaker is pastor of the United church of Hyde Park and the Rev. Alva Tompkins, pastor of Olivet, is chairman of the forum.

To Hold Bazar.

A two day bazar will be held Friday and Saturday at St. Paul's church, Fullerton avenue and Orchard street. Anton Negri, chairman of the church council, heads the bazar committee.

LONG WAITS FOR PETERSON BUSES.

We of the upper end of Ridge avenue between Broadway and Clark street put up with a lot of inconveniences all summer during the reconstruction and widening of the roadway.

We have recently been rewarded by its improvement. Not only is the thorofare more efficient but the illumination at night has also enhanced its beauty.

During this reconstruction work the Ridge-Peterson feeder bus of the surface lines was somewhat hampered in its schedule as well as in the handling of passengers, but this slight inconvenience was tolerated.

Now all these delays have been eliminated and the proper time schedules restored and the Peterson bus traffic has been considerably increased. The eastern terminal of the line is at the Bryn Mawr L station. It seems that during the rush hours, especially in the evening, an overflow load is always picked up here.

When the bus reaches Ridge avenue and Broadway to take on surface lines passengers, it seldom stops because of the overflow load from the L. These passengers are forced to wait in the hope that a partially filled bus may come along and pick them up. Last week during a heavy rainstorm no less than seven buses went by this corner with a full load and not one of them attempted to stop to pick up some of the 27 passengers. Many had to wait at least 45 minutes before using other methods of getting home. You will find that this condition is being repeated constantly.

We are sure that some method can be devised to remedy this situation if the matter can be brought to the attention of the proper authorities.

COMPLAINT ON TRANSPORTATION.

When I first moved into the 50th ward nearly eight years ago I found the transportation bad and inconvenient. The Kedzie-Devon cars were running infrequently, crowds of transferees from the elevated at Granville were waiting more than 15 minutes for Kedzie cars, and it is a hardship to wait so long on the winter days. To my regret the transportation in that vicinity has not been improved.

The elevated transportation system is bad because of the crowded condition. The riders are not even allowed standing space for the 10 cents they pay. The transportation system has been and still is being kicked around like a football by the officials and aldermen of this city.

I have made complaints as well as others but it does no good. Many promises are made by the candidates for city offices before each election. We have been promised better transportation to all parts of the city and that we would get value received for the fares we are paying.

But what we were promised and what we are getting are two different things. It's the usual and customary bunk. The politicians owe a vote of thanks to the people for their patience but the people's patience may be exhausted. Some day some office holder will have to pay the penalty.

S. M.

REDISTRICTING NORTH SIDE WARDS.

As an active member of the Republican party in the 48th ward I was interested in a suggestion on redistricting by A. W. P. of Glencoe, which appeared in the Voice.

What are we waiting for? The 1940 census is complete. The city council has several plans ready. Maps are ready. Nine north side wards starting with the 42d ward and on north including the lake wards in question should be redistricted.

Some wards have more than 100 precincts. To redistrict the wards would emphasize the congressional and senatorial mixup of the 9th and 10 districts.

FORM NUCLEUS OF A SYMPHONY IN ROGERS PARK

Purpose Is to Have an Orchestra of 60.

Rogers Park, community of string quintets, trios, and opera supporters, is going to have a symphony orchestra of its own—that is, if the founding members can find a rehearsal hall.

Definite plans for the formation of the Rogers Park Symphony orchestra were announced last week. The embryo orchestra already has 35 members and a conductor, but the founders are seeking about 25 additional musicians, especially woodwind players.

The orchestra will have for its conductor Sam Raphling, 1336 Estes avenue, a young pianist and composer, for several years a member of the Chicago Civic orchestra.

Where to Play!

But the toughest obstacle facing the group is the finding of a place to play. Rogers Park has no community house and the few halls in the district are not available.

The idea for the formation of the orchestra came from a small group of business and professional men who spend their evenings playing chamber music at each other's homes. H. Arnold Cohen, 6810 Sheridan road, a cellist who manages a shoe store, is one of the founders.

"There are so many musicians and music lovers in Rogers Park that the organization of a community symphony orchestra is a natural development," he declared.

Goal Is 60 Players.

"Without trying very hard we already have found 35 musician members. Our goal is to get 60 players, both men and women. It's a surprising thing, but the butcher, the baker, and candlestick maker in Rogers Park all seem to play some type of musical instrument."

He added that altho the orchestra is to be a community endeavor, other north side players may become members. Among its members thus far are two women violinists, Mr. Cohen's wife, Molly, and Sylvia Temkin, 3009 Leland avenue.

They're Aviation Good Fellows

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

William Westlake, Capt. Charles P. McCormick, and Maj. E. M. Brower recently were chosen as north side aviation leaders of the Chicago Good Fellow movement. They will be among the air line representatives who will be in charge of distributing more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy to unfortunate homes in the city.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB WILL HEAR DR. R. C. RAINES

Dr. Richard C. Raines, pastor of Hennepin Avenue Methodist church of Minneapolis, Minn., will address the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall on the text "Come Ye Apart!" He will be introduced by Clifford W. Barnes, and the scripture will be read by Col. Robert G. Peck of the board of trustees.

Dr. Richard Raines.

Dr. Raines is much admired by college youth in America who have been impressed by his "University of Life," a program for universities started some years ago by Dr. Raines and now used in about twenty-five states, also because his sermons deal lucidly and fearlessly with current social issues.

Von Steuben a cappella choir, directed by John Clare Thomas, will sing at the preliminary meeting, and Hudsin H. Pittman will give the informal Bible talk.

Penny Social Sunday

St. Angela's Altar and Rosary society will hold a penny social next Sunday afternoon and evening in the school hall, Massasoit and Potomac avenues. Mrs. Otto Fett is chairman.

TRY NEW PLAN FOR COMPUTING R. O. T. C. AWARDS

A new system for making awards, originated by one of the cadets, is being tried out by Tech. Sergt. A. D. Lee, military instructor for the Lake View High school R. O. T. C. unit. The method is called the individual award system and was conceived by Lieut. Col. John Mouzak. It will be under the supervision of Second Lieutenant Vernon Anderson. For each officer and noncommissioned officer there will be a separate award sheet on which will be kept a record of the individual's merits or demerits in such things as discipline, appearence, and steadiness in the ranks. At the end of each semester, various medals and awards will be issued according to the sheet rating of the cadets.

This system will simplify the method of selecting noncoms and officers for the awards. If the plan proves successful it will be continued.

EVANSTON CLUB WOMEN TO HAVE TWO PROGRAMS

Actress Will Talk in the Afternoon.

Outstanding programs will be presented at both the morning and afternoon sessions of the Woman's Club of Evanston Tuesday. At 10:30 o'clock Mrs. Charles C. Wells, president, will introduce Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Whitehurst has been nominated as president of the Federation and will take office in the spring.

The Evanston Drama club will join with the Woman's club to present Miss Margaret Webster to the memberships at 2 o'clock. Miss Webster, a director of Shakespearean plays and an actress, will speak on "Women in the Theater." Among her accomplishments are the 40 minute streamlined productions of Shakespeare at the New York World's Fair and the direction of Maurice Evans in "Hamlet" and "Henry IV." She is the daughter of Dame May Whittey and Benjamin West, Shakespearean actor.

Mrs. M. L. Paxson and Mrs. Orno B. Roberts are in charge of the program. Presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. W. H. Atwater, Mrs. Clifford Ellis, Mrs. John W. Meaker, and Mrs. John Lawler from the Drama club, and Mrs. Harry Wells, Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, Mrs. Wilbur Helm, and Mrs. Edward R. Ladd from the Woman's club.

On Friday the hobby and garden groups will hold a joint meeting to hear Kurt Rose give an illustrated lecture on "Flower Arrangements." There also will be an exhibit of glassware.

Lake Forest Woman's Club.

The club's annual Christmas musical and tea will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday in the home of Mrs. Charles W. Young, 251 North King Muir road.

Evanston Catholic Women.

Christmas music will be presented by the Marywood Girls chorus at the 2 o'clock meeting Wednesday. A trio composed of Helen Mackay and Margaret Abbey, violinists, and Margaret Anderson, pianist, will offer several numbers. Mrs. Maurice O'Brien is in charge of the program and Mrs. C. M. Gazzola will arrange the tea tables at which Mrs. Mederick Johnson and Mrs. Fred P. Barnhart will preside.

As a contribution to the Christmas decorations in Evanston, the club is planning a crib to be displayed on the porch of the clubhouse.

Evanston Friends.

Evanston friends of the Chicago Junior school in Elgin will give their annual Christmas party Friday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. McNabb, 950 Hill road, Winnetka. Miss Barbara Malott will lead in singing carols and Dr. Arthur J. Todd of Northwestern university will tell about their origin.

The hosts will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Schnering, and Mrs. W. Cary Lewis. Proceeds will go into the scholarship fund for the school.

Deerfield Woman's Club.

Mrs. A. F. Durand will talk on "Relativity of Growing Plants to Art in the Home" at the club meeting Tuesday. Tea will be served by the hospital committee. Members are asked to contribute a gift for a child or old person or canned fruit or jelly to the Chicago Fruit and Flower guild.

Evanston Young Women.

A current events program conducted by Mrs. W. D. Baskett Jr. will be given at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, foreign policy department chairman for the National League of Women Voters, will speak.

Waukegan Woman's Club.

Mrs. Jesse L. Owens, American home chairman, is in charge of the mother and daughter banquet tomorrow evening. After dinner, the drama division, Mrs. Karl Beck, chairman, will present two plays and the group will sing carols.

Cosmos Club.

A dessert luncheon, followed by a program of Christmas music by the club chorus, will comprise tomorrow's meeting in the Municipal building in Skokie.

ALPHA O. UNITS WILL OBSERVE 44TH YEAR TODAY

North Shore Alumnae Plan Tea This Afternoon.

Today alumnae and active members of Alpha Omicron Pi thruout the nation will celebrate the sorority's 44th anniversary. Clubs will keep the telegraph wires humming as they send congratulations to three of the four founders, Jessie Wallace Hughan, Elizabeth Heywood Wyman, and Stella George Stern Perry, the writer, all in New York.

The Chicago North Shore alumnae will entertain the Northwestern chapter at a tea from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock in the chapter house, 626 Emerson street, Evanston. Mrs. A. J. Hennings will tell about the founding of the Northwestern chapter, and Mrs. W. C. Drummond will outline the history of the national organization, stressing its frontier nursing service in the Kentucky mountains.

Hostesses will be Mrs. R. J. Street, Mrs. Seth Brown, Mrs. H. H. Erskine, Mrs. Kenneth Russell, Mrs. G. L. DeBeer, Miss Dorothy Robbins, Mrs. Nicholas Harrison, Mrs. A. E. Tatham, Mrs. Robert Lindrooth, and Mrs. Fred C. Suhr.

Alpha Gamma Delta.

Mrs. Lorin A. Torrey, vice president of the Northwestern alumnae, is in charge of the Christmas meeting tomorrow evening in the chapter house. As a Christmas gift to the undergraduates, each alumnae will contribute a book to the chapter library. Drama and music school students will provide a program. Proceeds from a contest will be contributed to the sorority's summer camps for underprivileged children at Jackson, Mich., and Welland, Ontario.

The hostess committee is composed of Mrs. George Fairbairn, Mrs. J. A. Anderson, Mrs. Robert Crawford Jr., Mrs. George Stoll, Mrs. Theodore Fuchs, Mrs. Claude Alexander, Mrs. Charles O'Malley, and Miss Elsie Schubert.

Chi Omega.

The North Shore alumnae and the Chi Omega Owls, the junior auxiliary, will give a joint party Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Paul Zeigler, 300 Locust road, Winnetka. Assisting the hostess will be Miss Reba Campbell, Miss Eleanor Lewis, Miss Kay Rubens, and Mrs. J. R. Romane.

Members of the active chapter will present a program and lead the group in singing sorority songs. Mrs. Frank Mason Jr. is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Norman Christiansen. After the program, the group will make Christmas scrap books for children at Northwestern settlement, under the direction of Miss Katherine Lightbody.

Delta Zeta.

Chicago North Side alumnae will be hostesses to the north shore, south side, west side, and business girls groups at a Christmas party at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the chapter house on Northwestern campus, 717 University place. Mrs. Lester Larson, Miss Celia Colwell, Mrs. John Jaenecke, and Mrs. V. H. Meatheringham will be in charge of the Christmas tree and gifts.

Members will fill Christmas stockings for children in the sorority's community center in the Kentucky mountains.

Chi Omega Mothers Club.

The mothers will give a Christmas party at 2 o'clock Tuesday in the Northwestern university chapter house. "The Christmas Window" will be sketched in rhyme by Mary Girvin Conen with a musical background.

Kappa Delta.

The afternoon and evening groups of the North Shore Alumnae association will meet Tuesday evening in the chapter house, 711 University place, Evanston, to work on Christmas gifts for the crippled children's home in Richmond, Va. Plans will be made to contribute to a local charity.

Miss Katherine Scherstrom, a member, will sing Swedish folk songs as the members work. She will wear a native costume made for a young lady's trousseau in Sweden 70 years ago. Mrs. Norman MacLean and Miss Beth Hines will be hostesses.

Kappa Alpha Theta.

Evanston and North Shore alumnae will hold their Christmas musical tea at 3 o'clock Wednesday in the Theta house, 619 University place, Evanston. Mrs. E. F. McLaughlin will preside. The program will be provided by the Sharpless trio composed of Elizabeth Sharpless, soprano; Betty Schein, violinist, and Marjorie Buchannan, pianist. Margaret Loomis Phillips will lead the group in singing carols.

A Christmas party will be given for North Shore Alliance members at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the home of Mrs. William P. Reed, 1075 Pelham road, Winnetka. Guests will bring toys, foods, and candy to be distributed to worthy charities.

Zeta Phi Eta.

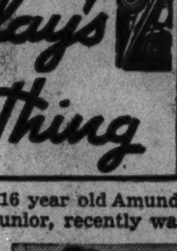
The couple will take a honeymoon trip to Phoenix, Ariz., and California. After Jan. 20, they will be at home in the Stratford apartments, 520 Stratford place.

Play's the Thing

Leona Corthier, 16 year old Amundsen High school junior, recently was reëlected captain of the cheer leaders team which is composed of six girls. It was Leona's team that cheered the Amundsen football team to win six consecutive victories this fall. Leona, who resides at 5009 North Damen avenue across the street from the school, has mapped out a campaign of cheering stunts for the 1941 basketball season.



Leona Corthier.

Peter Scurto, 905 Addison street, last week was awarded his letter for football at Lake Forest college. Scurto, a junior, is a member of the staff of the college newspaper and the campus drama organization. The college team closed the 1940 season without a single defeat.

For the last forty years football has been as common in Zion as cricket in Sox park. The game was practically never played in the town for some reason or other. But now, however, footballs are being booted about on almost every sand lot and playground in town. Zion has become football conscious, due probably to the Green Bay Packer-like showing of the Zion-Benton high school team.

Football was introduced at the school this year. Coach T. Ray Miller asked the gangling squad that turned out how many had ever seen a football game. Only two boys raised their hands. Yet the team won three of its first four games this season.

CLUB TO GIVE PLAY TELLING OF MacDOWELL

Composer to Be Theme at Meeting Today.

A play telling the story of "Young Edward MacDowell, by Justina White, will be presented for the Music Study club of Chicago at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Auditorium hotel. Grace Heer, program chairman, has arranged the program in memory of Mr. MacDowell as a part of the club's plan to feature American music and composers this season.

Violette McCormick will read "A Tribute to MacDowell"; Fern Kandybe, soprano, will sing a group of his songs, accompanied by Carl Songer, and Mr. Songer will relate interesting incidents in MacDowell's life. Warren Stupek will play the part of MacDowell at 8 years and Lydia Smutny will portray the composer at 18 years and play his "D Minor" concerto.

Others in the cast are Mrs. James Allen Young, club president; Mrs. Warren Inglis, Walter Warren, Earl Hotaling, O. B. DuRand and John M. Derrig. Mrs. Albert T. Seidel will be in charge of the social hour, assisted by Mayetta Herroder and Myrle Bergh.

Lake View Woman's Club.

Mrs. William Brownson and members of her refreshment committee will preside at the Christmas breakfast at noon Tuesday in the Granada hotel. Mrs. Herbert Archut, chairman of the social service department, will introduce Miss Mary Foster, who will sing Christmas carols of many lands, and Mrs. Kathleen F. Campbell, sister of the singer, who will read Christmas poetry and dramatize a one act play by Zone Gale. Eugenia Andersen will accompany Miss Foster at the piano.

Edgemere Woman's Club.

A card party to raise funds for Christmas baskets and other club philanthropies will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mrs. Jerry Sill, first vice president, is in charge of arrangements.

Mme. Claire Craig will give an informal talk on "Fables" at the only December club meeting at 2:30 o'clock next Saturday afternoon in the Webster hotel.

Field Apartments Club.

Curt A. Mundstock will give an illustrated lecture on "A Trip Around the Universe" at the Tuesday meeting at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the building. Ann Gordon, soprano, will present a program of Christmas music.

SENN STUDENTS WILL TALK OVER COLLEGE PLANS

Are to Meet in Gym on Wednesday Next.

College day will be observed by students and P.-T. A. members at Senn High school, 5900 Glenwood avenue, in an all-day program Wednesday. Representatives from 50 academic and business colleges will attend a morning assembly for senior students and their parents.

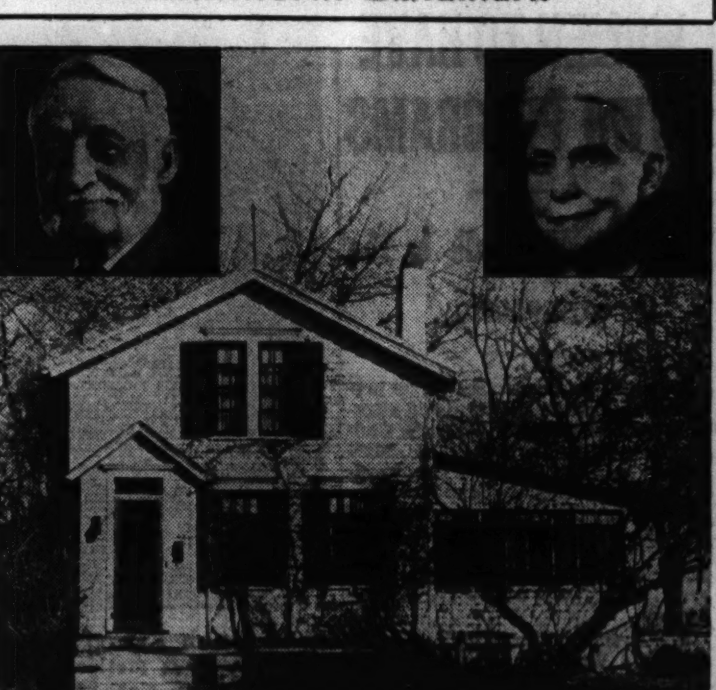
Hill, club president, and a forum discussion will follow the talk. Nearly 3 million copies of Dr. Durant's "The Story of Philosophy" has been distributed in several languages. He is now writing a five volume history of civilization.

Kenilworth Landmark



This white frame house on Devonshire lane in Kenilworth is a village landmark, according to Miss Dorothy Sears, daughter of the founder, Joseph Sears. It is the only remaining house of the several farmhouses which were on the original 225 acres which her father obtained in 1889. George Kruse, the tenant farmer living in this house, helped to build the first streets in the village 50 years ago. Insets are the late Mr. and Mrs. Sears, founders of Kenilworth. (Story on page 1.)

SINGER IN OPERA CHORUS PREFERS ENGLISH LYRICS

Mrs. Dobson Is Active in Music Promotion.

Edith Heffner Dobson.
[Gold Tone Photo.]

While opera stars take over the headlines and picture sections as the Chicago Opera company continues its brilliant season, the choristers remain in the background of the news as they do on the stage. There are 80 well trained singers in the regular chorus, under the direction of Kurt Adler, and more than 50 experienced singers in a junior chorus, directed by Miss May Valentine. The juniors are used to augment the chorus for several operas including "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Aida" and "Martha."

Edith Heffner Dobson, contralto and pianist, who is prominent in music groups on the north side, has been singing in the junior chorus for five years. She started with Miss Valentine's first group, continued under another director and returned with Miss Valentine this fall.

Began Study as Child.

"I've studied and lived music since I was 7 years old," said Mrs. Dobson, "but I didn't become actively interested in opera until I met my husband, Charles A. Dobson, who was a bass baritone with the Cincinnati Zoo Opera company. I had my first experience with the Cincinnati student chorus and learned all the operas, every part from cover to cover, working with my husband."

Mrs. Dobson has been in Chicago for 10 years and, since her husband's death six years ago, has been associated with Louis Rousseau, formerly of the Paris Opera Comique, as assistant voice teacher and accompanist at his school in the Auditorium building and his summer music colony at Eagle, Wis.

In club work, Mrs. Dobson has built up the Music Study club which is affiliated with the 9th district, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs and the national and state Federation of Music clubs. She served the club as program chairman, president, and director of the vocal ensemble for five years. She was music chairman for the district for four years and now is program chairman. She also is a member of the Lake View Musical society and opera chairman of the Illinois Federation of Music clubs.

Promotes Opera Study.

For three years, Mrs. Dobson has been promoting the study of operas in connection with local operatic performances. Under her direction, the Music Study club has presented three operas, "Rigoletto," "Cavalleria Rusticana," and "Shanewis" in condensed form. The last one was given last Sunday as a feature of Opera month and the club members are looking forward to an opera party this week.

"The junior chorus practiced once a week all spring and summer," said Mrs. Dobson, "and due to my experience, I was able to join them with a month's practice. We are prepared to sing more operas than we do."

Speaking of the changes in the opera company under its new management, Mrs. Dobson was enthusiastic about the spectacular stage sets. "William Wymetal, chief regisseur, is doing a grand job and the other departments are matching his excellent work."

Wants Drama in English.

Then considering what she would like to see done in opera, Mrs. Dobson exclaimed, "Isn't it a shame that it is necessary to give the story of the opera in the program? I would like to have more operas in English. That's Walter Damrosch's pet project. The score wouldn't lose anything with a good translation. Opera, you see," she went on, "is a musical drama and if people enjoy only the music—for not more than one fourth of the average audience understands foreign languages—they miss half the enjoyment of the performance.

She also believes that several opera companies should exist in Chicago to provide a place for amateurs to obtain operatic experience and that fine American operas should be presented every year.

"We need to encourage the young singers and composers and that is what our music clubs try to do," she explained. "If we can develop a love for and understanding of opera in our young people, they will attend all their lives."

GAIN VOCATIONAL EXPERIENCE BY STORE CLERKING

40 Evanstonians Busy in Holiday Rush.

About 40 young Evanstonians are getting their first vocational experience by working in the Evanston department stores during the holiday rush season. The young people prepared for the work by taking a two weeks' course in retail selling, sponsored by the Evanston Vocational Adjustment council, in coöperation with the department stores.

The course was aimed to help young people get jobs thru specific vocational training and simultaneously meet the need for trained sales persons. Edson M. Brock, controler at Lord's department store, and Dr. Ray M. Simpson, career counselor at Evanston Township High school, were in charge. Roy Ozanne and Katharine Donica, personnel workers, gave lectures.

Making a Survey.

In addition to this service, the council is sponsoring an occupational survey of Evanston which is being made by the business club students at Evanston High school, under the direction of Gilbert Peart, faculty member.

It will be the first canvass in Evanston to investigate employment opportunities for young people interested in the local business situation. Facts will be gathered on the types of jobs available and requirements in training, experience, age, and sex.

The council was organized last year by Buell Kenyon, acting chairman, and is composed of business men and women and professional workers with young people. Its principal project last season was preparing and publishing a pamphlet on "The A. B. C.'s of Getting a Job," which was distributed to all the high school graduates.

On Executive Committee.

Members of the executive committee are Mr. Brock, Dr. F. C. Rosecrance of Northwestern university, and Stacey Irish of the high school. Other active members are James Cotter, secretary of the Big Brothers; Robert Day, placement department, Northwestern; James Field, manager of the Evanston office of the Illinois State Employment service.

Mrs. Lois K. Graver of the public library; Miss Helen Lindsey, Y. W. C. A. secretary; C. G. Moser, Y. M. C. A. boys' work secretary; H. R. Kleinke and Miss Marie Thiele, Family Welfare association, and Vernon Keye, Mrs. Elmo Scott Watson, Dr. Simpson, M. J. Rogers, and Gilbert Peart.

Sigrid Undset Talks Today at Charles Carroll Forum

Sigrid Undset of Norway, Nobel prize winner in literature, will speak at the Charles Carroll forum this afternoon in the Palmer House. She will be introduced by Miss Helen C. White, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, author of "To the End of the World," a historical novel. Cochairmen of the meeting are the Rev. James A. Magner of Washington university, and the Rev. Francis Talbot, editor of America, national Catholic weekly publication.

ALDEN KINDRED PLAN FOREFATHERS' DINNER NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Gertrude A. Neely.

Myles Standish, 6280 West North avenue, and Priscilla Alden, 1645 North Linden avenue, will be among the Chicagoans attending the Midwest chapter of the Alden Kindred of America, meeting for their 28th annual forefathers' day dinner Tuesday night at the Chicago Engineers club, 314 Federal street. Miss Alden is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Alden of Melrose Park.

E. R. Sifert, superintendent of Proviso Township High school, will be the guest speaker at the 320th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims in America.

Officers of the chapter are Giles R. Atwood, president; and Mildred Alden Sparrow, secretary. Caroline Alden Huling is founder of the chapter. Mrs. Gertrude Alden Neely is program chairman.

On the menu of the banquet to be served at 6:30 o'clock will be Pilgrim ale, Priscilla soup, Carver turkey, Bradford dressing, Cape Cod cranberries, Brewster potatoes, Massasoit turnips, Pilgrim Rock salad, Duxbury muffins, Mayflower pie, and John Alden coffee.

Loyola Academy Fathers' Club to Have Vaudeville

Fathers' club of Loyola academy will hold its sixth annual vaudeville show Thursday evening in the school gymnasium, 6525 Sheridan road. Proceeds will be used for the school's scholarship fund. Thomas C. Keegan is president of the organization.

RADIO RATIONS ASCAP MUSIC AS DEADLINE NEARS

Fans Sample New Fare; No Complaints.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio listeners last week got a foretaste of the music that will constitute their regular fare unless the battle between the radio networks and ASCAP [American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers] is settled. On Dec. 1, CBS, NBC and several major stations imposed drastic restrictions with regard to the use of ASCAP controled music, mindful of the fact that ASCAP's contract with major networks and stations expires on Dec. 31.

ASCAP, as a clearing house for many music publishers, controls the performing rights of much of the world's popular music. It has been obtaining somewhat over $4,000,000 a year from the radio industry by a blanket assessment of 5 per cent of gross income of stations regardless of the fact that many sponsored programs used no music at all. Now ASCAP is boosting its demands to $8,000,000, according to broadcasters' estimates.

Led by the National Association of Broadcasters, a majority of the nation's stations are resisting the demands of ASCAP and only a few have signed new contracts. Unless a settlement is reached ASCAP music, with certain exceptions, will not be available for broadcasting after Dec. 31. It means that the music of Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin and many others will be missing.

Condition Radio Audiences.

Meanwhile, broadcasters have begun to condition their audiences for this probability by gradually reducing the proportion of ASCAP music and substituting music from other sources. The broadcasters' association organized Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI] to develop new sources of music. Besides fostering new music, BMI has acquired the rights to the catalogs of many publishing houses and is making new arrangements for much of the world's great music which is in the public domain. BMI claims to have added 250,000 selections to the broadcasters' repertoire.

If this is true, listeners might hope for a reasonable variety of music on the air, even if much of their favorite and familiar music is eliminated. That is precisely what broadcasters assert they were giving listeners last week despite the fact that W-G-N and CBS had eliminated ASCAP music from their sustaining [nonsponsored] programs and NBC had cut ASCAP music 50 per cent with the full ban on sustaining programs to become effective Dec. 15.

Variety of Music Heard.

An evening or two of listening to dance bands brought to light no striking omissions or gaps. There was an abundance of swing, ballads, and considerable familiar music. Some of the songs heard regularly on the Hit Parade were missing. There were some noticeable additions. Orchestra leaders have discovered Stephen Collins Foster [and particularly "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair"]—with a vengeance.

Many of the classics—for example, Brahms' "Lullaby,"—have appeared in dance dress. Nursery rhymes and tunes—such as "A Tisket a Tasket," are getting a big play. BMI has developed some hit tunes of its own and they are heard often—too often. Among these are "Practice Makes Perfect" and "The Same Old Story." [Descriptive, itn't it?]. While the broadcasts are repetitious, that was true, too, when ASCAP's music was fully available.

Many of the familiar theme songs of established programs and of name bands are gone. Many orchestras have blossomed out with new identifying melodies, often original compositions by their leaders or members.

Ray Noble has simply dropped his own tune "The Very Thought of You" and has not made a replacement. Art Kassel has replaced his "Doodle-doo-doo" with a new unpublished tune for which he welcomes title suggestions. The Quiz Kids have given up "School Days" for an original named after the program.

Operettas Still Available.

Henry Weber's Pageant of Melody has given up "You Are Free" from "Apple Blossoms" for a new theme song composed by Adolph Hoffman of the W-G-N staff. Because so much of concert and operatic music is in the public domain it is expected that even if the ASCAP restrictions become fully effective on Jan. 1 that programs of the type conducted by Mr. Weber would not be too seriously affected.

Steele Sisters

CHICAGOLAND CONCERT HOUR TO START ON DEC. 16

Light Classical Music on W-G-N Program.

The Chicagoland Concert hour, a new program based on the W-G-N and Mutual network policy of providing the best in all types of music, will be heard for the first time Monday evening, Dec. 16. It will begin at 10 o'clock and conclude at 10:45 each Monday thereafter.

The concert hour will present Henry Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra in light classical music. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak briefly each week. Marion Claire, lyric soprano of the opera and radio, will be the soloist.

Studio Guests Welcome.

The W-G-N chorus also will be heard. William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will produce the show. It will be aired from the W-G-N main audience studio. The station ticket department tomorrow will begin accepting requests for tickets to the broadcasts.

The Chicagoland Concert hour will be broadcast over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. In order to gain a place on the program, music must be melodious and of popular appeal.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

Col. McCormick's return to the air fulfills an intention he expressed Nov. 3 when the Sunday Symphonic hour was discontinued. Col. McCormick had spoken regularly on this program on developments in Europe, problems of national defense, and other matters of vital interest.

On the last broadcast Col. McCormick noted that it was no longer possible for the publisher of a large newspaper to know personally most of his subscribers, as was the custom in the days of personal journalism and smaller subscription lists. Hence, Col. McCormick said, he valued all the more his direct contacts with the people by means of broadcasts, and expressed his intentions of maintaining them.

Henry Weber will be returning to full time activity as musical director of W-G-N when he conducts the orchestra on the night of Dec. 16. For the past several weeks Mr. Weber has been occupied with the Chicago Opera company.

COLOR SCHEMING MAKES KITCHEN BRIGHT AND GAY

Cooking Laboratory Need No Longer Be Dull.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Efficiency strode into our kitchens some years back, and then sheer loveliness followed. Imagination and color humanized the fine equipment of manufacturers and the expert plannings of kitchen designers. And if it happens you are plotting some small or large gift for your kitchen, there are two brand new gas kitchens in the home building exhibit at the Merchandise Mart which abound in ideas to further your plans!

Here in these kitchens color scheming has been adroitly brought into play and under its humanizing influence large pieces of equipment and small accessories have a splendid setting.

Blue and Red Keyed.

In one of the kitchens a softly colored raspberry red linoleum is king pin on the floor; slightly marbleized with delicate stripes of blue and white. Blue here is the key color and these stripes end in a circular design on the breakfast nook floor. There's a leatherette settee in blue and also a blue table top, and the walls up to the smartly styled cabinets are covered with a grey-blue composition material, faintly marbleized like the floor, for the sake of texture.

Back of attractive shelves over the range there's a cool red, the same red which is repeated in the circular ceiling over the breakfast nook, and carried in a band around the upper walls to tie together the surface areas of the room. The design of this room is purposely very simple. There is a conspicuous absence of pattern, and the charm of the room is largely obtained by effective color distribution.

Guess Work Eliminated.

The range here is gas: A nice present, now that the spirit of Christmas is hovering over us, and in our mind's eye we see sheets of golden cookies to be baked, fowls to be roasted and puddings to be steamed. This range has beauty plus a host of practical features: Sef-lighting top burners, a smokeless broiler, a minute minder to call you when your cooking is done, and an oven with an amazing I. Q. Guess work is eliminated by its time and temperature control and its regulation and distribution of heat.

Then, too, there is the streamlined efficient gas refrigerator which fits into the kitchen's setting; automatic and destined to stretch many a family dollar by its evenly maintained temperature and its moist cold or dry cold compartments for your foods.

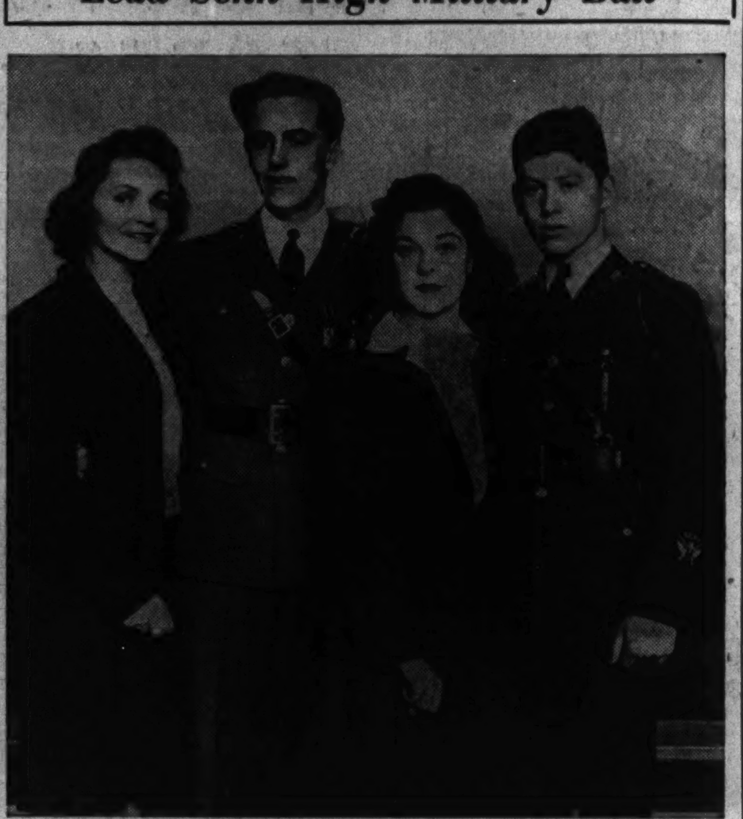
Presents for the kitchen are highly popular now, and a piece of equipment for the kitchen before the holidays will mean it can be enjoyed thruout the season, and then, when January comes, it will act as a stimulant if further kitchen modernization is planned.

Many Cabinet Styles.

These major servants in our kitchens have been designed by expert engineers and taste conscious stylists. You don't want them to dominate a kitchen but you do want them as a working background, and to harmonize with your decorations and accessories.

The market teems with finishes for ceiling, walls, floors, and countertops. There are no end of cabinet styles and sinks, cupboards, and dishwashing units. This larger type of equipment can fit into the picture whatever style kitchen you have.

Lead Senn High Military Ball



The annual military ball of the R. O. T. C. unit at Senn High school will be held Dec. 19. Heading the grand march will be these two couples (left to right) Miss Pat Griffin, 6200 Kenmore avenue; Lieut. Col. Karl B. Witte; Miss Leila Birnbaum, 3520 Lake Shore drive, and Capt. Frank Rubenstein.

MARION CLAIRE, MOJICA, THIBAULT STAR IN 'RIO RITA'

Marion Claire, Conrad Thibault, and José Mojica will combine their musical talents in the production of the gay, romantic "Rio Rita" on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

William A. Bacher, W-G-N's chief of programs and production, has promised that Saturday's production will be the most flashing and colorful of the season. Set in the Mexican border region, the songs and story are flavored with fiery Mexican romance and the daring of cactus-toughened Texas rangers.

In keeping with the Mexican atmosphere, José Mojica, leading movie and opera idol of Mexico, will play the part of Roberto, brother of Rita.

Marion Claire, Chicago's operatic soprano, who is the feminine star of all the operettas, will sing the titular rôle of Rita. Miss Claire sang with Mojica when both were members of the Chicago opera, and with Thibault last October in "The Vagabond King," the first operetta of the W-G-N season.

Conrad Thibault, famous American baritone, will star in the masculine lead in "Rio Rita."

LILY PONS JOINS ALBERT SPALDING ON RADIO TODAY

Lily Pons, noted Metropolitan Opera coloratura soprano, joins her husband Andre Kostelanetz, and his 45 piece orchestra and Albert Spalding, eminent violinist, as guest soloist of the new series, "The Pause That Refreshes on the Air" at 3:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Miss Pons appeared last week with the Chicago Opera. Tomorrow she makes her Metropolitan debut of the season in "Lucia di Lammermoor."

In the Kostelanetz program she is to sing "The Last Rose of Summer" from Flotow's "Martha" and Johann Strauss' "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltz. Spalding's solo of the afternoon is "Gitana" by Fritz Kreisler.

MISCHA AUER, RUTH GORDON ON CHICAGO HOUR

Comedian, Noted Actress to Be Featured.

Mischa Auer, Hollywood comedian, and Ruth Gordon, star of the legitimate stage, will be featured on the program "In Chicago Tonight" over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

Miss Gordon is the star of "Here Today" opening at the Selwyn theater tomorrow. Auer is appearing at the Chicago theater this week.

Auer, a native of Russia, had a tumultuous childhood. He was separated from his parents by the revolution. Adopted by his famous grandfather, Leopold Auer, Mischa came to America and soon began to appear on the stage.

After three years on the stage, he made his first picture with William Powell in "My Man Godfrey," and became famous for his impersonations. He likes photography, gaited horses, and deep-sea fishing. He and his wife recently adopted a 14-month-old girl.

Miss Gordon was last in Chicago in 1937 in the "Doll's House." Her long stage career began with a minor rôle in "Peter Pan" in 1915.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will direct the show, presenting Miss Gordon in dramatic sketches and Auer in comedy bits.

FARRAGUT HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON SCHOOL HOUR

Farragut High school of Chicago, named for Admiral David Glasgow Farragut, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, when it will be the subject of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" program on W-G-N. Six hundred students who have for their slogan that of Admiral Farragut "Full Speed Ahead," will be heard in their songs and their cheers.

Peter B. Ritzma, principal, will speak briefly and the Farragut chorus, conducted by Marie C. Ehrenwerth, will sing the school song.

More news of Chicago and Chicagoland schools will be discussed by Jerry and Jimmie, youthful members of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" cast. Philip Maxwell, the program's principal of the air and master of ceremonies, will conduct the weekly TRIBUNE News Quiz and tell the accomplishments of three high school students whose names will be inscribed on the Roll of Honor.

Tschaikowsky Symphony on W-G-N Next Thursday

The Chicago Symphony orchestra under the baton of associate conductor Hans Lange, will be heard in a presentation of Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. next Thursday. Prior to the broadcast portion of the program, Fritz Kreisler, world famed violinist, will play as guest soloist.

How to Keep Dog Young, Subject of Bob Becker

How to keep your dog young in body and spirit will be discussed by Bob Becker, authority on canine care, from 1:45 to 2 p. m. today over W-G-N. Daily exercise is the most important factor in keeping a dog strong and healthy, says Becker. He also will discuss diet, sleeping quarters, exercise, dental care, and weight as factors in keeping a dog young.

W-G-N Guest

Ruth Gordon, famous actress, who will make a guest appearance on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

ROSE BAMPTON, MARTINELLI IN 'AIDA' ON W-G-N

Last Opera Broadcast at 9:30 Tomorrow.

Rose Bampton and Giovanni Martinelli, headliners of the Chicago Opera company's production of "Aida" tomorrow will be heard on W-G-N Mutual's broadcast of the opera from 9:30 to 11 p. m.

The final two acts of Verdi's opera will be heard on the broadcast portion of the program. This broadcast will conclude the series of five radio presentations of Chicago Opera on W-G-N.

Miss Bampton in Lead.

With Miss Bampton in the title rôle as the Ethiopian slave, Martinelli, world famous tenor, will sing the romantic part of Radames, captain of the guard.

Also in the cast will be Elsa Zebranska as Amneris, George Czaplicki as Amonasro, Douglas Beattie as the King of Egypt, and Giuseppe Cavadore as the messenger. Paul Breisach will conduct.

Jagel on Melody Hour.

Climaxing several weeks of guest performances by stars of Chicago opera, Frederick Jagel and Dusolina Giannini will be heard on the Pageant of Melody at 8:30 p. m. The W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will be featured with the opera stars.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Dec. 9.

Commercial fertilizer companies are offering a tablet containing plant food that is easy and convenient to apply to the soil, for all that is necessary to do is to open the surface a bit, push in the tablet, and water. The essentials for growing are in the tablet. These complete plant foods are essential if one grows field, garden, or indoor plants and next to watering they are just as important if high grade plants are grown. City gardeners will appreciate the value of prepared foods for they do not have access to animal foods like the country cousin.

Tuesday, Dec. 10.

It is said that, if seeds are placed in a dish and sprinkled with a little water and dusted with red lead, they will repel mice. Shake well so that each seed is covered with the lead. After drying, the seed can be sown, their germinating power being unhindered or impaired.

Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Some shrubs that are fall planted frequently freeze back during winter because the wood dries out. These should be cut back to six inches of the ground; they include the tamarisk, Rose of Sharon, Weigela, Buddleia, Carolina allspice.

All fall planted stock should be given the protection of a mulch. This is excellent practice for all kinds of plants and it should not be neglected.

Thursday, Dec. 12.

When once a pot plant dries out it may never be the same or at least it will take a considerable time to bring it back to its former state. This is especially true of plants that are in full flower. Soon the delightful poinsettias will be seen in many windows. Give these plenty of water and light and avoid sudden changes of temperature.

Friday, Dec. 13.

Give the hyacinths plenty of water. If several are in the same pot, and it is so desired, the individual bulbs can be carefully removed and placed singly in a suitable container. They quickly come into full bloom if well rooted. The paperwhite narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, and hyacinth are all fine for growing in water supported with pebbles. A special hyacinth glass for hyacinths is best to use for this bulb. The common calla and the yellow species do well when grown indoors. Give good soil and, when once well rooted, water copiously.

Saturday, Dec. 14.

Have you begun the revised plan of the garden? How are the garden accessories — stowed carefully away? Are the birdhouses in place ready for repair or painting? How about the feeding stations? Are the young trees protected against the attack of rodents?

GAY STREETS, SHOPS AWAIT SANTA

LITTLE FINGERS BUSY WITH YULE GIFTS IN PARKS

Shape Gay Novelties for Kin, Freinds.

The spirit of Christmas shines in glowing earnestness from many young faces these days as boys and girls, and adults, too, put all the labor of love into gifts and trinkets which they are making to bring joy to friends and relatives when the glad day arrives.

Contentment, as well as concentration, can be read in the faces of hundreds of youngsters and oldsters now gathering weekly in northwest side parks, for their busy fingers are shaping gay ornaments, useful pocketbooks, practical mittens and gloves, and many other attractive articles. In fact, the Chicago Park district's art craft classes in this territory are beginning to look very like Santa's workshops!

Under the tutelage of art craft instructors, bits of metallic paper, or cellophane, or crêpe are somehow combined with small wires, daubs of paint, even bottle caps and hard shell nuts, into the most fascinating Christmas tree ornaments.

Make Paper Trees.

Equally beautiful are the complete artificial trees which the children are making, usually out of metallic paper or cellophane. A few transparent sipping straws become table-bedecking angels and choirboys; a little colored tissue paper makes a magnificent stained glass window background for a Christmas tree or gift table; bottle tops given ruffled centers of painted paper and strung together become a brand new kind of tinsel.

But these frothy and delightful articles are only the "dessert," while more practical and useful gift items form the main course on the craft class menu. Most of the park classes have the same basic plan of work, but each one varies as much and as often as its members get new ideas for gifts and designs. No one, outside of the maker himself, is prouder than the art craft instructor whose pupil develops a new and worthwhile article.

Works in Three Parks.

One of the busiest of these practical artist-teachers is Dorothy Driskell, whose full schedule each week is divided between classes at Riis, Humboldt, and Wicker parks. To mention individuals and the gifts they are making would hardly be fair in the opinion of Miss Driskell and her fellow instructors, for its would most certainly "tip off" some of the intended recipients of gifts as to what they might expect on Dec. 25—and that would never do!

However, Miss Driskell did mention the hand painted pictures, in opaque water colors, and the oil painted miniatures which some of the folks in Humboldt park are doing. She is particularly proud of the clever uses which some Wicker park members are finding for scrap materials. And the "finger free" design in which Riis park craft fans are making hand stitched kid and felt gloves is up to the minute in style.

Mrs. Stephanie Zalinski directs the varied activities of the Kosciuszko park classes. Her children designed the new bottle top and paper ruffle ornaments for their Christmas trees.

Friends of Kosciuszko class members are going to be delighted with the novelty bracelets made out of Mexican beans, and with the leather moccasins and bootees, lined with sheepskin, which are destined as Christmas gifts.

Groups in Norwood park, Portage park, and Independence park are being conducted by Dorothea Burch.

Learn Bone Carving.

A few boys in the Norwood park class are painstakingly learning bone carving, to make brooches for their mothers. Pomanders, too, stuffed with spices, will find a welcome place in many linen closets following the holiday.

Jensen park children do not have many indoor facilities for craft work, but they did not let this handicap prevent them from doing for others at Christmas time. Under the direction of the park supervisor, Victor Mann, a class of 20 children is making enough calendars to give one to every child in the park, and send a few to relatives besides. Cut out magazine pictures or hand drawings decorate the top half of these calendars, while the year's dates fill in the bottom.

Dolls in Modern Garb.

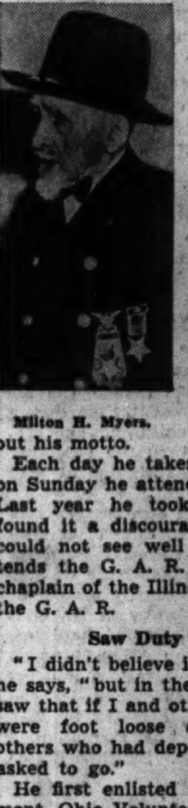
Dolls are so old as to be traditional, but those belonging to some of the children in the vicinity of Edison and Brands parks will be dressed in the height of modern style this Christmas, with evening gowns and fur chubbies included in their wardrobes.

These grown-up doll clothes are being made by the women's art craft classes, under the direction of Mrs. Lyn Swem. Doll furniture is also being made, much of it of the "overstuffed" variety.

The children at these parks are having great fun making stuffed animals for their younger brothers and sisters; coffee bottles, and table decorations for their mothers, and billfolds and key rings for their dads. Swedish bonnets, jerkins, and belts, brightly decorated in peasant fashion, are other gifts being made.

Jefferson, Rosedale, and Gladstone parks also have their art craft classes, under the direction of Miss Harriet Hemstreet.

At 99 He Finds People Pretty Much the Same



Milton H. Myers.

When Milton H. Myers, 99 year old resident of Park Ridge, left off riding his bicycle a dozen years ago it wasn't because his motto, "Wear Out; Don't Rust Out,'' had changed. It still hasn't.

He gave up the wheel after a collision with an auto. He had a broken jaw and his lower teeth were missing and his wife and children turned thumbs down on another bicycle. But he has found new ways to carry out his motto.

Each day he takes long walks and on Sunday he attends Sunday school. Last year he took up typing but found it a discouraging task for he could not see well enough. He attends the G. A. R. meetings and is chaplain of the Illinois department of the G. A. R.

Saw Duty in 1862.

"I didn't believe in killing people" he says, "but in the spring of 1862 I saw that if I and others like me who were foot loose didn't volunteer, others who had dependents might be asked to go."

He first enlisted in the 84th regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry for a three months' term and later in the 110th Ohio for the duration of the war. He was a first lieutenant when he received his final discharge in June, 1865.

He was in the battle of the Wilderness and early in the fight his company and two others were nearly surrounded and the soldiers broke and ran. "I'm very sure I didn't start the running, but I didn't want to be left behind, either," he says. Days later, with the same battle still going on, the young soldier was wounded.

He grins as he adds: "The only foraging I did was the day before I was injured and that was to get some sweet potatoes. My punishment was very fast in coming."

Kept Diary as Soldier.

His memories of the battle are keen and are augmented by a diary he kept while a soldier. He and his brother and four cousins entered the war and one of the cousins was killed.

Mr. Myers was born in Allegheny City, Pa., on Nov. 7, 1841. His ancestors had come from the German side of Switzerland soon after William Penn had founded his colony. A town near Lancaster bears the family name. When he was seven years old the family moved to Ohio. He was a teacher when he enlisted but never taught again.

After clerking in a drug store and traveling a while he took up his father's trade of paper hanging and painting. He later had a saw mill and finally became a contractor. In 1873 he married. His wife died last year.

Twenty-one Years in Park Ridge.

In 1892 they came to Harvey, Ill., to live and for the last 21 years he has lived in Park Ridge. He now makes his home with his son, Arthur. Another son is a professor at the University of Minnesota, there are 10 grandsons, five granddaughters, and 14 great-grandchildren.

If Mr. Myers could live his life over again he would be a teacher or a minister, he says. He has been a member of the Methodist church for 84 years.

Mr. Myers cast his first vote for Lincoln's second term and he has always been a Republican.

This man who is now in his 100th year likes progress and he likes people. People, he claims, are still the same, just living at a faster pace. He likes the radio, which is a great help to him in keeping up on the world events for he can no longer see to read.

Failed as a Driver.

In the early 1920's Mr. Myers decided that he'd have to join the parade and learn to drive an automobile. "I sank a hundred dollars in lessons and I never did learn," he announces. "Finally, I gave up trying because my wife said she wouldn't ride with me anyhow, as she didn't think I could see well enough to drive."

Airplanes, too, are no great mystery to this man who was born in the horse and oxen era and when a man's feet really were the best means of transportation. He's flown once and didn't feel nervous at all except when the plane banked a bit. Then, he remembered reading of a plane's ability to fly upside down and to spin in the air and his fears vanished.

Park Ridge's oldest resident is now looking forward to an even greater event than the last birthday and that is to next November when he will see his 100th birthday.

MUSIC, DRAMA WILL BE GIVEN AT VON STEUBEN

Musical organizations and the dramatic class at Von Steuben High school will present a joint program Friday evening at the school auditorium, 5039 North Kimball avenue.

The first half will be devoted to music, the orchestra being directed by Arthur Knopinski and the choirs, boys' octet, madrigal singers, and the "Post-Ninety Revue" by Clare J. Thomas.

Miss Carol Anger is the drama teacher and will be in charge of the second half of the festival, consisting of a presentation of "For the Love of Pete," by Bertha Burrill.

Christmas Season Finds Craft Classes Helping Santa

Meaningless, triangular pieces of metal paper, carefully put together, become a gleaming silver Christmas tree. Mary Messina, 2310 North Meade avenue, and Bernice Lelko, 2447 McVicker avenue, show how it's done at the Riis park art craft classes. Under the supervision of Miss Dorothy Driskell, park district instructor, these girls and many others are learning to make gay and unusual decorations and ornaments which will beautify their homes during the holiday season.

Pupils' Pennies Aid Appeal for Safe Crossings

Hundreds of Des Plaines school children are putting all their spare pennies into boxes at three of the city's public schools in the hope that they may help bring about the construction of signals and gates at three railroad crossings, at one of which a schoolmate lost his life Oct. 28, and which have been the scenes of fatal accidents to 16 other school children in 10 years. Business men and the city council also have contributed to the fund.

Have Almost $400.

About $400 already has been collected by a citizens' committee headed by Morris Houser. W. L. Fabian, local newspaper editor, is in charge of the collections.

The committee was organized last month due to the persistence of Wilbur Sulzbach, Lee Foster, and Vernon Wiberg, principals of the three public schools most closely affected; E. R. Selleck, superintendent of schools; Murray Smith, secretary of the business men's association; Judge A. L. Sengstock, and Antone Kadlec.

Plan I. C. C. Case.

The money will be used to bring a case before the Illinois Commerce commission in which it is hoped to obtain an order for the Chicago and North Western railway to put in signals and gates at Lee and Pearson streets and Graceland avenue, at an estimated cost of $2,500 each. About $1,500 is needed for the expenses of such a case.

Railway company officials pointed out that attempts to include these crossings in the group to be built with federal funds had failed, and that a watchman was on duty at each crossing 24 hours a day. A 21 year old youth was killed Tuesday at the Pearson street crossing.

Charles Miller.

The eighth annual Aviation Good Fellow ceremonies will take place at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 23, in the auditorium of the Chicago airport, 6200 South Cicero avenue. After the program more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy will be taken to poor families thruout the city.

Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for the campaign this year. Mr. Miller was a second lieutenant in the 16th squadron of the A. E. F., and saw six months' service in France during the first world war.

Specific plans for carrying out the work this season were made at a meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Churbuck, 6740 South Oglesby avenue, 1939 chairman of the Aviation Good Fellows. William Westlake, also a former leader of this movement, again was selected as public relations head for the campaign.

Young Mattie Corso of 5914 Fullerton avenue, isn't quite sure yet whether the puppet doll he makes will be used as a gift, or just become a member of his own cast of wooden actors! At the Riis park art craft classes, youngsters like Mattie are making these marionettes out of wood, carving the heads, hands, and feet out of balsam, and constructing the rest from wooden blocks and rods, joined by hooks.

PARK DISTRICT BOXING TOURNEYS OPEN THURSDAY

The third annual boxing tournament of northwest side parks will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at Holstein park, 2200 North Oakley avenue.

Competition will be in 12 divisions from pinweight, 75 pounds, to heavyweight, 175 pounds or more. The winner and runner-up in each division will receive a trophy.

No. Park College to Have Lecture Tuesday on 'Ersatz'

Dr. Reuben Gustavson, head of the department of chemistry at the University of Colorado, will lecture for the second time on the Tuesday evening series at North Park college. His topic is "Ersatz," and will deal with synthetics and the problems of scientific substitutes for raw materials. The program will start at 8 o'clock in the college auditorium, Foster and Kedzie avenues.

MINNEAPOLIS PASTOR WILL BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Richard Raines.

Dr. Richard C. Raines, pastor of Hennepin Avenue Methodist church of Minneapolis, Minn., will address the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall on the text "Come Ye Apart!" He will be introduced by Clifford W. Barnes, and the scripture will be read by Col. Robert G. Peck of the board of trustees.

Dr. Raines is much admired by college youth in America who have been impressed by his "University of Life," a program for universities started some years ago by Dr. Raines and now used in about twenty-five states, also because his sermons deal lucidly and fearlessly with current social issues.

HAMILTON FISH, NORMAN THOMAS TO HOLD DEBATE

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, and Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican Congressional leader from New York, will debate the subject "America Solving Her Problems" at Maine Township High school Tuesday evening.

This is the first of a series of lecture programs sponsored by the Maine Community Lecture Series, which is headed by Edward J. Morgan, dean of Maine Township Junior college, and Franklin R. Lindquist, English teacher at the high school. There will be three lectures this season.

Later lectures, all of which are held in the school gymnasium, will be on Jan. 15 and Feb. 12.

Series of Advent Vespers to Open in Bethany Church

The first of a series of special Advent vesper services will be conducted this evening at Bethany Evangelical Lutheran church, Wabansia and Narragansett avenues. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Marmaduke Carter, pastor of St. Philip's Lutheran church on the south side. His subject will be "It Is Always Advent—Before Bethlehem." The choir of St. Philip's church will also participate.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

FORSAKING the water in which he won an athletic letter for swimming at Von Steuben High school, Lester Greenberg of 3209 Argyle street, took to the air and last fall entered the Air Corps Technical school located at Lowry field in Denver, Colo. He recently was graduated as an aircraft armorer, and is fully trained to maintain United States air corps equipment. His work is indicated by the motto of the technical school: Sustineo Alas, or, I Sustain the Wings.

Lester Greenberg.

Next Tuesday evening will be a golden one for Mr. and Mrs. Julius Nieland Sr., for on that date they will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a dinner in the Parkway hotel. The Nielands, both 68 years old, were born and reared in Chicago. Their four children, all of whom are married, are Julius Jr., 3657 North Whipple avenue; Arthur, 2019 West Farragut; Mrs. Doris Marhus, New York City, and Mrs. Myrtle Niemann, 3744 North Whipple street, with whom the parents make their home. Five grandchildren and one great-grandchild complete the family.

ETHEL REID LUNDBERG, 5545 Giddings street, has been chosen as the soprano soloist for the Lutheran Oratorio society of Chicago. She will sing when the society presents "The Messiah," by Handel in Thorne hall on the Northwestern university downtown campus on Dec. 17. Music comes naturally to this singer for her father, Guy W. Reid, 5535 Leland avenue, is the band and orchestra leader at Foreman High school. She made her vocal debut in Chicago three years ago, and was formerly soloist at Mount Carmel church. She now directs three choirs at the Nebo Lutheran church.

Ethel Reid Lundberg.

Mary Gillies, 1102 North Lawndale avenue, is busy these days as she helps to arrange the Loyola University Service Guild's annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Holy Family parish. The party will be held on Saturday at the downtown Loyola campus, 28 North Franklin street.

SIXTY-FIVE years ago, a smiling young couple were married with all the colorful ceremony inherent in the native Hungarian customs of those happier days abroad. A week ago, that same couple, Rabbi and Mrs. Isaac Klein, 3605 Leland avenue, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary. Rabbi Klein is 88 years old; his wife is 82. They have eight children, 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

INSTEAD of his usual celebration at home, William E. Bertram, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bertram, 4948 North Central Park avenue observed his 24th birthday in an army camp last Friday. He has been appointed a flying cadet in the army air corps, and was asked to report for duty on 24 hours notice, at the Missouri Institute of Aeronautics at Sikeston. The 10 weeks' training period here will be but the beginning of his three year enlistment. Mr. Bertram is a graduate of Von Steuben High school and Wright Junior college, and attended De Paul Law school.

William Bertram.

HOLD RECEPTION TODAY AT MAINE JUNIOR COLLEGE

Parents and friends will be greeted by students of Maine Township Junior college in a reception from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon. The event is sponsored by Decurionate, student government association.

Guests will be met by a receiving line headed by Supt. T. R. Foulkes, and including Dean Edward Morgan, Paul Shaw, Howard Obeleke, Jess Yates, Gwen Jenkins, Margaret McPherson, and Margaret Foulkes.

Lois Cole is chairman of the arrangements committee. She is being assisted by Gwen Jenkins, Lillian Wiffin, Bob Wogstad, and Jess Yates. Music for the reception will be provided by a string trio consisting of Margaret Baker, David Held, and Stanley Habben. Tea will be poured by Lois Cole, president of the Women's club, and Olive Allen, president of the Women's Athletic association.

ALL NORTHWEST SECTIONS SHOW HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Merchants Look for Record Business.

Santa Claus' symphony will be heard at any business center at any time during the day on the northwest side from now until Christmas, and it will be louder than ever before, it is predicted.

This symphony cannot be reproduced by even the most talented orchestras, because it includes the sound of shuffling feet, street car gongs, and children's voices, as well as Christmas carols broadcast by loudspeakers.

"H-m," a music critic might say, as he listened at a busy intersection. "I detect an exaggerated use of the percussion instruments."

Cash Register Music.

And amidst the other sounds will be heard the "p-n-n-g" of cash registers. Music to the ears of merchants who predict the largest Christmas sales in years. Perhaps they will set a record.

Community business centers are being generously bedecked with Santa Clauses, Christmas trees, decorated lamp posts, and loudspeakers pealing forth Christmas music as added attractions to the throngs.

Loudspeakers similar to those used on downtown State street will be installed by the Jefferson Park Chamber of Commerce for several blocks each side of the intersection of Lawrence and Milwaukee avenues.

Christmas carols will be broadcast over this system from the Jefferson park fieldhouse, each of the local clubs and churches to sponsor one evening's program. This is the first year the devices have been used in this area, according to W. W. Luedtke, president of the chamber of commerce.

Will Decorate Poles.

The Albany Park Chamber of Commerce will decorate all light poles on Lawrence avenue between the river and Pulaski road with candles and wreaths, as well as signs wishing a merry Christmas to all. Under the direction of L. R. Cohen, ice skating carnivals are to be held for the children of the neighborhood at the flooded Eugene Field park football field.

In view of the opening of three large new stores in the Grand-Harlem district, that chamber of commerce has planned more elaborate decorations than usual in order to welcome the newcomers. All the poles will be decorated with wreaths and Christmas greens, and there will be streamers across the street. Grand avenue between Nordica avenue and 73d avenue, Elmwood Park, and Harlem avenue between Medill and Wrightwood avenues will be decorated.

John Anderson, vice president of the Norwood Park Chamber of Commerce, has arranged to broadcast Christmas songs over four loudspeakers which will be placed outside the Lyric School of Music, 6108 Northwest highway, of which he is director.

The chamber will, as in recent years, place a large Christmas tree in front of the Norwegian Old People's home, Nina and Avondale avenues. The business streets will be decorated with banners and streamers.

In Portage Park.

B. Z. Urbanski, new president of the Portage Park Chamber of Commerce, announced that poles on Milwaukee and Cicero avenues and Irving Park road would be decorated for about two blocks each side of the intersection.

Barney Franzen, chairman of the Des Plaines business men's committee, has planned the most impressive decorations yet for that city. One street display will consist of an imitation pipe organ being played by a dwarf while six other dwarfs watch. Recorded music will be amplified. Street poles will be decorated with candles, and the Garden club will furnish wreaths for them.

Joseph Smouse, president of the Park Ridge Chamber of Commerce, said that the 40 foot Christmas tree which has become a tradition in the city's business center will be set up this week. The park surrounding the tree will be the scene of musical programs presented by choral and school groups.

TRIBUNE ORDERS 491 MEDALS FOR CADET AWARDS

An order has been placed for 491 Tribune R. O. T. C. medals which will be awarded to 72 universities, high schools, and military academies in Chicagoland and neighboring states this semester by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The awarding of medals for excellency in R. O. T. C. work has been a custom of long standing, and each year the cadets in the various units who have shown the greatest ability in their military work are given a Tribune medal. The medals are either gold, silver, or bronze, the bronze being given to the lower classmen. One of the first presentations of the year will be at the Evanston Township High school on Dec. 18.

Park Ridge Dinner.

St. Luke's church of Park Ridge is introducing its first smorgasbord, given by members of each circle of the Ladies' Aid, on Friday from 5 till 8 o'clock.

A FRIEND BEHIND THE WHEEL.

A fellow motorist helped me out of an embarrassing predicament last Saturday afternoon, and if all motorists knew how much such courtesies, even small, are appreciated, I am sure there would be more courtesy shown.

I was driving a pretty girl named Caryl to the country when my car stalled in the middle of Foster and Ashland avenues and my battery was deader than a prehistoric doornail. I wouldn't have cared so much if it had only been anybody else with me, and I wouldn't have minded being stuck with Caryl if it had only been some place else. I don't know where everybody was going in such a hurry Saturday afternoon, or what they thought I was frantically waving at them about, but they kept on going and I kept on waving. It was mighty cold, too, you may remember.

Finally a pleasant man in an automobile bearing plates numbered 990-892 stopped and pushed me a short ways until my motor started. If everybody stopped to think how much a thing like that means, there would be more pushing.

My license number is 200-384, in case anybody else wants to push me when I'm stuck again. J. T. M.

[Editor's note: License number 990-892 is issued to E. H. Reeves, route 1, McHenry, Ill.]

THOSE FRIGID CARS.

How much longer do we have to wait for the storm windows to be put on the Grand avenue cars? You can get on a Grand avenue car feeling very comfortable but by the time you have reached your destination you are ready to be thawed out. What seems to be the trouble? There are plenty of men out of work who would be willing to take this job especially at Christmastime when the money would come in handy.

Another thing, passengers should not be put off at Austin avenue when there is not another car in sight. About 6:05 p. m. on Dec. 2 there were at least 25 people put off the car at Austin avenue to stand there in the cold, and believe me it was plenty cold. It seems there ought to be a supervisor at Austin avenue to make the Grand avenue car go all the way to Harlem avenue when there isn't another car ready to go.

A GRAND AVENUE CAR RIDER.

YELLOW TRAFFIC SIGNAL.

I have just returned to the northwest side from a business trip which took me to several eastern towns where at first I was surprised by the length of time the yellow traffic light remained on. But as time went on I also found that there was no starting up on the yellow light and that pedestrians weren't often caught by a change of traffic. In Boston the yellow light remains on for 40 seconds.

This is perhaps too long, but with our one second and three second lights it's no wonder there is no way of stopping people from "jumping" the green light. And especially with the coming of slippery streets, it is worth while pointing out that in many cases it is impossible for a person to stop his car before the light has turned red. YELLOW-LIGHTER.

SCOUT LEADERS FOR 3 DISTRICTS TO HAVE DINNERS

Executive for Four States to Speak Tuesday.

C. J. Carlson, Boy Scout executive for Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, will address 300 men of the Northwest district of the Chicago Boy Scout council at the annual stag dinner Tuesday evening at the Swedish club, 1258 North La Salle Street.

C. J. Carlson.

Unit leaders and many members of troops in the seven communities in the district are expected to attend. The communities are Kelvyn Park, Logan Square, Humboldt park, Montclare-Cragin, West Town, Lincoln park, and near north side.

Talk on Alaska.

After the business meeting Harold W. Snell of the Alaskan Railways will give an illustrated travelog on Alaska. Vincent Macha, 3659 Armitage avenue, member of Cub Pack 3027, will sing a soprano solo. Frank Matuszewski, 2009 Race avenue, who saved seven persons from drowning July 20 when their cabin cruiser capsized in Lake Michigan, will be introduced to the dinner guests.

At the annual dinner of the North Shore district tomorrow night at the Edgewater Beach hotel, guests will hear Dr. Preston Bradley speak on "Better Americans for America." Scout members and their families from the following communities will attend: Norwood-Edison Park, Shabbona park, Jefferson Park, Portage Park, Albany Park, North Park, Irving Park, Lake View, Ravenswood-Uptown, Northtown, Rogers Park, and Edgewater.

Herbert Heidkamp, 4553 North Western avenue, is program chairman, and will be assisted by R. O. Buehler, W. M. Dewey, Allen E. Hoban, C. E. Hallen, Larry Dobson, C. D. Reed, H. H. Coens, and M. F. Adams.

Suburban Council.

F. O. Proctor of Arlington Heights, will preside for the second time at the annual banquet of the northwest Suburban Scout council Thursday, in the Des Planes Congregational church, having been reëlected as president of the council last week. The Rev. John B. Hubbard, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church in Park Ridge will give the principal address.

John L. Bell and Hugh H. Calkins of Barrington, Robert B. Leslie of Park Ridge, and Erich Schalk of Des Plaines, were elected vice presidents, and Bell, as a past president, will present the Silver Beaver award to the council's outstanding scout leader at the dinner.

Harry F. Koelling of Park Ridge was reëlected scout commissioner; J. R. Lawrence of Des Plaines, treasurer, and W. H. Colman and F. O. Potter of Park Ridge, representatives on the national council. Installation of the new officers will also take place at the dinner.

BOY SCOUT UNIT ELECTS A NEW OFFICIAL STAFF

At the annual meeting of the Central district committee of the Northwest Suburban council, Boy Scouts of America, Erich Schalk of Des Plaines was elected chairman of the committee for 1941. James Wax, chairman of the troop committee of Troop 23, Mount Prospect, was elected vice chairman and S. H. Rosenthal of Des Plaines was named district commissioner.

Mr. Schalk has been active in scouting in Des Plaines for a number of years, serving as a member of the district committee, member of the board of review of Des Plaines, and member of the executive board of the Northwest Suburban council.

NEW CUB PACKS ARE FORMED IN NO. WEST AREA

Two new Boy Scout cub packs, numbers 3117 and 3150, have been organized on the northwest side, and their combined enrollment totals 19.

The former is sponsored by the Kimball Avenue United Episcopal church, Kimball and Medill avenues, and is headed by Cubmaster Julius C. Klotz, 3409 Fullerton avenue. Boys already enrolled are Donald Crombie, Donald Evensen, Keith Allen Hertsgaard, David Milleson, Allen Pozen, Richard Ronvik, Anders Solum, Edmund Unrich, and Clifford Alan Wyles.

The other pack is sponsored by St. Genevieve Roman Catholic church, 4835 Altgeld street, and John T. Curry, 5000 Drummond place, is cubmaster. Members are William Breen, William Boland, William Carroll, Claude Cimino, Richard Duggan, Robert Egan, Casimir Griglik, Gilbert Kose, Thomas Schubert, and Robert Venn.

They're 'Problem Children'

These joyful jitterbugs are problem children in the drama, "Growing Pains," which is being presented tomorrow and Tuesday evenings by the Kelvyn players as their first program of the season. The three act comedy depicting the troubles of young folks will be staged at the Kelvyn park fieldhouse, Wrightwood and Kostner avenues, under the auspices of the park district. Anna May Fiedler, 3722 Palmer street, and Ed Bercyn, 3135 Kostner avenue, are shown rehearsing their dance.

SCHURZ CHORUS OF 400 TO SING 'THE MESSIAH'

75 Piece Orchestra to Play for Oratorio.

The 75 piece orchestra and 400 voice chorus of the combined Carl Schurz day and night schools will assemble Wednesday and Thursday nights for their annual presentation of George Handel's famous oratorio, "The Messiah." It was 200 years ago this winter that Handel finished writing the masterpiece.

Especial significance is attached to this year's performance by Schurz students and alumni because it is the last one in which James Mason, popular director of the Schurz orchestra since the school opened 30 years ago, will take part. He will retire next spring.

Two Student Soloists.

For the last 11 years the direction of this mass performance has been in the hands of LeRoy Wetzel, musical director at the high school. Altho the piece was written for mature voices, it has been successfully sung by young and mixed voices under Mr. Wetzel's direction.

Two Schurz undergraduates will have solo parts in this week's presentation. They are Tessie Gore, a junior soprano, and Donald Roth, a 15 year old sophomore baritone.

Graduates to Sing.

John Fergey and Ellen Seplak, graduates of Schurz, will have baritone and soprano solos respectively. A third graduate, Margaret Lagerquist, will play the piano accompaniment, and a fourth, Betty Stropes, will play the organ.

School Dance.

The Junior Social Club of Carl Schurz High school will have its fall promenade Friday night at the Knickerbocker hotel, 163 East Walton street.

Golden Jubilee

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmidt.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmidt, 4857 West Deming place, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently with a reception at their home for their friends. Mr. Schmidt, who was born in Lake county 72 years ago, is still working in the stockroom of a northwest side firm. His wife, Anna, is 73. They have two children, William Schmidt, 2310 North Kostner avenue, and Mrs. Helen Schroeder, 816 North Leavitt street, and four grandchildren.

New Avondale Park Civic Council Meets Tomorrow

The first open meeting of the newly formed Avondale Park Civic council will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the park fieldhouse, 3516 School street. Members of the P.-T. A., business men's groups, schools, and churches are participating in the new club, whose purpose is to foster a community spirit in education and recreation. Mrs. Helen Semper, 3144 North Bernard street, is temporary president; Mrs. Vincent Romanowitz, 3099 Elbridge avenue, secretary, and Albert Rothengass, park district drama instructor, treasurer.

P.-T. A. PROGRAMS FOR WEEK HAVE YULETIDE THEME

Parties, Programs Augur Christmas Season.

"Merry Christmas" is the theme of most northwest side parent-teacher association programs this week, in anticipation of the school vacation season starting Dec. 20. Many of the December meetings are being given over to Christmas parties; the rest all feature holiday notes in addition to the regular program.

Student talent will highlight the Christmas program of the Peterson Parent-Teacher association at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the school assembly hall. Students of room 210 will present a Christmas play under the direction of Miss Ruth H. Hartum, while fellow fifth graders from room 211 will sing carols, directed by Miss Emma W. Schenk. Mrs. Holland Flagler of the Illinois congress will talk on "Gifts for the Community."

Barry—The parent education class will meet Wednesday in the school hall, to hear Dr. Kermit Olson speak.

Bateman—Members will sponsor a tour of the milk company at 3014 North Tripp avenue on Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock.

Belding—Mrs. Ruth Luvrien will talk on "Christmas Cooking" at the meeting starting at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the assembly hall.

Brentano—Members will meet tomorrow at 1:15 o'clock in the assembly hall to hear as their guest artist Mrs. H. R. Lingott, second vice president of the North Side council.

Falconer—A film, "Oil from the Earth," and entertainment by school children is scheduled for the Tuesday meeting, starting at 1:15 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Farnsworth—"Personality: What It Is and How It Is Developed" will be the subject of Dr. Mary Schroeder at the meeting Tuesday in the assembly hall, starting at 1:15 o'clock. A hostess card party will be given at the home of Mrs. F. H. Hennig, 2215 North Mobile avenue, on Wednesday.

Foreman—Thursday's meeting will open at noon with a luncheonette served in the social room of the school. A movie, "Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," will be shown.

Hibbard—Dr. Phillip Seman, director of the Jewish People's institute, will speak on the relationship between directed recreation and safety at the meeting Wednesday at 1:15 o'clock.

Hitch—A dessert-card party will be held Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock at 5525 North Milwaukee avenue.

Irving Park—"Music and Art" will be the theme for the meeting Wednesday at 1 o'clock in the school gymnasium. The toy band, composed of fourth grade pupils, will offer a Christmas selection under the direction of Mrs. A. B. Cavanaugh. Christmas carols will be sung by fifth and sixth grade pupils. Miss Mila Baker and her Seeing Eye dog also will be on the program.

Lewis—Speaking on "Character Education," the Rev. Carl Rembold, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, will address the meeting Thursday at 1:15 o'clock in the assembly hall.

Linne—The meeting Thursday at 1 o'clock will take the form of a birthday party. Past presidents will be presented by Mrs. Fannie Flynn, historian.

Lloyd—A regular meeting and a Christmas party will be held Friday at 1 o'clock in the school auditorium. The meeting will open with a choral demonstration by pupils under the direction of Miss Magda A. Jensen. A one act play, "The Bamboozledyke Chair" will be presented by the Dramatic club. The cast consists of Mrs. Herman Grell, Mrs. George M. Nelson, Mrs. Carl Anderson, and Mrs. William Storvik.

Lovett—The program on Friday at 1 o'clock will include two educational movies presented by Mr. Harry Stafford. Christmas carols will be sung by the Steinmetz High school mother singers, and a program by the school children.

Midwest Council—Midwest Council of Parent Teacher Associations will have its regular meeting at 9:45 o'clock Thursday at the Linne school, 3221 North Sacramento avenue. Mrs. William Tompkins will preside.

Nixon—Members will meet on Tuesday at 1:15 o'clock. The Christmas program will be presented by the school children. The Rev. Grant A. Butler, pastor of St. Paul's Congregational church, will be the speaker.

Portage Park—"Learn Social Hygiene with Your P.-T. A." will be the topic of Dr. Franklin Fitch, of the Illinois Social Hygiene league. The meeting will be held at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow in the school auditorium. The association is sponsoring a dessert luncheon card party at 1807 West Walnut street, at 1 o'clock Friday.

Reinberg—Two sound pictures, "The Largest Club in the World" and "Oil From the Earth" comprise the double-feature program for the meeting at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the auditorium.

Thorp—A white elephant sale and games are on the program for Wednesday at 1:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. Christmas carols will be sung by the school children.

Wicker Park—Members will give a Christmas party for parents and teachers at 1 o'clock Wednesday in the school assembly.

Church Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Clark are at home at 2545 North Kilpatrick avenue. The bride is the former Theresa Marie Abruzzo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Abruzzo of Rogers Park, and her husband is the son of Mrs. James Clark of Austin. The wedding was held in St. Jerome's church.

Learn to Dance the HUNTINGHOUSE WAY and live a lot longer

SELECT YOUR SCHOOL CAREFULLY

Every person can become a marvelous dancer, but you must learn it. It cannot be taken in a spoon or handed you on a tray.

A novice's dance trouble ain't where he thinks it is, but it is where he thinks it ain't.

We teach you to dance from the brain downward, and not from the feet upward. All dancing is done thru brain suggestion, and the feet have very little to do with it.

It is not what "Steps" you make, but how you move your body in time, tune and accent with music that makes you an artistic dancer.

We teach men to dance with their own wives and mothers-in-law, and they like it.

Sane music is an important factor in getting full measure of fun out of your dancing. We employ sane music only.

HOME FINDING GROUP TO NOTE 35TH BIRTHDAY

Lutherans Have Cared for 2,000 Children.

A commemoration of kindness is being observed today with the celebration of the 35th anniversary of the Lutheran Home Finding society. In 1905, a number of men and women were advised of the necessity of supplying foster homes for dependent children of Lutheran parentage, particularly for those who found their way into the Juvenile court as the result of improper conditions in their homes.

The Lutheran Home Finding society, organized in that year and incorporated two years later, was the answer given to this problem. In its years of existence more than 2,000 dependent boys and girls, from infancy up to 16 years of age, have been cared for.

Has 800 Members.

Today the society has 800 members assisting its program of child welfare. These members, thru the society, are at the present time caring for 330 dependent children. The projects are handled thru the receiving home and offices maintained at 4840 Byron street.

This afternoon an anniversary program has been arranged at the Church of the Redeemer, Berenice and Lamon avenues, starting at 3:30 o'clock. Dr. C. A. Mellby, professor of economics and sociology at St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., will deliver an address on "The Modern Trend in Child Welfare." A musical program will be furnished by the Adelphi Choristers, directed by William C. Anderson and accompanied by Alice B. Grund. Stanley Dodge will be the organist.

Members of Staff.

Christian J. Buslee is superintendent of the society's staff. His assistants include Deaconess Caroline Williams, Juvenile Court representative, and Margaret Ronnerud, case supervisor. Clara Hoffoss, Ninnia Huggenvik Hoel, Marian Evertz, Deaconess Christine Severtson and Eloise Swanson are the caseworkers. Dr. Joel W. Knudson is the staff physician, Ruth Reitan Currens, staff nurse, and Elmer E. Abrahamson, counsel.

As president of the board of directors, Magnus I. Ronning will give a message of welcome at the program today. Other members of the board are Charles J. Iverson and K. I. Songe, vice president; Thorwald A. Foxvog, secretary; Arthur Nasheim, financial secretary; Rudolph A. Gustafson, treasurer, and L. G. Bunton, Odd Ellewsen, Edwin G. Hanson, Mrs. J. O. Laugman, Mrs. Eric B. Nielson, Mrs. Nick Nielsen, Mrs. Helen R. Skonning, Mrs. S. Thompson, and Miss Lillian Field.

Sigma Omega Alpha.

Sigma Omega Alpha will have as its guest speaker Benjamin Burack, who will discuss "The Beginning of Psychology" next Friday at the Kilbourn park fieldhouse. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

MIDWEST JEWS PLAN TO HOLD 2 DAY MEETING

Palestine Situation Will Be Theme.

Nearly 100 of the 1,500 delegates to the midwest conference of the United Palestine Appeal next Saturday and Sunday will be from the northwest side. The conference will represent Jewish organizations from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

The Palestine Appeal is the American supporting agency of the Palestine Foundation Fund and the Jewish National Fund, which are devoted to the building of Palestine into a Jewish homeland. Among its national officers are Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Albert Einstein, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and Nathan Straus.

Among the speakers at the meeting, which will be held at the Palmer House, will be Sir Norman Angell, British statesman and Nobel peace prize winner; Dr. Solomon Goldman, national co-chairman of the United Palestine Appeal and a leading Chicago rabbi and civic leader; Kurt Blumenfeld, president of the German-Jewish Settlers' association of Palestine; Dr. James G. McDonald, chairman of President Roosevelt's committee on political refugees; Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the administrative committee of the World Jewish congress, and Henry Montor, executive director of the United Palestine Appeal. Benjamin R. Harris is local chairman of the conference.

Among the many northwest siders representing temples, Zionist districts, and other Jewish organizations, who will attend the conference, are Rabbi B. H. Birnbaum of Logan Square congregation, Rabbi David Graubart of Humboldt Boulevard congregation, and Rabbi Max Dolnick.

Others also sponsoring the conference are Henry Dubow, 4734 North Lawndale avenue; Meyer Halushka, 531 North Drake avenue; Samuel H. Holland, 5001 Central Park avenue; Isidor Janowitz, 3717 Sawyer avenue; Leo H. Lowitz, 5637 North Christiana avenue; Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn of Temple Beth Israel; Mrs. Aron Osri, 4821 North Keeler avenue, and Mrs. Chana Polishuck, 3913 West North avenue.

Shakespeare's "Macbeth" will be presented at a meeting of the Young People's club of the Hebrew institute of Albany Park this afternoon. It will be given at the River park fieldhouse, and will be directed by Carl Lyle Steiner, dean of the Cosmopolitan Preparatory school.

Rabbi Solomon Goldman will be the speaker at the second meeting of the Humboldt Boulevard temple forum tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock. He will speak on "The Jew Faces the World."

The next lecture in the Albany Park forum series will be given by Prof. Melville J. Herskovits, of Northwestern university tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock at Temple Beth Israel, Bernard and Ainslie streets.

Shaare Zedek Young People's league of Logan Square temple will hold a tea dance at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the social hall at 3135 West Fullerton avenue. Miss Sylvia Sadrow and Marvin Rubin are co-chairmen.

Physicians' Club Auxiliary to Discuss Pioneer Meals

In line with its year's theme of American citizenship and history, the Physicians' Fellowship club auxiliary will have as its topic Friday "Festive Dinners of the Settlers of America." This discussion will be led by Mrs. Leon Grotowski, at a meeting opening at 2 o'clock, at 2512 North Kimball avenue. A Christmas party and pot luck luncheon will follow the program.

CHILDREN PUT ON BEST AIRS; SANTA'S COMING

You Hardly Would Know Some Youngsters Now.

Christmas is heaving into view and word is quickly spreading among the very young generation of the northwest side that Santa Claus is beginning to gather reports on who deserves nice presents and who doesn't.

Fights and loud talk are disappearing from homes with children of this generation, just as they do after a political election. Previous differences of opinion between children and those of their families in closer touch with Santa Claus are unheard of nowadays.

"Who, me?" said 9 year old William Glisson, a third grade pupil at Portage Park Elementary school, in an indignant tone of voice. "Heck, no, I never have any trouble with my ma. Of course because of the cold weather, I'll have a little more time for my piano lessons now. But she hasn't scolded me about them, very much."

Parents Cramp Style.

When parents were around, it was a little more difficult for children to put across the idea that everything was in complete harmony.

"Sure, I always eat fine," exclaimed Victoria Petretti, 8, one of four of her family at the Ryerson Elementary school. They live at 3602 West Chicago avenue.

"What was that you said?" demanded her mother, Mrs. Victor Petretti.

"Well, when daddy cooks the meat it never comes out right," Victoria admitted, "but I think I can manage it for the next few weeks."

Her 4 year old brother, Junior, seems to have trouble keeping the water in the bathtub when he's in it.

"Aw, ma," he said when his mother reminded him of the fact, "Santa Claus doesn't use our bathroom, does he?"

Young Ones Anxious.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson, 5227 Hutchinson avenue, have a family of five girls and one baby boy. Barbara, 5, and Nancy, 4, seem to be the ones most concerned about Santy's approaching visit, however.

"I think Santy will bring me a doll and a buggy if I keep on helping my mother wash the dishes the way I have been," Barbara said. "I'd like a carpet sweeper, too. . . ."

"O, that 'minds me," interrupted Nancy. "I want a vacuum cleaner for Christmas, and in order to be good I'm going to help clean the house with it, after I get it."

"I don't think Santa Claus does any business on credit," she was told.

No Gum on Plate.

Don Pavlis, 4, of 2524 North Meade avenue, is going to stop putting gum on his plate at dinner, he says. "From now on I'm going to throw it in the wastebasket."

His sister, Dolores, 6, a pupil at the Mary Lyon Elementary school, wants a telephone for the back porch of her dollhouse. Don added that he wanted a telephone book so he could use the doll's telephone.

Telephones are one thing that Santa can hardly afford to give away. He needs all he has himself. Don's and Dolores' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gus Pavlis.

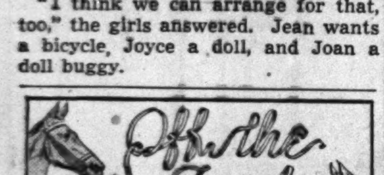
Music Spirit Jumps.

Janet Van Gorp, 9, of 5857 West Circle avenue, a pupil at the Norwood Park Public school, is going to practice on the piano more regularly. Her sister, Margaret, 6, is going to take care of their 2 year old brother, Dirick, so Santa Claus will bring her a double-decked bed for her two dolls. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Gorp.

There are going to be much neater table manners in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Landon, 3853 North Avers avenue, it was announced by their three daughters—Jean, 9; Joyce, 7, and Joan, 4.

"They could also be a little more prompt dressing and getting to school [the older two go to Murphy Public school]," Mrs. Landon suggested.

"I think we can arrange for that, too," the girls answered. Jean wants a bicycle, Joyce a doll, and Joan a doll buggy.



Several residents of the northwest side and nearby suburbs entered their mounts in the International Live Stock exposition horse show which closed yesterday. Among them were Tim Corvill of Norwood Park; Miss Margaret Emmert, 4865 North California avenue; Miss Mary Lou Gloor, 6243 North Nordica avenue; Frank M. Jayne and Miss Eileen Jayne, 5663 Elston avenue; Silas Jayne, 4701 Cumberland road; Mrs. H. A. Kellner Jr., Itasca; Miss Dolores McDonnell, 1736 North Nagel avenue; Louis Schlosser, Des Plaines; Henry W. Solta, Norwood Park; Mr. and Mrs. William Struth, 5355 Eddy street, and Ray A. Titus, 4701 Cumberland road.

Henry W. Solta, who is owner of the White Banner stables on River road, is a conscientious horseman. He is still mourning the death of a mare he sold to the French army before its collapse. The mare went down in midocean when her ship was torpedoed.

John and Tom Oswald, 3713 North Spaulding avenue, are members of a newly formed group that plans to ride each week-end at a different stable in the Chicago area. Last Sunday the boys rode at the Grove Hill stables on the southwest side.

Forty members of the Trotters' club, who in mild weather ride horseback from the Fairview ranch on Lawrence avenue, last week substituted a ride in Frank Sykes' new giant bobsled. The group rode to Bensenville and finished up with a party in the ranch clubrooms.

Good Fellows of the Air Lanes

Santa Claus has traded in his reindeer for an airplane because of the hearty co-operation of the aviation Good Fellows. The eighth annual aviation Good Fellow ceremonies will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 23, in the auditorium of the Chicago airport, 6200 South Cicero avenue. After the program more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy will be taken to needy homes thruout Chicago. Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster, who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for this year's campaign. Among the west and northwest side aviation Good Fellow leaders are, left to right, standing, James L. McEvoy, John Hutchinson, and seated, left to right, Miss Adela Adamec and Miss Marge Dickman. ROOSEVELT HIGH JUNIOR DANCE IS SET FOR FRIDAY

President of Council Names Committee.

The second annual junior dance of Roosevelt High school will be held Friday night at the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue. The committee in charge of arrangements, as picked by Claude Carmichael, president of the junior council, is composed of Marilyn Sandquist, Florence Cooper, Julius Lieberman, Sally Wheelock, Bernard Susman, Francis Sturt, Roy Witt, Sally Goldstein, Virginia Soderburg, and Abe Goldman.

Seven Roosevelt students have received awards of one sort or another recently. In the traffic poster and slogan contest conducted by the Keep Chicago Safe committee, Muriel Larson and Arlyne Balikov received bronze plaques.

In the book week poster contest, sponsored by the Albany Park public library, the first three winners, in order, were Marilyn Ablam, Roy Schmaltz, and Sidney Rushakoff, who received ribbons.

Ruth Goynshor, a reporter on the Roosevelt Weekly, student publication, was Roosevelt's winner of the scholarship to the Dale Carnegie institute. The course, lasting six weeks, is in effective speaking.

Sidney Rushakoff and Sam Kweskin, an artist for the Weekly, won scholarships to the Harrison School of Art.

RIDING COURSE BOOKLET FINDS A READY SALE

Demand for the new 52 page Tribune booklet on beginners' horseback riding instruction indicates a wide interest in horse trail activities in spite of the severe weather, according to employés of the Tribune's Public Service offices.

The booklet, entitled "A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride," is on sale at the Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street, as well as downtown book, department and sporting goods stores. It is priced at 25 cents over the counter and 27 cents by mail.

Requests for the work are made by riders and nonriders of all ages, not only in Chicagoland, but from more distant areas of the middle west, according to the Public Service offices.

PURPLE HEART AUXILIARY TO GREET OFFICERS

New officers of the ladies' auxiliary of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Posbeck Unit No. 77, will be installed Friday evening at 4021 North Drake avenue. Mrs. George Bradfield, national parliamentarian of the auxiliary, will be the installing officer.

Mrs. Mae O'Brien is to be the new president of Posbeck unit. Other officers are Mrs. Estelle Plate, senior vice president; Mrs. Helen Beach, junior vice president; Mrs. Alvina Gunz, secretary; Mrs. Laura White, treasurer; Mrs. Cecilia Foudray, chaplain; Mrs. Lena Prange, marshal; Mrs. Bertha Bernier, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Harriet Forgy, historian; Mrs. Eleanor Rasch, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Charlotte Fichter, sergeant-at-arms.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Dec. 9.

Commercial fertilizer companies are offering a tablet containing plant food that is easy and convenient to apply to the soil, for all that is necessary to do is to open the surface a bit, push in the tablet, and water. The essentials for growing are in the tablet. These complete plant foods are essential if one grows field, garden, or indoor plants and next to watering they are just as important if high grade plants are grown. City gardeners will appreciate the value of prepared foods for they do not have access to animal foods like the country cousin.

Tuesday, Dec. 10.

It is said that, if seeds are placed in a dish and sprinkled with a little water and dusted with red lead, they will repel mice. Shake well so that each seed is covered with the lead. After drying, the seed can be sown, their germinating power being unhindered or impaired.

Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Some shrubs that are fall planted frequently freeze back during winter because the wood dries out. These should be cut back to six inches of the ground; they include the tamarisk, Rose of Sharon, Weigela, Buddleia, Carolina allspice, and beautybush.

All fall planted stock should be given the protection of a mulch. This is excellent practice for all kinds of plants and it should not be neglected.

Thursday, Dec. 12.

When once a pot plant dries out it may never be the same or at least it will take a considerable time to bring it back to its former state. This is especially true of plants that are in full flower. Soon the delightful poinsettias will be seen in many windows. Give these plenty of water and light and avoid sudden changes of temperature.

The plants can be saved after flowering by allowing the soil to gradually dry out and allowing the plants to enter a period of rest. Next spring start into growth again, but first cut back the stems and repot. It hardly pays to keep the plants over because of their requirements. They delight in a humid condition and with around a minimum of 60 degree temperature.

Friday, Dec. 13.

Give the hyacinths plenty of water. If several are in the same pot, and it is so desired, the individual bulbs can be carefully removed and placed singly in a suitable container. They quickly come into full bloom if well rooted. The paperwhite narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, and hyacinth are all fine for growing in water supported with pebbles. A special hyacinth glass for hyacinths is best to use for this bulb. The common calla and the yellow species do well when grown indoors. Give good soil and, when once well rooted, water copiously.

If you receive a fernery or terrarium, be sure that the condensation of moisture is not excessive; correct such a condition by moving the cover a bit to aerate.

Saturday, Dec. 14.

Have you begun the revised plan of the garden? How are the garden accessories—stowed carefully away? Are the birdhouses in place ready for repair or painting? How about the feeding stations? Are the young trees protected against the attack of rodents?

COLOR SCHEMING MAKES KITCHEN BRIGHT AND GAY

Cooking Laboratory Need No Longer Be Dull.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Efficiency strode into our kitchens some years back, and then sheer loveliness followed. Imagination and color humanized the fine equipment of manufacturers and the expert plannings of kitchen designers. And if it happens you are plotting some small or large gift for your kitchen, there are two brand new gas kitchens in the home building exhibit at the Merchandise Mart which abound in ideas to further your plans!

Here in these kitchens color scheming has been adroitly brought into play and under its humanizing influence large pieces of equipment and small accessories have a splendid setting.

Blue and Red Keyed.

In one of the kitchens a softly colored raspberry red linoleum is king pin on the floor; slightly marbleized with delicate stripes of blue and white. Blue here is the key color and these stripes end in a circular design on the breakfast nook floor. There's a leatherette settee in blue and also a blue table top, and the walls up to the smartly styled cabinets are covered with a grey-blue composition material, faintly marbleized like the floor, for the sake of texture.

Back of attractive shelves over the range there's a cool red, the same red which is repeated in the circular ceiling over the breakfast nook, and carried in a band around the upper walls to tie together the surface areas of the room. The design of this room is purposely very simple. There is a conspicuous absence of pattern, and the charm of the room is largely obtained by effective color distribution.

Guess Work Eliminated.

The range here is gas: A nice present, now that the spirit of Christmas is hovering over us, and in our mind's eye we see sheets of golden cookies to be baked, fowls to be roasted and puddings to be steamed. This range has beauty plus a host of practical features: Sef-lighting top burners, a smokeless broiler, a minute minder to call you when your cooking is done, and an oven with an amazing I. Q. Guess work is eliminated by its time and temperature control and its regulation and distribution of heat.

Then, too, there is the streamlined efficient gas refrigerator which fits into the kitchen's setting; automatic and destined to stretch many a family dollar by its evenly maintained temperature and its moist cold or dry cold compartments for your foods.

Presents for the kitchen are highly popular now, and a piece of equipment for the kitchen before the holidays will mean it can be enjoyed thruout the season, and then, when January comes, it will act as a stimulant if further kitchen modernization is planned.

Many Cabinet Styles.

These major servants in our kitchens have been designed by expert engineers and taste conscious stylists. You don't want them to dominate a kitchen but you do want them as a working background, and to harmonize with your decorations and accessories.

The market teems with finishes for ceiling, walls, floors, and countertops. There are no end of cabinet styles and sinks, cupboards, and dishwashing units. This larger type of equipment can fit into the picture whatever style kitchen you have. It can blend with you kitchen if you go peasant with brick red linoleum on your floor and a blue painted door; or Mexican with some gourd hung wall paper and green linoleum; or smartly modern with picture windows and structural glass blocks; or back to Colonial days with knotty pine walls and even a brick fireplace and a low brick wall to serve as partition between dining nook and kitchen proper.

Incidentally, you'll see other rooms at this building exhibit: Lovely pieces of marble, beautiful tiles, and after Christmas, still more exhibits to come, including different types of automatic heat.

Play at Lane Tech.

Lane Technical High school drama students, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Weber, will present "Room Service" Thursday and Friday nights at the school auditorium, Addison street and Western avenue.

Engagement

[Hollywood Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Hand, 7131 Olcott avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Elsa Rosalind, to Melvin H. Fisher, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Fisher, 1335 Newport avenue. Miss Hand is president of the Edison Park Junior Woman's club.

CRIPPLED CHILD HELPERS TO GIVE PARTY SATURDAY

For the fifth consecutive year, the Willing Helpers for Crippled Children will hold their annual Christmas benefit card party to aid pupils of the Spalding school. The Helpers will meet Wednesday afternoon at the school to make final plans for the party to be held Saturday evening at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Frank Balata, 1127 North Harding avenue, president, is chairman of the party, while Mrs. George Moeller, 5113 North Lowell avenue, is in charge of tickets.

ROSE BAMPTON, MARTINELLI IN 'AIDA' ON W-G-N

Last Opera Broadcast at 9:30 P. M. Tomorrow.

Rose Bampton and Giovanni Martinelli, headliners of the Chicago Opera company's production of "Aida" tomorrow will be heard on W-G-N Mutual's broadcast of the opera from 9:30 to 11 p. m.

The final two acts of Verdi's opera will be heard on the broadcast portion of the program. This broadcast will conclude the series of five radio presentations of Chicago Opera on W-G-N.

Miss Bampton in Lead.

With Miss Bampton in the title rôle as the Ethiopian slave, Martinelli, world famous tenor, will sing the romantic part of Radames, captain of the guard.

Also in the cast will be Elsa Zebranska as Amneris, George Czaplicki as Amonasro, Douglas Beattie as the King of Egypt, and Giuseppe Cavadore as the messenger. Paul Breisach will conduct.

Jagel on Melody Hour.

Climaxing several weeks of guest performances by stars of Chicago opera, Frederick Jagel and Dusolina Giannini will be heard on the Pageant of Melody at 8:30 p. m. The W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will be featured with the opera stars.

Jagel, a famed American tenor, has appeared in several rôles in Chicago opera this season. Tuesday he will sing the rôle of Herod in "Salome."

FARRAGUT HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON SCHOOL HOUR

Farragut High school of Chicago, named for Admiral David Glasgow Farragut, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, when it will be the subject of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" program on W-G-N. Six hundred students who have for their slogan that of Admiral Farragut "Full Speed Ahead," will be heard in their songs and their cheers.

Peter B. Ritzma, principal, will speak briefly and the Farragut chorus, conducted by Marie C. Ehrenwerth, will sing the school song.

More news of Chicago and Chicagoland schools will be discussed by Jerry and Jimmie, youthful members of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" cast. Philip Maxwell, the program's principal of the air and master of ceremonies, will conduct the weekly TRIBUNE News Quiz and tell the accomplishments of three high school students whose names will be inscribed on the Roll of Honor.

W-G-N Guest

Ruth Gordon, famous actress, who will make a guest appearance on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

MARION CLAIRE, MOJICA, THIBAULT STAR IN 'RIO RITA'

Marion Claire, Conrad Thibault, and José Mojica will combine their musical talents in the production of the gay, romantic "Rio Rita" on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

William A. Bacher, W-G-N's chief of programs and production, has promised that Saturday's production will be the most flashing and colorful of the season. Set in the Mexican border region, the songs and story are flavored with fiery Mexican romance and the daring of cactus-toughened Texas rangers.

In keeping with the Mexican atmosphere, José Mojiça, leading movie and opera idol of Mexico, will play the part of Roberto, brother of Rita. The original production gives Roberto no singing part, but to assure the operetta a rollicking, festive effect, two typical Mexican songs, "Granada" and "Tu Partida," have been interpolated for Mojica.

Marion Claire, Chicago's operatic soprano, who is the feminine star of all the operettas, will sing the titular rôle of Rita. Miss Claire sang with Mojica when both were members of the Chicago opera, and with Thibault last October in "The Vagabond King," the first operetta of the W-G-N season.

Conrad Thibault, famous American baritone, will star in the masculine lead in "Rio Rita."

MISCHA AUER, RUTH GORDON ON CHICAGO HOUR

Comedian, Noted Actress to Be Featured.

Mischa Auer, Hollywood comedian, and Ruth Gordon, star of the legitimate stage, will be featured on the program "In Chicago Tonight" over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

Miss Gordon is the star of "Here Today" opening at the Selwyn theater tomorrow. Auer is appearing at the Chicago theater this week.

Auer, a native of Russia, had a tumultuous childhood. He was separated from his parents by the revolution. Adopted by his famous grandfather, Leopold Auer, Mischa came to America and soon began to appear on the stage.

After three years on the stage, he made his first picture with William Powell in "My Man Godfrey," and became famous for his impersonations. He likes photography, gaited horses, and deep-sea fishing. He and his wife recently adopted a 14-month-old girl.

Miss Gordon was last in Chicago in 1937 in the "Doll's House." Her long stage career began with a minor rôle in "Peter Pan" in 1915.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will direct the show, presenting Miss Gordon in dramatic sketches and Auer in comedy bits.

"DID YOU EVER SEE ADS PULL LIKE OURS?"
"And the best part is that Sunday Tribune Metropolitan section rates are so low we can advertise all year 'round."

FOR more than 12 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have been running low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections edited for and read exclusively by the families in their respective trading areas.

One or more of these five great sections—North, Northwest, West, Southwest and South—reaches your best customers and prospects—the people best able to trade with you. Your offers over your signature in the Sunday Tribune Metro sections can help you attract more customers—and sell more merchandise.

To get information on this low-cost profit building plan which proved its value to 745 neighborhood enterprises last year, call SUPerior 0100—Metropolitan section advertising.

RADIO RATIONS ASCAP MUSIC AS DEADLINE NEARS

Fans Sample New Fare; No Complaints.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio listeners last week got a foretaste of the music that will constitute their regular fare unless the battle between the radio networks and ASCAP [American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers] is settled. On Dec. 1, CBS, NBC and several major stations imposed drastic restrictions with regard to the use of ASCAP controled music, mindful of the fact that ASCAP's contract with major networks and stations expires on Dec. 31.

ASCAP, as a clearing house for many music publishers, controls the performing rights of much of the world's popular music. It has been obtaining somewhat over $4,000,000 a year from the radio industry by a blanket assessment of 5 per cent of gross income of stations regardless of the fact that many sponsored programs used no music at all. Now ASCAP is boosting its demands to $8,000,000, according to broadcasters' estimates.

Led by the National Association of Broadcasters, a majority of the nation's stations are resisting the demands of ASCAP and only a few have signed new contracts. Unless a settlement is reached ASCAP music, with certain exceptions, will not be available for broadcasting after Dec. 31. It means that the music of Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin and many others will be missing.

Condition Radio Audiences.

Meanwhile, broadcasters have begun to condition their audiences for this probability by gradually reducing the proportion of ASCAP music and substituting music from other sources. The broadcasters' association organized Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI] to develop new sources of music. Besides fostering new music, BMI has acquired the rights to the catalogs of many publishing houses and is making new arrangements for much of the world's great music which is in the public domain. BMI claims to have added 250,000 selections to the broadcasters' repertoire.

If this is true, listeners might hope for a reasonable variety of music on the air, even if much of their favorite and familiar music is eliminated. That is precisely what broadcasters assert they were giving listeners last week despite the fact that W-G-N and CBS had eliminated ASCAP music from their sustaining [nonsponsored] programs and NBC had cut ASCAP music 50 per cent with the full ban on sustaining programs to become effective Dec. 15.

Variety of Music Heard.

An evening or two of listening to dance bands brought to light no striking omissions or gaps. There was an abundance of swing, ballads, and considerable familiar music. Some of the songs heard regularly on the Hit Parade were missing. There were some noticeable additions. Orchestra leaders have discovered Stephen Collins Foster [and particularly "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair"]—with a vengeance.

Theme Songs Missing.

Many of the classics—for example, Brahms' "Lullaby,"—have appeared in dance dress. Nursery rhymes and tunes—such as "A Tisket a Tasket," are getting a big play. BMI has developed some hit tunes of its own and they are heard often—too often. Among these are "Practice Makes Perfect" and "The Same Old Story." [Descriptive, itn't it?]. While the broadcasts are repetitious, that was true, too, when ASCAP's music was fully available.

Many of the familiar theme songs of established programs and of name bands are gone. Many orchestras have blossomed out with new identifying melodies, often original compositions by their leaders or members.

Ray Noble has simply dropped his own tune "The Very Thought of You" and has not made a replacement. Art Kassel has replaced his "Doodle-doo-doo" with a new unpublished tune for which he welcomes title suggestions. The Quiz Kids have given up "School Days" for an original named after the program.

Operettas Still Available.

Henry Weber's Pageant of Melody has given up "You Are Free" from "Apple Blossoms" for a new theme song composed by Adolph Hoffman of the W-G-N staff. Because so much of concert and operatic music is in the public domain it is expected that even if the ASCAP restrictions become fully effective on Jan. 1 that programs of the type conducted by Mr. Weber would not be too seriously affected.

CHICAGOLAND CONCERT HOUR TO START ON DEC. 16

Light Classical Music on W-G-N Program.

The Chicagoland Concert hour, a new program based on the W-G-N and Mutual network policy of providing the best in all types of music, will be heard for the first time Monday evening, Dec. 16. It will begin at 10 o'clock and conclude at 10:45 each Monday thereafter.

The concert hour will present Henry Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra in light classical music. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak briefly each week. Marion Claire, lyric soprano of the opera and radio, will be the soloist.

Studio Guests Welcome.

The W-G-N chorus also will be heard. William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will produce the show. It will be aired from the W-G-N main audience studio. The station ticket department tomorrow will begin accepting requests for tickets to the broadcasts.

The Chicagoland Concert hour will be broadcast over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. In order to gain a place on the program, music must be melodious and of popular appeal.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

Col. McCormick's return to the air fulfills an intention he expressed Nov. 3 when the Sunday Symphonic hour was discontinued. Col. McCormick had spoken regularly on this program on developments in Europe, problems of national defense, and other matters of vital interest.

On the last broadcast Col. McCormick noted that it was no longer possible for the publisher of a large newspaper to know personally most of his subscribers, as was the custom in the days of personal journalism and smaller subscription lists. Hence, Col. McCormick said, he valued all the more his direct contacts with the people by means of broadcasts, and expressed his intentions of maintaining them.

Henry Weber will be returning to full time activity as musical director of W-G-N when he conducts the orchestra on the night of Dec. 16. For the past several weeks Mr. Weber has been occupied with the Chicago Opera company, of which he is general director. The opera season closes Dec. 14.

Steele Sisters

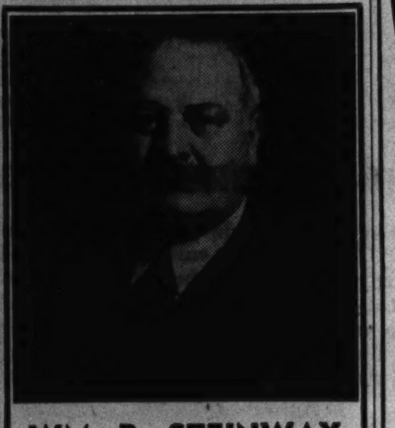
Mystery for Holmes.

The mysterious case of "Black Peter" will be dramatized on the Sherlock Holmes series from 9:30 to 10 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N. Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce will take the leading rôles.



WM. R. STEINWAY

member of the famous piano manufacturing firm of Steinway & Sons, and manager of the European branch offices, will be interviewed over Station

WENR
Today at 1:30 P. M.

Mr. Steinway will give an interesting resume of his associations with famous artists and of the musical scene in Europe. He will greet you in person on Wednesday and Thursday, December 11th and 12th, in the Piano Salon at

FARRAGUT HIGH GOES ON AIR IN CITIZENS' SHOW

600 Will Introduce School on W-G-N.

BY MILDRED WILDS.

Peter B. Ritzma.

Along with algebraic formulas and historic facts, Farragut High school students learn how to balance a tea cup and serve dainty sandwiches. Good manners and music have put Farragut High on the map in its seven years of existence at 2345 South Christiana avenue.

Six hundred Farragut students will be guests of station W-G-N from 4:30 to 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for the fourth in the second series of Citizens of Tomorrow broadcasts. They will give their high school cheers, led by Marian Vranek, Vivian Arbanas, Florence Michelak, and Bernice Matinovsky. The school chorus will sing directly by Miss Marie Ehrenwerth. Philip Maxwell, master of ceremonies, will introduce Peter B. Ritzma, Farragut's principal, who will tell something of life at Farragut and introduce his school to the radio audience.

A playlet will be presented during the broadcast with Mr. Maxwell cast as the principal and Dorothy Gregory and Eddie Firestone playing the parts of Jerry and Jimmy.

Can Talk on Feet.

The pretty dark haired freshman or the tall fellow marching into class out at Farragut can tell you all about life at the high school if you should go out there to visit. A Farragut freshman after he learns to find his way around, learns how to act at a party. By the end of the first semester he can stand up and talk to a group of his friends.

Farragut teas are held in the soft green social room complete with modern blond furniture and silken draperies. The room is the pride of every Farragut boy or girl. The Girls Athletic association raised money for a complete tea service with urns and trays. The last two graduating classes gave davenports and tables. The women teachers played the students at basketball and the attraction brought in $100 for the room.

A pretty teacher, Miss Genevra Geer, supervises the teas. At first she was going to include only girls in the good manners' program but boys insisted they have it too. "My best lemon peeler is a six foot football player," says Miss Geer, "and it is a boy who can make the most artistically designed sandwiches."

Answer to Appeal.

The Farragut teas were born in answer to a survey made on the west side six years ago by the emergency education program. A question was asked high school graduates. "What do you feel you needed to learn in high school and didn't?"

The answer was almost universal, "We wish we had learned how to act at a party. We want to know more about etiquette."

That is what Mr. Ritzma and Miss Geer are attempting to accomplish with the elaborate tea service, the peeling of lemons, and the pouring of tea. Four hundred students are host or hostess during a school year.

Farragut High school bears the name of the civil war naval hero, Admiral David Glasgow Farragut who said, "Damn the torpedoes. Full speed ahead," and then proceeded to defeat the confederate fleet in Mobile bay one day in 1864. Farragut students use the second half of the quotation as their motto and have seamen's insignia for their handbook design and their commencement decorations. They call their annual "The Log."

Points for Sports.

Social life for girls is arranged thru the Girls Athletic association. The girls can win points thru such social athletic events as horseback riding, fencing, skating, hiking, badminton and ping-pong. The boys have a football team and basketball and baseball.

Studies at Farragut are based on real life situations. In the senior science course, a practical combination of physics and chemistry, a girl can learn the why and what of baking powder. Boys are admitted into the interior decorating classes and before a girl studies stenography, the school will admit to her how many stenographers there are and what the need is for more.

City Music Champs.

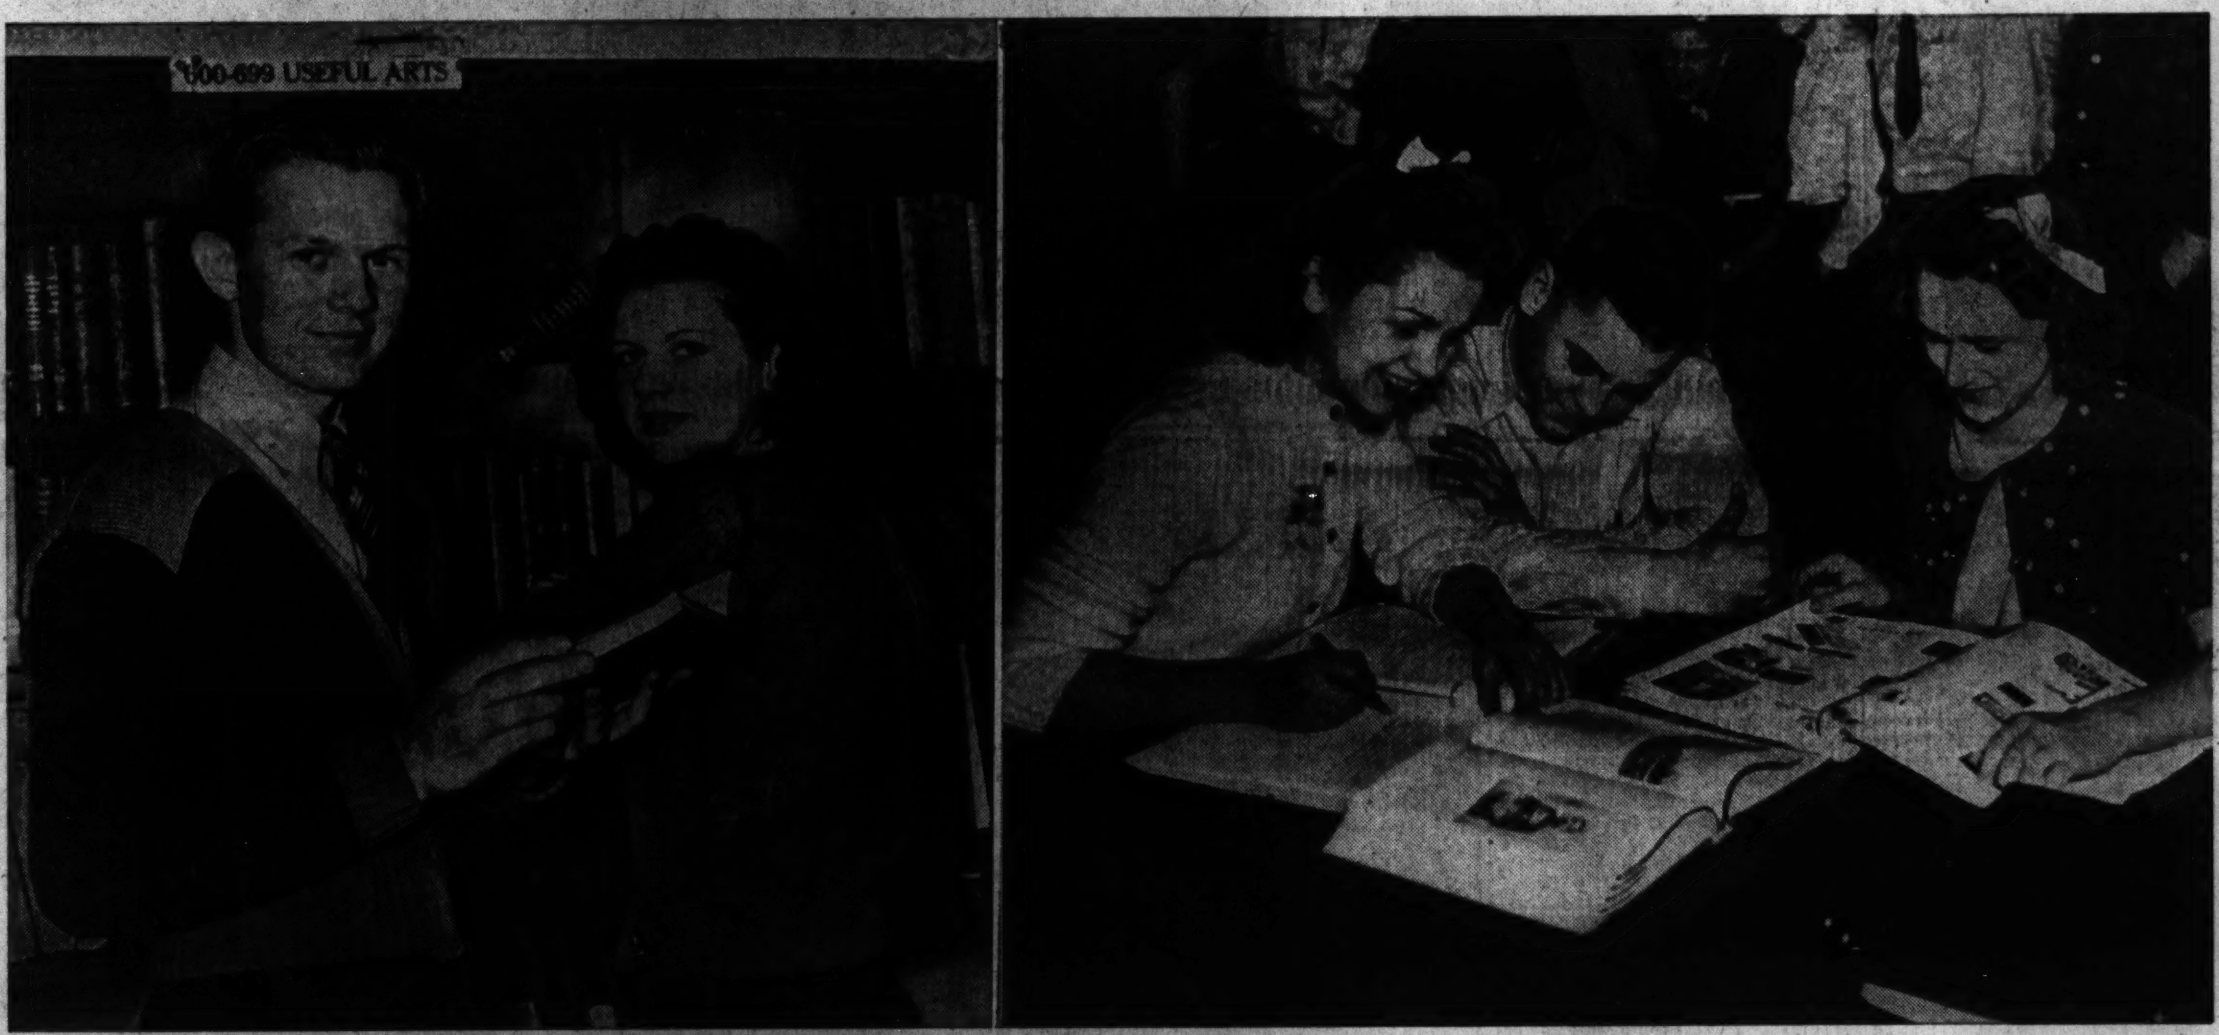
In music Farragut leads. A parent association helps buy music, instruments and uniforms for the band, a prize-winner. Every year the band has brought home the plaque in city music contests. Marcel Ackerman is the director. Sylvan D. Ward leads the prize winning orchestra.

At the Tuesday broadcast four boys and two Farragut girls will serve as color guards. They are George Jambini, Lee Uldrich, Norton Himmel, Charles Kolar, Mildred Klima, and Helen Prochaska. Before the program 100 students will tour Tribune Tower and after the show they will see the motion picture, "Trees to Tribunes."

Students at Farragut Seek to Be Practical "Citizens of Tomorrow"

Some 600 "Citizens of Tomorrow" who are Farragut High school students now will be guests at the W-G-N broadcast Tuesday afternoon from 4:30 to 5 o'clock. They will sing songs, give cheers, and tell what kind of a school is Farragut High, named for Admiral David Glasgow Farragut, civil war hero and author of the school's motto, "Full Speed Ahead." Characteristic of Farragut's exclusive program are the social teas instigated by Peter B. Ritzma, principal, in answer to the demand of students "to know how to act at parties." Learning the lesson by doing are, clockwise around the tea table, Eleanor Danek, Violet Lehman, Edward Killhoff, Lorraine Eis, Jerry Gaba, Joyce Meden, Henry Ehrich, Marie Kroc, and Henry Schmidt. From teas to test tubes go the Farragut students, and in the chemistry laboratory, absorbed in science are, left to right, Lillian Dudesek, Wesley Hradek, and Hildegarde Horeni.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]



Here is knowledge spread out in tempting fashion before Chester Lach and Dolores Nelson. Nothing of dead languages and buried history is here, but a shelf of useful arts, because a Farragut girl believes that decorating a room and dishing up a favorable meal is as important as Caesar's exploits or Cicero's essays. Study period brings these students together: Lorraine Kysilka, Joseph Soukup, and Vilma Bottarff.

From off the printing press comes the invitations to school dances, tickets, and the school paper. Manned by such students as, left to right, Edward Vesely, William Kraus, and Edward Jerousek, there are few mistakes, and every student in school subscribes to the paper. Another class in the technical side of Farragut life finds William Daly in the machine shop. Here he gets tips on a trade that may be his life's vocation. Kenneth Doerr does a turn in the carpenter shop and will emerge from Farragut High as a boy who can repair the kitchen sink, the bedroom chair, and take the screens off and put them on his future home. "Farragut," says Mr. Ritzma, "is a school in a democracy; a school in which every corner has been put to practical uses.

FESTIVE NOTE MARKS W. SIDE SHOPPING AREAS

Merchants Look for 'Best' Christmas.

Vacuum sweepers have a holly wreath pinned on their dust bags and electric irons are glamorous with red ribbons on their handles. With tinsel and tissue paper, west side merchants from Halsted and Roosevelt thru Austin and other merchants in the west suburbs are persuading neighborhood men and women to do their Christmas shopping "just around the corner."

A week ago Santa Claus came to Garfield park district in an airplane and was heralded thru the streets. Every lampost on his line of march was decorated with wreaths and flags bearing the words, "Season's Greetings."

The Garfield Park Business Men's association, of which Carl Stockholm is president, was on the reception committee for the red cheeked Santa who bowed and waved to the admirers that packed the streets.

Sees Biggest Christmas.

Walter H. Buescher, a member of the board of directors of the Garfield Park association, says: "This is going to be our biggest Christmas in years because people hate to go down town and worry about parking. Our aim out here is to have everything stocked that the man or woman could possibly ask for."

One department store in the Madison and Pulaski district has its windows decorated with gay scenes and sets of toys. There is a big Santa Claus whose eyes move back and forth as he scans the list of good little boys and girls.

Five hundred dollars will be spent in bringing signs of Christmas to the Halsted-Roosevelt district by the Halsted-Roosevelt Business Men's association, of which Harry Lazarus is secretary. The decorations will not be put up until Wednesday so that by the time the holiday arrives they will still be fresh. There will be wreaths sprayed green and red with the words "Merry Christmas spirit" printed across them. Outside a large department store located at the intersection of the two streets there will be a lighted tree two and half stories high.

Seek Practical Gifts.

"Practical gifts are the best sellers in our neighborhoods," said Mr. Lazarus. "We expect hundreds of women will receive lingerie or housecoats and the men will get shaving sets, robes or slippers."

Mr. Lazarus says the buyers have permission to take more than their quoto of Nylon hosiery so that the demands of Christmas may be filled.

Santa Claus will arrive in this neighborhood ten days before Christmas to wave to the children and hear their petitions. Last year the business men started the celebration and put up the decorations a week earlier but by Christmas the decorations were tattered by wind and dirtied with soot.

Merchants who are members of the West Chicago Avenue Business Men's association will do their own individual decorating. "We can't announce yet what these merchants will do," said Norman J. Holdsworth, treasurer of the organization, "but I do know that in Austin, Christmas will be a season of surprises."

Elect New Officers.

Roosevelt Road Business Men's association opened the Christmas season by electing new officers. Sam Berman, a member of the Yarmo-Devere post of the American Legion and of the Jewish War veterans, is the new president. Mr. Berman asked each merchant to decorate the outside of his store. Louis Weinberg, president of the 16th Street Business Men, made the same request.

On Saturday decorations will go up in the area east of Garfield park as far as Western. The Merchants' Community council led by Arthur P. Murphy will wrap the lamp posts with pine branches and put up pictures of Santa Claus. At the same time the 26th street Business Men's association, of which Leonard Serdiuk is secretary, will start the season with a parade.

IN THE SUBURBS

The spirit of Christmas came to the suburbs earlier than usual this year, and not only will the gay atmosphere be extended over a longer period, but decorations will be more brilliant than ever. Under the auspices of business groups, committees have been appointed to add gaiety to the street lighting systems with huge wreaths and electric candles. In many instances, strings of colored lights glitter in the shopping districts.

Altho modern invention has permitted lighting effects undreamed of in pioneer days, none of the Christmas legends have been neglected. In most communities, Santa Claus will roam abroad to make merry with the youngsters. Community trees have been included in the programs. And as for Christmas carols, some of the suburbs have planned for their broadcast from loud speaker systems or sound trucks.

That it will be a prosperous season for local merchants is predicted, due not only to reports of increased employment but the evidence already

Sigrid Undset Talks Today at Charles Carroll Forum

Sigrid Undset of Norway, Nobel prize winner in literature, will speak at the Charles Carroll forum this afternoon in the Palmer House. She will be introduced by Miss Helen C. White, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, author of "To the End of the World," a historical novel. Co-chairmen of the meeting are the Rev. James A. Magner of Washington university, and the Rev. Francis Talbot, editor of America, national Catholic weekly publication.

SOCIAL EVENTS SCHEDULED BY HADASSAH UNITS

Two social events are scheduled this week for west area Hadassah units. Austin-Lawndale Hadassah will have a dessert tea at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. David L. Weiss, 739 Independence boulevard. Miss Jennie Groner will be guest speaker. Mrs. Lew Perlman is president of the lodge and Mrs. Weiss is membership chairman.

West Suburban Hadassah will hold a tea at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Samuel Stone, 226 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park.

Membership co-chairmen for the suburban group are Mrs. Leo Bernstein, Mrs. Samuel Golden, and Mrs. Harry Gorodess.

Mothers' Club Party.

The Providence High School Mothers' club will hold its annual Christmas luncheon and card party at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the cafeteria of the high school, 119 South Central Park avenue. Mrs. Timothy Tuomey is in charge of reservations.

AID FOR SCHOOLS.

School associations looking for new ideas to use in their programs, especially for means of raising money, might look at the Naperville Home and School association which represents the high school and two grade schools in the community. The association spent nearly $600 in the three schools for the year 1939-'40, most of which would not otherwise have been supplied to the school system.

Every family with children in the schools automatically becomes a member of the association. Dues are on a voluntary basis of 25 cents per family.

In the high school the remaining debt on the band uniforms was paid and a mixer was bought for the home economics department. In one of the grade schools dental treatment was given during the summer, new drapes were installed, new equipment was placed in the kitchen and new raincoats purchased for the patrol boys. In the other grade school a radio, records, record cabinet, recording machine, drapes, and kitchen equipment were supplied.

Funds, in addition to the volunteer membership fees, were raised by local talent at two " county fairs," a book sale, a bake sale, and a " seeing eye" program.

THANKS TO UNKNOWN HERO.

To an unknown hero.

Lying here on my hospital bed, my thoughts turn again and again to the brave gentleman who flagged that oncoming C. A. & E. train at Laramie avenue on Friday, Nov. 22 at 6:25 o'clock at night when I was pushed from the platform onto the tracks. Altho bones are broken my heart is filled with gratitude for the instantaneous, heroic action of the man who risked his own life to save mine by jumping before the train to signal the motorman. He then modestly withdrew, unknown and unthanked. If he should read this expression of appreciation may his heart rejoice in the knowledge that without doubt, thru him, I live. In my prayers I remember him and thank my heavenly Father that when I was in danger he sent me such a protector.
M. F. CARLSON.

MEANS AND MANNERS.

I was walking in a section of the west side last week which has long had the reputation of being a " tough " section. But let no one tell me that because people are poor that they are tough. A little boy accidently bumped up against me and paused, almost bowed and begged my pardon. I saw a gang of boys in a school yard. There were no bad words used, nothing but consideration for each other and the passers-by. I don't know why some sections of Chicago where the families in general have low incomes are so misrepresented. I am afraid to walk on some streets in the " better sections " because of the rudeness of young girls and boys. They would ride their bicycles right into me or swear if I didn't get out of their way.
MRS. J. P.

CARELESS STUDENTS.

During this slippery weather, car drivers may be able to keep their cars in control if not called upon to make too sudden stops. But the driver is put in a bad spot when high school pupils unexpectedly cross the street in haphazard fashion, in the middle of the block and all along the block, leaving the driver to make a quick adjustment that may not only peril his own safety but that of the cars close behind. The pedestrian, content in his own safety, continues thoughtlessly on his way. The grade schools with their patrol systems handle the situation. No doubt, it is figured that high school pupils are old enough to be thoughtful in meeting the problem, individually. Why can't they do so?
G. P. T.

CONSIDER THE CLERKS.

Since this is the time of year when everybody preaches good-will toward men, I do hope the shoppers in stores will have consideration for the clerks who serve them. I worked in a west side department store a few years ago and believe me there was no peace on earth at the handkerchief counter. Women would get petulant and irritated at too much shopping and take it out on me. They would complain about the price, the size of box I could put the gift in, the way it was wrapped and the way I waited on them. I have promised that my Christmas gift to others this year will be a kindly attitude toward the working men and women who serve me.

HOSPITAL SEEKS NEW NAME; $100 AWAITS WINNER

Berwyn Unit Will Have $325,000 Addition.

Two contests are being conducted by the board of directors of the Berwyn hospital in connection with the campaign to raise $100,000 toward the erection of a 75 bed addition.

To the person, regardless of age, residing in any one of the communities served by the institution who suggests a new name that will more adequately indicate the territory served, $100 will be awarded. Announcement is made that all entries should be mailed to 6804 Windsor avenue, Berwyn, so as to be in the hands of the judges not later than Saturday.

An essay contest on the subject, "Berwyn Hospital and How It Serves Those Communities," is open to boys and girls under 18 years of age in any of the communities served. Three prizes, aggregating $100, will be awarded for authors of the three best essays. Prizes for both contests have been provided by Dr. William J. Vynalek.

Awards Due Dec. 23.

Charles Zitnik, president of the board of directors of the hospital, explained that there were no entry blanks to fill out, nor forms to be obtained. Winners in both contests will be awarded Dec. 23.

Plans for the addition of a wing to the hospital were announced recently at a dinner attended by 150 residents of Riverside, La Grange, Hinsdale, Brookfield, Berwyn, Western Springs, and Cicero.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, the speaker of the evening, cited the record of the hospital's growth since 1932, when the building and site were presented to the communities by Dr. Alfred McNeal and his associates.

More Patients Admitted.

The speaker pointed out that since 1932 the records show an increase of 186 per cent in the number of patients admitted.

William J. Woodward, treasurer of the General American Transportation company, who presided at the meeting, accepted the general chairmanship of the campaign.

The new addition, expected to cost $325,000, will be financed thru a long term loan by a life insurance company for $225,000, while the remaining $100,000 must be obtained in gifts from individuals and firms within the territory served.

Fifty-two firms, physicians, and other individuals led off the campaign with subscriptions of $28,640.

Good Fellows of the Air Lanes

Santa Claus has traded in his reindeer for an airplane because of the hearty co-operation of the aviation Good Fellows. The eighth annual aviation Good Fellow ceremonies will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 23, in the auditorium of the Chicago airport, 6200 South Cicero avenue. After the program more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy will be taken to needy homes thruout Chicago. Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster, who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for this year's campaign. Among the west and northwest side aviation Good Fellow leaders are, left to right, standing, James L. McEvoy, John Hutchinson, and seated, left to right, Miss Adela Adamec and Miss Marge Dickman. Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for the campaign this year. Mr. Miller was a second lieutenant in the 16th squadron of the A. E. F., and saw six months' service in France during the first world war.

Specific plans for carrying out the work this season were made at a meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Churbuck, 6740 South Oglesby avenue, 1939 chairman of the Aviation Good Fellows. William Westlake, also a former leader of this movement, again was selected as public relations head for the campaign.

STREETS, STORES IN YULE ATTIRE IN WEST AREA

Merchants Looking for 'Best' Christmas.

Oak Park Is Gay.

Starting the day after Thanksgiving, Christmas decorations began transforming the busy Oak Park shopping districts and, with the advent of snow, the suburb has presented a scene of delight. Light pole designs include a Christmas tree against a bright silver background, with red and green trimmings. The Chamber of Commerce committee has had the hearty coöperation of chamber members in the Lake-Marion and other districts, and displays have been extended along the streets and in the stores over a wide area.

Each store, where toy departments opened early, will have its own Santa Claus. In the selection of goods, merchants have anticipated the wishes of shoppers with all indications pointing to the briskest Christmas trade in the suburb's history.

Santa Claus Helpers.

In Forest Park Santa Claus is receiving businesslike support from the Kiwanis club, Claude A. Walker, president. For weeks ahead details are worked out for toy purchases and their distribution among children of the village who might otherwise be forgotten.

The three Santa Clauses who have started out at five o'clock on Christmas morning for the last three years again are Fred Steers, Harry Weideman, and George Warren. Emil Roehlke is their chairman. Chairmen of various committees are George Handtmann, Santa Claus helpers; Art Weidemann, trucks; Dr. William Buch and the Rev. Ray Wilhelmi, spiritual message; Claude A. Walker and Father Wilhelmi, public relations; Charles Meseke, toy purchases; Ray Warnecke, toy distribution; W. S. Dimmett, obtaining of names, and Floyd Sissen, investigation.

In Glen Ellyn, the Nativity scene, with 15 life size figures set up in the park at Main street and Pennsylvania avenue, is a project this Christmas of the Glen Ellyn Chamber of Commerce, of which E. W. Leonard is secretary. Chairmen of the Christmas spirit committee in the suburb are N. C. Knapp, publicity; Ray Soliday, pledges; E. P. Malloy, tree; Montelle Stephens, Santa Claus; W. D. Heintz, home decorations, and Al Herman, Nativity scene.

Veterans Lending Aid.

The Greater Maywood association, Louis Nelson, president, is coöperating with Veterans of Foreign Wars in creating a Christmas atmosphere in the suburb. Members of the decorations committee are Herbert Koch, chairman; Nels Lundgren, Hugh Muir, Robert Sager, Paul Coffman, Waller Meade, Conrad Strutzel, J. R. Sieker, and John Niemans. Light poles thruout the business district will carry huge wreaths with candles and the season's greetings from the Greater Maywood association.

The village of Brookfield Business Men's association, Micheal Colgrass, president, has arranged light pole decoration of colored candles and green bows.

William Strandquist is chairman of the committee providing for the official appearance of Santa Claus. Paul Mann is chairman of the decorations committee, with which the Better Garden club and the Woman's club are coöperating for the purpose of extending decorations to the homes and lawns.

Plans in Elmhurst.

Elmhurst's business district early took on a Christmas atmosphere due to activities of the Elmhurst Trade and Civic association. Colored street lights and evergreen trimming for the light poles make York street one of the most attractive shopping areas in the west suburban area.

The Berwyn Kiwanis club is making plans to hold its annual Christmas basket fund party Dec. 20 at the Berwyn club, 3308 Oak Park avenue. There will be dancing, cards, entertainment, and a buffet supper. Dr. Paul Griffith is chairman of the party.

Under the auspices of the Downers Grove Merchants association, W. T. Garner, president, colored lights again have been strung thruout the business district. Wreaths are 30 inches in diameter and have been placed on each light post. The annual Santa Claus theater party, at which there will be movies and gifts or candy for children, will be held Friday.

In Melrose Park.

Arrangements for Christmas decorations in Melrose Park, planned by the Melrose Park Chamber of Commerce, Arthur P. Matters, president, provide for decorations of all the light poles on Broadway and Lake street. Each pole has a Santa Claus facing two ways, the figure surrounded by an evergreen frame.

Santa Claus is scheduled to show up in the suburb at least ten days before Christmas. Broadway will be brighter than ever, due to a new lighting system installed this fall. Frank A. Alden, secretary of the chamber, said Christmas trade prospects were exectionally good.

Lighted streamers thruout the business section are a Christmas project of the Hinsdale Chamber of Commerce, H. W. Petersen, president.

Christmas carols will be broadcast afternoons and evenings during the two weeks preceding Christmas day. Again there will be a big tree on the Memorial building grounds, and a "Merry Christmas" sign will be placed on top of the Memorial building.

Kris in La Grange.

Christmas decorations in La Grange have been in charge of the La Grange Chamber of Commerce thru a committee consisting of Henry Haase, chairman, John Page, F. M. de Talent, P. A. McClain, and John Lewis. One hundred light posts in the business district have been decorated with wreaths and large silver stars, with the village of La Grange contributing $200 for the expense.

Santa Claus arrived in the village yesterday. The chamber plans to broadcast Christmas carols by various choral groups under the direction of Mrs. Louise Grosser. The music program is being directed by a committee made up of G. H. Pemberton, chairman; Walter Lavahn, Miriam Smith, and Clinton Loomis.

Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Beverly Helene Sklare to Marvin Lichtman was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sklare, 3630 Polk street. Mr. Lichtman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Lichtman, 3549 Jackson boulevard.

In School Opera

[Nelidov Photo.]

Esther Hardie will sing the soprano role in the opera, "Faust," which will be presented in part during the musical comedy, "Tune In," by the Austin Evening School Opera group. The musical will be presented Wednesday evening in the Austin High school, 231 North Pine avenue. Miss Hardie will sing the role of Margaraita.

TUNELESS SINGER GIVES PLOT TO MUSICAL COMEDY

Austin Opera Group to Offer 'Tune In.'

The story of an ambitious singer who can't sing is the plot for the musical comedy "Tune In" which will be presented by the Austin Evening School Opera group Wednesday evening in the Austin High school, 231 North Pine avenue. When the Kroggins Kippered Kodfish Kompany's broadcast reveals a bad soprano and she turns out to be Mrs. Kroggins, there is need for tact.

Miss Alice Wampole will be cast as Mrs. Kroggins and Edward Koczorowski will play the rôle of Kasper Kroggins, the codfish king. Peggy Bulger is cast as Jean Kroggins, their daughter, and Raymond Balla will be Joe Brown, owner of the radio station.

Others Taking Part.

The rôle of advertising manager will be played by Walter Hanamann, and Gertrude Brengle will be Mitzi, the switchboard operator. Others are Harry Carroll, Felix Lubin, Joseph Vece, Robert MacDonald, Elisa DiCristofano and a "sister" team composed of Betty Clement, Sondra Brill, and Gladys Brettman.

There will be a specialty dance chorus from the Austin Evening school social dancing class, a modern ballet, and tarantella dancers. A string novelty ensemble will be directed by Merle Isaac. Inserted in the comedy "Tune In" will be parts of several operas. They will be a scene from "Faust," the barcarole from "Tales of Hoffman," and part of the last act of "Rigoletto."

In "Rigoletto," John Contrafatto will be the Duke, Esther Hardy will be cast as Gilda, and Mildred Broad as Maddalena. Walter Hanamann will be Rigoletto and George Weber will be Sparafucile. In "Faust" Miss Hardy will appear as Margarita and Mr. Contrafatto will be Faust.

Plan Band Concert.

Another Austin school music event will be the annual band concert at 8 o'clock Thursday evening by the Austin High School Boys' band directed by Capt. Albert Gish, a former army band conductor.

The concert will open with the military band playing under the baton of the student conductor, Cadet Captain Arthur Johanson. There will be a cornet trio by Frank Dreschler, Joseph Summerhill and Homer Goldberg, accompanied by Fred Hillman.

The guest artist will be Cecil Leeson, the saxophone recitalist, who will include in his program a concerto written for and dedicated to him by Edward Moritz. The name of the composition is "Allegro Molto."

Theodore W. Wallschlaeger, of the faculty of the Austin Evening school, will present a recital on the new organ of the school at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. His selections will include works of Bach, Franck, and Karg-Elert.

SCHOOL DAYS GO ON IN OAK PARK FOR 500 WOMEN

Attend Classes at 19th Century Club.

Almost 500 Oak Park women go to school. They do their home work carefully and learn their lessons. There are no discipline problems and no complaints about the work because the women asked for it.

Mrs. George Tinsley, who never taught school, is the supervisor. She gives the final approval on teachers and previews the textbooks. Next year she thinks she will add an advanced class in arithmetic which will be called finance.

The school is a community project, started 13 years ago by the 19th Century Woman's Club of Oak Park, and the classrooms are in the clubhouse. A woman does not need to be a club member to go to school.

Spanish Most Popular.

The most popular class in this feminine curriculum today is Spanish. More than 30 women take this course because of the European war and because of the United States' renewed interest in friendship with South American countries.

The Spanish class is in its first year and is taught by Homer Des Marais, professor of romance languages at De Paul university. The women meet at 10 o'clock every Wednesday morning. Next year they will be members of an intermediate class and a new beginners' class will start.

When Mr. Des Marais first went to Oak Park he asked the chairman, Mrs. Tinsley, "Do these women really want to learn Spanish or just have a class to come to?" Mr. Des Marais has found an interest in Spanish that he never dared hope for. Progress is remarkable.

Many of the Spanish students are planning trips to South America in place of European jaunts. One student expects to go to Mexico to live after Christmas.

Study Home Decorating.

Next in popularity at the "school" is interior decorating taught by Miss Frances Harrington every other Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Here the Oak Park women study color for floors and walls, curtains and draperies, furniture of all periods, recreation and novelty rooms, china and silver. Their own living room decorating problems are aired before the class and everybody goes home with an idea about that slip cover or bedroom curtain.

Club members with ambitions to public office attend a class in parliamentary law at 10 o'clock Wednesday mornings. They learn how to present a motion from the floor and the correct way to give a report.

More than 150 women go to the current events class every second Tuesday to hear Mrs. Ethel Colson Brazelton analyze events at home and abroad. First she discusses the topic of the day before the class, answers questions, and then gives a book review.

Teaches Music History.

Arthur Oglesbee teaches a history of music course at 10 o'clock every Wednesday. It was as a result of this class in the history of music that Mrs. Paul C. Fox was asked to organize a club chorus. Miss Helen Leefelt began directing the singers in 1939 and today there are 50 members.

The Nineteenth Century Study class committee became one of the first participating members of the Oak Park and River Forest council of international relations. This work was started in Oak Park by Mrs. Henry Austin and became so popular that there are now twenty study groups.

Club members from 17 to 70 go to the Oak Park 19th Century club school. It is one educational institution that has a curriculum selected by its students.

400 Singers from Proviso High Give Concert Today

Directed by the baton of R. Lee Osburn, head of the music department, more than 400 members of the choruses and choir of Proviso Township High school will present a Christmas concert at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon in the high school auditorium. The program will include solos by Arlene Huxhold, soprano; Richard Koeppel, baritone, and Jane Harnden, pianist.

TRADITION CASTS HALO OVER HULL HOUSE THEATER

42d Season Scheduled to Open Tonight.

This week another dramatic season will open in a Chicago theater old in tradition. Millions of lines have been said on its battered stage and thousands of costumes have been reflected in its dressing room mirrors. Hull house theater opens again.

Some of the old Hull house actors now see their names blinking in lights from New York to Hollywood. Some married other members of the cast, settled down and now send junior over to get a chance to play acting. Perhaps junior will be in this play.

Hull house theater will present "Medicine Show" tonight and Friday, Saturday, and next Sunday night in Bowen hall as the beginning of its 42d season. The play, which states the problem of socialized medicine, has a cast of 46 men and 18 women. The principals are Frank Santelli, Kennicott Brenton, Michael Barone, Sol Carbone, Arthur Gordon, Florence Giovangelo, Ben Rosso, Martha Van Hooven, and Lee Farrell.

Made European Tour.

One of the first little theater groups in the country, Hull house theater started out in 1898 with its first rehearsals and by 1903 was proficient enough to go on a tour of Europe. Edith di Nancrede took over the work after the founder, Miss Laura Dainty Pelham, retired.

From all the vast array of talent, and just boys and girls without much talent, that have appeared with the Hull house theater, one boy became a star in Hollywood. He is Melvin Douglas. Another boy, now Otto Hulett, is a favorite on the New York stage and Albert Carroll, who did his first tap dancing on Halsted street, has danced with the Follies on Broadway. Gene Carroll of "Gene and Glen," radio impersonators, got their start in the little auditorium which has seen the trial and error of several generations of ambitions.

Until last year there were four groups of Hull house players, the old original group, the Actors guild, the Madame Maria Lazareff's Moscow Art theater, and a young people's group interested in new theater technique. These combined to form the present Hull house theater with 160 active players.

Theater a Laboratory.

The theater was a laboratory for experiments in 1898 and that is what it is today. Jess Ogden heads it. He works with a board of directors whose members are Dominic Albano, Anthony Barone, Lee Farrell, Frank Santelle, Ben Kabilla, Jasper Diesi, Kennicott Brenton, Maurice Simon, Maurice Cooney, Mary Wing, and Viola Sills Spolin. Ed Spolin is in charge of stage construction and Nora Sauer is secretary of the board.

In place of elaborate staging, the scenarist and his assistants use lighting and ingenuity. At present there is much use of boxes and platforms instead of realistic props. Lights are used instead of curtains.

On Thursday evenings there is a theater school when young men and women study direction, make-up and the construction of basic plays. On Jan. 1 there will be started a course in costuming, lighting and stage design.

In Temple Drama

[Neff Photo.]

Miss Marilyn Sherman will play the leading feminine role in the comedy, "Stay for the Dance," which will be presented at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the Community hall, 23 North Karlov avenue. It will be the semiannual production of the Washington Temple Alumni Dramatic group. The director of the three act comedy is Herbert Zimmerman.

"DID YOU EVER SEE ADS PULL LIKE OURS?"
"And the best part is that Sunday Tribune Metropolitan section rates are so low we can advertise all year 'round."

FOR more than 12 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have been running low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections edited for and read exclusively by the families in their respective trading areas.

One or more of these five great sections—North, Northwest, West, Southwest and South—reaches your best customers and prospects—the people best able to trade with you. Your offers over your signature in the Sunday Tribune Metro sections can help you attract more customers and sell more merchandise.

To get information on this low-cost profit building plan which proved its value to 745 neighborhood enterprises last year, call SUPerior 0100—Metropolitan section advertising.

TRU-PALS FIND A WAY TO LURE SANTA AND PACK

Visits Whole Blocks He Formerly Missed.

Time and again it happened. Santa Claus seemed to have a habit of missing whole blocks of the 20th ward. He was ballyhooed so much in advance that Nick, Tom, and Ted could almost hear the reindeer. Then he didn't show up.

Nick Virigilio.

It happened so many years in succession that Nick, Tom, and the rest of the gang quit expecting him. During the days before Christmas they shined shoes over in the loop or sold papers while wind smacked their faces. They saw Santa Claus sitting in the stores and heard promises of what he always brought to good boys. But they got nothing.

Nick and Tom grew up and so did all the other pals in their neighborhood, and then they caught on about Christmas. The neighborhood gang grew into an athletic club.

Members Rent Building.

The club members rented a brick one story building at 1413 Fillmore street and called themselves Tru-Pals. Their club is one of the dozens of social and athletic clubs on the near west side that used to be a group of boys in the neighborhood.

Nick Virgilio, a civil engineer, is president. Tom Garro, who is in the paint business, and Carmen Auriemma are secretary and treasurer. Tel Nikols and Hal Moore, the latter an orchestra leader by night and an accountant by day, are on the executive board.

The fellows are all from 21 to 30 years old. About half of them are married and two of them have children. Ninety-nine per cent of the Tru-Pals membership was in the group missed by Santa Claus.

This year old St. Nick will have 45 helpers so he can't miss the 20th ward. One hundred children on a week from next Saturday afternoon will troop into the blue and white trimmed clubhouse on Fillmore street. This will be their fifth visit and the fifth time that excitement about Christmas in the ward has matched the pitch of the December wind.

Merchants Lend Help.

On the day of the party dozens of boxes will be piled on the floor around an evergreen tree. There will be odd sized boxes, big ones and little ones. Local merchants made donations and club members bought the rest. At every meeting in November and December the hat was passed at Tru-Pal meetings and members were asked to shell out all their change.

First thing at the party the door will open and Tru-Pals bearing hot sandwiches, cookies, ice cream, and candy will file in. The children will sit on the floor and eat. When the last candy cane has disappeared into the last little boy Santa Claus will make his grand entrance.

He will be as fat as they are in the store windows and as red-cheeked. He will laugh like a bowl full of jelly, as he does in the story book. Then he will ask the children to help him trim the tree. "You see I left my boxes here last night," he always tells them, "so jump to it now. Help me!"

They Jump to It.

They jump to it with a howl. There are dolls, trucks, engines, tin soldiers, story books. Everybody gets a gift. When the last sleepy head nods his "Thank you" to Santa Claus, the children stream out into the night with a deathlike grip on their gifts.

Tru-Pal members look at each other and grin. "Gee!" they agree, "wouldn't it be awful if these kids would hafta feel like we used to about getting missed on Christmas."

But these kids don't. The 20th ward now has its own brand of Santa Claus.

Engagement

Miss Carolyn June Holtz, whose engagement to Calvin S. Walker of Brookfield, recently was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Holtz of Hollywood, Ill. Mr. Walker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Walker of Brookfield. No date has been set for the wedding. Carolyn attended McMurray college, Jacksonville, Ill., and Calvin attended Purdue university.

B'nai Israel of Maywood to Give Dance Saturday

The reunion of "old-timers," residents and former residents of Maywood, will be a feature of the annual dance of the Maywood B'nai Israel organizations Saturday night at the Midwest Athletic club, Hamlin avenue and Madison street. The congregation, sisterhood, and men's club are coöperating in sponsoring the dance. David Ratner is general chairman.

Douglas to Talk.

Dr. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago and alderman of the 5th ward, will speak before a meeting of the Masryk Memorial center tomorrow evening in Sokol hall, 2345 South Kedzie avenue.

ALL CRIPPLED, BUT THEY'LL BE IN POLIO SWIM

Paralysis Victims Will Stage Carnival.

There will be a swimming exhibition at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Austin town hall, 5610 West Lake street. Probably none of the swimmers will ever be stars, and there will be no fancy dives, but the unusual thing about the pool will be all the discarded crutches and braces around the walls. Some of the swimmers can't walk at all and some have a bad limp.

This will be the "poliolympics of 1940" because the swimmers are all victims of poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis]. Their exhibition will be six acts and a water polo game, according to the president of the Chicago Polio Swim club, James A. Hall.

24 to Take Part.

Despite physical handicaps the members have become experts in the water. The opening of the show will be a comedy feature, a demonstration of water safety, synchronized swimming, a duet, and a water game.

Twenty-four of the Polio Swim club's 100 members will take part in this opening number in which two circles of swimmers will form and revolve to music.

John Kelly and Florence Gessing are general chairmen for the carnival and Warren Bell is chairman of the program committee. Others are Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schurman, Louise Peterson, and Antoinette Zadlo.

Formed Two Years Ago.

The Polio Swim club was formed two years ago by nine persons to give infantile paralysis victims the therapeutic benefits of warm water swimming.

West side members are Dan Acceturo, Joseph Arnoff, Betty Bluma, Viola Budka, Harold Campbell, Bernice Chmiel, Jeanine Della Maggorie, John Feeney, Florence M. Gessing, Amelia Grittani, George Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hangel, June Julian, Nello Juliano, Margaret Knoll, Theodore Kolodziej, Sophia Krupa, Rose Marinello, Fred Matthews.

RADIO RATIONS ASCAP MUSIC AS DEADLINE NEARS

Fans Sample New Fare; No Complaints.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio listeners last week got a foretaste of the music that will constitute their regular fare unless the battle between the radio networks and ASCAP [American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers] is settled. On Dec. 1, CBS, NBC and several major stations imposed drastic restrictions with regard to the use of ASCAP controled music, mindful of the fact that ASCAP's contract with major networks and stations expires on Dec. 31.

ASCAP, as a clearing house for many music publishers, controls the performing rights of much of the world's popular music. It has been obtaining somewhat over $4,000,000 a year from the radio industry by a blanket assessment of 5 per cent of gross income of stations regardless of the fact that many sponsored programs used no music at all. Now ASCAP is boosting its demands to $8,000,000, according to broadcasters' estimates.

Led by the National Association of Broadcasters, a majority of the nation's stations are resisting the demands of ASCAP and only a few have signed new contracts. Unless a settlement is reached ASCAP music, with certain exceptions, will not be available for broadcasting after Dec. 31. It means that the music of Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin and many others will be missing.

Condition Radio Audiences.

Meanwhile, broadcasters have begun to condition their audiences for this probability by gradually reducing the proportion of ASCAP music and substituting music from other sources. The broadcasters' association organized Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI] to develop new sources of music. Besides fostering new music, BMI has acquired the rights to the catalogs of many publishing houses and is making new arrangements for much of the world's great music which is in the public domain. BMI claims to have added 250,000 selections to the broadcasters' repertoire.

If this is true, listeners might hope for a reasonable variety of music on the air, even if much of their favorite and familiar music is eliminated. That is precisely what broadcasters assert they were giving listeners last week despite the fact that W-G-N and CBS had eliminated ASCAP music from their sustaining [nonsponsored] programs and NBC had cut ASCAP music 50 per cent with the full ban on sustaining programs to become effective Dec. 15.

Variety of Music Heard.

An evening or two of listening to dance bands brought to light no striking omissions or gaps. There was an abundance of swing, ballads, and considerable familiar music. Some of the songs heard regularly on the Hit Parade were missing. There were some noticeable additions. Orchestra leaders have discovered Stephen Collins Foster [and particularly "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair"]—with a vengeance.

Many of the classics—for example, Brahms' "Lullaby,"—have appeared in dance dress. Nursery rhymes and tunes—such as "A Tisket a Tasket," are getting a big play. BMI has developed some hit tunes of its own and they are heard often—too often. Among these are "Practice Makes Perfect" and "The Same Old Story." [Descriptive, itn't it?]. While the broadcasts are repetitious, that was true, too, when ASCAP's music was fully available.

Many of the familiar theme songs of established programs and of name bands are gone. Many orchestras have blossomed out with new identifying melodies, often original compositions by their leaders or members.

Ray Noble has simply dropped his own tune "The Very Thought of You" and has not made a replacement. Art Kassel has replaced his "Doodle-doo-doo" with a new unpublished tune for which he welcomes title suggestions. The Quiz Kids have given up "School Days" for an original named after the program.

Operettas Still Available.

Henry Weber's Pageant of Melody has given up "You Are Free" from "Apple Blossoms" for a new theme song composed by Adolph Hoffman of the W-G-N staff. Because so much of concert and operatic music is in the public domain it is expected that even if the ASCAP restrictions become fully effective on Jan. 1 that programs of the type conducted by Mr. Weber would not be too seriously affected.

Mystery for Holmes.

The mysterious case of "Black Peter" will be dramatized on the Sherlock Holmes series from 9:30 to 10 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N. Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce will take the leading rôles.

W-G-N Guest

Ruth Gordon, famous actress, who will make a guest appearance on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

ROSE BAMPTON, MARTINELLI IN 'AIDA' ON W-G-N

Last Opera Broadcast at 9:30 Tomorrow.

Rose Bampton and Giovanni Martinelli, headliners of the Chicago Opera company's production of "Aida" tomorrow will be heard on W-G-N Mutual's broadcast of the opera from 9:30 to 11 p. m.

The final two acts of Verdi's opera will be heard on the broadcast portion of the program. This broadcast will conclude the series of five radio presentations of Chicago Opera on W-G-N.

Miss Bampton in Lead.

With Miss Bampton in the title rôle as the Ethiopian slave, Martinelli, world famous tenor, will sing the romantic part of Radames, captain of the guard.

Also in the cast will be Elsa Zebranska as Amneris, George Czaplicki as Amonasro, Douglas Beattie as the King of Egypt, and Giuseppe Cavadore as the messenger. Paul Breisach will conduct.

Jagel on Melody Hour.

Climaxing several weeks of guest performances by stars of Chicago opera, Frederick Jagel and Dusolina Giannini will be heard on the Pageant of Melody at 8:30 p. m. The W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will be featured with the opera stars.

Jagel, a famed American tenor, has appeared in several rôles in Chicago opera this season. Tuesday he will sing the rôle of Herod in "Salome." He also has appeared in "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Aida," "Madam Butterfly," and "Jewels of the Madonna."

Miss Giannini's appearance on the Pageant of Melody is a return engagement. On her last performance the Philadelphia opera star sang and talked, promoting the idea of opera in English.

MARION CLAIRE, MOJICA, THIBAULT STAR IN 'RIO RITA'

Marion Claire, Conrad Thibault, and José Mojica will combine their musical talents in the production of the gay, romantic "Rio Rita" on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

William A. Bacher, W-G-N's chief of programs and production, has promised that Saturday's production will be the most flashing and colorful of the season. Set in the Mexican border region, the songs and story are flavored with fiery Mexican romance and the daring of cactus-toughened Texas rangers.

In keeping with the Mexican atmosphere, José Mojica, leading movie and opera idol of Mexico, will play the part of Roberto, brother of Rita. The original production gives Roberto no singing part, but to assure the operetta a rollicking, festive effect, two typical Mexican songs, "Granada" and "Tu Partida," have been interpolated for Mojica.

Marion Claire, Chicago's operatic soprano, who is the feminine star of all the operettas, will sing the titular rôle of Rita. Miss Claire sang with Mojica when both were members of the Chicago opera, and with Thibault last October in "The Vagabond King," the first operetta of the W-G-N season.

Conrad Thibault, famous American baritone, will star in the masculine lead in "Rio Rita."

Ted Malone's Pilgrimage.

The home of James Fenimor Cooper, famed American novelist, in Cooperstown, N. Y., will be visited by Ted Malone on his American Pilgrimage at 1:00 p. m. today over WENR.

CHICAGOLAND CONCERT HOUR TO START ON DEC. 16

Light Classical Music on W-G-N Program.

The Chicagoland Concert hour, a new program based on the W-G-N and Mutual network policy of providing the best in all types of music, will be heard for the first time Monday evening, Dec. 16. It will begin at 10 o'clock and conclude at 10:45 each Monday thereafter.

The concert hour will present Henry Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra in light classical music. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak briefly each week. Marion Claire, lyric soprano of the opera and radio, will be the soloist.

Studio Guests Welcome.

The W-G-N chorus also will be heard. William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will produce the show. It will be aired from the W-G-N main audience studio. The station ticket department tomorrow will begin accepting requests for tickets to the broadcasts.

The Chicagoland Concert hour will be broadcast over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. In order to gain a place on the program, music must be melodious and of popular appeal.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

Col. McCormick's return to the air fulfills an intention he expressed Nov. 3 when the Sunday Symphonic hour was discontinued. Col. McCormick had spoken regularly on this program on developments in Europe, problems of national defense, and other matters of vital interest.

On the last broadcast Col. McCormick noted that it was no longer possible for the publisher of a large newspaper to know personally most of his subscribers, as was the custom in the days of personal journalism and smaller subscription lists. Hence, Col. McCormick said, he valued all the more his direct contacts with the people by means of broadcasts, and expressed his intentions of maintaining them.

Henry Weber will be returning to full time activity as musical director of W-G-N when he conducts the orchestra on the night of Dec. 16. For the past several weeks Mr. Weber has been occupied with the Chicago Opera company, of which he is general director. The opera season closes Dec. 14.

Bears-Redskin Game on W-G-N—MBS Today

A play by play description of the game between the Chicago Bears and the Washington Redskins for the National Professional Football championship, broadcast direct from Griffith park in Washington, D. C., will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network starting at 12:30 p. m. today.

Steele Sisters

MISCHA AUER, RUTH GORDON ON CHICAGO HOUR

Mischa Auer, Hollywood comedian, and Ruth Gordon, star of the legitimate stage, will be featured on the program "In Chicago Tonight" over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

Miss Gordon is the star of "Here Today" opening at the Selwyn theater tomorrow. Auer is appearing at the Chicago theater this week.

Auer, a native of Russia, had a tumultuous childhood. He was separated from his parents by the revolution. Adopted by his famous grandfather, Leopold Auer, Mischa came to America and soon began to appear on the stage.

After three years on the stage, he made his first picture with William Powell in "My Man Godfrey," and became famous for his impersonations. He likes photography, gaited horses, and deep-sea fishing. He and his wife recently adopted a 14-month-old girl.

Miss Gordon was last in Chicago in 1937 in the "Doll's House." Her long stage career began with a minor rôle in "Peter Pan" in 1915.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will direct the show, presenting Miss Gordon in dramatic sketches and Auer in comedy bits.

Corneille's 'The Cid' on Great Plays Broadcast

Richard Kollmar, who will be remembered for his stage successes in "Crazy with the Heat," "Too Many Girls" and "Knickerbocker Holiday," will be heard in the title rôle of "The Cid," Corneille's masterpiece, as the Great Plays presentation at 2:00 p. m. today over WENR.

COLOR SCHEMING MAKES KITCHEN BRIGHT AND GAY

Cooking Laboratory Need No Longer Be Dull.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Efficiency strode into our kitchens some years back, and then sheer loveliness followed. Imagination and color humanized the fine equipment of manufacturers and the expert plannings of kitchen designers. And if it happens you are plotting some small or large gift for your kitchen, there are two brand new gas kitchens in the home building exhibit at the Merchandise Mart which abound in ideas to further your plans!

Here in these kitchens color scheming has been adroitly brought into play and under its humanizing influence large pieces of equipment and small accessories have a splendid setting.

Blue and Red Keyed.

In one of the kitchens a softly colored raspberry red linoleum is king pin on the floor; slightly marbleized with delicate stripes of blue and white. Blue here is the key color and these stripes end in a circular design on the breakfast nook floor. There's a leatherette settee in blue and also a blue table top, and the walls up to the smartly styled cabinets are covered with a grey-blue composition material, faintly marbleized like the floor, for the sake of texture.

Back of attractive shelves over the range there's a cool red, the same red which is repeated in the circular ceiling over the breakfast nook, and carried in a band around the upper walls to tie together the surface areas of the room. The design of this room is purposely very simple. There is a conspicuous absence of pattern, and the charm of the room is largely obtained by effective color distribution.

Guess Work Eliminated.

The range here is gas: A nice present, now that the spirit of Christmas is hovering over us, and in our mind's eye we see sheets of golden cookies to be baked, fowls to be roasted and puddings to be steamed. This range has beauty plus a host of practical features: Sef-lighting top burners, a smokeless broiler, a minute minder to call you when your cooking is done, and an oven with an amazing I. Q. Guess work is eliminated by its time and temperature control and its regulation and distribution of heat.

Then, too, there is the streamlined efficient gas refrigerator which fits into the kitchen's setting; automatic and destined to stretch many a family dollar by its evenly maintained temperature and its moist cold or dry cold compartments for your foods.

Presents for the kitchen are highly popular now, and a piece of equipment for the kitchen before the holidays will mean it can be enjoyed thruout the season, and then, when January comes, it will act as a stimulant if further kitchen modernization is planned.

Many Cabinet Styles.

These major servants in our kitchens have been designed by expert engineers and taste conscious stylists. You don't want them to dominate a kitchen but you do want them as a working background, and to harmonize with your decorations and accessories.

The market teems with finishes for ceiling, walls, floors, and countertops. There are no end of cabinet styles and sinks, cupboards, and dishwashing units. This larger type of equipment can fit into the picture whatever style kitchen you have.

RIDING COURSE BOOKLET FINDS A READY SALE

Demand for the new 52 page Tribune booklet on beginners' horseback riding instruction indicates a wide interest in horse trail activities in spite of the severe weather, according to employés of the Tribune's Public Service offices.

The booklet, entitled "A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride," is on sale at the Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street, as well as downtown book, department and sporting goods stores. It is priced at 25 cents over the counter and 27 cents by mail.

Requests for the work are made by riders and nonriders of all ages, not only in Chicagoland, but from more distant areas of the middle west, according to the Public Service offices.

Off the Trail
with HAROLD SMITH

The west side was well represented in the International Live Stock exposition's horse show, which closed yesterday. Of the Chicagoland horse owners who competed for the numerous prizes, more than 24 were residents of the west side and nearby suburbs.

These exhibitors included: H. Leslie Atlass of Wheaton, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Brown of Wayne, Miss Janice Caudill of Oak Park, Miss Joan Crews of Oak Park, Lieut. Colonel P. W. Evans of Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Flanery of Maple Park, Nicholas J. Geib of Oak Park, Miss Leona D. Harris of Aurora, Ray E. Henderson of 110 West Kinzie street; George F. Keller of La Grange.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Keogh of Lafox, Miss Anne Krause of Hinsdale, Miss Mary Jane McGrath of River Forest, Miss Martha Miller of Hinsdale, Tom O'Malley of Aurora, Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Orth of Wheaton, Miss Paddy Price of Hinsdale, George H. Simpson of River Forest, Miss Jeanie Solberg of Elmhurst, and Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. of Wheaton.

Another enthusiastic cutter owner is Miss Sara Peyton of Forest Park, who may be found driving her sorrel gelding, Red, whenever her duties as a playground director will permit.

OAK PARK VILLAGE THEATER TO PRESENT 'THE DEVIL PASSES'

Tom McComb.

The cast of characters will have a dose of trouble in "The Devil Passes," a morality play by Benn Levy, which will be presented by the Village Theater on Friday evening in the Lowell school auditorium, Marion and Lake streets, Oak Park. Tom McComb will be cast as Magnus, a writer who thinks he loves comfort more than he does a young woman.

The part of the devil will be played by David Kinsman, who will return to earth as Nicholas Lucy, a clergyman, and show the way to make wishes come true. Helen Mae Quinn will be seen in the rôle of Dorothy Listern, an actress who finds that ethics are stronger than desire.

The part of the romantic young woman will be played by Doris Moses. Mr. Messiter, a clergyman who preaches one thing and believes another, will be played by Guy Burgess. Ina Hill as Mrs. Messiter, plays the rôle of a character whose inner life is undisturbed because she asks only the opportunity of doing her duty.

Aldis Darre will be seen as Cosmo Penny, an ambitious author who needs to bolster his self-confidence, and Tinker Sage will play the part of Ellen, the maid. Hendrick Dahle will play Louis Kisch, an artist of talent who never catches his trains. Miss Elizabeth Wolcott is director.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Dec. 9.

Commercial fertilizer companies are offering a tablet containing plant food that is easy and convenient to apply to the soil, for all that is necessary to do is to open the surface a bit, push in the tablet, and water. The essentials for growing are in the tablet. These complete plant foods are essential if one grows field, garden, or indoor plants and next to watering they are just as important if high grade plants are grown. City gardeners will appreciate the value of prepared foods for they do not have access to animal foods like the country cousin.

Tuesday, Dec. 10.

It is said that, if seeds are placed in a dish and sprinkled with a little water and dusted with red lead, they will repel mice. Shake well so that each seed is covered with the lead. After drying, the seed can be sown, their germinating power being unhindered or impaired.

Just before severe freezing, dig a trench around trees that are to be transplanted with a frozen ball of earth. Practically all trees can be transplanted safely by this method; even large trees will respond without injury, but the expense incurred may not appeal to the average home gardener.

Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Some shrubs that are fall planted frequently freeze back during winter because the wood dries out. These should be cut back to six inches of the ground; they include the tamarisk, Rose of Sharon, Weigela, Buddleia, Carolina allspice, and beautybush.

All fall planted stock should be given the protection of a mulch. This is excellent practice for all kinds of plants and it should not be neglected.

Thursday, Dec. 12.

When once a pot plant dries out it may never be the same or at least it will take a considerable time to bring it back to its former state. This is especially true of plants that are in full flower. Soon the delightful poinsettias will be seen in many windows. Give these plenty of water and light and avoid sudden changes of temperature.

The plants can be saved after flowering by allowing the soil to gradually dry out and allowing the plants to enter a period of rest. Next spring start into growth again, but first cut back the stems and repot. It hardly pays to keep the plants over because of their requirements. They delight in a humid condition and with around a minimum of 60 degree temperature.

Friday, Dec. 13.

Give the hyacinths plenty of water. If several are in the same pot, and it is so desired, the individual bulbs can be carefully removed and placed singly in a suitable container. They quickly come into full bloom if well rooted. The paperwhite narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, and hyacinth are all fine for growing in water supported with pebbles. A special hyacinth glass for hyacinths is best to use for this bulb. The common calla and the yellow species do well when grown indoors. Give good soil and, when once well rooted, water copiously.

If you receive a fernery or terrarium, be sure that the condensation of moisture is not excessive; correct such a condition by moving the cover a bit to aerate.

Saturday, Dec. 14.

Have you begun the revised plan of the garden? How are the garden accessories—stowed carefully away? Are the birdhouses in place ready for repair or painting? How about the feeding stations? Are the young trees protected against the attack of rodents?

[Prepared in coöperation with Garfield Park conservatory.]

"Let the breakfast dishes stand"

"We can look at this apartment this morning."

No matter what you want in an apartment, the best way to secure it is to start reading the offers in the Tribune want ad section. You can review Chicago's largest selection of apartment values by following the Apartments to Rent want ads in the Tribune.

"Hold that pose"

The cameras, projectors, enlargers, light meters, developing and printing outfits and other devices that every camera enthusiast wants are frequently offered at money saving prices in the Cameras and Optical Goods column in the want ad section. Follow the offers in this column for things you need!

"I'm much happier now!"

AN attractive room or furnished apartment can make a lot of difference in the way you feel. It will pay you to read the offers in the Rooms to Rent, Hotels and Furnished Apartments columns in the Tribune want ad section.

"No more colds for us"

Do you feel chilly drafts on your floors and around your doors and windows? Storm windows and doors, and weather stripping to make your home weather tight are offered at attractive prices in the Building Materials column in the want ad section. It will pay you in better health and in money saved to follow the offers of insulating materials and millwork in this column.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE
SERVING CHICAGO FOR 93 YEARS

★Because they get better results, want ad users place more total want advertising in the Tribune than in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

COMMUNITIES DON CHRISTMAS DRESS

DEDICATE NEW 108TH SQUADRON HANGAR SUNDAY

Structure Will House 15 Guard Planes.

Dedication of the new $679,000 National Guard hangar and headquarters building at the Municipal airport will take place at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. Gov. John Stelle and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, chairman of the Illinois Armory board, will be among the speakers.

The hangar, which is on the south side of the airport, fronting on 63d street, is designed to house the 108th Observation squadron of the Illinois National Guard, a unit of 26 officers and 116 men. The structure is on land obtained from the city thru the board of education, the owner.

380 Feet Long.

The exact total cost of the structure, including equipment, was $679,359 of which $228,109 came from the Federal Works administration and $451,250 from the Illinois Armory board. The building now houses 15 single motor observation planes. Officers' quarters are in the building along with operations office, engineering office, enlisted men's locker room, photographic section, and machine shop.

The hangar floor is 100 by 380 feet with a height of 29½ feet from the floor to the suspended ceiling and 41½ feet from the floor to the roof. Headquarters building is three stories on the field side and two stories on the street side. The entire building is fireproof with a sprinkler system.

Details of Construction.

Buff brick and Indiana limestone trim with aluminum and steel sash make up the exterior. A large insignia of the air force is a feature of the design. The hangar interior has concrete block walls, unfinished, concrete floor with structural steel roof framing, and the suspended gypsum ceiling which is for fire protection. There are two electrically operated access doors to the field, each 99 feet wide by 28 feet high.

Offices are finished with plastered walls and ceilings. The headquarters part is heated by direct radiation, and the hangar by blast coils. The entire building is meechanically ventilated.

S. Milton Eichberg was the architect. C. Herrick Hammond was supervising architect.

MECHLIN D. A. R. TO OBSERVE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Members of DeWalt Mechlin chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at the home of Mrs. John R. MacGregor, 10200 Longwood drive, tomorrow for an all day session in celebration of the chapter's 25th anniversary. Mrs. MacGregor is second regent of the chapter. Tomorrow's meeting will be given over to business and current events. Mrs. J. C. Peebles will read the chapter history.

The chapter was organized Dec. 6, 1915, by Mrs. Minnie McFarlane Prince. The chapter was named for Mrs. Prince's revolutionary war ancestor, DeWalt Mechlin. Mrs. Jacob F. Zimmerman, vice president general of the national society, will be guest speaker at tomorrow afternoon's session, and she will discuss "Approved Schools."

Mrs. Vinton Earl Eisson, national librarian general, will be a special guest. Burr Tillstrom, puppeteer, will entertain. Mrs. George F. Dasher, regent, will preside, and Mrs. G. B. Van Dort is in charge of luncheon arrangements.

18 EMPLOYES RETIRE; TOTAL 669 WORK YEARS

Eighteen steel workers who total 669 years of service were retired from the South Works plant in South Chicago last week by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. Leading the veterans were C. L. Clarke, superintendent of yards and transportation, and Frank Wronka, labor foreman in the masonry department, each of whom marked up 44 years of service.

Others retired were Adolph Johnson, 38 years; Hilmari Nelson, 12 years; Charles Watson, 36; Albert Anderson, 36; Gustaf Dahlstrom, 41; Thomas McCorkle, 36; Stanley Podlasinski, 38; H. E. Merritt, 34; H. H. Jones, 39; C. E. S. Moore, 40; Charles Cork, 24; Michael Ahern, 19; John J. Johnson, 33; W. R. Hanrahan, 43; C. J. Chirra, 39; John Barrowman, 43.

Vanderpoel Art Group Will Hear Talk on Composition

Woman's auxiliary of the Vanderpoel Art association of Beverly Hills will present Yasha Brojdo of the Art institute in a lecture on the composition of a painting tomorrow afternoon at Ridge Park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive. The group is under the leadership of Mrs. Leslie Wiswell.

Mothers to Meet.

Mothers auxiliary of Lourdes High school, 4034 West 56th street, will meet in regular session at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the school.

City's Mexican Colony Plans Its Own Church

Mary Louise Garibay.

Amid news of revolution and blood purge, news of army campaigns and naval battles, back of the yards Mexicans are embarking upon a church buying campaign. The leaders are J. E. Chico, president; Miss Mary Louise Garibay, vice president; Miss Mercedes Olivares, secretary; Sister Mary de Lara, treasurer; Mrs. J. M. de Rangel, assistant treasurer; J. E. Flores, J. I. Ramos, and J. J. Limon, committee assistants.

Church drives are as indigenous to the United States as apple pie and cornbread, but a church drive is a trifle different from ordinary when its backers consist of 100 families averaging five children to the family and $25 a week income. This particular drive is further significant in that it represents the change in the Mexicans' regard of this country as a temporary home to a permanent one.

Starts on Feast Day.

Thursday is the feast day of Our Lady of Guadelupe, and the date will be the official beginning of the church campaign. It is fitting, since the back of the yards Mexican church, of Roman Catholic denomination, will be named Our Lady of Guadelupe, just as the chapel at 4330 South Ashland avenue is now named.

Altho the Mexicans have been without a regular church, they have not foregone services. They've worshiped in a series of rented chapels. According to one of their spokesmen, "We'd rent a place that was in such bad repair no one else would have it. We'd fix it up, and then we'd lose the lease. We've been doing that for seven years. Now we've decided either to build a place or to buy one."

The present chapel on Ashland is housed in what was a butcher shop. The altar is an old ice box. The images on the altar were painted by one of the congregation's young women. The benches and other fittings were made by men of the St. Vincent de Paul society. This organization sees that the rent is paid, coal bills met, and all other operating items checked.

Hope to Raise $5,000.

Leaders hope to raise $5,000. They think it will take them at least a year, "so we have plenty of time in which to decide whether to buy or build," they explain. One supporter already has contributed $25 and others have promised a total of $175. The Mexicans plan to hold bazars and dances. A program will take place once a month. The Mexican women will offer needlework for sale.

The new church will serve a community of 2,000 Mexicans. Mexicans may come from the 39th street community also, and from 47th street and Wentworth avenue.

A priest from St. Francis church at 12th and Halsted streets reads mass at 8:30 o'clock every Sunday morning in the present chapel. Early tho the service is, the small room is always crowded. And the crowd is only a small portion of the Mexicans who would come to church if there were more room or more masses.

Dates from "Ousting."

The growth of the church campaign dates from a catechism class several Cordi-Marian sisters were conducting in a Mexican home. There were so many children that the youngsters not only filled the house but the back yard, too.

The landlord came in, according to Miss Garibay, and broke up the class. Ever since, the Mexicans have hoped to have a place of their own to carry on religious instruction.

The Mexicans are the newest back of the yards immigrant group. Nearly all of the parents were born in Mexico. The fathers labor in the stockyards.

ALDEN KINDRED OF AMERICA TO HAVE A BANQUET

Mrs. Gertrude A. Neely.

Myles Standish, 6280 West North avenue, and Priscilla Alden, 1645 North Linden avenue, will be among the Chicagoans attending the Midwest chapter of the Alden Kindred of America, meeting for their 28th annual forefathers' day dinner Tuesday night at the Chicago Engineers club, 314 Federal street. Miss Alden is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Alden of Melrose Park.

E. R. Sifert, superintendent of Proviso Township High school, will be the guest speaker at the 320th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims in America.

Officers of the chapter are Giles R. Atwood, president; and Mildred Alden Sparrow, secretary. Caroline Alden Huling is founder of the chapter. Mrs. Gertrude Alden Neely is program chairman.

Open Reading Room.

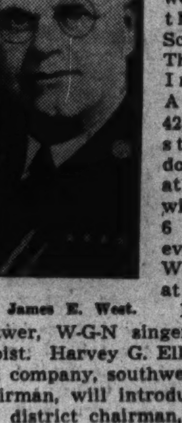
A new reading room has been opened at 1933 West 103d street by the Thirteenth Church of Christ, Scientist, of Chicago.

Children Have Own Art Class at Beverly Hills

Artists and a model, Beverly Hills version, are these youngsters in the children's art class which was organized this fall by the newly formed Woman's auxiliary of the Vanderpoel Art association. They attend class at 10 o'clock every Saturday morning in the Ridge park fieldhouse, and they'll begin a new term of lessons on Dec. 21. In the front row, left to right, are: Dode Lethen, 10431 Hale avenue, and Bob Nightingale, 8933 South Leavitt street. Back row, left to right: David Herriott, 10844 South Hoyne avenue, Jacqueline Kerr, 9020 South Hamilton avenue, and Robby Kline, 10603 South Seeley avenue. The model is Tommy White, 4 years old, of 1716 West 103d street. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

NATIONAL SCOUT LEADER TO GIVE DINNER ADDRESS

Expect 7,000 to Attend Rally Thursday.



Dr. James E. West.

The chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, Dr. James E. West, will come to Chicago for the second annual potluck dinner of the southwest district of the Chicago Scout council, Thursday in the International Amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets. The doors will open at noon; dinner will be served at 6 o'clock in the evening, and Dr. West will speak at 8 o'clock.

Miss Kathryn Witwer, W-G-N singer, will be the soloist. Harvey G. Ellerd of Armour and company, southwest district vice chairman, will introduce A. J. Clauter, district chairman, who will present Dr. West.

The district vice chairman in charge of the dinner is Fred C. Rathje. He will act as master of ceremonies.

Drum Corps to Play.

Scouts will give a pageant and tableaux to demonstrate "Scout Values." Part of the Scout ceremony will be the rite of 200 boys rededicating themselves to the service of this country. Scout drum and bugle corps and bands will play. Another feature will be a motion picture, "Trail to Citizenship."

This program is for Scouts, their parents, and all friends of scouting. More than 7,000 are expected to attend. One objective of the event is to bring about a closer relationship between troops and their sponsoring institutions. Another objective is to emphasize the privileges and responsibilities of the present day generation of American citizens.

Dr. West, the principal speaker, has been chief Scout executive since Jan. 2, 1911, almost from the beginning of scouting in America. He has been a leader in developing the organization from a few scattered troops to one represented in nearly every hamlet of the United States and possessions.

Reared in Orphanage.

Dr. West's own life story is remarkable. Orphaned while very young, he grew up in an orphanage. An illness suffered in the institution left him a cripple. He overcame his physical handicap and his financial one to the point of obtaining an education and being admitted to the bar. He has achieved his ambition to lead a life of usefulness by service to this country's youth.

Members of Mr. Rathje's potluck dinner committee and the communities they represent are: A. E. Holsted, Archer road; Judge E. J. Holland, Bridgeport; Joel Goldblatt, Southwest Center; Edward Bradford, Englewood; Frank D. McKeag, Tri-Parks; John Freestrom, West End, and H. A. Williamson, Ridge. Carle W. Handle, Edward Danaher, and Paul Salerno are on the district executive staff.

Individual troops have arranged their plans for the dinner. The mothers have settled among themselves what food they will bring. There will be a catering service for those not with any group.

Coffee to Be Furnished.

Since the doors of the Amphitheater will be opened at noon, there will be plenty of time for setting up table decorations.

Coffee will be furnished this year. Tickets are available at the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, 815 West 63d street, or at the Boy Scout office, 9 West Washington street. If there are any left over, they will be sold at the door.

Other southwest scouting news this week includes announcement of the organization of Cub pack 3636, sponsored by the Englewood Methodist church, 64th street and Stewart avenue. The pack will meet at 7 o'clock Thursday evenings. Harvey L. Wicklund is scoutmaster. Harold J. Wiley is chairman of the pack committee.

NEWSBOYS TO SPONSOR DANCE AS BENEFIT FOR NEEDY FAMILIES

Edward E. Shields.

Edward E. Shields, 1747 West 47th street, chairman of the South-West Side Newsboys, an organization of 200, is in charge of the benefit dance sponsored by the group and to be given Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, in the Agnes ballroom at 47th and Paulina streets. Proceeds will be used to help the needy in the stockyards district. Shields has had a newsstand at 47th and Paulina streets for the last 20 years. He writes songs occasionally, and besides selling papers, he puts out a free circulation sheet in the yards area. As a philanthropist, he doesn't stop with Christmas giving, but distributes New Year's baskets also. He began that practice two years ago.

Annual Christmas Novena of St. Rita Opens Friday

The annual Christmas Novena in honor of the Augustinian nun, St. Rita, has been announced by the Augustinian fathers of St. Rita's shrine, 63d street and Oakley avenue. The novena will consist of nine consecutive days of prayer beginning on Friday. The spiritual exercises will be open to the public at 8 o'clock each evening.

Woman's Club Chorus Will Sing for Academy Mothers

The Mothers' club of the Morgan Park Military academy will hold its December meeting Tuesday afternoon in Alumni hall. Mrs. G. C. Gault will speak, and the chorus of the Beverly Hills Woman's club, under the leadership of Rose McGilvray Grundman, will present a program of Christmas carols.

CHORAL GROUPS START YULETIDE CONCERT SEASON

Birute Singers to Give Operetta Today.

Musical programs traditionally are part of the Christmas season celebration. Southwest side musical organizations are busy now with seasonal concerts.

The Birute Lithuanian chorus will revive a Lithuanian-American operetta, written 30 years ago, for a concert at 5 o'clock this afternoon in Lithuanian auditorium, 3133 South Halsted street. The operetta, "Sienapiute" [Harvest Time], was written by Mikas Petrauskas, a Lithuanin immigrant who organized the Birute chorus in Chicago and similar groups in other American cities. The two act musical composition was enlivened by Petras Sarpalius, another Lithuanian-American composer. Today's singing of the music will be the first presentation in more than 10 years.

Morgan Park Concert.

George Rees will direct the Morgan Park Gleemen in their annual winter concert at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at Hackman hall, 96th and Throop streets. Members of the Steele Concert company will be guest artists. They include: Ella Steele, coloratura soprano and pianist; Emile Mitterman, cellist; Gladys Koptik, flutist, and Victor Salvi, harpist. Richard Sorenson, guitarist and tenor and choir director of Trinity Methodist church, will be among the assisting artists. A. W. Tufts is president of the Gleemen this year. Howard Bartle is accompanst.

Another Tuesday evening concert will take place at 8:15 o'clock in the Thomas C. Hill auditorium of Fenger High school, 115th and Wallace streets. The program will be the 4th annual choral concert of the high school a cappella choir: and mixed chorus. Three of the soloists will be Frances Baskis, soprano; Barbara Birtchet, soprano, and Thomas Strader, tenor.

Euterpean Concert.

The Euterpean Oratorio chorus, directed by Mark Hallett, is preparing for the 18th annual performance of Handel's "Messiah." The program will be presented at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon at the Morgan Park Baptist church.

Joseph Anderson is organist for the chorus, and Russell Hayton, pianist. Guest artists for this year's program will be: Margaret Heywood Wood, soprano; Ethel C. McCulloch, contralto; Roy Glahn, tenor, and Winfred Stracke, bass. Doors will open at 2 o'clock, and chorus members will supply reserved seat courtesy tickets to early arrivals.

St. Felicitas Mothers.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Felicitas Mothers' club will be held on Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in the Social rooms, 84th street and Blackstone avenue. Fifth grade mothers will be hostesses at this meeting. Mrs. O. T. Bredeken is president of the club.

MINNEAPOLIS PASTOR WILL BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Richard Raines.

Dr. Richard C. Raines, pastor of Hennepin Avenue Methodist church of Minneapolis, Minn., will address the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall on the text "Come Ye Apart!" He will be introduced by Clifford W. Barnes, and the scripture will be read by Col. Robert G. Peck of the board of trustees.

Dr. Raines is much admired by college youth in America who have been impressed by his "University of Life," a program for universities started some years ago by Dr. Raines and now used in about twenty-five states, also because his sermons deal lucidly and fearlessly with current social issues.

Von Steuben a cappella choir, directed by John Clare Thomas, will sing at the preliminary meeting, and Hudsin H. Pittman will give the informal Bible talk.

PARISH FOUNDER WILL CELEBRATE GOLDEN JUBILEE

Msgr. Thomas J. Bobal.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Bobal, founder and pastor of SS. Cyril and Methodius parish, 50th street and Hermitage avenue, will celebrate solemn high mass at noon today in observance of his golden jubilee in the priesthood. The mass will be celebrated in the presence of Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch and other church dignitaries.

Msgr. Bobal was born in Luzkovice, Moravia, on Nov. 5, 1866. He came to this country when he was 16 years old. He pursued his classical studies at St. Francis seminary in Milwaukee, from which he was graduated in 1885. He studied philosophy and theology at St. Mary's seminary in Baltimore,

In Chicago he served mass in St. Rose of Lima church and in St. Joseph's church. In 1891 he was assigned to establish a church for the few Czech Catholics then living in the district around 50th street and Hermitage avenue. He built up SS. Cyril and Methodius parish, and he has served it ever since. He was elevated to the monsignorship by the late Pope Pius XI. on Sept. 20, 1934.

Today's service will be enriched by the music of the parish choir, directed by Miss Mildred R. Brom, and the parish string ensemble directed by Charles J. Vaskovsky.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND MORRIS, 7612 Sangamon street, have discovered that they have a pair of photogenic daughters. Marilyn Ann took first place among the pictures submitted by a loop department store in the ninth children's national photograph contest and her baby sister, Shirley Jean, received a certificate of honorable mention. The contest was held under auspices of the National Association of Department Store Studios in more than 200 cities in the United States.

FRANK S. SOWA, 13355 Burley avenue, delivered a poem and presented an acrostic to Judge Martin M. Gridley of the Superior court last Tuesday, when Judge Gridley retired after 30 years of service on the bench. The poem began "Justly, with pride, we greet you 'ere you leave" and ended with "Ever may you enjoy good health and happy days, your well deserved vacation be a joy—Hail! Farewell! Frank, who was Judge Gridley's minute clerk, wrote the verse himself. President of the Hegewisch Chamber of Commerce, Frank also has the degrees of bachelor of laws, doctor of laws, doctor of civil laws, and doctor of international laws.

A WHIRLWIND tour of New York City, including introductions to opera stars and other musical celebrities and speaking over a network radio program, was the reward given to Miss Elinor Eaton, 5634 South Woodlawn avenue, last week as one of the six winners in a nation-wide NBC contest on opera appreciation.

Miss Eaton, who is 21 years old, is a student at the Vogue School for Designing in Chicago and studies voice culture under Phillip Manuel, organist at the United Church of Hyde Park. She has been to the opera many times in Chicago. This was her first trip to New York and she was accompanied by her mother.

Miss Catherine Coyle, 1125 West Garfield boulevard, and Miss Mary Fitzsimmons, 1001 West Garfield boulevard, are members of the Loyola University Service guild's annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Holy Family parish Saturday on the downtown campus of Loyola.

THE pledging of Richard A. Larson, 1307 West 98th street, to Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity, was announced last week at the Illinois Institute of Technology. He is attending the college on a four year scholarship in fire protection engineering. Pledging to Tau Beta Pi is considered the highest honor that can be bestowed on a student in engineering school, since the fraternity is the Phi Beta Kappa of the engineering profession.

Charles Miller.

The eighth annual Aviation Good Fellow ceremonies will take place at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 23, in the auditorium of the Chicago airport, 6200 South Cicero avenue. After the program more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy will be taken to poor families thruout the city.

Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for the campaign this year. Mr. Miller was a second lieutenant in the 16th squadron of the A. E. F., and saw six months' service in France during the first world war.

Specific plans for carrying out the work this season were made at a meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Churbuck, 6740 South Oglesby avenue, 1939 chairman of the Aviation Good Fellows. William Westlake, also a former leader of this movement, again was selected as public relations head for the campaign.

LIGHTS, TINSEL AND MUSIC HAIL YULE HOLIDAYS

Civic Groups Share with the Needy.

Old time Christmas carolers have given way to modernization, and the 1940 caroling will come from street amplifiers carrying the music from local broadcasting stations. Such broadcasts will be features of many southwest community celebrations this season. Charity also characterizes community plans for observance. School children, scout troops, and adult organizations are coöperating in plans to bring Christmas cheer to less fortunate families.

Civic, fraternal, religious, and service organizations are taking part in Homewood's Christmas celebration, which is under the sponsorship of the Homewood Business association. Paul M. Cook, general chairman, says, "The highlight will be the 120 evergreen trees, decked with colored lights, which will line the two main business streets of the village."

Music Thru Village.

The trees will show the form of a cross from the air. They will be lighted Saturday. Christmas music will be broadcast thruout the village the week before Christmas and Christmas week itself. Church choirs and other musical organizations will sing over the amplifiers in the late afternoons and early evenings.

A gift to the community will be the Christmas pageant, sponsored by the Homewood Woman's club, on the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 18, at the new village auditorium. Mrs. H. C. Wysong will direct the production, and other community organizations are taking part. The pageant will be open to the public without charge.

Adding to the decoration the lighted trees will make will be a church replica with a 24 foot steeple which will stand at the west end of Ridge road. The structure will be floodlighted and lighted from within. Santa Claus will arrive in Homewood on Saturday morning, Dec. 21, and will drive up and down the village streets. A parade of townspeople and children will follow, and the procession will draw up at the municipal building, where Santa will distribute gifts to the youngsters. Householders will take part in a home decoration contest, and the business association will sponsor a dance Dec. 28 to close the festivities.

Repair Used Toys.

The Beverly Y. M. C. A., Southwest Kiwanis club, and the WPA are coöperating in the collection and repair of used toys. The 18 clubs in the Hi-Y council, headed by Paul Carroll of 10130 Seeley avenue, and the 19 Gra-Y clubs made up of grade school boys headed by William Yardley Jr., 10230 Hoyne avenue, are collecting toys and games for children of relief families.

The Southwest Kiwanis club has opened two shops for toy repairing. One is in the Gresham Methodist church, 87th street and Emerald avenue, and the other at Bethel church, 11045 South Albany avenue, Mount Greenwood. James E. Smith, 725 West 87th street, is in charge of the repair work.

Boys and girls are repairing and repainting railway cars, doll buggies, model boats, and other playthings under the supervision of WPA and Y. M. C. A. workers.

Girls Knit and Sew.

Mrs. W. M. Rennie, 1716 West 100th street, and Mrs. Virginia Guy, 11055 Homewood avenue, are chairman and girls' work secretary respectively, in charge of 14 high school and grade school girls' clubs in the Y. M. C. A. which are now busy making dresses, knitting mittens, and providing six presents each for 20 little girls in the Frances Juvenile home. Phyllis Clay, 10616 Prospect avenue, is president of the Tri-Hi-Y council carrying on the project.

The Brighton Park Chamber of Commerce has decorated Archer avenue light poles with Christmas wreathes. The chamber is sponsoring movies for which nonperishable foods are admission. The food will be distributed to needy families thru neighborhood churches and social organizations.

Mrs. Richard Taylor is chairman of the 6th annual Clearing Community Christmas Fund committee. The committee collects a fund, and this amount is divided into $10 worth of merchandise certificates in denominations of $1 and these are delivered to needy families. Last year 50 families were remembered in this manner.

Groups Behind Plan.

Organizations represented in this undertaking are: Clearing Woman's club, Clearing Junior Woman's club, American Legion, Salvation Army, Clearing Business Men's association, St. Symphorosa Catholic church, Clearing Methodist church, Messiah Lutheran church, and the Hale Parent-Teacher association.

Vice chairmen on Mrs. Taylor's committee are: Clyde F. Decker, Mrs. Grace Gilmour, Miss Eleanor Taylor, Sanger Dreyfus, Joseph Haney, Mrs. F. W. Keeley, Mrs. Jesse Wixom, Harold Peters, J. M. Nolan. Mrs. Fred Russell is committee treasurer, and Isaac Goldstine is secretary. Clearing young folks will stroll about the streets singing carols Christmas eve.

NOT A STREET CAR IN SIGHT.

The woes of a southwest side commuter are many, but they're not varied. They are all slow transportation troubles, and every story ends with the sentence, "So I was late to work again." Listen to a detailed account of this street car rider's street car rides!

I began my usual pilgrimage to work at 7:25 last Monday morning armed with a transfer from Monterey avenue and Esmond street. Off at Western avenue, I had a transfer, but no car was in sight. So, after a good wait, I hopped onto a bus and paid a dime, of course. Total fare, 17 cents up until then. When I alighted at 63d street I had to proceed upon my weary way [I was trying to get to Cicero avenue] on another street car and with another 7 cents for fare. Well, by spending 24 cents, I managed to get to work on time. But I can't afford 24 cents for a one way trip, so I started earlier on Tuesday. The synopsis of that trip reads—20 minutes late for work and an hour and one-half in the effort.

I am supposed to be at work at the airport at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. Will somebody please tell me what time I should leave Monterey avenue and Esmond street in order to get there—keeping in mind that I can't afford to pay three car fares? Maybe I should buy a sleeping bag and just sleep out along the fence. H. C.

SAFETY FOR STUDENTS.

Being a high school student at Englewood I feel that it is my duty to inform people of the happenings on the way home from school.

Recently one of our senior girls was injured by a truck while waiting for a street car at 62d street and Wentworth avenue. This happened because there are students and women who won't wait patiently for a street car. As soon as a street car is spotted an awful commotion is started as all try to be the first on the car. If there were a safety zone or a policeman at this corner we would feel safer.

I am speaking for the benefit of my fellow students and I hope that there is something done about this matter.

C. A.

CINDERS FOR ICY STREETS.

Isn't it possible to have some kind of cinder service for icy intersections? I've been trying to drive my car around the southwest side this slippery spell. It is difficult enough to negotiate the slick side streets, but when I approach a stop light, I simply don't know whether I'm going to land over by the curb or half way across the intersection.

The Stewart avenue section around the Teachers' college was particularly slick. In fact, all of Englewood was a good ice skating rink. I haven't had any serious mishaps, but I thank my good fortune for that. I would have hit three little children, but they, sensibly, ran back onto the sidewalk when they saw me sliding. They were trying to cross a street with the light, just as they should do.

My business makes it necessary for me to drive. I stay on the boulevards as much as possible, but I certainly think that something should be done about slippery side streets, especially at intersections. J. K. L.

CAR STRIPPERS ACTIVE.

We moved to the neighborhood of 72d and Talman about two years ago thinking it was a nice quiet neighborhood, but we find that it is a regular hunting ground for auto thieves. Our car was broken into twice within a few weeks. The police say they can do nothing about it, but we think that if a policeman were seen once in a while, it might help a little bit. Not only our car, but many of the neighbors' cars have been stripped and damaged whether parked on the street or in the garage. K. S.

SANTA'S AGENTS TURN CITY PARKS INTO BUSY SHOPS

Old and Young Fashion Christmas Gifts.

Chicago park district instructors are giving their full time to assisting men, women, and children in answering the question, "What shall we give for Christmas?" While women are the regulars at nearly all of the classes for making handkerchiefs, vited and do attend in the pre-Christmas rush of gift making.

Miss Mary Wagers is instructor at Davis square park, and she assists in classes for making handerkerchiefs, dolls, doll clothes, and mats. The sessions take place from noon to 6 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

Christmas tree ornaments made from foil, cellophane, pine cones, nuts, and burrs are items on the Fernwood park program. Table decorations, sweaters, mittens, beanies, gloves, belts, and hoods are also made.

Meet on Two Days.

Miss Lucille Richter is the Fernwood instructor, and classes meet on Tuesdays from 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon until 9:30 o'clock, and on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 5:30 o'clock.

Miss Rose Sorensen is in charge of the classes at Gage park from 1:30 to 9:30 o'clock on Mondays and Wednesdays. Workers there are making sweaters and skirts for gifts, and they are also making jewelry, some of it from corn and beans. They are making tree ornaments of paper, cellophane, and nuts.

Gifts being made at Hamilton park are jars, vases, tiles, figurines. The park is equipped with two pottery kilns for firing and glazing these items. Miss Louise Springborn is the craft teacher, and the class hours are 1:30 to 9:30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Make Many Articles.

Mark White square Christmas gift makers go to sessions on Mondays and Thursdays from 1:30 to 9:30 o'clock. They're making men's ties, women's tea aprons, and stuffed animals for children. They are using paper, cellophane, and ribbons for Christmas trees and wreaths. They're using paper, paper pulp, and cellophane for tree ornaments. Miss Mabel Lach is instructor.

Gifts are being fashioned on frames and looms at McKinley park. The results are mats, purses, scarfs, and stocking caps. Workers are also decorating boxes with paper, yarn, and felt. They're making small trees for decoration, and they're making ornaments. Miss Lena Lewis is in charge of classes on Wednesdays and Fridays from 1:30 to 9:30 o'clock.

Ogden park Christmas preparations include Christmas wrappings, hot pads, felt mittens, felt caps, wooden trays, dolls, toys, cards, and decorations. Miss Florence Cavanaugh is instructor at classes that meet from 1:30 to 9:30 every Tuesday and Thursday.

At Sherman Park.

Felt, paper, wall paper, cellophane, nuts, and pods are the "makings" of table decorations and favors at Sherman park. The gifts being prepared there are aprons, doll dresses, children's dresses, rugs, felt bonnets, mittens, scarfs, and lapel gadgets. Miss Louise Springborn is instructor, and the sessions are from 1:30 to 9:30 o'clock on Mondays and Wednesdays and from 2 to 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoons.

West Pullman park lists hot pads, felt mittens, felt caps, wooden trays, dolls, and toys for gifts. Other items are Christmas wrappings, cards, and decorations which are trees and angels made from cellophane, paper, and foil. Miss Cavanaugh is the instructor, and the sessions are from 1:30 to 9:30 o'clock on Wednesdays and Fridays.

These classes are open to any one wishing to make any of the items listed. Miss Alice Beyer is the park district art craft supervisor.

Bazar Proceeds to Assist Priest's Work for Chinese

The annual bazar and party to benefit Father Pat Maloney's work in Chinatown and back of the yards will take place Friday, Saturday, and next Sunday evenings at Eagle hall, on 51st street between Halsted and Union avenue. Father Pat, who lives at the rectory of Old St. Peter's at 8th and Clark streets, is famous for his work among "forgotten men" thruout the city.

Masquer Studio Theater Announces Plays to Come

The Masquer Studio Theater group, under the direction of Howard Rooney, has announced two plays for January and February which will follow the group's new plan of attempting to bring to little theater goers plays of an experimental nature. The dramas chosen are Ibsen's "Ghosts," and Maugham's "The Circle." Tryouts are being held at the studio at 357 West 63d street.

Off the Trail

with HAROLD SMITH

Five horse lovers of southwestern Chicagoland were among the owners whose mounts competed in the horse show of the International Live Stock exposition which closed yesterday. They were Willam Frank Keyes, Palos Park; Miss Helen Rink, Palos Park; Mrs. A. C. Thompson, Oak Lawn; Peter Spogis, 4127 Emerald avenue, and Larry Ryan of Palos Park.

Larry Ryan, owner of the new Palos Hills stables at 95th street and Kean avenue, had seven horses entered in the show—Star Chief, The Zephyr, Happy Tom, Stormy Petrel, Lee Tracy, Cavalcade, and Dan O'Dare. No other south sider had as many entries in the show.

Joseph Reichert, head of division 5 headquarters of the forest preserve, is an enthusiastic horseman who demonstrates he can take it by sallying forth in near-zero temperatures.

DEDICATE PLATE TODAY TO HONOR CHURCH COUPLE

A plate in memory of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lunt will be dedicated at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 64th street and South Marshfield avenue, in a service this evening.

Mr. Lunt was an elder in the church for 40 years, and taught the Boys' class for 37 years. Mrs. Lunt was a pioneer in the missionary activity of the church. Members of the J. W. Lunt Memorial class and the Missionary society will be guests at the service.

The morning service, under the Rev. Clinton C. Cox, will be held at 11 o'clock. The sermon will be "The Cry of a Lonely Heart."

St. Theodore Holy Name Society Meets Tomorrow

St. Theodore Holy Name society will meet tomorrow night in the church hall, 6215 South Paulina street. Officers will be chosen and turkey and fruit cakes will be awarded as attendance prizes. Edward L. Ryan Jr. is president of the society.

will attend a Christmas program at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Fernwood Methodist church. Gifts will be collected for patients at Oak Forest infirmary and for children in Wesley Memorial hospital, and for the Halsted Street Institutional church.

Scouts Repair Toys.

Fernwood school children are collecting toys which will be rejuvenated by local Boy Scouts. Mrs. O. E. Robinson, Fernwood P.-T. A. leisure time chairman, is in charge of the collection and distribution. Last year 274 toys were given to 22 needy families.

Forty organizations will take part in singing the Christmas carols which will be broadcast afternoons and evenings in Chicago Heights beginning Dec. 18. There will be 1,200 to 1,500 taking part in this program, which will be directed by Arthur Lambrecht. Chicago Heights will have a municipal tree in the city hall court. Robert Davis, recreation director, will have a Christmas tree and Christmas program in each of Chicago Heights' six parks. There will be a home decoration contest also.

Blue Island will have music, too. Lynn Burm will take charge of the programs to be given every afternoon and evening, beginning Dec. 16. The community high school band and chorus and the Leiderkranz chorus, celebrating its 87th birthday this year and considered the oldest chorus organization in Illinois, will be among the groups taking part.

Band Concert Dec. 18.

The Blue Island Civic chorus will sing, too. George L. Penney is one of the chairmen assisting with plans. The high school band will play the fourth annual Christmas concert at 8:15 o'clock the evening of Dec. 18 in the Seymour-Whittier school auditorium.

Residents of the newly developed district, Paradise Manor, will celebrate their six months of working together to improve the section in which they are making their homes, with a party Friday evening in Marquette park fieldhouse. Mrs. Elmer Stone and Mrs. Carl Simmons will direct the children of the community in a play called "Christmas with the Mulligans." The performance will begin at 7 o'clock.

The Kiwanis Club of Englewood has set up a Christmas Cheer station at Wentworth school. Donations of toys, clothing, canned goods, and nonperishable foods are solicited and will be used to make up Christmas baskets.

ST. RITA HIGH MOTHERS PLAN INSTALLATION

St. Rita High School Mothers' club will meet tomorrow in their club room, 63d street and Oakley avenue, for the purpose of installing new officers. These are Mrs. Rudolph Hermanek, president; Mrs. Patrick Whalen and Mrs. George Enright, vice presidents; Mrs. James Hughes, finance secretary; Mrs. Jerry Johnson, recording secretary, and Mrs. Thomas Gavin, treasurer. Committee chairmen who will be appointed are Mrs. William Ivers, hospitality; Mrs. Bee J. Burke, house; Mrs. George Cognac, program; Mrs. Frank Lyons, publicity, and Mrs. Louis Metzger, sunshine.

HOBBY EXHIBIT TO BE GIVEN BY ENGLEWOOD CLUB

Women Plan to Have Display Tomorrow.

Mrs. Cedric A. Shantz. [J. Henry Dewitz Photo.]

Among interesting events sponsored this week by clubs of the 3d district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will be the Englewood club's hobby show. It will take place tomorrow morning and afternoon in the Masonic temple at 6730 Wentworth avenue. Mrs. Cedric A. Shantz, chairman of the home and education department, is in charge.

Oil and water color paintings, the work of club members, will make up one unit in the general exhibit. Mrs. Robert Pachaly, who makes a hobby of china painting, will have a display. Another interesting unit will be the pitcher collection of Mrs. Norval B. Stephens. Many of Mrs. Stephens' pitchers are of historic interest.

The Englewood clubwomen are avid collectors, according to the exhibits announced in their show plans. Mrs. Arthur Rice will show her doll collection. The dolls, made of wood, china, wax, and bisque, are from many countries.

Will Show Epitaphs.

Mrs. Ernest R. Charlton's contribution will be a scrapbook of quaint epitaphs copied from old tombstones. Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss set up her pictures of more than 600 churches which are significant in history or in architecture.

Making terraniums, those miniature gardens under glass, is Mrs. Joseph Jaeger's hobby. She presents them to shut-ins, but she has several ready for the hobby show. And Mrs. August Artkamper has promised to bring her collection of souvenir teaspoons.

Mrs. Jean Pickett Cochran will speak at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club.

Popularity of the current events class has resulted in doubling the original class schedule. Now the group meets twice monthly instead of once. The next session will be at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Ridge park fieldhouse with Mrs. R. E. Lidster as discussion leader.

Beverly Hills club musicians are busy now. The chorus will sing twice on Tuesday. One concert will be at the Trinity Methodist church and the other at the meeting of the Mother's club of Morgan Park Military academy.

Chicago Lawn Woman's Club.

Mrs. W. R. Ludwig, 5956 Washtenaw avenue, will be hostess for the music appreciation class tea in her home at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Leo Kranz will be co-hostess. The program will include carols from various countries. The Chicago Lawn club president, Mrs. A. C. Stevesson, has been appointed to the 3d district executive committee.

The next meeting of the Chicago Lawn Junior Woman's club will take place tomorrow evening in Marquette park fieldhouse. The occasion has been designated as art and motion picture night. Mrs. Richard McClure, president of the Better Film Council of Chicagoland, will be the speaker.

Fernwood Woman's Club.

Fernwood members will hear Norma Johns, drama recitalist, in a program at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in Fernwood park fieldhouse. A party for members' children will take place at 3:30 o'clock, and Esther Cheatle, member of the Puppeteers of America, will entertain.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. A. H. Lassman, president, will conduct the regular monthly business session at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning in Hamilton park fieldhouse. The music chairman, Mrs. Wilbur F. Wahls, is arranging the program that will begin at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon. The club chorus, directed by Grace Cushing Humphrey, will sing a Christmas cantata.

Marquette Manor Woman's Club.

The board of directors will meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in Marquette park fieldhouse. An open meeting will take place at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon with Mrs. George Kenney, international relations chairman, arranging the program. The speakers will be Mrs. Merle S. McCarney, 3d district international relations chairman, and Joseph E. Regan, warden of the state penitentiary at Joliet.

Mrs. O. H. Geske has been appointed Red Cross chairman, and she is enlisting members to help make garments for the organization. Mrs. Michael P. Molitor, press chairman, is casting club members for the 1939 prizewinning publicity skit, "Cousin Minnie Read It," by Frances Dunlap Heron.

Morgan Park Woman's Club.

Radio and drama will be featured at tomorrow's meeting of the Morgan Park club. Ray Suber, radio artist, will speak at the session at 11 o'clock in the morning in the Morgan Park Methodist church, 110th street and Longwood drive.

Brighton Park Woman's Club.

The Brighton park club, 4th district, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, will meet at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in McKinley park fieldhouse. Mrs. Joseph Ploshay, American citizenship chairman, has arranged to have Miss Alice Farquhar, head of the Chicago library readers' bureau, as speaker. Miss Farquhar will review current books related to the subject, "Democracy."

Ann Rutledge of Lincoln Play

Miss Fanny Ellen Hogg of Beverly Hills, known on the professional stage as Ellen Hogue, will play the role of Ann Rutledge in cuttings of E. P. Conkle's play, "Prologue to Glory," which will be part of the Beverly Service council's entertainment at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, in Ridge park fieldhouse. The program is a benefit for needy families of Morgan Park and Beverly Hills. Abraham Lincoln will be played by Edward Rees, and Maurice Blythe will portray Henry Onstott, the man who challenges Lincoln to his first debate. [Swisher Photo.]

ART AND ARTISTS TO BE THEME AT HOMEWOOD CLUB

Mrs. Leon Pray to Lead the Discussion.

"Fine Arts" will be the theme of the Homewood Woman's club meeting at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the village hall. The Homewood club is a member of the 3d district of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. J. Harlan Bretz will be the speaker and will use "Our Own Club Artists" as her topic. She, herself, is one of those artists, and others are Mrs. Russell Anderson, Mrs. Lyman M. Forbes and Mrs. James R. Blair. Mrs. Leon Pray, art chairman, will lead in a discussion of art and artists. Miss Dorothy Jean Downey will play a violin solo. Hostesses will be Mrs. Russell Anderson and Mrs. Willard Wilson.

Blue Island Woman's Club.

The Tuesday meeting will be a Christmas party. Mrs. J. E. Lemon will give Christmas readings at the regular session at 11:15 o'clock in the morning at the Blue Island Elks club. Mrs. Darl Brennan, literature chairman, is in charge of the morning program. The afternoon session, beginning at 1:15 o'clock, is in charge of the music chairman, Mrs. Harold Richards. Christmas music will be presented by the community high school chorus directed by E. Glenn Griffin.

Mrs. Arthur C. Johler, program chairman, will introduce Burr Tillstrom, who will present a puppet review. Mrs. Oscar Klenk will be chairman of the Christmas tea.

Chicago Heights Women.

A general meeting will take place at 2:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Presbyterian Community house 16th place and School street. Mrs. Margaret Taylor will be the speaker, and her subject is, "The Folly of Foregone Conclusions." Mrs. James Hollingsed, chairman of the American home department, is arranging the event.

Mrs. S. J. Gottschalk, 3d district occupational therapy chairman, will display articles made by patients at Oak Forest infirmary and will give a short explanation of the work.

Orland Park Woman's Club.

The regular monthly meeting, to be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Lutheran church auditorium, will be sponsored by the combined departments of public health and child hygiene, public welfare, and occupational therapy. Mrs. S. J. Gottschalk, 3d district occupational therapy chairman, will tell of the work at Oak Forest infirmary. Members will contribute tea balls, hard candy, oranges and apples to be distributed at the infirmary.

Engagement Told

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Dec. 9.

Commercial fertilizer companies are offering a tablet containing plant food that is easy and convenient to apply to the soil, for all that is necessary to do is to open the surface a bit, push in the tablet, and water. The essentials for growing are in the tablet. These complete plant foods are essential if one grows field, garden, or indoor plants and next to watering they are just as important if high grade plants are grown. City gardeners will appreciate the value of prepared foods for they do not have access to animal foods like the country cousin.

Tuesday, Dec. 10.

It is said that, if seeds are placed in a dish and sprinkled with a little water and dusted with red lead, they will repel mice. Shake well so that each seed is covered with the lead. After drying, the seed can be sown, their germinating power being unhindered or impaired.

Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Some shrubs that are fall planted frequently freeze back during winter because the wood dries out. These should be cut back to six inches of the ground; they include the tamarisk, Rose of Sharon, Weigela, Buddleia, Carolina allspice, and beautybush.

Thursday, Dec. 12.

When once a pot plant dries out it may never be the same or at least it will take a considerable time to bring it back to its former state. This is especially true of plants that are in full flower. Soon the delightful poinsettias will be seen in many windows. Give these plenty of water and light and avoid sudden changes of temperature.

The plants can be saved after flowering by allowing the soil to gradually dry out and allowing the plants to enter a period of rest. Next spring start into growth again, but first cut back the stems and repot. It hardly pays to keep the plants over because of their requirements. They delight in a humid condition and with around a minimum of 60 degree temperature.

Friday, Dec. 13.

Give the hyacinths plenty of water. If several are in the same pot, and it is so desired, the individual bulbs can be carefully removed and placed singly in a suitable container. They quickly come into full bloom if well rooted. The paperwhite narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, and hyacinth are all fine for growing in water supported with pebbles. A special hyacinth glass for hyacinths is best to use for this bulb. The common calla and the yellow species do well when grown indoors. Give good soil and, when once well rooted, water copiously.

Saturday, Dec. 14.

Have you begun the revised plan of the garden? How are the garden accessories—stowed carefully away? Are the birdhouses in place ready for repair or painting? How about the feeding stations? Are the young trees protected against the attack of rodents?

COLOR SCHEMING MAKES KITCHEN BRIGHT AND GAY

Cooking Laboratory Need No Longer Be Dull.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Efficiency strode into our kitchens some years back, and then sheer loveliness followed. Imagination and color humanized the fine equipment of manufacturers and the expert plannings of kitchen designers. And if it happens you are plotting some small or large gift for your kitchen, there are two brand new gas kitchens in the home building exhibit at the Merchandise Mart which abound in ideas to further your plans!

Here in these kitchens color scheming has been adroitly brought into play and under its humanizing influence large pieces of equipment and small accessories have a splendid setting.

Blue and Red Keyed.

In one of the kitchens a softly colored raspberry red linoleum is king pin on the floor; slightly marbleized with delicate stripes of blue and white. Blue here is the key color and these stripes end in a circular design on the breakfast nook floor. There's a leatherette settee in blue and also a blue table top, and the walls up to the smartly styled cabinets are covered with a grey-blue composition material, faintly marbleized like the floor, for the sake of texture.

Back of attractive shelves over the range there's a cool red, the same red which is repeated in the circular ceiling over the breakfast nook, and carried in a band around the upper walls to tie together the surface areas of the room. The design of this room is purposely very simple. There is a conspicuous absence of pattern, and the charm of the room is largely obtained by effective color distribution.

Guess Work Eliminated.

The range here is gas: A nice present, now that the spirit of Christmas is hovering over us, and in our mind's eye we see sheets of golden cookies to be baked, fowls to be roasted and puddings to be steamed. This range has beauty plus a host of practical features: Sef-lighting top burners, a smokeless broiler, a minute minder to call you when your cooking is done, and an oven with an amazing I. Q. Guess work is eliminated by its time and temperature control and its regulation and distribution of heat.

Then, too, there is the streamlined efficient gas refrigerator which fits into the kitchen's setting; automatic and destined to stretch many a family dollar by its evenly maintained temperature and its moist cold or dry cold compartments for your foods.

Presents for the kitchen are highly popular now, and a piece of equipment for the kitchen before the holidays will mean it can be enjoyed thruout the season, and then, when January comes, it will act as a stimulant if further kitchen modernization is planned.

Many Cabinet Styles.

These major servants in our kitchens have been designed by expert engineers and taste conscious stylists. You don't want them to dominate a kitchen but you do want them as a working background, and to harmonize with your decorations and accessories.

The market teems with finishes for ceiling, walls, floors, and countertops. There are no end of cabinet styles and sinks, cupboards, and dishwashing units. This larger type of equipment can fit into the picture whatever style kitchen you have. It can blend with you kitchen if you go peasant with brick red linoleum on your floor and a blue painted door; or Mexican with some gourd hung wall paper and green linoleum; or smartly modern with picture windows and structural glass blocks; or back to Colonial days with knotty pine walls and even a brick fireplace and a low brick wall to serve as partition between dining nook and kitchen proper.

Incidentally, you'll see other rooms at this building exhibit: Lovely pieces of marble, beautiful tiles, and after Christmas, still more exhibits to come, including different types of automatic heat.

Kiwanis Meeting.

At the weekly meeting Tuesday of the Englewood Kiwanis club in the Englewood Y. M. C. A., Pereira Mendes will speak on "The Future of the Americas."

55 Years Together

Mrs. Alfred Revor. Alfred Revor.
(De Haven Photos.)

THREE COUPLES RECALL WEDDING DAYS OF LONG AGO

Alfred Revors Observe 55th Anniversary.

Three southwest side couples celebrating wedding anniversaries of 50 years and more are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Revor of 232 West 110th street, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Christensen of 7312 South Emerald avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oelschlegel, 6018 South Peoria street.

Mr. and Mrs. Revor are observing their 55th anniversary today. They have been residents of Roseland since 1882. Mrs. Revor was born in Ottawa, Canada, 69 years ago, and her husband, 74, was born in McHenry.

Have 36 Descendants.

They have 10 living children, all married, 21 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. Today's family observance of the anniversary is scheduled at the home of the eldest son, Alfred Revor Jr., on 119th street near Halsted.

Mr. and Mrs. Christensen marked 60 years of marriage early this month. Both Mr. and Mrs. Christensen were born in Denmark, and they were married there. They came to this country in 1881, and they went first to Omaha where Mr. Christensen, a carpenter, found odd jobs. He was injured on the old Fort Omaha construction work. After the fort was finished, Christensen went to work for the G. H. Hammond Packing company, now owned by Swift's. He began in 1884, remained after Swift's had taken over and was Swift's superintendent of construction here in Chicago when he retired 20 years ago.

Chicagoans Since 1902.

The Christensens came to Chicago in 1902. Four of their six children are living. They are: Hans, a Chicago architect; William, Chicago manufacturers' agent; Mrs. Andrew Froelich of Piper City, Ill., and Harry J., an ex-service man in a Milwaukee veterans' hospital. There are two grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Oelschlegel have been married 50 years. Back in 1890, Mrs. Oelschlegel made her wedding plans in the same house, 6018 Peoria street, in which the couple have lived since their marriage. Her husband is a motorman for the Chicago Surface lines on Ashland avenue.

LILY PONS JOINS ALBERT SPALDING ON RADIO TODAY

Lily Pons, noted Metropolitan Opera coloratura soprano, joins her husband Andre Kostelanetz, and his 45 piece orchestra and Albert Spalding, eminent violinist, as guest soloist of the new series, "The Pause That Refreshes on the Air" at 3:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Miss Pons appeared last week with the Chicago Opera. Tomorrow she makes her Metropolitan debut of the season in "Lucia di Lammermoor."

In the Kostelanetz program she is to sing "The Last Rose of Summer" from Flotow's "Martha" and Johann Strauss' "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltz. Spalding's solo of the afternoon is "Gitana" by Fritz Kreisler.

ROSE BAMPTON, MARTINELLI IN 'AIDA' ON W-G-N

Last Opera Broadcast at 9:30 P. M. Tomorrow.

Rose Bampton and Giovanni Martinelli, headliners of the Chicago Opera company's production of "Aida" tomorrow will be heard on W-G-N Mutual's broadcast of the opera from 9:30 to 11 p. m.

The final two acts of Verdi's opera will be heard on the broadcast portion of the program. This broadcast will conclude the series of five radio presentations of Chicago Opera on W-G-N.

Miss Bampton in Lead.

With Miss Bampton in the title rôle as the Ethiopian slave, Martinelli, world famous tenor, will sing the romantic part of Radames, captain of the guard.

Also in the cast will be Elsa Zebranska as Amneris, George Czaplicki as Amonasro, Douglas Beattie as the King of Egypt, and Giuseppe Cavadore as the messenger. Paul Breisach will conduct.

Jagel on Melody Hour.

Climaxing several weeks of guest performances by stars of Chicago opera, Frederick Jagel and Dusolina Giannini will be heard on the Pageant of Melody at 8:30 p. m. The W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will be featured with the opera stars.

Jagel, a famed American tenor, has appeared in several rôles in Chicago opera this season. Tuesday he will sing the rôle of Herod in "Salome." He also has appeared in "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Aida," "Madam Butterfly," and "Jewels of the Madonna."

Miss Giannini's appearance on the Pageant of Melody is a return engagement. On her last performance the Philadelphia opera star sang and talked, promoting the idea of opera in English.

MARION CLAIRE, MOJICA, THIBAULT STAR IN 'RIO RITA'

Marion Claire, Conrad Thibault, and José Mojica will combine their musical talents in the production of the gay, romantic "Rio Rita" on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

William A. Bacher, W-G-N's chief of programs and production, has promised that Saturday's production will be the most flashing and colorful of the season. Set in the Mexican border region, the songs and story are flavored with fiery Mexican romance and the daring of cactus-toughened Texas rangers.

In keeping with the Mexican atmosphere, José Mojica, leading movie and opera idol of Mexico, will play the part of Roberto, brother of Rita. The original production gives Roberto no singing part, but to assure the operetta a rollicking, festive effect, two typical Mexican songs, "Granada" and "Tu Partida," have been interpolated for Mojica. Miss Claire, Mojica, Thibault, and other principals will wear costumes representative of their rôles.

Marion Claire, Chicago's operatic soprano, who is the feminine star of all the operettas, will sing the titular rôle of Rita. Miss Claire sang with Mojica when both were members of the Chicago opera, and with Thibault last October in "The Vagabond King," the first operetta of the W-G-N season.

Conrad Thibault, famous American baritone, will star in the masculine lead in "Rio Rita."

José Mojica, tenor, has long been a favorite of Chicagoland. He has sung with the Chicago Opera company for many years, first joining that organization in 1919. This year opera goers have heard him in Falstaff," "I Pagliacci," "The Love of Three Kings," and "Salome."

Steele Sisters

RADIO RATIONS ASCAP MUSIC AS DEADLINE NEARS

Fans Sample New Fare; No Complaints.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio listeners last week got a foretaste of the music that will constitute their regular fare unless the battle between the radio networks and ASCAP [American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers] is settled. On Dec. 1, CBS, NBC and several major stations imposed drastic restrictions with regard to the use of ASCAP controled music, mindful of the fact that ASCAP's contract with major networks and stations expires on Dec. 31.

ASCAP, as a clearing house for many music publishers, controls the performing rights of much of the world's popular music. It has been obtaining somewhat over $4,000,000 a year from the radio industry by a blanket assessment of 5 per cent of gross income of stations regardless of the fact that many sponsored programs used no music at all. Now ASCAP is boosting its demands to $8,000,000, according to broadcasters' estimates.

Led by the National Association of Broadcasters, a majority of the nation's stations are resisting the demands of ASCAP and only a few have signed new contracts. Unless a settlement is reached ASCAP music, with certain exceptions, will not be available for broadcasting after Dec. 31. It means that the music of Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin and many others will be missing.

Condition Radio Audiences.

Meanwhile, broadcasters have begun to condition their audiences for this probability by gradually reducing the proportion of ASCAP music and substituting music from other sources. The broadcasters' association organized Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI] to develop new sources of music. Besides fostering new music, BMI has acquired the rights to the catalogs of many publishing houses and is making new arrangements for much of the world's great music which is in the public domain. BMI claims to have added 250,000 selections to the broadcasters' repertoire.

If this is true, listeners might hope for a reasonable variety of music on the air, even if much of their favorite and familiar music is eliminated. That is precisely what broadcasters assert they were giving listeners last week despite the fact that W-G-N and CBS had eliminated ASCAP music from their sustaining [nonsponsored] programs and NBC had cut ASCAP music 50 per cent with the full ban on sustaining programs to become effective Dec. 15.

Variety of Music Heard.

An evening or two of listening to dance bands brought to light no striking omissions or gaps. There was an abundance of swing, ballads, and considerable familiar music. Some of the songs heard regularly on the Hit Parade were missing. There were some noticeable additions. Orchestra leaders have discovered Stephen Collins Foster [and particularly "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair"]—with a vengeance.

Many of the classics—for example, Brahms' "Lullaby,"—have appeared in dance dress. Nursery rhymes and tunes—such as "A Tisket a Tasket," are getting a big play. BMI has developed some hit tunes of its own and they are heard often—too often. Among these are "Practice Makes Perfect" and "The Same Old Story." [Descriptive, itn't it?]. While the broadcasts are repetitious, that was true, too, when ASCAP's music was fully available.

Theme Songs Missing.

Many of the familiar theme songs of established programs and of name bands are gone. Many orchestras have blossomed out with new identifying melodies, often original compositions by their leaders or members.

Ray Noble has simply dropped his own tune "The Very Thought of You" and has not made a replacement. Art Kassel has replaced his "Doodle-doo-doo" with a new unpublished tune for which he welcomes title suggestions. The Quiz Kids have given up "School Days" for an original named after the program.

CHICAGOLAND CONCERT HOUR TO START ON DEC. 16

Light Classical Music on W-G-N Program.

The Chicagoland Concert hour, a new program based on the W-G-N and Mutual network policy of providing the best in all types of music, will be heard for the first time Monday evening, Dec. 16. It will begin at 10 o'clock and conclude at 10:45 each Monday thereafter.

The concert hour will present Henry Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra in light classical music. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak briefly each week. Marion Claire, lyric soprano of the opera and radio, will be the soloist.

Studio Guests Welcome.

The W-G-N chorus also will be heard. William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will produce the show. It will be aired from the W-G-N main audience studio. The station ticket department tomorrow will begin accepting requests for tickets to the broadcasts.

The Chicagoland Concert hour will be broadcast over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. In order to gain a place on the program, music must be melodious and of popular appeal.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

Col. McCormick's return to the air fulfills an intention he expressed Nov. 3 when the Sunday Symphonic hour was discontinued. Col. McCormick had spoken regularly on this program on developments in Europe, problems of national defense, and other matters of vital interest.

On the last broadcast Col. McCormick noted that it was no longer possible for the publisher of a large newspaper to know personally most of his subscribers, as was the custom in the days of personal journalism and smaller subscription lists. Hence, Col. McCormick said, he valued all the more his direct contacts with the people by means of broadcasts, and expressed his intentions of maintaining them.

Henry Weber will be returning to full time activity as musical director of W-G-N when he conducts the orchestra on the night of Dec. 16. For the past several weeks Mr. Weber has been occupied with the Chicago Opera company, of which he is general director. The opera season closes Dec. 14.

How to Keep Dog Young, Subject of Bob Becker

How to keep your dog young in body and spirit will be discussed by Bob Becker, authority on canine care, from 1:45 to 2 p. m. today over W-G-N. Daily exercise is the most important factor in keeping a dog strong and healthy, says Becker. He also will discuss diet, sleeping quarters, exercise, dental care, and weight as factors in keeping a dog young.

W-G-N Guest

Ruth Gordon, famous actress, who will make a guest appearance on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

FARRAGUT HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON SCHOOL HOUR

Farragut High school of Chicago, named for Admiral David Glasgow Farragut, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, when it will be the subject of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" program on W-G-N. Six hundred students who have for their slogan that of Admiral Farragut "Full Speed Ahead," will be heard in their songs and their cheers.

Peter B. Ritzma, principal, will speak briefly and the Farragut chorus, conducted by Marie C. Ehrenwerth, will sing the school song.

More news of Chicago and Chicagoland schools will be discussed by Jerry and Jimmie, youthful members of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" cast. Philip Maxwell, the program's principal of the air and master of ceremonies, will conduct the weekly TRIBUNE News Quiz and tell the accomplishments of three high school students whose names will be inscribed on the Roll of Honor.

MISCHA AUER, RUTH GORDON ON CHICAGO HOUR

Mischa Auer, Hollywood comedian, and Ruth Gordon, star of the legitimate stage, will be featured on the program "In Chicago Tonight" over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

Miss Gordon is the star of "Here Today" opening at the Selwyn theater tomorrow. Auer is appearing at the Chicago theater this week.

Auer, a native of Russia, had a tumultuous childhood. He was separated from his parents by the revolution. Adopted by his famous grandfather, Leopold Auer, Mischa came to America and soon began to appear on the stage.

After three years on the stage, he made his first picture with William Powell in "My Man Godfrey," and became famous for his impersonations. He likes photography, gaited horses, and deep-sea fishing. He and his wife recently adopted a 14-month-old girl.

Miss Gordon was last in Chicago in 1937 in the "Doll's House." Her long stage career began with a minor rôle in "Peter Pan" in 1915.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will direct the show, presenting Miss Gordon in dramatic sketches and Auer in comedy bits.

Tschaikowsky Symphony on W-G-N Next Thursday

The Chicago Symphony orchestra under the baton of associate conductor Hans Lange, will be heard in a presentation of Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. next Thursday. Prior to the broadcast portion of the program, Fritz Kreisler, world famed violinist, will play as guest soloist.

4,000 TO HELP BUILD ARMS FACTORY

SOUTH SIDE DONS YULETIDE DRESS FOR GAY SEASON

Carolers to Enliven Christmas Scene.

South side and suburban business men's groups last week began preparations for a gay, colorful holiday season in their communities. The organizations will create atmosphere for shoppers by decorating the streets with lights, tinsel, and Christmas trees, and arranging settings for Santa Claus or carollers.

The Woodlawn Business Men's association will observe the season by hanging huge evergreen wreaths on all elevated pillars between Cottage Grove and Stony Island avenues on 63d street. In the center of the wreaths decorators will spray silver stars and large silver bells. Store windows and store interiors will be likewise trimmed, according to individual taste.

Carols on Hotel Lawn.

For the third year the Fifty-fifth Street Business Men's association will sponsor the singing of Christmas carols by different groups on the lawn of the Flamingo hotel, 55th street and the lake. Three programs will be given during Christmas week.

On Monday evening, Dec. 23, a concert will be given by the Hyde Park High school choir, on Tuesday by the Ray school chorus and band, under the baton of Principal Ray Bixler, and on Christmas afternoon by the junior choir of the United Church of Hyde Park, under Mrs. Harry E. Kulle. If the Ray school is unable to participate, its place will be taken by the Lindblom High school mixed chorus, under the direction of Mrs. George K. Rosenthal.

The association also is sponsoring a poster contest among the drawing classes of elementary and high schools in the district, in connection with the concerts. The group already has placed Christmas pennants and flag decorations on the street car lines from Lake Park avenue to Cottage Grove avenue on 55th street.

Colored Lights and Tinsel.

South Chicago will become a "twinkling tinsel town" during the holiday period, according to John V. Hanberg, general chairman of the South Chicago Chamber of Commerce Christmas festivities committee. Local merchants will decorate store fronts with pine needle garlands, trees, and wreaths. Strung thruout all the articles will be outdoor colored lamp ropes.

The chamber will place a huge Santa Claus at Columbus square and surround him with lighted Christmas trees and strings of colored lights. The committee consists of J. H. Brinker, H. N. Carter, and W. A. Sullivan. On auxiliary committees are Don Johnson, T. E. Urbanek, James Pappageorge, John Sheehan, and Wayne McCarty.

The East Chicago Chamber of Commerce predicts that its downtown streets will be decorated as never before. This year the decorative lighting will be augmented by natural green festooning to include large holly wreaths, illuminated stars or other ornamental pieces appropriate to the season. Santa Claus' headquarters will be established in three business sections on certain days before Christmas, where free candy will be distributed to children. The singing of carols by church choirs over a loud speaker system also is on the program.

Activities are being sponsored by the 12-13 committee of the chamber. Ivar Larson is chairman of the committee.

TRIBUNE ORDERS 491 MEDALS FOR CADET AWARDS

An order has been placed for 491 Tribune R. O. T. C. medals which will be awarded to 72 universities, high schools, and military academies in Chicagoland and neighboring states this semester by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The awarding of medals for excellency in R. O. T. C. work has been a custom of long standing, and each year the cadets in the various units who have shown the greatest ability in their military work are given a Tribune medal. The medals are either gold, silver, or bronze, the bronze being given to the lower classmen. One of the first presentations of the year will be at the Evanston Township High school on Dec. 18.

Young Mothers Will Hear Address by Orthodontist

The Young Mothers' club of Bryn Mawr Community church will hear a talk tomorrow evening by Dr. Harold E. Strange, orthodontist. A dramatic sketch will also be given by Mrs. George Bone, Mrs. Hurley McMahon, and Mrs. William H. Dunkak. Hostess will be Mrs. L. E. Baugh. The meeting will be held in the church at 7000 Jeffery avenue.

Woodlawn Branch of Boys' Club Selects Officers

(Picture on page 8.)

Newly elected officers of the Woodlawn branch of the Chicago Boys' club are M. M. Shaw, president; M. O. Mitchell, and John Hayes, vice presidents; Harry Ollendorf, secretary, and Clarence Beutel, treasurer. William Watson holds permanent office as the club's "father."

South Chicago Pioneers Wed for Sixty Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Palmer, a pair of South Chicago pioneers, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in their house at 8942 Exchange avenue, recently. The Palmers, who are members of the Old Settlers association, have two sons, four daughters, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

At 83 years, Mr. Palmer rises at 5 o'clock every morning of the year to begin his routine chores about the house, which may include firing the furnace, cutting the grass, or making repairs. Nine years ago he retired from the Carnegie-Illinois steel plant, after working there for 59 years. During 57 of these years he worked from 12 to 14 hours a day, six days a week, most of the time as a blower.

No Accidents on Record.

"I never had an accident during the 59 years," he says. "Sure, there's lots of danger in the mills but if a man knows where it is and keeps away from it, he's all right."

Mr. Palmer was born at Halsted and Division streets and grew up in a cottage which was three doors from the O'Leary family, whose cow is usually blamed for starting the great Chicago fire. When he was 8 years old he sold papers at Randolph and Wells streets and five years later drove an express wagon in the same district. In 1872 he began working for the Carnegie-Illinois company in the rolling mills on the near north side and ini 1882 moved with his young wife to sprouting South Chicago, where he was employed as a "door boy" in the South Works plant.

Wife from Michigan.

In 1880 the couple were married at the Geerman-Lutheran church on La Salle street near Chicago avenue. His wife was born in Saugutuck, Mich., and had moved to Chicago when she was very young.

The Palmers' sons are William, who lives at 75th street and Langley avenue, and Louis of Watervliet, Mich. Their daughters are Irene, Rose, and Mrs. Belle Guntrum, who live at home, and Mrs. Marie Mawby of South Chicago.

FINAL LECTURES SCHEDULED IN U. OF C. SERIES

Final lectures in five University of Chicago public lecture series are scheduled for this week under the auspices of the University college.

Norman F. MacLean, instructor in English, will discuss "The Forms of Literary Criticism" Tuesday evening in the Art institute. Also in the Art institute, Lucy Driscoll, assistant professor of art, will present the next to last lecture in the series on "How To Read a Picture," on Tuesday morning and Wednesday evening.

"Financing A War" will be the subject of a talk by Henry Simon Bloch, a member of the university's Social Science Research committee, in the University college, 18 South Michigan avenue, Wednesday evening.

"Fashion and the Social Order" will be discussed by Herbert Blumer, associate professor of sociology, Friday evening at the Art institute. Friday afternoon in the University college, Sunder Joshi, lecturer in comparative religion, will talk on "East and West Today," in the last in a series on basic problems in religion.

SO. CHICAGO 'Y' WILL HEAR OF POLISH INVASION

The story of the invasion of Poland by Germany will be heard tomorrow evening at the South Chicago Y. M. C. A., 3039 East 91st street, when Paul Super, head of the Polish Y. M. C. A. movement, tells of his experiences. Super has several times been decorated by the Polish government. Aiding the Y. M. C. A. in sponsoring the lecture is the South Chicago's Combined War Relief committee, and the Polish Young Women's League of South Chicago. Chairman will be Dave Henderson.

HANDEL'S 'MESSIAH' WILL BE SUNG IN WOODLAWN BAPTIST

Miss Virginia Tirado will direct the choir in "The Messiah" [Handel] at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, Dec. 22, in the Woodlawn Baptist church, 6207 University avenue. Soloists will be Ella Steele, soprano; Marcia Sandahl, alto; Clifford Ramsay, tenor, and Talmadge J. Bittikofer, baritone. Mrs. H. B. Maryott will be the organist and Ellen Munson the pianist. Miss Tirado has a master of music degree with a major in piano and composition and a bachelor of music education degree. She is a graduate of MacMurry college, Jacksonville, Ill., and a scholarship student from the Juillard Foundation, New York City. Currently she is teaching on the faculty of the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

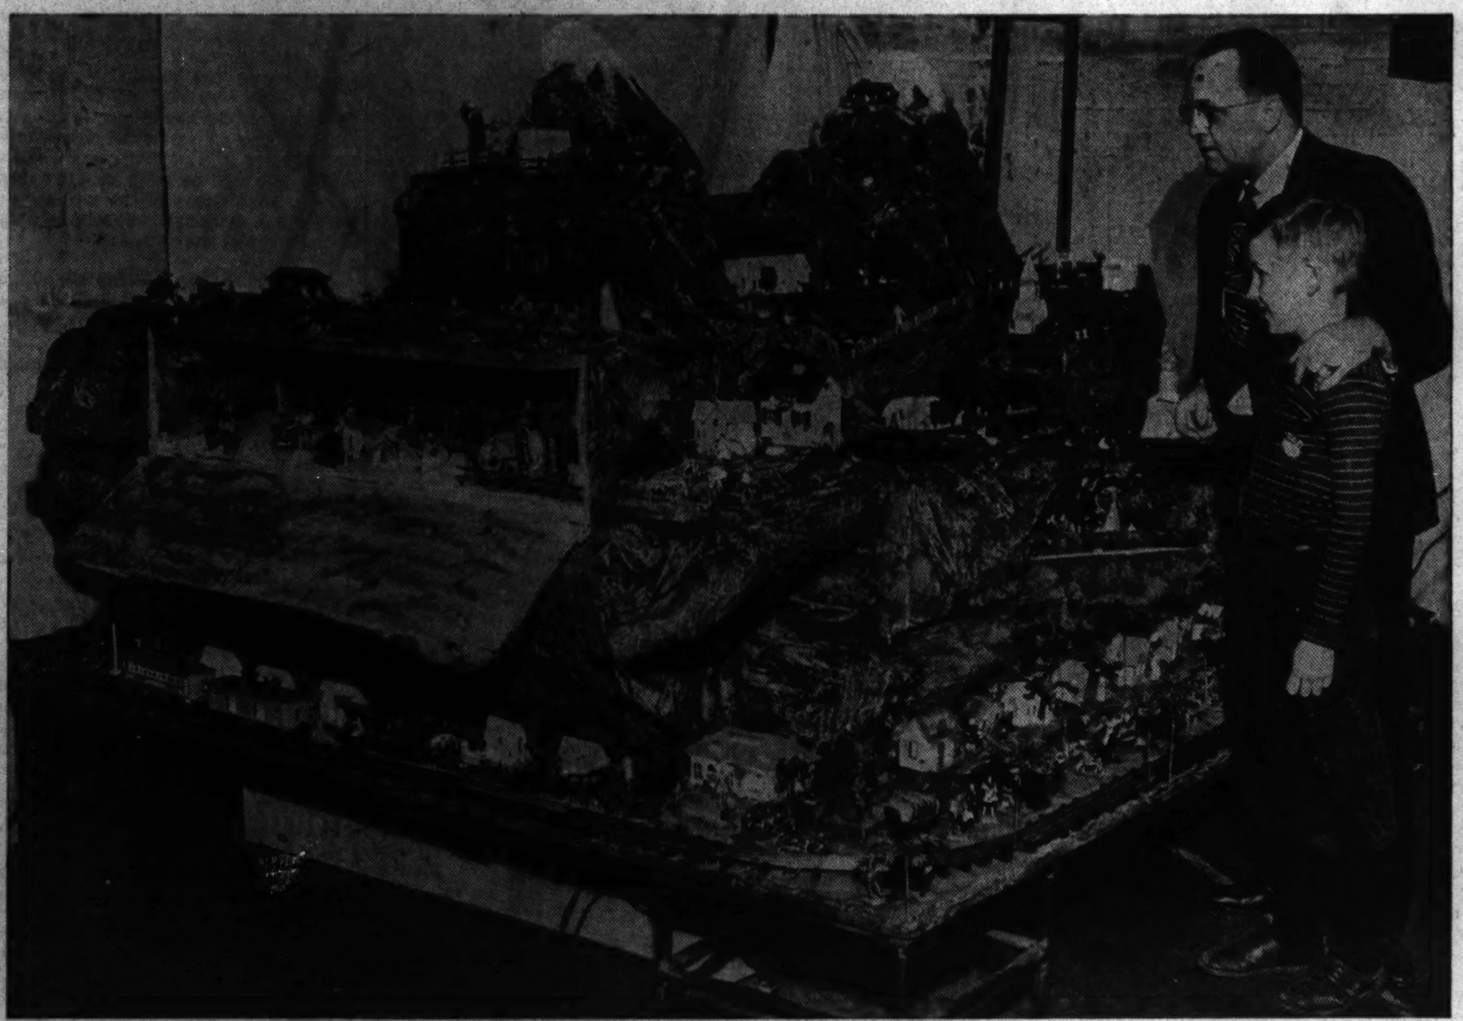
Display of Miniature Will Boost Kiwanis Club Charity Fund



A kingdom in miniature, from palm to pines, with a panorama of the first Christmas hidden in the cliffs, will be loaned to the Kiwanis club of Woodlawn to raise money for the club's charitable work. The "country" was built by W. K. Lasher, 7939 Drexel boulevard, and houses more than 1,000 miniatures of all sorts. The builder is an executive of the American Technical society, a publishing house, and collects miniatures as a hobby. The "country" is an outgrowth of that hobby. Looking on is John Hawes, 8 years old.

AVIATION GOOD FELLOWS PLAN GIFTS FOR POOR

300 Baskets on Dec. 23 to Be Distributed.

(Picture on page 2.)

The eighth annual Aviation Good Fellow ceremonies will take place at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 23, in the auditorium of the Chicago airport, 6200 South Cicero avenue. After the program more than 300 baskets of food, toys, and candy will be taken to poor families thruout the city.

Charles Miller.

Charles S. Miller of Wilmette, an insurance adjuster who has flown both in the army and privately, has been chosen chairman for the campaign this year. Mr. Miller was a second lieutenant in the 16th squadron of the A. E. F., and saw six months' service in France during the first world war.

Specific plans for carrying out the work this season were made at a meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Churbuck, 6740 South Oglesby avenue, 1939 chairman of the Aviation Good Fellows. William Westlake, also a former leader of this movement, again was selected as public relations head for the campaign.

Aviation Good Fellow leaders on the south and southwest sides are H. D. Whitney, Miss Ruth Cook, R. H. Crichlow, Arthur Nylander, Buell Patterson, Miss Marion McDonnell, E. C. Taylor, and Miss Marguerite Greene.

18 EMPLOYES RETIRE; TOTAL 669 WORK YEARS

Under the new retirement system at Carnegie-Illinois; workers terminate their service at 65 years of age.

Big Sisters Are to Hold a Yuletide Dinner-Dance

A yuletide dinner-dance will be given by the Big Sisters on Wednesday evening in the Edgewater Beach hotel. South side committee members are Miss Agnes Fay, Miss Anna Hunt, Mrs. Charles P. Megan, Mrs. William S. Heffernan, Miss Jane Magan, Mrs. James J. Callahan, and Mrs. Charles T. Byrne. The organization was founded 24 years ago to assist needy women and girls.

Party Will Benefit Crippled Children

The party was still two weeks away, but Bette Shely and Tommy Allen couldn't wait to buy their presents. Together with Richard Lenyon (at right), who gathered almost more than he could clasp, they picked out gifts for the inmates of the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children, which will benefit from the children's party to be given by the Woodlawn Mothers' Round Table on Wednesday, Dec. 18. Bette, 6414 Greenwood avenue; Tommy, 6506 University avenue, and Richard, 6242 University avenue, are children of the Round Table members.

AQUINAS SCHOOL MOTHERS TO GIVE PANTRY SHOWER

The Aquinas Dominican High School Mothers club will give a pantry shower for the Aquinas sisters at the regular meeting at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the school auditorium, 72d street and Clyde avenue. A highlight of the meeting will be a Christmas program by the verse speaking choir. Mrs. E. J. Donnellan, 6831 Euclid avenue, social chairman will be in charge of the shower. She will be assisted by Mrs. R. B. Oakley, 7136 Luella avenue; Mrs. G. J. Wolf, 7615 Vernon avenue, and Mrs. B. J. Doran, 8046 Merrill avenue. Mrs. R. J. Crowley, 7309 Michigan avenue, is president of the organization.

Sigrid Undset Talks Today at Charles Carroll Forum

Sigrid Undset of Norway, Nobel prize winner in literature, will speak at the Charles Carroll forum this afternoon in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. She will be introduced by Miss Helen C. White, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, author of "To the End of the World," a historical novel. Co-chairmen of the meeting are the Rev. James A. Magner of Washington university, and the Rev. Francis Talbot, editor of America, national Catholic weekly publication.

MINNEAPOLIS PASTOR WILL BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Richard C. Raines, pastor of Hennepin Avenue Methodist church of Minneapolis, Minn., will address the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall on the text "Come Ye Apart!" He will be introduced by Clifford W. Barnes, and the scripture will be read by Col. Robert G. Peck of the board of trustees.

Dr. Richard Raines.

Dr. Raines is much admired by college youth in America who have been impressed by his "University of Life," a program for universities started some years ago by Dr. Raines and now used in about twenty-five states, also because his sermons deal lucidly and fearlessly with current social issues.

Von Steuben a cappella choir, directed by John Clare Thomas, will sing at the preliminary meeting, and Hudsin H. Pittman will give the informal Bible talk.

K. OF C. COUNCIL IN HYDE PARK TO HAVE FESTIVAL

Loyola Hyde Park council of the Knights of Columbus will hold its annual Christmas fiesta Saturday evening in the Elks club, 6158 Cottage Grove avenue. Grand Knight Archibald Hermanns, 452 East 79th street, is chairman. Assisting Mr. Hermanns are James Ramshaw, Bernard Thompson, Edward Joyce, Richard Judge, John Flavin, John McGuire, John Joyce, and Charles Lawler. FRANK S. SOWA, 13355 Burley avenue, delivered a poem and presented an acrostic to Judge Martin M. Gridley of the Superior court last Tuesday, when Judge Gridley retired after 30 years of service on the bench. The poem began "Justly, with pride, we greet you 'ere you leave" and ended with "Ever may you enjoy good health and happy days, your well deserved vacation be a joy—Hail! Farewell! Frank, who was Judge Gridley's minute clerk, wrote the verse himself. President of the Hegewisch Chamber of Commerce, Frank also has the degrees of bachelor of laws, doctor of laws, doctor of civil laws, and doctor of international laws.

A WHIRLWIND tour of New York City, including introductions to opera stars and other musical celebrities and speaking over a network radio program, was the reward given to Miss Elinor Eaton, 5634 South Woodlawn avenue, last week as one of the six winners in a nation-wide NBC contest on opera appreciation.

Miss Eaton, who is 21 years old, is a student at the Vogue School for Designing in Chicago and studies voice culture under Phillip Manuel, organist at the United Church of Hyde Park. She has been to the opera many times in Chicago. This was her first trip to New York and she was accompanied by her mother. Her father, the late Marquis Eaton, was chairman of the Chicago Red Cross chapter.

Miss Catherine Coyle, 1125 West Garfield boulevard, and Miss Mary Fitzsimmons, 1001 West Garfield boulevard, are members of the Loyola University Service guild's annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Holy Family parish Saturday on the downtown campus of Loyola.

THE pledging of Richard A. Larson, 1307 West 98th street, to Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity, was announced last week at the Illinois Institute of Technology. He is attending the college on a four year scholarship in fire protection engineering. Pledging to Tau Beta Pi is considered the highest honor that can be bestowed on a student in engineering school, since the fraternity is the Phi Beta Kappa of the engineering profession.

Four south siders at Riverside Military academy, Gainesville, Ga., have been awarded merit ribbons for having accumulated 100 merits above all deductions. They are Richard Lipton, Park Lane hotel; Harry Nebenzahl, Sherry hotel; Harry Robinson, 4526 Drexel boulevard, and William Tomas, 3201 South Morgan street.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Felicitas Mothers' club will be held on Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in the Social rooms, 84th street and Blackstone avenue. Fifth grade mothers will be hostesses at this meeting. Mrs. O. T. Bredeken is president of the club.

INDIANA TELLS RULES FOR WORK ON BIG PROJECT

Hope to Offset Boom at Kingsbury.

Construction of the Kingsbury ordnance plant, the government's $38,300,000 shell loading depot near La Porte, will mean the employment of about 4,000 skilled and unskilled workers living within a radius of 50 miles of Kingsbury, Ind., it was revealed last week by Indiana State Employment service officials. Work in building the plant, which was begun recently, will continue for 11 months.

Men will be hired for the jobs under an employment plan designed to prevent Kingsbury from becoming a boom town. Workers will be chosen in an "ever widening circle." Thus permanent residents of La Porte county who answer the experience, health, and skill requirements of the contractors will be given first chance. As soon as the La Porte county supply is exhausted, qualified men from adjacent counties will be referred to employers.

Workmen to Commute.

Officials of the Indiana Employment offices, who will feed all workers to contractors as fast as they need them, expect that there will be enough workers living within the 50 mile radius to fill most of the construction jobs. Local shortages of certain types of skilled labor, however may develop. In this case, properly qualified men from outside the circle will be selected and sent to the employers.

Because of the improved roads in this part of the state, workers living within 50 miles of a job usually prefer to drive home at night. By limiting jobs under the above plan, employment officials hope that a housing shortage will be avoided.

Employment officials emphasized that the permanent residences of all applicants will be checked, since migrant workers will not be considered for the Kingsbury project.

Advise Early Registry.

Local workers interested in jobs at Kingsbury are advised by the State Employment offices to do two things:

1. Be sure to be registered at the Employment Service nearest your home. Full time employment centers are in East Chicago, Elkhart, Gary, Hammond, La Porte, Michigan City, and South Bend. Part time offices are open one day a week in Crown Point, Goshen, Knox, Nappanee, Plymouth, Rensselaer, Rochester, Valparaiso, Warsaw, and Winamac.

2. After making known your availability and qualifications to the agency, stay away from La Porte and Kingsbury until notified to go there. When men are needed to fill positions, they will be contacted by mail, telephone, or telegram.

Some of the types of workers that will be needed are asbestos workers, brick layers, caisson diggers, carpenters, cement finishers, electrical workers, elevator constructors, gas fitters, glaziers, iron workers, lathers [wood and metal], plasterers, marble fitters, painters, plumbers, roofers, sheet metal workers, and common laborers.

300 Now at Work.

Melville W. Hankins has been assigned the task of coördinating activities of seven northwestern Indiana Employment service offices in procuring labor for the project by Wilfred Jessup, unemployment compensation division director.

About 300 men already are at work on the project, which is located at Kingsbury, a town of about 200 persons seven miles south of La Porte. As a site for the munitions plant, which is one of nearly a score being erected thruout the country under the defense program, the government purchased a 13 acre tract of farm land surrounded by transportation advantages.

The tract is bounded on the north by the Wabash railroad, on the northwest by the Grand Trunk railroad, on the northeast by the Nickle Plate railroad, and on the south by the Baltimore and Ohio. It also is close to the junction of highways 35 and 6.

Will Load Shells.

When completed, according to Maj. John Stewart, U. S. A., executive officer of the Kinsbury Ordnance plant for the government, the depot will be used to load and store shells for the army. He said that between four and five thousand workers will be needed to operate the plant after it is finished. Nearly half of these will be women.

Maj. Benjamin T. Rogers of the army has been appointed construction quartermaster of the project. Besides Maj. Stewart, his staff includes Lieut. Carl Abrecht, property officer, and Lieut. Leon Applebaum, engineering officer. Bates and Rogers of Chicago are the general contractors.

SAFETY FOR STUDENTS.

Being a high school student at Englewood I feel that it is my duty to inform people of the happenings on the way home from school.

Recently one of our senior girls was injured by a truck while waiting for a street car at 62d street and Wentworth avenue. This happened because there are students and women who won't wait patiently for a street car. As soon as a street car is spotted an awful commotion is started as all try to be the first on the car. If there were a safety zone or a policeman at this corner we would feel safer.

I am speaking for the benefit of my fellow students and I hope that there is something done about this matter.

C. A.

LIGHT NEEDED AT 53D.

How about giving us a traffic light at 53d street and the Outer drive? Trying to get on to the drive from 53d during rush hour is like trying to cross the Siegfried line with a cap pistol. Many a night I sit there in my car, waiting for some break in the traffic so I can turn and listening patiently to the silly motorists blowing horns behind me. Often I've finally turned in sheer desperation, realizing that I was risking my life and my new car. Can such things be in Chicago?

J. K. E.

CROWDED MICHIGAN BUSES.

I wish to complain about the bus service, if I may call it such, on Michigan avenue during rush hours. Every night I wait for 15 or 20 minutes at 25th street for a southbound bus. Then a string of them come together and all but possibly the last are so crowded I can't even get on. If they do let me on, I am thrown against other passengers. I am continually complaining about such conditions and so are my friends. Thanks for the articles you have printed on this topic so far.

COLOR SCHEMING MAKES KITCHEN BRIGHT AND GAY

Cooking Laboratory Need No Longer Be Dull.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Efficiency strode into our kitchens some years back, and then sheer loveliness followed. Imagination and color humanized the fine equipment of manufacturers and the expert plannings of kitchen designers. And if it happens you are plotting some small or large gift for your kitchen, there are two brand new gas kitchens in the home building exhibit at the Merchandise Mart which abound in ideas to further your plans!

Here in these kitchens color scheming has been adroitly brought into play and under its humanizing influence large pieces of equipment and small accessories have a splendid setting.

Blue and Red Keyed.

In one of the kitchens a softly colored raspberry red linoleum is king pin on the floor; slightly marbleized with delicate stripes of blue and white. Blue here is the key color and these stripes end in a circular design on the breakfast nook floor. There's a leatherette settee in blue and also a blue table top, and the walls up to the smartly styled cabinets are covered with a grey-blue composition material, faintly marbleized like the floor, for the sake of texture.

Back of attractive shelves over the range there's a cool red, the same red which is repeated in the circular ceiling over the breakfast nook, and carried in a band around the upper walls to tie together the surface areas of the room. The design of this room is purposely very simple. There is a conspicuous absence of pattern, and the charm of the room is largely obtained by effective color distribution.

Guess Work Eliminated.

The range here is gas: A nice present, now that the spirit of Christmas is hovering over us, and in our mind's eye we see sheets of golden cookies to be baked, fowls to be roasted and puddings to be steamed. This range has beauty plus a host of practical features: Sef-lighting top burners, a smokeless broiler, a minute minder to call you when your cooking is done, and an oven with an amazing I. Q. Guess work is eliminated by its time and temperature control and its regulation and distribution of heat.

Then, too, there is the streamlined efficient gas refrigerator which fits into the kitchen's setting; automatic and destined to stretch many a family dollar by its evenly maintained temperature and its moist cold or dry cold compartments for your foods.

Presents for the kitchen are highly popular now, and a piece of equipment for the kitchen before the holidays will mean it can be enjoyed thruout the season, and then, when January comes, it will act as a stimulant if further kitchen modernization is planned.

Many Cabinet Styles.

These major servants in our kitchens have been designed by expert engineers and taste conscious stylists. You don't want them to dominate a kitchen but you do want them as a working background, and to harmonize with your decorations and accessories.

The market teems with finishes for ceiling, walls, floors, and countertops. There are no end of cabinet styles and sinks, cupboards, and dishwashing units. This larger type of equipment can fit into the picture whatever style kitchen you have. It can blend with you kitchen if you go peasant with brick red linoleum on your floor and a blue painted door; or Mexican with some gourd hung wall paper and green linoleum; or smartly modern with picture windows and structural glass blocks; or back to Colonial days with knotty pine walls and even a brick fireplace and a low brick wall to serve as partition between dining nook and kitchen proper.

Incidentally, you'll see other rooms at this building exhibit: Lovely pieces of marble, beautiful tiles, and after Christmas, still more exhibits to come, including different types of automatic heat.

Vanderpoel Art Group Will Hear Talk on Composition

Woman's auxiliary of the Vanderpoel Art association of Beverly Hills will present Yasha Brojdo of the Art institute in a lecture on the composition of a painting tomorrow afternoon at Ridge Park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive. The group is under the leadership of Mrs. Leslie Wiswell.

Open Reading Room.

A new reading room has been opened at 1933 West 103d street by the Thirteenth Church of Christ, Scientist, of Chicago.

South Siders Wed 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wolfson, 5200 Blackstone avenue, will celebrate their golden wedding tomorrow. The celebration will begin with an informal gathering of friends and relatives tonight. The Wolfsons were married in Chicago and have lived here since then. They have two sons, Max and William. Mr. Wolfson once was a prize fight manager.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Dec. 9.

Commercial fertilizer companies are offering a tablet containing plant food that is easy and convenient to apply to the soil, for all that is necessary to do is to open the surface a bit, push in the tablet, and water. The essentials for growing are in the tablet. These complete plant foods are essential if one grows field, garden, or indoor plants and next to watering they are just as important if high grade plants are grown. City gardeners will appreciate the value of prepared foods for they do not have access to animal foods like the country cousin.

Tuesday, Dec. 10.

It is said that, if seeds are placed in a dish and sprinkled with a little water and dusted with red lead, they will repel mice. Shake well so that each seed is covered with the lead. After drying, the seed can be sown, their germinating power being unhindered or impaired.

Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Some shrubs that are fall planted frequently freeze back during winter because the wood dries out. These should be cut back to six inches of the ground; they include the tamarisk, Rose of Sharon, Weigela, Buddleia, Carolina allspice, and beautybush.

Thursday, Dec. 12.

When once a pot plant dries out it may never be the same or at least it will take a considerable time to bring it back to its former state. This is especially true of plants that are in full flower. Soon the delightful poinsettias will be seen in many windows. Give these plenty of water and light and avoid sudden changes of temperature.

The plants can be saved after flowering by allowing the soil to gradually dry out and allowing the plants to enter a period of rest. Next spring start into growth again, but first cut back the stems and repot. It hardly pays to keep the plants over because of their requirements. They delight in a humid condition and with around a minimum of 60 degree temperature.

Friday, Dec. 13.

Give the hyacinths plenty of water. If several are in the same pot, and it is so desired, the individual bulbs can be carefully removed and placed singly in a suitable container. They quickly come into full bloom if well rooted. The paperwhite narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, and hyacinth are all fine for growing in water supported with pebbles. A special hyacinth glass for hyacinths is best to use for this bulb. The common calla and the yellow species do well when grown indoors. Give good soil and, when once well rooted, water copiously.

Saturday, Dec. 14.

Have you begun the revised plan of the garden? How are the garden accessories — stowed carefully away? Are the birdhouses in place ready for repair or painting? How about the feeding stations? Are the young trees protected against the attack of rodents?

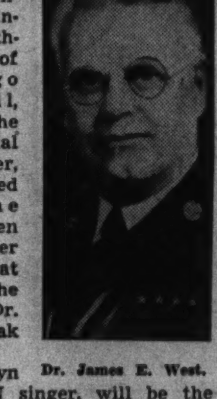
NATIONAL SCOUT LEADER TO GIVE DINNER ADDRESS

The chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, Dr. James E. West, will come to Chicago for the second annual potluck dinner of the southwest district of the Chicago Scout council, Thursday in the International Amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets. The doors will open at noon; dinner will be served at 6 o'clock in the evening, and Dr. West will speak at 8 o'clock.



Dr. James E. West.

Miss Kathryn Witwer, W-G-N singer, will be the soloist. Harvey G. Ellerd of Armour and company, southwest district vice chairman, will introduce A. J. Clauter, district chairman, who will present Dr. West.

The district vice chairman in charge of the dinner is Fred C. Rathje. He will act as master of ceremonies.

Scouts will give a pageant and tableaux to demonstrate "Scout Values." Part of the Scout ceremony will be the rite of 200 boys rededicating themselves to the service of this country. Scout drum and bugle corps and bands will play. Another feature will be a motion picture, "Trail to Citizenship."

This program is for Scouts, their parents, and all friends of scouting.

RIDING COURSE BOOKLET FINDS A READY SALE

Riders and Nonriders Are Purchasers.

Demand for the new 52 page Tribune booklet on beginners' horseback riding instruction indicates a wide interest in horse trail activities in spite of the severe weather, according to employés of the Tribune's Public Service offices.

The booklet, entitled "A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride," is on sale at the Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street, as well as downtown book, department and sporting goods stores. It is priced at 25 cents over the counter and 27 cents by mail.

Requests for the work are made by riders and nonriders of all ages, not only in Chicagoland, but from more distant areas of the middle west, according to the Public Service offices.

Many a caller purchases two or more booklets, usually keeping one for himself and directing that the others be mailed to friends. Several persons making quantity purchases explained that they intended to send them out as holiday greeting cards. Numerous mail orders have come from out of town men and women.

The "Tenderfoot" chapters appeared first in the Metropolitan section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. They were written by Harold P. Smith, equestrian reporter for THE TRIBUNE.

They described in detail, by both drawings and text, the author's reaction to a course in horseback riding instruction given by one of the most competent riding masters in the middle west.

Sinsinawa Club.

The Sinsinawa Dominican club of Chicago will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Morrison hotel. Members will discuss means of raising funds for the infirmary at the Sinsinawa convent, Sinsinawa, Wis.

RADIO RATIONS ASCAP MUSIC AS DEADLINE NEARS

Fans Sample New Fare; No Complaints.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio listeners last week got a foretaste of the music that will constitute their regular fare unless the battle between the radio networks and ASCAP [American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers] is settled. On Dec. 1, CBS, NBC and several major stations imposed drastic restrictions with regard to the use of ASCAP controled music, mindful of the fact that ASCAP's contract with major networks and stations expires on Dec. 31.

ASCAP, as a clearing house for many music publishers, controls the performing rights of much of the world's popular music. It has been obtaining somewhat over $4,000,000 a year from the radio industry by a blanket assessment of 5 per cent of gross income of stations regardless of the fact that many sponsored programs used no music at all. Now ASCAP is boosting its demands to $8,000,000, according to broadcasters' estimates.

Led by the National Association of Broadcasters, a majority of the nation's stations are resisting the demands of ASCAP and only a few have signed new contracts. Unless a settlement is reached ASCAP music, with certain exceptions, will not be available for broadcasting after Dec. 31. It means that the music of Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin and many others will be missing.

Condition Radio Audiences.

Meanwhile, broadcasters have begun to condition their audiences for this probability by gradually reducing the proportion of ASCAP music and substituting music from other sources. The broadcasters' association organized Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI] to develop new sources of music. Besides fostering new music, BMI has acquired the rights to the catalogs of many publishing houses and is making new arrangements for much of the world's great music which is in the public domain. BMI claims to have added 250,000 selections to the broadcasters' repertoire.

If this is true, listeners might hope for a reasonable variety of music on the air, even if much of their favorite and familiar music is eliminated. That is precisely what broadcasters assert they were giving listeners last week despite the fact that W-G-N and CBS had eliminated ASCAP music from their sustaining [nonsponsored] programs and NBC had cut ASCAP music 50 per cent with the full ban on sustaining programs to become effective Dec. 15.

Variety of Music Heard.

An evening or two of listening to dance bands brought to light no striking omissions or gaps. There was an abundance of swing, ballads, and considerable familiar music. Some of the songs heard regularly on the Hit Parade were missing. There were some noticeable additions. Orchestra leaders have discovered Stephen Collins Foster [and particularly "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair"]—with a vengeance.

Theme Songs Missing.

Many of the classics—for example, Brahms' "Lullaby,"—have appeared in dance dress. Nursery rhymes and tunes—such as "A Tisket a Tasket," are getting a big play. BMI has developed some hit tunes of its own and they are heard often—too often. Among these are "Practice Makes Perfect" and "The Same Old Story." [Descriptive, itn't it?]. While the broadcasts are repetitious, that was true, too, when ASCAP's music was fully available.

Many of the familiar theme songs of established programs and of name bands are gone. Many orchestras have blossomed out with new identifying melodies, often original compositions by their leaders or members.

Ray Noble has simply dropped his own tune "The Very Thought of You" and has not made a replacement. Art Kassel has replaced his "Doodle-doo-doo" with a new unpublished tune for which he welcomes title suggestions. The Quiz Kids have given up "School Days" for an original named after the program.

CHICAGOLAND CONCERT HOUR TO START ON DEC. 16

Light Classical Music on W-G-N Program.

The Chicagoland Concert hour, a new program based on the W-G-N and Mutual network policy of providing the best in all types of music, will be heard for the first time Monday evening, Dec. 16. It will begin at 10 o'clock and conclude at 10:45 each Monday thereafter.

The concert hour will present Henry Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra in light classical music. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak briefly each week. Marion Claire, lyric soprano of the opera and radio, will be the soloist.

Studio Guests Welcome.

The W-G-N chorus also will be heard. William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will produce the show. It will be aired from the W-G-N main audience studio. The station ticket department tomorrow will begin accepting requests for tickets to the broadcasts.

The Chicagoland Concert hour will be broadcast over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. In order to gain a place on the program, music must be melodious and of popular appeal.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

Col. McCormick's return to the air fulfills an intention he expressed Nov. 3 when the Sunday Symphonic hour was discontinued. Col. McCormick had spoken regularly on this program on developments in Europe, problems of national defense, and other matters of vital interest.

On the last broadcast Col. McCormick noted that it was no longer possible for the publisher of a large newspaper to know personally most of his subscribers, as was the custom in the days of personal journalism and smaller subscription lists. Hence, Col. McCormick said, he valued all the more his direct contacts with the people by means of broadcasts, and expressed his intentions of maintaining them.

Henry Weber will be returning to full time activity as musical director of W-G-N when he conducts the orchestra on the night of Dec. 16. For the past several weeks Mr. Weber has been occupied with the Chicago Opera company, of which he is general director. The opera season closes Dec. 14.

Steele Sisters

WM. R. STEINWAY
member of the famous piano manufacturing firm of Steinway & Sons, and manager of the European branch offices, will be interviewed over Station
WENR
Today at 1:30 P. M.
Mr. Steinway will give an interesting resume of his associations with famous artists and of the musical scene in Europe. He will greet you in person on Wednesday and Thursday, December 11th and 12th, in the Piano Salon at

ROSE BAMPTON, MARTINELLI IN 'AIDA' ON W-G-N

Last Opera Broadcast at 9:30 P. M. Tomorrow.

Rose Bampton and Giovanni Martinelli, headliners of the Chicago Opera company's production of "Aida" tomorrow will be heard on W-G-N Mutual's broadcast of the opera from 9:30 to 11 p. m.

The final two acts of Verdi's opera will be heard on the broadcast portion of the program. This broadcast will conclude the series of five radio presentations of Chicago Opera on W-G-N.

Miss Bampton in Lead.

With Miss Bampton in the title rôle as the Ethiopian slave, Martinelli, world famous tenor, will sing the romantic part of Radames, captain of the guard.

Also in the cast will be Elsa Zebranska as Amneris, George Czaplicki as Amonasro, Douglas Beattie as the King of Egypt, and Giuseppe Cavadore as the messenger. Paul Breisach will conduct.

Jagel on Melody Hour.

Climaxing several weeks of guest performances by stars of Chicago opera, Frederick Jagel and Dusolina Giannini will be heard on the Pageant of Melody at 8:30 p. m. The W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will be featured with the opera stars.

Jagel, a famed American tenor, has appeared in several rôles in Chicago opera this season. Tuesday he will sing the rôle of Herod in "Salome." He also has appeared in "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Aida," "Madam Butterfly," and "Jewels of the Madonna."

FARRAGUT HIGH TO BE SALUTED ON SCHOOL HOUR

Farragut High school of Chicago, named for Admiral David Glasgow Farragut, will be honored at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, when it will be the subject of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" program on W-G-N. Six hundred students who have for their slogan that of Admiral Farragut "Full Speed Ahead," will be heard in their songs and their cheers.

Peter B. Ritzma, principal, will speak briefly and the Farragut chorus, conducted by Marie C. Ehrenwerth, will sing the school song.

More news of Chicago and Chicagoland schools will be discussed by Jerry and Jimmie, youthful members of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" cast. Philip Maxwell, the program's principal of the air and master of ceremonies, will conduct the weekly TRIBUNE News Quiz and tell the accomplishments of three high school students whose names will be inscribed on the Roll of Honor.

W-G-N Guest

Ruth Gordon, famous actress, who will make a guest appearance on In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

MARION CLAIRE, MOJICA, THIBAULT STAR IN 'RIO RITA'

Marion Claire, Conrad Thibault, and José Mojica will combine their musical talents in the production of the gay, romantic "Rio Rita" on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

William A. Bacher, W-G-N's chief of programs and production, has promised that Saturday's production will be the most flashing and colorful of the season. Set in the Mexican border region, the songs and story are flavored with fiery Mexican romance and the daring of cactus-toughened Texas rangers.

In keeping with the Mexican atmosphere, José Mojica, leading movie and opera idol of Mexico, will play the part of Roberto, brother of Rita. The original production gives Roberto no singing part, but to assure the operetta a rollicking, festive effect, two typical Mexican songs, "Granada" and "Tu Partida," have been interpolated for Mojica.

Marion Claire, Chicago's operatic soprano, who is the feminine star of all the operettas, will sing the titular rôle of Rita. Miss Claire sang with Mojica when both were members of the Chicago opera, and with Thibault last October in "The Vagabond King," the first operetta of the W-G-N season.

Conrad Thibault, famous American baritone, will star in the masculine lead in "Rio Rita."

MISCHA AUER, RUTH GORDON ON CHICAGO HOUR

Mischa Auer, Hollywood comedian, and Ruth Gordon, star of the legitimate stage, will be featured on the program "In Chicago Tonight" over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

Miss Gordon is the star of "Here Today" opening at the Selwyn theater tomorrow. Auer is appearing at the Chicago theater this week.

Auer, a native of Russia, had a tumultuous childhood. He was separated from his parents by the revolution. Adopted by his famous grandfather, Leopold Auer, Mischa came to America and soon began to appear on the stage.

Miss Gordon was last in Chicago in 1937 in the "Doll's House." Her long stage career began with a minor rôle in "Peter Pan" in 1915.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, will direct the show, presenting Miss Gordon in dramatic sketches and Auer in comedy bits.

RUNS A LIBRARY AS LABOR OF LOVE FOR GOOD BOOKS

Tea and Cakes Feature Saturday Soirees.

Probably no one is more delighted with her job than Miss Sara B. O'Neill of the Windermere West hotel. Miss O'Neill, known to thousands of Catholics in Chicago, is director and chief contributor of the St. Benet library and bookshop, a Catholic library at C. Y. O. headquarters in the loop. A retired school teacher, she always wanted to be a librarian and always wanted to promote Catholic action.

The library occupies three small rooms in a corner of the C. Y. O. building. Lining all the walls and almost overflowing out the doors are 5,800 books. Thumbing thru them daily—thru philosophy, religion, biography, sociology, history, and children's books—are college professors, adults and students, not all of whom are Catholics.

Pension Goes for Books.

The story behind the library begins in 1925, when a friend willed Miss O'Neill an annuity which permitted her to indulge in a lifelong dream: running a bookshop. After 35 years of teaching [34 of her years were passed at Tilden Technical High school], she forsook the career, spent her annuity for living expenses, and began turning her pension into books.

In 1931, given a corner of a room in the McCormick building, she opened a library under the sponsorship of the Archdiocese Council of Catholic Women. She began with 300 books and 45 members, and the library lasted a year. When the council was affiliated with the C. Y. O. the library was shifted to the C. Y. O. building.

Pays Usual Deficit.

Miss O'Neill assumed responsibility for the venture. Whenever there is a deficit, and there is one monthly, she pays it. Recently she had the library incorporated, with Mrs. William Coughlin, 1614 East 74th street, and Miss Laura Wright, 1543 East Marquette road, acting principal of Tilden Tech, serving as the other members of the organization.

Miss O'Neill is proud of the fact that it is more than just a library. Take Saturday afternoons, for example. The library becomes the scene of discussion—wide open discussion on anything and everything, by a group of enthusiastic dialecticians that range from high school students to college professors. Sometimes a guest speaker is present, but always there is tea and "the best cookies you ever ate." This is because Miss O'Neill has long believed that there is nothing like eating and drinking to promote good fellowship.

Out of these teas on Saturday afternoons have come marriages, priests, and converts. Two of the members of these groups became Benedictine fathers, she says, one of whom got his inspiration from reading the books in the library.

Linguist and Traveler.

Miss O'Neill is well equipped for her work, since she took courses in library science at the University of Chicago in 1900 and has taught French, German, and Spanish to high school students. Also she has visited Europe five times. Her assistants in the library are Miss Laura Foote and Miss Grace Gillespie.

Among the literary figures who make the C. Y. O. library a regular stopping place are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheed; Christopher Hollis, English writer; Prof. Jerome J. Kerwin of the University of Chicago; Prof. Herbert Schwartz, formerly of the University of Chicago, and the Rev. Bernard Laukemper.

Women Voters Are to Hear Talk on School Situation

South Shore League of Women voters will meet Wednesday morning at the Bryn Mawr Community church, 7000 Jeffery avenue, to hear a talk by Mrs. Mabel P. Simpson, executive secretary of the citizens' schools committee, on the school situation. Mrs. Irving T. Zemans will preside.

Sociologist Will Address Women's Club of Church

The Women's club of the University Church of the Disciples of Christ, 5655 University avenue, will hear Dr. Ellsworth Faris, sociologist, speak on "The Control of Frustration" at the meeting Tuesday afternoon.

TILDEN R.O.T.C. DRILLS AT LIVE STOCK EXHIBIT

Drum Corps and Cadet Company Perform.

A picked unit of cadets from Tilden Technical High school R. O. T. C. regiment took part in the International Live Stock exposition last week, showing the farm youth and 4-H club members some of the things a city boy learns to do well. Accompanied by a drum and bugle corps, the picked company acted as an honor escort for the Chicago Stockyards American Legion post color guard.

The unit was made up of cadets chosen for their ability in drilling. Commanding the composite unit was Lieut. Col. Robert Edwards and Capt. Arthur Adams. Heading the drum and bugle corps was Second Lieut. Paul Hind, with Second Lieutenants Harold Wierzbanowski and Jim Hickey acting as bugle and drum commanders.

Leaders of Unit.

Officers of the unit were Maj. William Deeley, company commander; Second Lieut. Edward Lantry, second in command; First Lieut. Joseph Merton, first platoon commander, and Second Lieut. Walter Smolka, second platoon commander.

REFUSE DISPOSAL FOR CITY SETS ALL-TIME RECORD

3 Million Cubic Yards of Waste Hauled Away.

Chicago is cleaner—physically at least—than it has ever been before in history.

Figures released last week by Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt show that by the end of the year more than 603,000 loads of waste, including garbage and ashes, will have been hauled away. This figure, an all-time high, beats last year's garbage statistics by more than 40,000 loads.

Mayor Kelly, Commissioner Hewitt said, has increased the 1940 collection of waste as compared to 10 years ago by more than 1,000,000 cubic yards. The grand total by the end of this year will come to 3,270,210 cubic yards, or 603,589 loads of waste. The total cost will be $4,386,617. Cost for a single cubic yard is $1.34, which is 36 cents less per yard than in 1930.

"The city is clean, much cleaner than it has ever been," Hewitt declared. "Our yardage cost is down, and we are collecting more refuse than ever before, even more than in 1928, the heyday of expenditures."

Following is a ward by ward table showing the amount of refuse hauled by the city during 1940 as compared to 1930:

"DID YOU EVER SEE ADS PULL LIKE OURS?"
"And the best part is that Sunday Tribune Metropolitan section rates are so low we can advertise all year 'round."
FOR more than 12 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have been running low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections edited for and read exclusively by the families in their respective trading areas.
One or more of these five great sections—North, Northwest, West, Southwest and South—reaches your best customers and prospects—the people best able to trade with you. Your offers over your signature in the Sunday Tribune Metro sections can help you attract more customers and sell more merchandise.

AMERICA ON THE MOVE TOWARD WINTER WONDERLANDS

"Florida Fever" Seizes Residents of Northland as Cold Weather Sets In

By HAL FOUST.

There'll be more visitors in Florida this winter than ever before. A trite sentence? Yes, but it's true. It will be the fifth successive year that the winter resort business has broken all previous records.

The gulf coast, from Mobile to Corpus Christi, and the sunshine belt of New Mexico, Arizona, and southern California likewise foresee a boom travel business—probably a bigger percentage increase than Florida's. But for volume there is no comparison with the horde of 3,000,000 snow dodgers who will pour in and out of the palmed peninsula in the next four months.

This winter travel, which continued to grow thru the worst of the depression, is a greater movement of people than any in history, not excepting the current shifts of population in Europe. It's a stir that has united thru acquaintance the climatic belts of America.

The evidence of a big 1940-'41 season is apparent in Chicago as well as in the south. From Florida, for example, come reports that the early arrivals are more numerous than ever before and that the advance reservations are breaking records. In Chicago the railroads, air lines, bus lines, travel agencies, and touring bureaus are getting more than their usual number of inquiries about the resorts down there.

And almost as indicative are conversations that may be overheard in offices, in elevators, and in lunchrooms.

At a table in a North Michigan avenue restaurant on a recent cold afternoon two matrons were talking——

"Tom always gets such bad colds if he doesn't take a winter vacation that I just said to him. . . ."

"That's what I told Henry. We owe it to our children to keep our health, and then, too. . . ."

"Have you seen those new beach robes? O! . . ."

Or maybe you overheard something like this: Two milk wagon drivers were gossiping in a Rogers Park alley——

"I told the boss I wanted a winter vacation, and he couldn't say much against it, because he always takes one."

"It's as cheap as a fishing trip to Wisconsin, if you keep the wife and kids away from those fancy places. That's what Mary and I found last year, and I suppose she's right in saying that it saves doctor bills."

The joy of life as it's found after a dip in the surf warmed by the Gulf stream. This picture was taken at Miami Beach, Fla., but it could be duplicated this winter at hundreds of other resorts in the western hemisphere. These resorts, taking advantage of the unusually early cold weather up north, are out to break all previous records in the number of vacationists.

Seeks a Place in Which to Forget Worries and Recover from Jitters

By FREDERIC BABCOCK.

America once more is on the move. From now until the middle of March hundreds of thousands will be on their way to the sun spots down south or the ski and skate places up north.

When winter settled over the midwest last week it divided the people into two classes: those who worried about the weather, and those who worried about the war. Both classes decided that there was only one thing to do regarding both worries—try to find some place in which to forget. A winter vacation, almost anywhere in the western hemisphere, was agreed upon as the logical solution. Whereupon the travel movement set in.

Transportation and tourist officials, who ought to know, are predicting that this season will see the largest volume of wintertime domestic travel in history. Since Europeans have forgotten how to be good neighbors, the touring will be confined to the Americas, but the trouble overseas will not stop the pursuits of peace on this side of the Atlantic. And one of the main pursuits will be the effort to take life easy.

From Florida to California, and from Quebec to the Strait of Magellan, the word has gone out that, what with one thing or another, two vacations a year are the order of the day, and that those resorts equipped to handle the situation are about to reap their biggest harvest. Nearly everybody, it seems, is holiday bent this year.

The old custom of confining trips and vacations to the summertime has been abandoned. Nowadays Americans are spreading their travel thruout the four seasons—with special emphasis on winter. Nearly three million of them will go to Florida this winter, while other millions will flock to California, Mexico, Central America, South America, Hawaii, the West Indies, the gulf coast, the southwest, Hot Springs, Bermuda, and the winter resorts in Canada, the north woods, the northeast, the Pacific northwest, and the Rockies.

All this being so, The Tribune today presents its semiannual shopping list for travelers. This section is designed to be a complete guide and directory of the places worth seeing and visiting. Where to go, when to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations—data that will be of use to a large majority of prospective tourists and vacationists—are set forth in the following pages.

Places to play, and to relax; tours, cruises, short trips,

Orlando Plans Many Parties for Its Guests

ORLANDO, FLA. Heralding the opening of the 1940-'41 winter season, Florida's largest interior city has arranged the most elaborate program of recreation and amusement ever offered here.

Lying in the heart of the central Florida citrus and winter vegetable growing empire, Orlando has moved forward in the last year. The 1940 federal census credits it with a population of 36,302—an increase of 8,972, or 32 per cent, since 1930. This compares with an increase of 27.9 per cent for the state as a whole and approximately 7 per cent for the nation.

Since the first of the year new hotels, apartments, dwellings, and business blocks have risen to the tune of $3,000,000 Within the last month, plans have been announced for the construction of 300 new homes.

The annual state tennis championship tournament will be held here Jan. 13 to 19, with many of the nation's "name" racquet stars participating. From Feb. 4 to 8 comes the third annual antique show. The Mid-Florida women's golf tournament is scheduled for Feb. 11 to 15, and the Central Florida exposition, the state's oldest fair, for Feb. 24 to March 1.

The international cock meet will be held Feb. 25 to 28; the fifth annual horse show, March 6 to 9, and the Orland Yacht club sailboat regatta, March 9. Opening the last of December and continuing thruout the season will be the Sanford-Orlando Kennel club's nightly program of greyhound races.

The Washington Senators will establish their spring training camp here in late February. They will meet both the world champion Cincinnati Reds and their vanquished foes, the Detroit Tigers, in Grapefruit league exhibition tilts.

Jeanette McDonald is billed for a recital the first week in February, and her movie co-star, Nelson Edddy, is scheduled for a concert March 4. The annual Bach festival will be held Feb. 27 and 28 in adjoining Winter Park.

In addition the Civic Music association has announced the following concert series: Artur Rubenstein, pianist, Jan. 11; Jarmila Novotna, soprano, Jan. 27; Conrad Thibault, baritone, Feb. 7; Ballet Russe, March 3; Miss Erica Morini, violinist, March 12.

The tourist's melting pot, Sunshine park, has been enlarged and beautified. Here visitors from all states gather daily for shuffleboard, roque, lawn bowling, croquet, horseshoe pitching, and a hand of bridge. Others prefer just to sit comfortably on the sidelines and soak up sunshine.

Mexico Cuts Red Tape for Tourists

MEXICO CITY—"The Mexican government now stands ready to extend aid, not only financially, but also thru legislative action, to private enterprises engaged in promoting tourist travel to this country." This statement from a high government official explains the new attitude of this nation.

"We pledge that there will be no red tape whatever and that all needless regulations and time wasting procedures will be abolished," the official added. "This government is behind the movement to bring an increasing flow of tourists to Mexico, not only because this industry would improve the whole country economically, but also because it intensifies and strengthens Pan-American solidarity."

Silver Sailfish Derby to Start in Mid-January

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—Early in the morning of Jan. 19, the fishing fleet will move out thru Lake Worth inlet to the Gulf stream almost as one unit, and several hundred anglers will start competition in the seventh annual Silver Sailfish Derby.

Three weeks later, when the derby flag is hauled down, the score will be settled for another year. Trophies for the longest, the heaviest, the longest on light tackle, the longest taken each day, and other outstanding angling feats will be awarded to the skillful and the lucky.

If history repeats, the novice with the luck will have the odds on the Silver Sailfish trophy, given for the longest "sail" taken in the course of the derby. For in four meets out of the six, the winning fish was the first "sail" ever taken by the angler.

Out of the fleet of a hundred boats, two-thirds will be under charter, and the remainder privately owned. The majority of them sail every day during the event with four or five anglers aboard, bringing the total participation to more than 2,500 "man fishing days."

Last year 902 sailfish were officially "taken." However, since fish under 7½ feet long are barred from competition, many of these were released unharmed after the captains had removed the hooks.

Please give me a brief description of the new Pennsylvania turnpike.
—L. V.

The highway extends from Middlesex, near Harrisburg, to Irwin, east of Pittsburgh—a distance of 160 miles. Seven tunnels have been bored thru the Appalachian mountains in order to provide a maximum grade of 3 per cent. It is a four lane concrete thorofare, with a 10 foot parkway in the middle, and with no other highways crossing it at grade level. Built at a cost of about $70,000,000, the turnpike was opened to traffic Oct. 1. Autos are charged $1.50, regardless of the number of passengers, for the thru trip, and $2.25 for the round trip.

Are passports necessary for the Caribbean cruises? —A. I. S.

No.

My wife and I are planning on a trip to South America some time this winter, and we wish to cross the Andes from Chile to Argentina, but, as I recall it, part of the mountain railroad was washed out by floods several years ago. Can we make the crossing, and, if so, how? —L. R. H.

The washout, which swept away several miles of track on the Argentine side of the Trans-Andean railway, occurred about 10 years ago. Since then the break has been bridged by automobile service. So, with this exception, the trip can be made by rail. Plans are now being made for rebuilding the missing section, but the job may not be finished for several years. The ride, carrying the passengers over the Continental divide at an elevation of about 10,000 feet, is one of the most spectacular in South America.

76 Degree Climate the Year Round in 'Home of the Sun'

SAN JUAN, P. R.—Attuned to the new "Travel American" note is Puerto Rico's winter tourist season.

"The Home of the Sun," as Uncle Sam's verdant little Caribbean island is often called, still boasts as No. 1 tourist attraction its year round climate of 76 degrees. Sunshine in Puerto Rico, say meteorologists at the University of Pennsylvania, has the highest ultraviolet ray content of any spot under the American flag.

In the last year there was not a single day in which the sun did not shine on "the tropical isle with the temperate clime," according to R. W. Gray of the United States weather bureau at San Juan.

The temperature never has exceeded 90 degrees nor fallen below 62 degrees in the 42 years the weather bureau has been in operation.

Cruise ship and air line service diminishes the distance between the mainland and the islands.

15 Million Spent for More Room in Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

Miami Beach starts the new season with more room for more persons for more play in the southern sun. The great resort hotels, with their pools, cabaña clubs, and bathing beaches, line the nine miles of ocean frontage, while the home sections are bordered by 30 miles of artificial inland waterways, 12 miles of bay frontage, and 14 miles of manmade island frontage.

The story of progress here this year is that more than $15,000,000 in building permits was issued in the first 10 months of 1940 for 40 new hotels, 135 new apartment buildings, 283 new homes, 11 new swimming pools, and general improvements.

Actually the year's investments in the extension of living and play facilities will total more than $30,000,000, including land values, furnishings, and landscaping.

Specifically of interest to the winter traveler and winter resident is that this record breaking expenditure presages an ambitious program of sports events; provides ample accommodations of the modern type, and, by the very nature of the friendly competition created by the building expansion, assures a reasonable level of hotel rates.

Because of its continuous growth, every year has been the greatest year in the history of Miami Beach. For the last six years new construction work has annually averaged more than $11,000,000. Each year this expansion has been absorbed at midseason. Indications are that this year will be no exception, so that, despite the triteness of the expression, this resort expects and will have its greatest season in 1940-'41.

Early season activities started this year in mid-November with the opening of the Bayshore golf course and many beach and cabaña clubs. Ocean front hotels were busy thru the summer and the seasons merged without formal openings. The first meeting of the Committee of One Hundred was held on Dec. 3 and on the same day the Indian Creek golf course and clubhouse threw open its doors.

The voters of Dade county have approved of a $2,000,000 bond issue to provide more beach facilities and it is expected that work on the opening of at least one new stretch of public beach will be started before the season is under way many weeks, and will be available for use at the peak of the winter play period.

The sixth annual fishing tournament starts on Jan. 12 and runs until April 20. A great percentage of the million or more people expected in the area for the winter will try their luck at angling for the 247 species of fish in the gulf stream.

Four golf courses, three private and one public, are ready for winter play, and many of the newer hotels have increased facilities for tennis.

It was 25 years ago that man completed the first major part of making the artificial island which is Miami Beach. As the years went on each succeeding season outdid its predecessor in the amount of tourist travel.

But even last year's robustly successful season, with new highs in vacation fun and business, is certain to be shaded by the season now beginning. All the indices point to this conclusion.

Just as the city as a whole has increased in space for living, so have the room and facilities for play been increased. Much of the summertime construction work went into the building and equipping of the swimming pools and the cabaña colony.

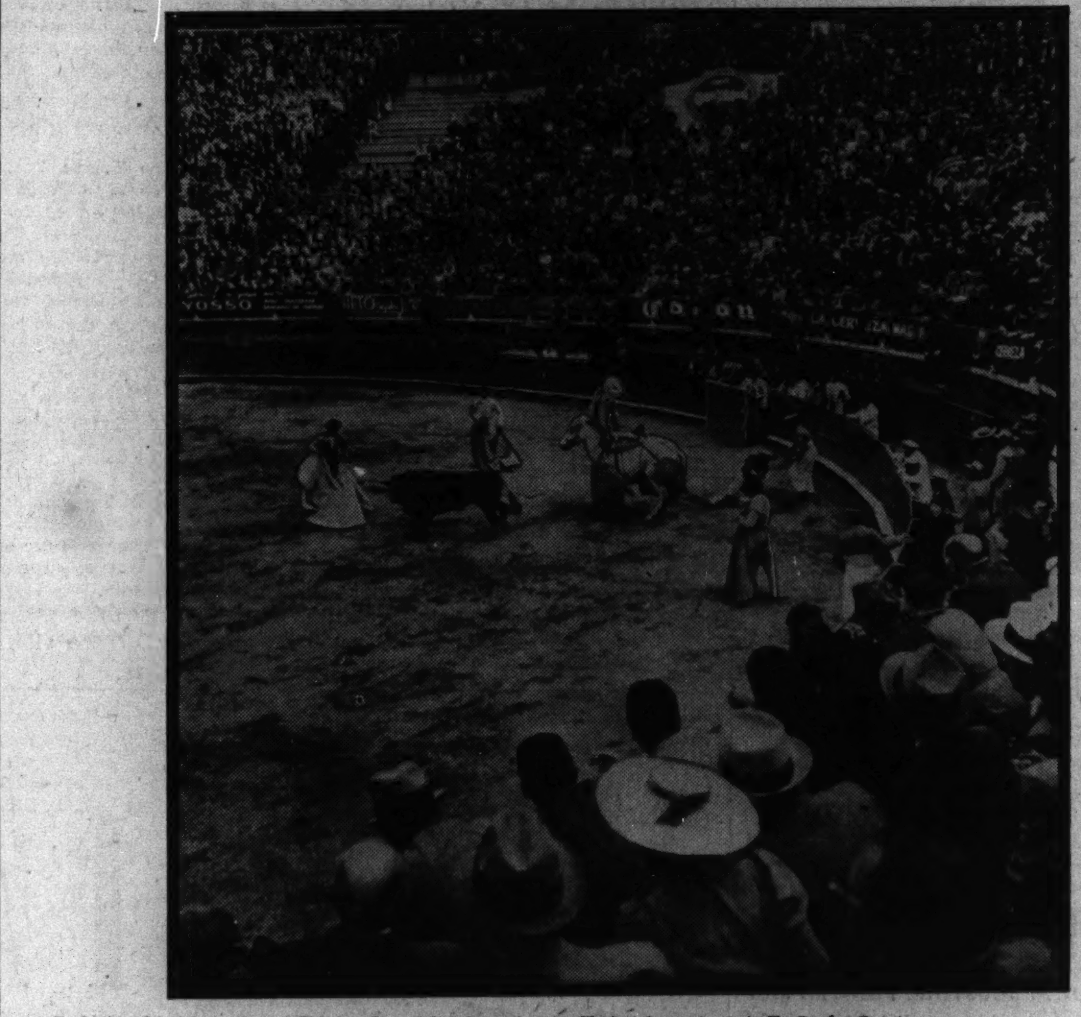
Miami Beach has everything the northerner likes in the winter. All the outdoor sports are here for his enjoyment, with swimming followed by fishing, tennis, and golf.

The city boasts a huge flotilla of luxury charter craft. But for every 10 sportsmen who venture into the gulf stream to fight the big game fish, there are 100 who visit the less exacting but no less exciting haunts in inland waterways and the Atlantic's surf.

The Village of St. Ours.

In 1665 Louis XIV. sent to Canada his finest regiment, that of Carignan-Sallères, which had just returned to France after a campaign against the Turks. Nearly 800 soldiers settled in Canada. Of the 30 officers who took up life in New France one of the best known was Pierre de Saint-Ours, whose name is perpetuated today in the village of St. Ours, a short distance from Sorel, in the Richelieu valley.



PLAYING TAG IN LATIN-AMERICA

Twenty-five thousand spectators attend a bull fight in Mexico City. In this action picture a picador has just been thrown from his horse, protected by heavy pads against the danger of goring. The bull has had his attention diverted from the fallen man by other members of the "cuadrilla."

Boat Trip Breaks Jaunt Southward

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va.—With the winter trek southward under way, many northern motorists are breaking the monotony of the long trip to see intensified military and naval activity in one of the most vital defense areas of the nation. They are driving their cars aboard steamers at Baltimore or Washington for the overnight voyage down Chesapeake bay to Old Point Comfort.

The steamers leave every evening from both cities. Early the following morning the motorist finds himself at Old Point Comfort, only American resort inside a military reservation. In addition to being the oldest fortified spot in the United States, this city is the home of Fort Monroe, one of the most important coast defenses on the Atlantic seaboard. Off the tip of Old Point Comfort lies Hampton Roads, base of the Atlantic naval squadron, where battleships and cruisers sway at anchor, while 10 minutes away is Langley field, leading military air base in the east.

Thus, in an area of less than 10 square miles, the visitor can see the three arms of national defense at their best.

Vine Covers an Acre.

The acre spreading scuppernong vine on Roanoke Island, North Carolina, is claimed to be the largest and oldest grape vine in the world.

Manana Land Is the Home of Handicraft

By Alden Powell.

Mexico is North America's handicraft land.

Sarapes, the colorful blankets which most tourists associate with that country, are woven on hand looms in different weights, textures, sizes, and colors. These beautiful fabrics reveal, as nothing else does, the debt the Mexican peasant owes his Indian ancestors. For sarapes vary with every district. In some towns they are pearl gray, relieved by white designs, and in others they are as vivid as a parrot's plumage, with brilliant reds and greens.

In Taxco, the country's foremost silver town, a peep thru the open door or window of almost any home will reward the curious with a view of family silversmiths hammering flat plates of metal into gleaming brooches, pendants, bracelets, and other jewelry. Handwrought tin is also a specialty of that town.

Most famous silver mart there is Spratling's, a combination store and workship where one may see handicraft grow under his very eyes. From the upper balcony of this store — a photographer's favorite spot—may be seen the famous Borda cathedral, named in honor of the silver king who built it and virtually created Taxco.

In all towns of Mexico pottery modeled in black or red clay and decked with Aztec designs is available for a few cents. At the Pyramids—a short ride from Mexico City—one may buy a fine water pitcher, vase, ornamental plate, or ash tray from Indians who still preserve the colors and designs of their ancestors. Tho these articles blend naturally and inconspicuously into the background in Mexico, back in the United States they are praised by art lovers.

The deft fingers of the Indians weave reed baskets of all sizes and descriptions. These articles are dyed in gorgeous colors, and with designs of men, birds, and animals.

Not far from Mexico City is the basket market at Toluca.

The big open market, which also sells pottery, sarapes, and embroidered work, extends for several blocks, and the vendors are Indians who bring their products in from all the surrounding villages.

Here, on Fridays, the handicraft seeker may buy baskets ranging from a huge hamper to a tiny sewing container. Taking these back is no problem, since the smaller ones nest conveniently into the larger ones. Incidentally, they are quite unbearable, and are handy for stowing unexpected purchases.

The ancient art of glass blowing, inherited from the Spanish conquisadores, is still practiced in certain towns. Native bubble glass, with its foamy, swirling texture and vivid hues, is prized by collectors.

In "manana land" the hammering and cutting out of leather goods such as belts, pocketbooks, billfolds, and traveling cases, is another art at which the native worker excels. The production of "huaraches," or slippers, is a voluminous business. Few visitors can resist the temptation to take a pair home.

Many American vacationists have neither the time nor the resources to cover all the important handicraft centers, but they may see a splendid cross section of the native arts by visiting Mexico City, the nation's big clearing house.

Resort Has "Dictator."

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va.—Because it is completely within a military reservation, this resort always will be ruled by a "dictator"—the commanding general of Fort Monroe. He has complete jurisdiction over the area. His authority even extends to traffic rules and regulations.

Guadalupe Day Opens Mexican Holiday Season

MEXICO CITY.—Attracting tourists by its curious mingling of the gay with the solemn, the Mexican holiday season opens on Guadalupe day, Dec. 12, and continues for almost a month.

The day of Our Lady of Guadalupe finds Mexico in gala attire. Children dressed in the national costume swarm the streets. Long pilgrimages wend toward every church dedicated to this saint. After the services come dancing and feasts of tamales and sweets.

In the open squares before the churches, matachin dancers and musicians pirouette in their quaint garb, adorned with mirrors, bright ribbons, and fringe.

In the suburb of Guadalupe, 20 miuntes from Mexico City, visitors see the streets bursting with people—thousands of pilgrims converging on the shine, thronging the narrow walks, flooding the large courtyard of the cathedral, patiently waiting their turn to enter and leave an offering.

Within the richly decorated church throng the rich and the poor, the healthy and the infirm. Nothing else in Mexico is as exciting as this religious celebration in which Indians, following their own primitive forms and customs, pay homage to the Virgin of Guadalupe.

Legend has it that the Virgin first appeared to Juan Diego, an ignorant Indian peasant, in December of 1531. She bade him gather roses on the stony hill of Tepeyac, where flowers never before had bloomed. At her command, roses miraculously grew from the barren rock.

Guadalupe's sainthood was recognized by a papal bull in 1754.

Ocala Constructs a New Auditorium

OCALA, Fla.—Ocala's municipal additions, hotel expansion, and improvements in recreational facilities have placed this central Florida resort in position to care for throngs of visitors.

Opening for its first season is the new auditorium, built of limerock and concrete, and seating 2,500. It will be the center of many entertainment programs.

The city's hotels, guest homes, and cottage cabin camps have been expanded and improved. The 1940-41 season will present an array of accommodations, including hotel courts and downtown and suburban places.

In addition to shuffleboard and tennis tournaments, guest artists will appear frequently at the Community building and at the auditorium. Locally sponsored "play nights" and home talent plays also will influence the entertainment field.

Resort wear
for Southern Days (and nights, too!)
You'll see no lovelier styles anywhere than this brilliant collection of Southland clothes. Slacks, play suits, spectator, classics and formals that will fairly take your breath away—and "priced to tempt you."

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

STEAMERS—PLANES

Railroads Take Tourists South in Quick Time

By Philip Hampson.

Lazy days on Florida and California beaches or skiing and bobsledding on the hills and mountains of the northern states are the railroad fare this season for the growing number of persons who take their vacations in the winter.

The railroads have this to offer—fast, comfortable, and safe transportation at moderate cost. On many of the new streamlined trains that are available for travel to all parts of the land, the trip in club-like atmosphere, with good food and drinks always at hand, is one of the most pleasant parts of the vacation.

Taking the spotlight this year is the new streamlined de luxe coach service between Chicago and Florida resorts—a service readily accessible for all the midwest. In just 29½ hours—one night on the way—one is whisked from the northern cold to the balmy air of Florida.

Three railroad groups are coöperating in giving this service, so arranged that one train departs daily from Chicago. A similar service between New York and the south has been immensely popular, and there is every reason to expect that Chicago will take to its new trains.

The coaches are the last word in railroad car building. At night the backs of the comfortable seats are lowered and the lights are dimmed. One rests well. The club and refreshment cars are as attractive as any night life dining spot. On the New York streamliners dancing has been one of the amusements of the many young persons who crowd them. Not one of the least of the advantages of this group of trains is the economy. One can save enough to finance several days in Florida.

Originating roads in Chicago for the new service are the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the Illinois Central, and the Pennsylvania.

Chicago is linked with California by streamlined trains placed in service several years ago. In this service are both de luxe sleeping car and coach trains, with several of the former making the long run in 39 hours and 45 minutes. One of the de luxe coach trains also runs to Los Angeles in that time.

The desert resorts of the southwest have been gaining in popularity as ideal places in which to dodge the northern cold. And the railroads are keeping in step with this development by improving their service to Phoenix, Tucson, and other cities in that region.

America also is taking up the winter sport vogue. Sun Valley, high in the mountains of Idaho, is one of the places where one can play in the snow at moderate temperatures.

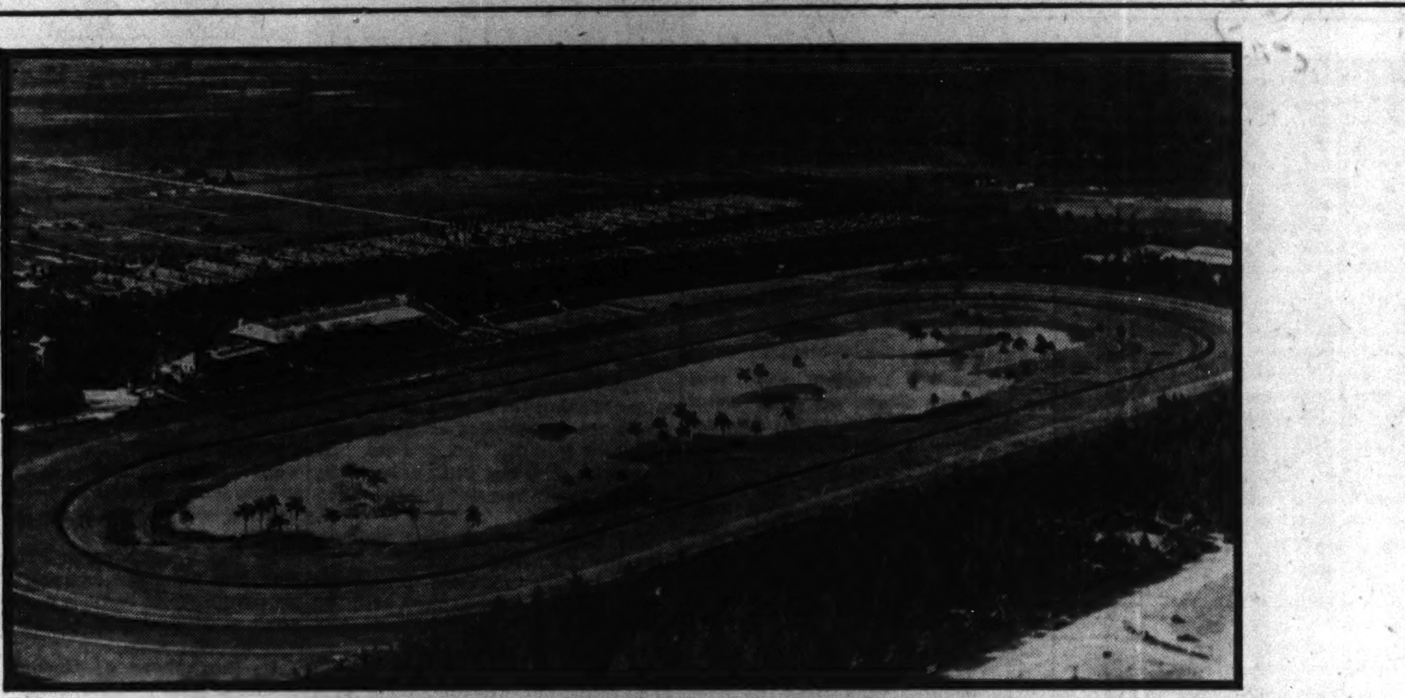
Closer at hand are the growing winter sports centers in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and both the upper and lower peninsulas of Michigan. Any Chicago road which enters these states can give information as to the best places to which to go.

In considering a more rigorous winter vacation certainly one should not forget Canada. One can reach either Montreal or Quebec by fast international trains from Chicago in short time. And Canada is doing all it can to make visits by Americans agreeable, despite the war effort in which it is engaged. Then there are the famous skate and ski places in New York and New England.

If railroads save hours for vacationists in the summer, they save days in the winter, when storms frequently block roads for motorists. Under a new arrangement the railroads are prepared to make automobiles available at resort destinations at moderate cost. The traveler need pay for his car only while it is in use. The roads also have arrangements for carrying automobiles by train at special prices.



A BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF FLORIDA'S FINEST RACE TRACK

Sometimes called the world's most beautiful race course, Hialeah Park in Miami is preparing for its busiest program in years. This photo, taken from a plane, shows where the ponies will start running Jan. 8. The McLennan Memorial, the Flamingo Stakes, and the $50,000 added Widener Classic are the three main events on the 46 day schedule.

Record Crowds Greet Season in Greater Miami

MIAMI, FLA.

Down here there are 150,000 persons who have been working night and day for the last four months, setting the stage for what looks to be Miami's greatest season in the 43 years of its history.

You can walk down Flagler street, Miami's "Broadway," at this writing any evening and you'd think it was the middle of January, so large are the crowds. But the visitors are not all from the north. This year about 10 per cent are from Central and South America. Europe is closed to them.

Next Thursday at 6 a. m. the first group of professional and amateur golfers will tee off on the Miami Springs Golf course to start the $10,000 17th annual Miami open, one of the richest in the world. This year more than 220 entries will compete against the Sammy Sneads, Ben Hogans, Gene Sarazens, Craig Woods, Denny Shutes, and the Horton Smiths.

Dog racing started here this week and will last five months on four of the nation's finest tracks. The first to open was the Hollywood Kennel club. On Dec. 27 three more will open—the West Flagler, the Miami Beach, and the Biscayne. These four tracks bring to Miami 2,500 greyhounds and attract more than a million spectators.

Football, which Miamians have been taking in nightly doeses four times weekly this season in the Orange Bowl stadium, will reach a climax Jan. 1, when the annual Orange Bowl interscholastic football championship is played. On Christmas day the annual North-South high school football classic will be played.

On Dec. 20 the Tropical Park horse racing plant will open for 16 days. On Jan. 8 Hialeah race track will open with the Hialeah Park $5,000 added stakes feature. The program will last there for 46 days. On March 3 Tropical Park will open and run until April 10. This will give Miami visitors 96 days of racing.

The Orange Bowl sun festival is to last for one week starting Dec. 31. A gala night street festival, the King Orange Jamboree parade, starting at 7:30 p. m. in downtown Miami, will bring together more than 60 illuminated floats, 40 bands, and 5,000 costumed participants.

On Jan. 2 the Orange Bowl night marine pageant will take place. More than 200 boats, including everything that floats, from a palatial yacht to a rowboat, will parade alongside Miami's county causeway as some 20,000 winter visitors look on. A display of more than $5,000 worth of fireworks will close the pageant.

Next on Miami's $8,000,000 sports and entertainment program are the 13th annual All-American air races at the Municipal airport, Jan. 10, 11, and 12. Last year 900 privately owned planes flew here to attend the meet. This year 1,500 are expected. Both the army and navy departments of aviation are expected to participate with exhibitions of dive bombing, dog fighting, and mass maneuvers.

On Jan. 12 the sixth annual metropolitan fishing tournament will get under way with a parade of craft out the Causeway channel to the Gulf stream. Last year 162,000 men, women, and children entered the contest. There are $10,000 in prizes to be given away this year, and the winner will not be known until early in the spring, when the contest closes. Anybody who can hold a fishing pole, be it diamond studded or just a plain bamboo stick, can enter.

These are a few of the highlights of the Miami winter season. It will be the greatest this city has ever had. It looks as if nearly everybody in America is planning to come down here to rest and play and momentarily forget the tragedy across the Atlantic.

Tarpon Springs Venice of South

A sportsman's paradise in the "Venice of the South." is descriptive of Tarpon Springs, charming little resort on Florida's west coast.

Early winter visitors are finding excellent fishing in the bayous that dot the water front, as well as in the Anclote river, navigable for 13 miles. Some of the biggest large mouthed bass in the state are caught in nearby Lake Butler.

The feast of the Ephiphany will have its 38th annual observance here on Jan. 6. Visitors travel many miles to view the ceremonies carried out by the followers of the Greek Orthodox church.

The world's largest sponge center is situated here, and yearly attracts thousands of visitors to the Greek community on the waterfront.

Sees Five Deer, But He's Not Prepared

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla.—This area's winter fishing and hunting season opened with nimrods reporting limit bags, and anglers telling of good catches of sea trout and black bass.

Hard luck story of the day was the hunter who saw five deer, but had his gun loaded with bird shell.

Two anglers landed 465 sea trout in three days.

Tampa, City of Industry, Goes After Tourists

TAMPA, Fla.—Wrapped for many years in story book adventure and romance, Tampa, only city in the state which can boast both of its colorful industries, and of its gala resort life, is about to add another chapter to its "Mardi gras" history.

A calendar of festivity and sports events has been planned for this season. The program includes:

Greyhound racing at Sulphur Springs track, Dec. 27 thru April 10.

Dixie Tennis tournament at Davis Island Tennis club, Jan. 6.

Latin carnival, Jan. 25 to Feb. 1, featuring Spanish gaiety in Ybor City, Tampa's Latin quarter.

Florida fair and Gasparilla carnival, Feb. 4 thru Feb. 15. Climax of the celebration will come Feb. 10, when Tampa bay is invaded by the pirate ship Jose Gaspar, and the cutlass-clashing buccaneer crew capture the city. There is an elaborate parade with floats, and street dancing.

Tin Can Tourists of the World annual meeting at Municipal Trailer park, Feb. 10 to 24.

Horse show at the Tampa Yacht and Country club, Feb. 27 to March 2. This is the nation's largest outdoor winter horse show.

La Verbena del Tobaco [Latin Cigar Festival], Mar. 5 to 8. Inspired by Tampa's vast cigar industries, this celebration will produce the atmosphere, songs, and dances of the Latin people.

The national midwinter pistol tournament, March 11 to 15.

Tampa will be the winter training grounds for the world champion Cincinnati Reds, who will play a series of exhibition games with major and minor league clubs at Plant field.

Sponsored by the Tampa Music association, concerts are being given at the Municipal auditorium.

Guatemala Boasts of Perfect Climate

GUATEMALA CITY—This republic, with its Quiche-Mayan country, has been called "the wonderland of the Americas." This term is simply an attempt to tell in five words something of the scenic beauty, the climate, and the other attractions.

People of the United States becoming conscious of the treasures of travel down here in Central America. The growing passenger lists of the cruise liners from New York and New Orleans are proof of that.

The climate of Guatemala City and of the highlands is said to be one of the most perfect in the world. Here the semitropical beauty, the flowers, the markets, the music, the Latin gaiety blend into a harmonious whole. Tours of the highlands start from this city.

America's MIAMI

SUNSHINE CITADEL FOR All AMERICA!

ACTUALLY, just about everyone knows that Miami is America's safest refuge from Gloomy Old King Winter's annual blitzkreig—knows about the fun and sun, the matchless scenery and tropic greenery, the gay diversions of surf and turf, the lazy hours of health-restoring relaxation — the complete facilities which appeal to everyone's ideas of a perfect time. What too many don't realize is: last year 2,000,000 visitors proved that Miami has ample accommodations and rates to fit everyone's ideas about costs, too — is no longer for a select few, but is truly all America's.

MIAMI'S OWN HIT PARADE: Dec. 12-15, The $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament; Dec. 20-April 10, Horse Racing; Dec. 2-April 10, Dog Racing; Jan. 1, Orange Bowl Football Classic and Festival; Jan. 10-12, All American Air Maneuvers; Jan. 12-April 20, $10,000 Fishing Tournament, Feb. 11, Miami-Nassau Ocean Yacht Race; Feb. 17, Dixie Amateur Golf Championship; Mar. 1, $50,000 Widener Classic, Hialeah; Mar. 2-5, $5,000 International Fourball Golf Matches; Mar. 16, Mid-Winter Sailing Regatta. CONCEIVED and built by Carl G. Fisher, developer of Miami Beach, these hotels had first choice of location—giving their spacious estates a degree of privacy, luxury and accessibility not found in any other Miami Beach hotel. Their unequalled facilities include a private ocean bathing beach, swimming pools, cottages, cabanas, tennis courts, beautiful putting greens, large parking spaces, and two private 18-hole golf courses operated in connection. Finally, to a restricted patronage, they afford an atmosphere of refinement and comfort that comes only with years of successful operation.

TRIPS—VACATIONS

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TOURS—CRUISES

Society Editor Pines for Sun, Sand of South

By India Moffett.

Chicago's first real winter weather inevitably turned the thoughts of every one who anticipates a winter vacation toward that halcyon time.

Some may dream of even more snow and ice than we have already had, of skis and skates, of brilliant winter sunshine reflecting on fields of pristine snow. But not this one! Warm, caressing breezes, sunshine that burns, clean sand upon which one can lie and listen to the beat of the surf or the soft murmur of the rippling waves when there is no surf, the fragrance of flowers and citrus trees, the delightful hospitality of those who live, permanently or temporarily, in the south—all these are what we dream of as we trudge thru snow and slush, or try to maneuver our car on icy streets without skidding.

Perhaps, if we had learned to use skates and skis earlier in life, we might choose a resort where winter sports flourish as our destination this winter, or it might be that we still could find enjoyment in such activities, but we doubt it. Our rôle would be that of a spectator sport, we're certain, if we went to Sun Valley, or the Yosemite, or Lake Placid, or Quebec, or one of the other American or Canadian resorts that attract more and more winter sports enthusiasts each winter. Canada has a number of resorts that are said to be very attractive, and they undoubtedly will draw many of their neighbors to the south up there this season. But we'll not be among them.

Chicago may be our lot for the whole winter. Right now, however, we're thinking of the southland and planning a trip that we know would be pleasant. That is, if the weather man treats Florida a bit more kindly than he did during the first half of last winter. Millions are counting on this; so we'll take a chance with them and away we'll go, at least imaginatively, for a jaunt to some of the east coast resorts.

Let's stop first at St. Augustine, where we'll spend several days seeing the lovely old buildings and nearby Marineland.

We'll proceed southward on the Ocean drive, which will take longer than the main highway, but we'll see most of the coastline that way. We'll pass Ormond Beach, where John D. Rockefeller lived; Daytona Beach, with its wide beach upon which we'll drive for miles, so close to the water that at times the waves will lap our tires.

On south thru Cocoa and Melbourne Beaches to Vero, where we'll stop to see some Chicagoans, the junior Albert E. Madleners. Theirs is a new house, a charming place near the water, with a brand new guest house right on the ocean.

Last winter, when we dropped in on the Madleners, they were lunching off trays on their porch for it was a beautiful, warm day, but we shivered when they showed us pictures of long icicles hanging from every tree on the place, and flowers frozen so that they looked as if they were intended for decorations on hors d'oeuvres tables instead of growing in a Florida garden.

Mrs. Madlener's cousin, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, and her sister, Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin Jr. of Greenwich, spent the whole season at a club at Vero Beach last winter. The year before they were in Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. Chapin in Phoenix, and Mrs. Osborne on a ranch at Wickenburg. So perhaps the west will claim them again this winter. It is difficule to choose between Florida and Arizona if one likes both places as we do.

From Vero we will go to Jupiter Island, where many Chicagoans spend winter vacations each year. Some have houses, but more stay at the inn, which looks like a New England one, but has the service and cuisine of a French establishment.

Simplicity is the keynote at Jupiter, or Hobe Sound, as the village is named, but it's a sort of simplicity that smacks of caviar and champagne rather than doughnuts and milk. It's pleasant, tho, and we leave the long, thin island with sincere regret.

Palm Beach, the gorgeous, the artificial, the gay, the sparkling, the most fashionable of Florida's many resorts, will be our next stop. It always is bubbling with verve and life, at least during the season, and we love it, every bit of it.

Palm Beach is an acquired taste, at least with us, for at first we saw only its glitter, seemingly from tinsel. As we grew to know it, we realized that there is much of pure gold there. Platinum, too, and diamonds and other precious gems, but they're real; there's nothing artificial or phony about the jewels. They're the finest that money can buy. Sometimes they're worn with a tennis dress or shorts, but the dress or shorts, are well cut and beautifully tailored, and the place where they are soon is the last word in chic and luxury—probably the Bath and Tennis club. Underneath there'll be a good pair of legs, without a doubt, but the feet may be encased in high heeled sandals such as would go better with an afternoon or dinner dress.

Such things are seen in Palm Beach, believe it or not. None of which spoils the charm of the place; in fact, it is part of the definite charm that the resort has. Nothing is too fantastic, too grand, too lavish, too Hollywoodish, but in that setting it all fits into the pattern. The more we see of the rest of Florida the more we like P. B.

It's lovely all the way from Palm Beach to Miami Beach, but we mustn't linger too long along the way if we want to reach Miami in time for the races at Hialeah on Saturday afternoon. A week-end in Miami Beach is all we can spend there, altho it would take a month to see everything of interest.

Key West is our destination on this trip, so we push on. Much of the way south thru the keys is over water. We drive slowly so we can enjoy the trip to the utmost. It's different from any other drive in the world. There are bridges galore—one of them seven miles long. Some are old. They are the ones used by the railroad before the hurricane of 1935, and they are almost too narrow for two cars to pass. The new bridges are wider, thank goodness, and we breathe a prayer that all the old ones will be replaced before we take the trip again. The water is beautiful beyond description—so many shades of blue and green, so constantly changing, so limitless in its expanse.

We stop at a fishing camp on a tiny key for luncheon, dropping down from the seven mile bridge by a ramp to reach the camp. Turtle soup, pompano, and lime chiffon pie are on the menu. We make pigs of ourselves, for never have we tasted more marvelous food. Simply served, with no style, but who cares for that when the fare is delicious and the view from the dining porch is what it is?

With water all around us we feel as if we were crossing the ocean. The gulls are screaming and there is a soft purr of the motor cars crossing the bridge. Otherwise, there is heavenly quiet and peace.

Key West is as un-American as any place on this continent could be, in spite of the fact that the United States army, navy and marines are well represented in the little old city. Spain via Cuba, England via the Bahamas, have contributed to the picturesqueness of Key West, for the early settlers came from the islands to the south and east.

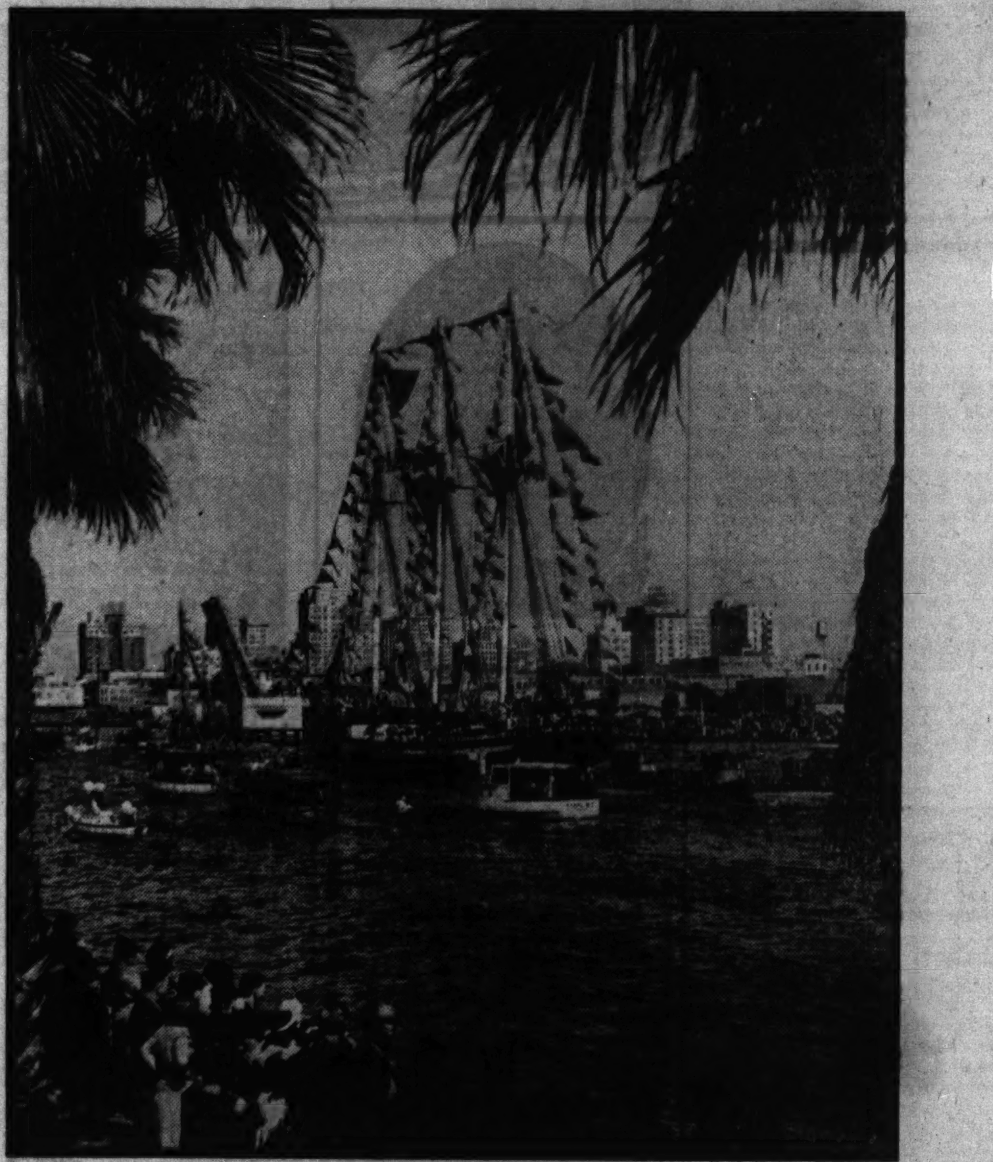
This southernmost point of the United States has a quaint charm all its own. It is shabby for the main part, but it's a nice shabbiness—the sort to endear it to a visitor. It is warm when we reach here. Key West is 375 miles south of Cairo, [Egypt, not Illinois].

We're very near Cuba. Let's take a boat and run over there for a few days!



WHEN A SOUTHERN CITY CAPITULATES

A typical scene at the Gasparilla festival in Tampa, Fla., with the crowds watching the "invasion" of the city by a pirate crew. This winter's date for the fete is Feb. 10.

First Auto Speed Trials Were Held at Ormond Beach

ORMOND, BEACH, Fla.—A comprehensive program of social and sports activities will be sponsored at this, one of Florida's oldest winter resorts, this season.

Ormond Beach is situated on a narrow strip of land between the Atlantic ocean and the Halifax river and enjoys a semitropical climate. There are 20 miles of beach, where the first automobile speed trials were held more than a quarter of a century ago.

Besides horseback riding, the sports program will include golf, tennis, fishing, archery and lawn bowling.

The golf course will open for the season on Dec. 20. The inaugural tournament, an 18 hole medal play handicap, will be contested on Christmas day.

The outstanding golf event of the season will be the women's South Atlantic championship, one of the major Florida tournaments, which will be held Feb. 25 to March 1.

Clearwater Builds to Accommodate Winter's Throngs

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Endowed by nature with advantages not enjoyed by other resort cities, Clearwater has found itself taxed to accommodate its winter visitors in the last few years.

This season will find it prepared, following a summer building program both on the mainland and Clearwater Beach.

Situated on a bluff which overlooks the Gulf of Mexico, Clearwater has the highest coastal elevation south of the New Jersey highlands and north of the Yucatan coast, with the highest point 75 feet and an average elevation of 32 feet.

Clearwater Beach is connected to the mainland by the million dollar free causeway. This drive across Clearwater bay is considered one of the most beautiful in the state. Just north is Honeymoon isle, which has received much publicity as a haven for newlyweds.

Every recreational outlet for the entertainment of the winter visitor is available here, with fishing, golf, tennis, swimming, sailing, shuffleboard, and lawn bowling heading the list.

The West Coast Gun club's new skeet range is open to the public.

Oldest American City Is Expanding

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla.—Greatly increased tourist travel to the nation's oldest city has been met by an expanded building program for hotels, motor courts, and trailer camps.

St. Augustine's building front hummed with activity all summer, and as the winter season approaches there are many new accommodations available to tourists.

Among these is the "village" at St. Augustine beach. This is a haven for the traveler who wishes to locate directly on the ocean and near beach and fishing facilities. The entire plant is built at the base of an ocean fishing pier, the longest of its kind on the South Atlantic coast. Two main buildings house a hotel, lunchroom, novelty shop, sport shop, bathhouse, and other conveniences for the guests.

Half Million Spent for New Buildings in Fort Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla.—With a half million dollar hotel building program nearing completion, this southern Florida community looks forward to the biggest season in its history. Interruption in travel abroad, plus the additional accommodations, lend credence to this theory.

High spot of the holidays will be the annual National Aquatic forum, Dec. 14 to Jan. 3, in which collegian swimmers from all over the country participate.

Tho midway between Miami and Palm Beach and thus easily accessible to both, Fort Lauderdale still has a small town atmosphere. It boasts a "main stem" with small but smart shops and motion picture theaters, and it also has a tropical golf course. Its languorous New river, joining with the Inland waterway, provides interest for yachtsmen and has earned for the city the name of "Venice of America."

For those who desire a spot of excitement now and then, there are the nearby Hialeah and Tropical Race tracks.

STEAMERS—PLANES

Sport Awaits Refugees from the Snow Belt

By Bob Becker.

If at this time of the year you hear a northern sportsman mumbling under his breath about south winds, green trout, "pa'tridges," sailfish, and prize winning bass, there is no need to be surprised, because the boys are beginning to think about outdoor sports down south and many a hunter and fisherman is looking forward to fun below the Mason-Dixon line.

And what a program the southern states have during the months when it's the open season for snow and chilblains in the north and hunting and fishing are no longer possible!

Louisiana is one of the Gulf states which can keep an outdoorsman busy in the next few months. Many hunters won't even wait until after Christmas to take a shooting trip down there, for the duck and goose season is at its best in December. The Louisiana season doesn't close until Dec. 31, and the state is famous for the number of waterfowl which move into its coastal marshes.

And there also is excellent salt water fishing along the Louisiana coast. Grand Isle, in the gulf, is one of the preferred spots for the rod and reel boys. But one may have sport with salt water scrappers at points close to New Orleans, such as Lake Pontchartrain, Rigolets, Lake Catherine, Chef Menteur, Bayou Liberty, Ycloskey, Shell Beach, and Delacroix Island.

The quail season in that state opens Dec. 10 and continues thru Feb. 20. Visiting hunters may obtain a seven day license for small game for only $5.25.

It's possible to get large mouthed bass fishing ["green trout," as the boys call 'em down south] all thru the winter months if the weather behaves and Louisiana has some beautiful rivers and lakes for this type of activity. Two that drew cheers from us on a recent trip were the Calcasieu river, at the city of Lake Charles [west of New Orleans], and the Cain river, near the picturesque old town of Natchitoches. Both are ideal for bait or fly casting.

Sportsmen refugees from the snow belt will find that Alabama and Mississippi also can provide plenty of wintertime entertainment. Fresh water fishing is on the program in these states, with bass, bream, and crappie plentiful in the streams which flow into the gulf. The bass are not as big as those in Florida, but they may weigh up to 8 pounds.

Around Biloxi the bait or fly caster can usually bring in a string of bass or bream [if the weather man tends to his business] from waters that are just a short ride from that city. The Tchouticabouffa river and its tributaries, the Pascagoula river system, and other streams near Biloxi are among the preferred fishing spots.

Sea trout, a gamey species for the bait caster and troller using light tackle, work into nearly every stream around Biloxi and elsewhere along the coast. The boys catch them with bass tackle and trolling spoons or by still fishing with shrimp for bait.

Florida's three-ring circus for fishermen and hunters is so well known that—well, just try and keep the outdoor fans out of that state!

Miami, with its wonderful sailfish, barracuda, and other salt water sport and its famous metropolitan fishing tournament; Key West, West Palm, DeRay Beach, Fort Lauderdale, and other points on the east coast are ideal bases for those who like to ride the Gulf stream and adjacent reefs with a salt water tackle and connect with many different kinds of salt water fish.

The Miami tournament opens Jan. 12 and continues for 99 days. More than 80 prizes, along with hundreds of special trophies, will be awarded to amateur anglers.

On the west coast of Florida northern quail hunters and salt and fresh water fishermen again will answer the roll call around St. Petersburg, Clearwater, Bradenton, Tampa, Sarasota, Venice, Punta Gorda, Fort Myers, and Everglades.

The salt water sportsmen use their casting lures and spoons against snook, sea trout, red fish, ladyfish, and many other species. And there are lakes and fresh water streams for the bass fishermen.

Many Chicago upland game hunters use their scatterguns around Punta Gorda, where a novel system of quail hunting by means of lightweight automobiles is in vogue. Hunters do not follow the dogs on foot there. They rumble thru the open pine forest on top of specially constructed hunting trucks which enable a party to find many coveys of birds in the course of a day.

The Florida quail season opened on Nov. 20 in some counties and on Dec. 1 in others. It will continue until Feb. 1 or Feb. 15 in some parts of the state. A nonresident 10 day license costs $10.

By far the largest concentration of bass fishermen from the north will be tossing lures in the beautiful lake country of central Florida. Leesburg, which holds a big tournament every winter; Sanford, Winter Park, Orlando, Lakeland, Lake Wales, and Sebring are among the interior cities from which the anglers conduct their expeditions.

PLATINUM SANDS AND TOWERING PALMS

One of the reasons for the heavy travel movement southward. The scene is on Tampa bay, two blocks from the hotel and shopping center of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Poinsettia and Hibiscus Adorn Sarasota Scene

SARASOTA, Fla.—Florida Christmas accessories—scarlet poinsettia and hibiscus—have made an early appearance in Sarasota, timing their arrival to meet the advance guard of this west coast city's winter colony.

The weather man is responsible for these gay flowers spotting the Sarasota scene so soon—and Sarasota's reputation as a pre-Christmas as well as post-Christmas vacation rendezvous is responsible for the early arrivals.

And to the city's spotlighted attractions of the $20,000,000 John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art and the winter quarters of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus have been added several features.

The million dollar Sarasota-Lido beach casino, entertainment plant on the Gulf of Mexico that had its initial showing to the public last summer, tops the list with its tropical toned casino units, dance lounge, and swimming pool. This municipally built and operated affair borrowed its design from the modernistic school.

Key West Recalls Days of Pirates

KEY WEST, Fla.—Key West will enjoy a boom this year in the natural course of events, apart from any additional influx accruing from present world conditions.

The journey becomes an adventure as soon as you leave the mainland—four hours by car over an ocean going highway strung across islands. You get the impression of being thousands of miles away, as indeed in time and atmosphere you are.

A romantic past, stemming from the days of the buccaneers, has left an indelible impression upon Key West. Its tropical flora, its quaint, unpaved winding streets, its children chanting their playsongs in Spanish, are incidentals of what the seeker of winter sunshine finds there.

Island Routine Not Disrupted by Naval Base

HAMILTON, Bermuda. — Prospective visitors to Bermuda are inquiring if the plans for a United States base in the colony will interfere with the normal life here.

One of the first things asked of the head of the American delegation that came here to look over prospective sites for a naval and air base was whether the plans would affect the charm and beauty of the islands. Rear Admiral John Greendale was definite in his answer that the project should constitute an attraction for American visitors and that the usual life would not be disrupted.

The British naval base, established many years ago, has never disturbed the peacefulness of the islands.

St. Petersburg Ready to Greet Half a Million

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

By overnight de luxe passenger trains out of New York, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit and Chicago, by fast buses, by air streamliners, by coastal cruise ships, and by motor cars, winter visitors are bound for this resort.

At least half a million persons will spend some time between now and spring in St. Petersburg. Transportation and tourist experts estimate that Florida will entertain more than 3,000,000 "sun worshippers" before frost comes up out of the ground in the northern tier of states.

With travel to Europe and northern Africa out of question this year, Florida is getting the call for seasonal vacationists. This is due to its nearness to the metropolitan centers of the north and the speed with which sojourners may be able to return home in case of necessity.

St. Petersburg has outdone itself in preparing for the record breaking trek headed in this direction. New hotels and apartment houses, along with hundreds of new homes, have been built. Since early September, guests have been arriving from the east and the central west. The tide of southland travel has been on the upswing and promises to continue in that fashion into March.

As the rush gets under way, hotels are opening up and social and sports calendars are being filled with dinner dances, costume balls, cabaret revues, tea parties, bridge luncheons, sailing races, golf, and tennis tournaments, rifle shoots, horse and dog shows, greyhound races, art exhibits, symphony concerts, Little theater productions, open forums, and tourist games.

Stars of the stage, screen, and radio will be presented here at special performances. Top flight players in the tennis and golfing world will appear in the sports program. Some of America's finest sailing yachts are coming here to participate in the various regattas.

Twenty-two exhibition baseball games will be played at Waterfront park by major league baseball clubs, training here and elsewhere in the state. The New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals will come to St. Petersburg for spring training.

Thru the summer months, hundreds of new hotel rooms and apartment suites have been added to the city's accommodations, bringing the total to 33,500, along with scores of new winter homes. Twelve hotels gulf beaches.

Artists and entertainers so far scheduled include John Charles Thomas, baritone; Jeannette MacDonald of the films; Erica Morini, violinist; Lubeschutz and Nemenoff, piano team.

Winter Tourists Stop at Asheville

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—A growing volume of southbound travel with the advance of the early winter season has brought many hundreds of new visitors to Asheville. Highways thru the mountain section offer shorter routes into the deep south this year, particularly for winter vacationists from the middle west, and large numbers of motorists are selecting this route this year via Asheville as an itinerary to Florida, the Gulf coast, the Georgia coast and other winter resort sections.

The opening of the hunting season for big game in western North Carolina has attracted many hunters. The black bear and deer seasons extend to Jan. 1.

The Great Smoky Mountains National park, dedicated on Labor day, is one of the principal attractions this season.

Covered Cart Monument.

The most famous monument of Montevideo, capital of Uruguay, is La Carreta [covered cart]. A two-wheeler, the cart is pulled by oxen and beside it rides an old-time Uruguayan gaucho or plainsman, urging the animals forward into the wilderness. The monument was erected in honor of the nation's pioneers.

DOMESTIC TRAVEL

You're Looking for Paradise? It's Been Found!

By E. S. Whitman.

Altho I have visited or lived in most parts of the world favored by tourists, until recently I had never been to Paradise beach. Or, rather, I should say Nassau, Bahamas, in the British West Indies. Somehow, I just can't think of one without the other.

My wife and I had heard of the beauties of this vast string of islands, consisting of over seven hundred cays and thousands of exposed rocks. We knew that one of these Bahamian Islands was the first land discovered by Christopher Columbus in the new world. It all sounded so entrancing that we wanted to see for ourselves.

When we arrived at Nassau we were told that there were two requisite things to do for the precious days we were to be there. One: Visit Paradise beach every day, and, 2: explore the island on a bicycle. We did both.

Every morning our bicycles, which we had leased on a weekly basis, were delivered to our door. We spent our mornings exploring the various geographical highlights of the island, came back to our hotel for lunch, and, in the afternoon, pedaled our way to Prince George's wharf, where we were met by our personal launchman.

His name was William, and he was a skipper in every sense of the word. He knew his ship and he knew his waterways. For a shilling apiece he ferried us over to the entrance of the beach, and faithfully awaited our return hours later. Of course, there's a motor bus to take you, but this is so much more fun.

The name Paradise is definitely no overstatement. The beach is situated on an island about 15 minutes by launch from the town of Nassau. By coincidence, the location is in a sickle-shaped harbor, protected by an outjutting reef of lava from some prehistoric day. The action of the sea, gentle, persistent, day in and day out, has gradually eroded this material, converted it into sand almost as finely powdered as talcum, and deposited it, pure white, on the beach.

No smashing shore lines here, but still a beach that faces the open sea. It descends gradually thru the exquisitely colored water of Nassau, water that is always warm without being enervating—you know what I mean: Fun to swim in—and always charged with elements of peace and enjoyment. Out at the float, some 50 yards away at a depth of 12 to 13 feet, one can see the gorgeously tinted fishes glide by.

It's really a glorious experience to put on informal clothes and start out by bicycle in the early morning, when the air is so fresh and the water line a variety of colors that cannot be duplicated in the Riviera, Capri, Waikiki, or any other spot in which I have ever lived.

You will want to visit Fort Charlotte, overlooking the harbor entrance—so grim and formidable. This is only a few minutes away from the center of the town. But I want to tell you, before you attempt this trip, that, while the entire island of New Providence is perfectly arranged for bicycling, when you want to visit Fort Charlotte you have a few perspiring minutes of stiff uphill pedaling.

The construction is well worthy of inspection. At one time, for one day, during the war of 1812, the American flag flew over it. Other than that, the fort has maintained its integrity and offers you one of the most exciting experiences that you have ever known in your travel days. You are courteously received, and conducted, by means of a kerosene lantern in the hands of a competent guide, thru subterranean chambers, torture rooms, cisterns, underground passes whereby the enemy might be apprehended.

But what's the use of my telling you about something that sounds like Hollywood at its Dracula best? Better go and see for yourself. You'll love it! And you'll love the coasting down hill again!

Sometimes, after breakfast, we would have our headwaiter at the hotel put us up a box lunch, which we would park in the wire baskets in front of the handlebars. Then we would go to the Nassau Information bureau to get maps and advice —and then pedal our way to remote and beautiful harbors which extend around the island.

Fun? We could pick our own cove —name it as we wished, don our bathing suit, and bask in the luxury of perfect water, perfect temperature, and a beneficent sun that seemed to know just how much tan to put on our arms and legs. Then the lunch and the cold drink that we had put under water to keep it properly cooled. What more could you ask from a host to a swimming party?

There are many excellent hotels in Nassau, and they offer every facility that could possibly be expected by any one, anywhere. If you do not like surf swimming, there are private pools in which to disport yourself. Golf courses, polo fields, and tennis courts, naturally. And, of course, plenty of night life.

In our exploration by bicycle we found many charming shops offering doeskin, flannel, tweeds, and other importations. We found drug stores with rare and fragrant soaps. We found amusing restaurants and cafés, celebrated by travelers for many years. Book stores, of course, and excellent ones. It was part of our program every day, on our cycling expeditions, to stop and buy some paper bound volumes for our evening entertainment.

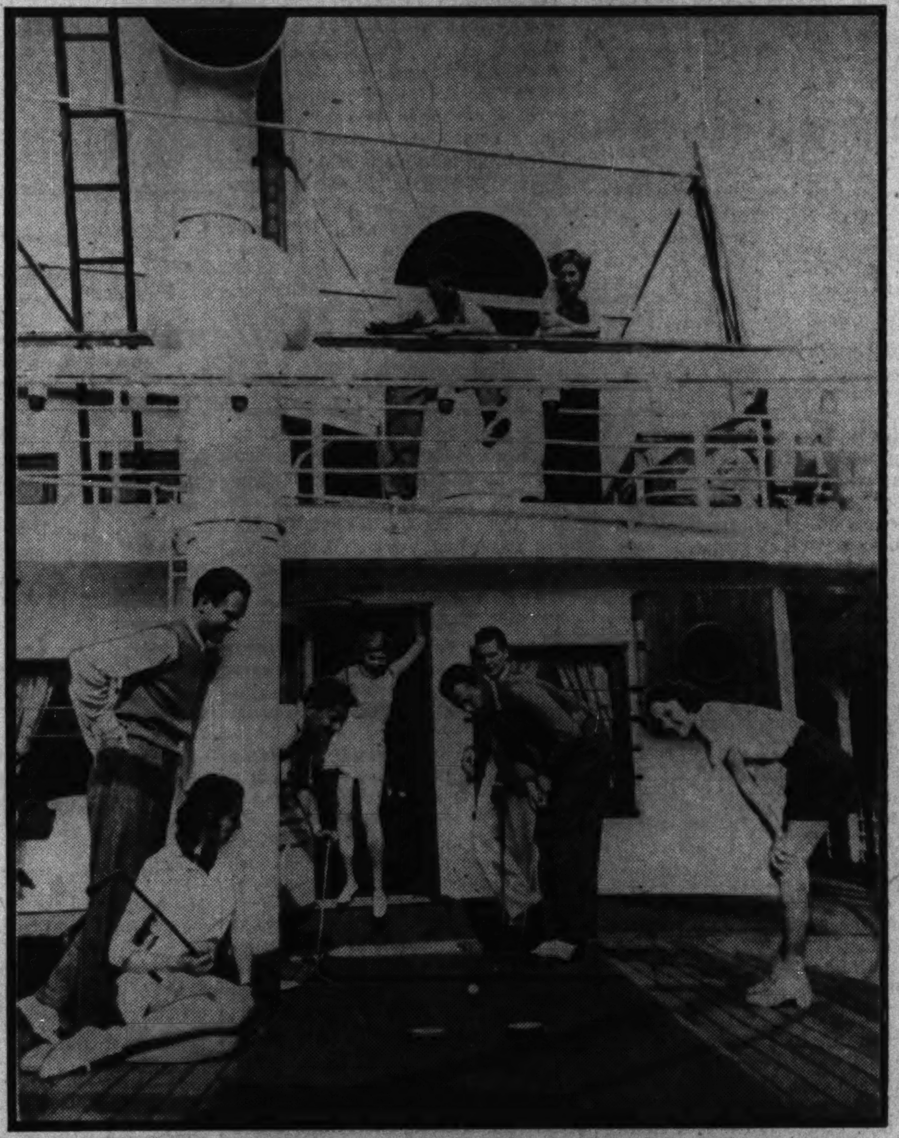
Nassau is easily accessible to the United States, and it is entirely different. We loved the freedom of our cycling adventures, we loved the friendly people and their soft music, we loved the climate and the beautiful water, we loved the incredibly beautiful flowers and trees, but most of all we enjoyed and loved that charming spot—Paradise beach.



FUN EN ROUTE TO THE SOUTHLAND

Deck sports are the keynote of the entertainment on most of the winter cruises. This season the cruising program includes the West Indies, Bermuda, the Caribbean, South and Central America, Florida, California, and Hawaii.

One Man Reads as the Others Work

That fellow calmly reading as industrious workers toil about him in Havana's larger cigar factories is sometimes resented by socially conscious tourists—until it is explained that he performs an important and well-paid function.

Rolling cigars requires little mental extertion; so the factories employ clear-voiced men to lighten the task by reading newspapers, magazines, and novels aloud from a raised dias. The readers are paid by the employés of the particular gallery where they are engaged, and the workers decide by vote what shall be read to them.

See California and Live Is the Modern Slogan

By Seymour M. Korman.

All year round — be it Fourth of July or Christmas — it is spring in central California. In southern California the temperature is near 70 degrees from November thru March. And so it is that the traveler will find a plenitude of winter vacation riches in the golden state.

It used to be see Naples and die—but today that is more of a prophecy than an invitation — and the paraphrase can easily be made that the sight and experience of San Francisco is an obligation and should be a joy of every American's lifetime. For this is one of the most distinctive cities of America. See it and live!

Steep hills and cable cars, two of the world's greatest bridges, the largest Chinatown outside the orient, the picturesque waterfront, the historic Presidio. Those are a few of the city's offerings; there are many more. Just one example: For the ladies—gardenias for a dime.

Not far away—in Marin county—are the giant redwoods, sturdy and ancient. Basking in their classic shades one becomes aware again of the never ending marvel and amplitude of nature. At nearby Berkeley spreads the campus of the University of California. And Oakland, with its Lake Merritt, must be seen. So must Yosemite, Carmel, and all the others.

Southern California is in festival season. Beginning Nov. 1 and continuing till the end of March, this area has planned 300 fiestas, flower galas, foreign celebrations, athletic contests, and cultural programs.

Nationally known, of course, are Pasadena's Tournament of Roses, culminating with the Rose bowl football game on New Year's day; the Chinese New Year and Lantern celebrations in Los Angeles, the date festival on a desert palm oasis, and the galloping steeds at Santa Anita.

Nearly every kind of scenery found in the world is present in some measure in southern California. There are South sea beaches, mountain lakes, forests, sand dunes. There are "animal farms," too. Take your pick of those with lions, monkeys, snakes, alligators, ostriches, frogs, and goldfish.

Christmas celebrations begin early in this land—more than a month before the actual date. Hollywood outdoes itself for the Yuletide with Santa Claus parades, much tinsel and bells and, of course, movie stars always present.

Army Mine Depot.

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va.—Recently completed at a cost of $211,000, the only army mine depot in the United States is now in operation here. Charged with the important duty of mining the entrance to Chesapeake bay in case of war, personnel of the depot is made up of officers and men from units of the coast artillery.

May Weather Lures Visitors to Palm Beach

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

December came to Palm Beach with days of sapphire and gold and a temperature of May.

PALM BEACH, FLA. The most incredible flowers are in bloom, their colors bright and exotic against the green of grass and trees. The water tower, which stood like a huge aluminum thimble on stilts near the Beach club and caused the art loving populace much anguish, has now been removed, and the present reservoir in the north end of town resembles a miniature museum or art gallery. Main street has been metamorphosed into Poinciana way and has been planted with a double row of royal palm trees, its beauty now rivaling the more famous Royal Palm way which also extends east and west across the narrow island.

Formal opening of the Bath and Tennis club was celebrated last Sunday with a luncheon given by Ernest G. Howes, club president, and Mrs. Howes. Interesting guests at this event were the Archduke and Archduchess Franz Josef of Austria, who were guests at the Howes' villa. Practically all the Chicago colony now in the resort was present.

Many Chicagoans also attended the annual Thanksgiving dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. John Shepard of Lenox, Mass., at their Villa Casa del Pastor.

Miss Joanna Fortune of Chicago is again occupying her clever penthouse apartment on Worth avenue. She has as her guest this season the Countess Robert De Gennes of Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baum are at their villa on Ocean boulevard for the season and have been entertaining informally.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Malcolm of Chicago have been at their lake front home since October, having spent the summer at Seal Harbor, Me. They will be joined during the Christmas holidays by their son, Peter, who attends Princeton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ballentine of Glencoe have taken a house on the Lake trail for the season.

Col. and Mrs. Louis Jacques Balsan [the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, duchess of Marlborough] have opened their Normandy farmhouse on Hypo-Luxo Island.

Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury arrived recently from Washington. The lake side half of the Stotesbury estate has been sold and subdivided and now several smaller homes are being built on this beautifully landscaped plot.

Knitting needles are clicking in Palm Beach and many are the bundles for Britain to go forth from this resort. Not all, however, are confining their efforts to Britain. Many Romany Chorus sponsors also are knitting for the boys in the American camps. "And," said Mrs. George A. Dobyne, mother-in-law of John Charles Thomas, "Romany is certainly taking care of its members who have volunteered or were called in the draft."

The Dobynes, for the first time in several seasons, are landlubbers, occupying their ocean front house, Casa Beata. For the last several years they lived on board their yacht, Coconut. The lake front where the Coconut was moored now looks like it were in a state of siege. There just doesn't seem to be enough of Palm Beach, and so more land is being dredged from the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich and children, Kenneth, Franklin, and Josephine, are at Richelo, their home on El Bravo way, and will be joined soon by Mr. Rich and Elmer Rich Jr., a student at the Asheville school.

Messmore Kendall of New York is at his attractive lake front house and will be joined soon by Mrs. Kendall.

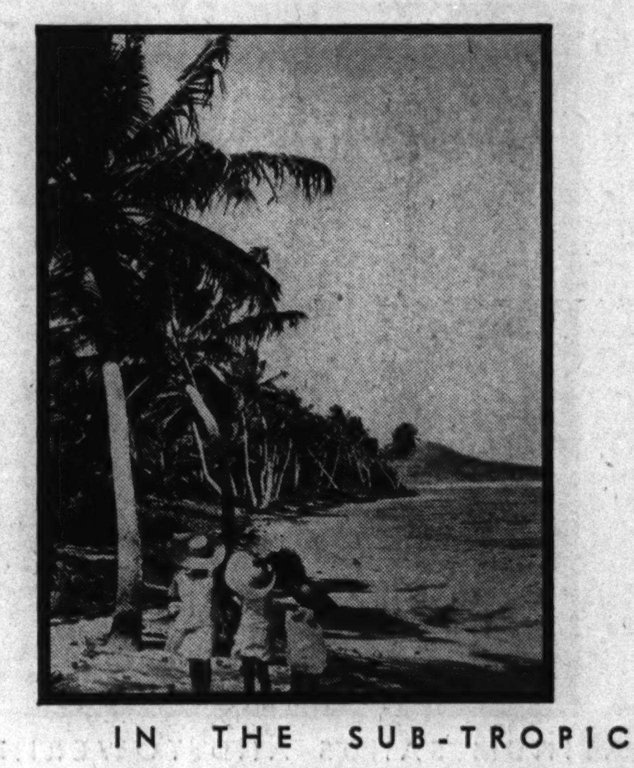
Sam H. Harris, New York theatrical man, with Mrs. Harris, is in residence at his home adjoining the Kendall villa.

Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky Jr., Capt. Alastair Mackintosh, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Phipps, and the Countess De L'estabay are entertaining informally. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth C. Warner of Minneapolis gave one of the early seasonal cocktail parties.

While Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hoffman of New York and Paris also entertained at cocktails, both events were attended by many from the Chicago colony.

Poinsettia Land.

Visitors to Bermuda at Christmas time will find the islands ablaze with scarlet poinsettias.



IN THE SUB-TROPICS

Youthful promenaders on one of the beaches in the Virgin Islands hang on to their hats as trade winds rustle in the palms. Temperatures in this West Indies group range from 69 to 91 degrees.

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—With the removal of passport requirement by the Bermuda government, effective Dec. 1, the islands are looking forward to an upswing in tourist travel. The substitution of identity cards eliminates both the expense and time necessary for procuring passports and visas.

A Romantic Past.

Situated at the southwestern extremity of the Island of Montreal, at the mouth of the Ottawa river, the town of Sainte Anne de Bellevue boasts of a romantic past. The parish was founded in 1677 and was a prosperous fur trading center under the direction of Louis de Berthe, Sieur de Chailly. In 1804 Simon Fraser, discoverer of the Fraser river in British Columbia, entertained on his estates the poet Thomas Moore. Moore's visit to Sainte Anne de Bellevue inspired his famous "Canadian Boat Song." Fraser is buried in the cemetery there.

Sun Seekers Are Flocking to Caribbean

By Dorothy Schmidt.

For reasons obvious in the news columns, but too depressing to mention in connection with that happiest of occasions, a vacation, cruises in western hemisphere waters will be many times more popular this winter than in seasons past. Such voyages are designed by the steamship lines to fit all purses and all periods of time away from the year's routine at home. One may have a voyage of a few days, a couple of weeks, a month, or more, depending upon the extent of travel desired.

One could write enthusiastically column after column about ocean travel in the coming winter and spring, beginning with less-than-a-week cruises to nearby ports and ending with extensive tours to South America, Australia, and Hawaii, but, for purposes of illustration, a Caribbean cruise, requiring two weeks or less, is a good example.

Before describing a typical itinerary it would, perhaps, be well to draw a thumbnail picture of the Caribbean. The West Indies swing in a great arc about 2,000 miles from Florida to the northeastern coast of South America. With the South American shores, the Isthmus of Panama, Central America, and the Peninsula of Yucatan in Mexico, they enclose the Caribbean sea, a body of water about the size of the Mediterranean.

Leaving New York on any of the frequent sailings, a cruise ship may make its first call at Port-au-Prince, Haiti. Landmarks recalling the days of the "black emperor," Christophe, are inducements for special trips ashore. The native Haitians, who speak a lilting French, crowd the markets with their wares and are among the most colorful salesmen of the world. A relic of the fantastic splendor of Christophe's reign is the now almost legendary Sans Souci citadel, impressive even in its crumbling condition.

The second port of call may be Panama—specifically Cristobal. Both the Spanish and the strictly American activities will capture the attention of travelers. The locks are an unfailing source of interest. Off Panama, the San Blas islands are as much like the South Seas as possible. Exposed to European influence since the 16th century, the Indians of these coral islands have retained the naive charm that is natural to them, and lead unchangingly their simple daily lives of fishing, hunting, and embroidery.

Some travelers insist no Caribbean cruise is complete without a stop at Cuba, especially sophisticated Havana. The cruise ship may put in at Havana on the way back to New York, and after the restful days at sea and sightseeing in less busy places, the traveler might well enjoy a whirl in this gay city, as well as admire the natural beauty which is Cuba.

A slightly longer Caribbean cruise might make an extra stop at La Guaira or Puerto Cabello in Venezuela, and another at Puerto Limon, seacoast connection with inland San José, capital of Costa Rica. Memories of Christopher Columbus are many in Costa Rica, appropriately named in Spanish by its discoverer, "rich coast." The contrast of mountain vegetation and that of tropical lower altitudes is especially marked there, and this is one of the chief charms to the traveler.

Still other cruises take their passengers to such fascinating places as Guatemala, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the Dominican republic, Curacao, Colombia, Mexico, the Bahamas, and Bermuda.

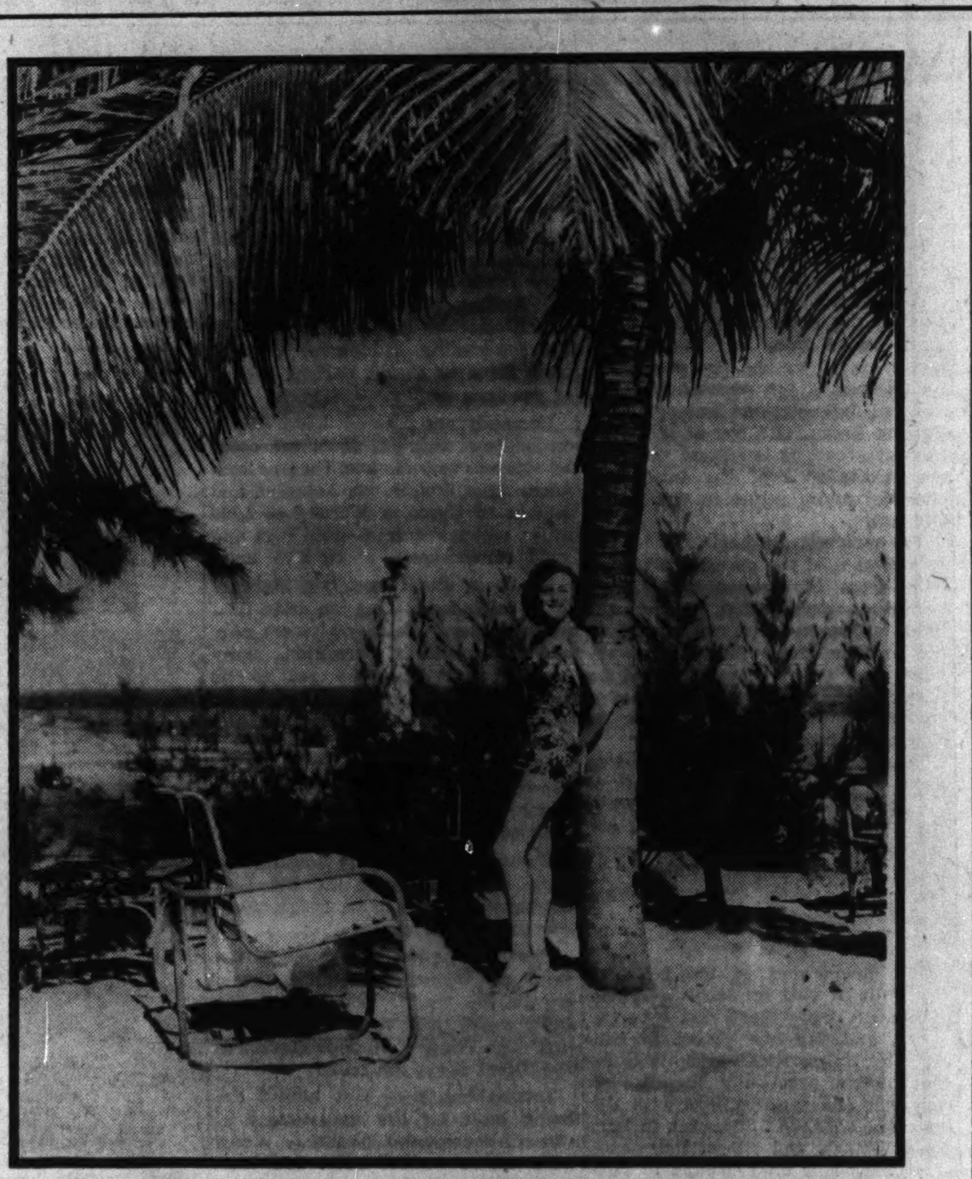
Altho men will endure minor hardships for the sake of travel, women are less likely to be such rugged personalities, and require "all the comforts of home" when they go voyaging. For this reason it is well to set forth that the ships which serve travelers on these Caribbean cruises offer all the comfort and security of shore life. Even unanticipated illnesses [and we don't mean mal de mer! I may be faced philosophically and with peace of mind, for the steamship lines have had the foresight to provide medical staffs for passengers.

If, in your indecision about a midwinter vacation, you are torn between the pleasures of a seashore sojourn and those of life on the water, we may solve the problem for you if we mention that the liners which will carry you to the Caribbean have the same recreational facilities you would enjoy on land. Their sports decks are equipped for all kinds of outdoor games, and many of them have indoor and outdoor pools for all classes of swimmers.

The longer cruises on this winter's program take in such intriguing spots as Hawaii, the Antipodes, and the principal cities on both the east and west coasts of South America.



IN THE SOCIAL SWIM IN CUBA

A pause after a dip in the outdoor pool at one of the hotels in Havana. In the background is the Gulf of Mexico.

Jefferson Davis Home Still Stands at Montgomery

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Preserving the romance of departed glories, the historic first White House of the Confederacy here is one of the popular shrines for southerners as well as for students of historic lore from other sections. The quaint old home, where President and Mrs. Jefferson Davis lived during the early months of the civil war, when Montgomery was the capital, is maintained in its original condition by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Overlooking the broad lawn of the old state capitol, where legislators cast the die that launched the war, the White House holds much original Davis furniture as well as scores of antiques and relics. Furniture in some of the rooms is arranged according to diagrams prepared by Mrs. Davis before her death.

Of unusual interest is the bedroom of President Davis on the first floor. Everything in this room belonged to him and was used by him during the war. A magnificent poster bed surmounted by canopy dominates the room. Arrangement of furniture is exactly as it was when Davis used it. Casually placed are such personal items as his bedroom slippers, his robe, Bible, water bottle, traveling bag and sword.

Old Houses in Biloxi Attract Many Visitors

BILOXI, Miss.—The Coastland, deep in Dixie, is accelerated, like other resort sections, with the belief that the trouble on the other side of the Atlantic means more travel at home. Plans are being laid for a much larger influx of visitors than last season. A number of the oldest and most interesting homes of Biloxi are claiming attention of visitors.

The "Red Brick House" on East Beach boulevard has been bought and restored by Commodore and Mrs. Garner H. Tullis of New Orleans. The home is a striking example of antebellum architecture of the French type. The architect and artisans who built it came from France. Batten shutters and an outside stairway, with full length galleries, are seen from the beach by visitors who pass by. The slave quarters in the rear include a raised hearth and Dutch oven. The home is said to have been built during the French régime.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wood, also on East Beach, is typical of the antebellum homes constructed for this climate. A double flight of steps curves upward to a high second or main floor. It was built in 1852, with slave labor, and put together with wooden pegs. Like all of the beach estates, the home has evergreen trees, shrubbery, semitropical plants, and flowers.

On Water street, just a block off the beach, is a home owned by Mrs. Florence Duncan and called the "Spanish House." It was built when Biloxi was in the territory ruled by the Spaniards at Pensacola. The brick walls, a foot thick, are covered with plaster. Above is a steep roof.

Near this home, at Water and Magnolia, thorofares which are quite narrow, is the home of Mrs. Elmer Enochs. It has an iron railed porch and grillwork of French character.

"The Hours Perish."

The sundial below the clock in the ancient cathedral at St. Augustine, Fla., bears the words: "Pereunt et Imputantur," which mean: "The hours perish and we must account for them.

Jacksonville Beach Is 600 Feet Wide and 30 Miles Long

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Spurred southward by the wintry blasts, throngs of early visitors are pouring into Jacksonville these days as this old city on the St. Johns river begins playing its dual rôle of vacationland and key national defense center.

Jacksonville is in the military spotlight now, and the excitement of two major national defense projects has been added to the historical and scenic attractions. A $25,000,000 naval air station, largest under the American flag, is nearing completion on the outskirts of the city and a $10,000,000 army training camp is under construction close by.

Still the most popular attraction for visitors is the beach, 600 feet wide at low tide, stretching in a white crescent for more than 30 miles southward from the mouth of the St. Johns.

Several golf courses, two of them municipally owned, challenge the skill of the professional as well as the century shooter. One, a seaside links, is ranked among the six best courses in America.

So. California Has a Cure for the War Jitters

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The men who run America's business and industry are going to need a cure this winter for the fagging effects of the war worries. Southern California is supplying it with the All-Winter Sun festival—five months of interesting events, 300 in all, ranging from flower festivals to wild boar hunts.

Some persons may pass up pleasure trips this winter and stay home, close to their business, as they take worried peeks at the war headlines. But Southern California has been quick to point out that this is the winter, of all winters, when business men need their pleasure trips.

"Demands upon men in industry are greater this year than usual, due to the national defense pace and world conditions," said a statement issued here today. "By chaining themselves to their desks they become fagged and their usual sharp judgment is dulled. Losing their perspective, they are ready victims for the war jitters. This is good neither for themselves nor for their country."

It is contended that these men are wise to hop a train or a bus or a plane for a few weeks or months in the sunshine, and return rested in body, refreshed in mind, ready to meet war problems with a calm eye.

A pleasure trip, rather than any other kind of relaxation, is the answer to the jitters. So, Southern California is holding the Sun festival to assure plenty of exciting events which will crowd worries to the back of the visitors' minds.

The 300 events include community fiestas, flower shows, foreign celebrations, athletic games, and cultural and scientific programs. These are taking place on almost every day of the five months and they are scattered all over the southland—on the desert, on the seashore, in valleys, and on mountains.

Southern California's desert attracts many visitors from the snow country. Amid the cactus forests, piles of colored rock, sand dunes, Salton sea and boiling mud pots there is the green oasis of Indio, and there is held the Date fiesta, in mid-February, when the crops are ripening on the palms. Weird Death valley, with the lowest dip in America [Bad Water, 276.6 feet below sea level], is near at hand, and there the festival offers a tour thru a white borax mine.

Christmas, celebrated out of doors, gives a fairyland touch to the festival. Yule events are already under way. Altadena lights its mile of 70 foot deodars. Glendale makes its main street a tunnel of lights. Hollywood boulevard in the movie city already is fashioned into Santa Claus lane, with giant Christmas trees, where Santa rides down the lane nightly with a movie or radio star by his side.

All over the southland cities are decorating lanes of living Christmas trees with thousands of glittering colored lights. Huntington Beach is even fashioning an oil derrick into a giant yule tree in a snowy forest. On Christmas eve every hotel holds a Christmas party for its guests.

Winter is flower season hereabouts, with poinsettias growing to the eaves and roses blooming in every front yard.

On Christmas day the Winter Primrose show opens in Hollywood. New Year's brings the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, and the night-before treat of visiting the tents and warehouses where the carloads of fresh flowers are being fastened to the floats. The world's largest wistaria vine is in bloom in late February, tinting half a block purple. In March the Southern California Flower show is held in Pasadena.

The festival takes visitors to the miles of white beaches on the seashore. There is midwinter swimming along the southernmost beaches, and elsewhere visitors relax in the sun, hunt starfish and shells, and watch the pelicans flap overhead.

On this winter's program are the New Year's day "dunks" at San Diego, Newport-Balboa, and Pacific Beach, with swimming races and bathing suit parades. Yachting regattas are held thruout the winter.

In the border country, close to Mexico, the festival takes visitors to San Diego and to events such as the Desert Cavalcade at Calexico. Calexico's sister city across the border is Mexicali, which holds a Mardi Gras, with the burning of Juan Carnival and crowning of a carnival queen at the Mexican governor's palacio.

Oranges ornament the countryside in this area. Miles of the valleys are covered with the criscross of groves. In March there is the National Orange show at San Bernardino.

An hour's journey into the San Bernardino mountains is the winter sports country, with ski, toboggan, and ice skating events at Lake Arrowhead and Big Bear.

Los Angeles has three Chinatowns. One, China City, sprawls over a hillside, with lanes winding among shops and cafés, and youths towing rubber tired rickshas. Here the Chinese celebrate their own New Year's for an entire week. Firecrackers pop on Chinese Independence day. The Chinese don their embroidered silks for the lantern feast.

Festival visitors may inspect the sturdy old tile and adobe missions. At dusk on Dec. 22, girls holding lighted candles sing carols on the steps of Mission San Gabriel, which was the "mother" of Los Angeles and is 169 years old this winter.

With gridirons and golf courses green with grass at a time when most of the rest of the country is white with snow there is to be an unusual schedule of sports.

In Los Angeles on Dec. 29 the Pro bowl game is scheduled between the world's champion professional football team and an all-star team picked by popular vote. The East-West classic is played in the Pasadena Rose bowl on New Year's day. This winter the rivals are Stanford and Nebraska.

Santa Anita Park, where the movie stars mingle with the crowds, opens on Dec. 28 with a season lasting until March 8.

The Chicago White Sox and Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Philadelphia Athletics train in Southern California. Visitors who may never see big league baseball at home may watch these teams in practice games among themselves and against teams of the Pacific Coast league.

Los Angeles, with its $10,000 open tournament, opens the 1941 golf season on Jan. 3. The southland has 60 green grass courses, some by the sea or in desert settings below snow-capped peaks.

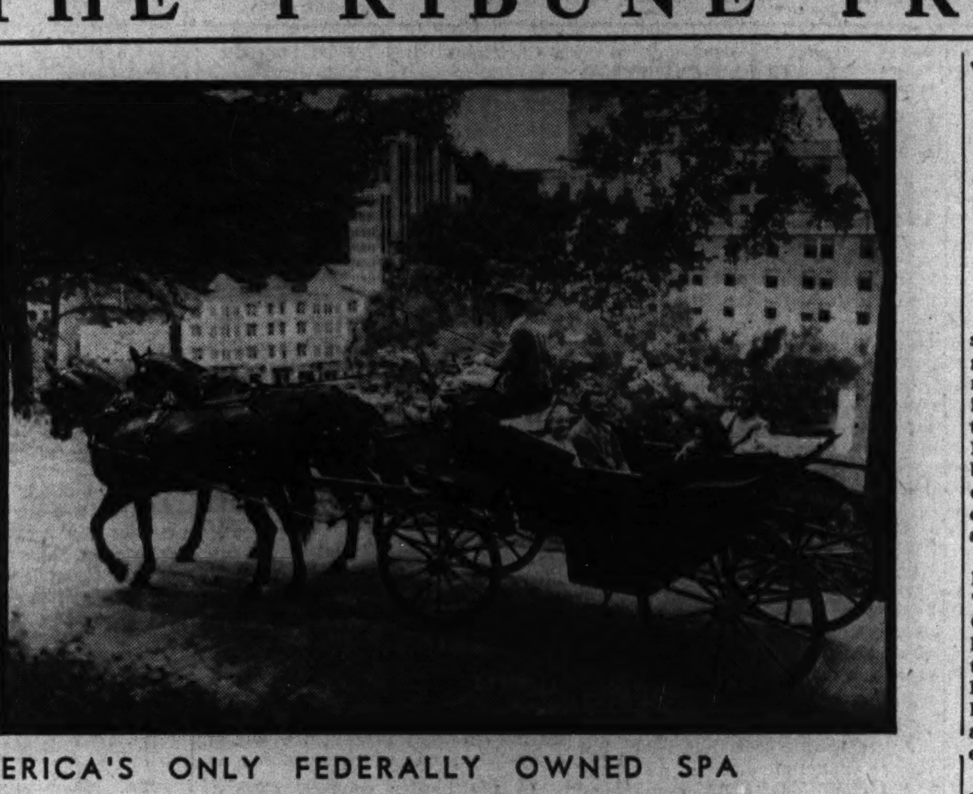
STEAMERS—PLANES

Hot Springs Is 1940 Fount of Eternal Youth

By Marcia Winn.



IN AMERICA'S ONLY FEDERALLY OWNED SPA

The best way to see Hot Springs National park, in Arkansas, is from a horse drawn landeau. At least that's the way many of the winter visitors feel about it.

Nineteen forty-one should be a busy, full, and exciting year at Hot Springs, the little city of perpetual hot waters tucked away in the Ouachita mountains in Arkansas.

Not only is Hot Springs, only government supported establishment of its kind in America, expecting unprecedented thousands of those seeking [1] the sun, [2] tranquility, and [3] health, but 1941 also is the quadricentennial of the visit there of Hernando de Soto, the warring Spanish explorer, who took his weary soldiers into the Indians' valley of peace late in 1541.

Long before the recorded history of American man, the steaming waters of Hot Springs, which gush forth from a rocky mountain base at a temperature of 147 degrees, were a magnetic elixir to draw man, with his assorted ailments, to them in hope of surcease. Many historians believe these springs were what Ponce de Leon, the dreamy Spaniard, sought in 1512 when he looked so futilely for his mythical Fountain of Youth.

De Soto's visit, however, was the first to be recorded, and not until recently, when the late Col. John R. Fordyce of Hot Springs came into possession of certain old Spanish manuscripts, was his visit authenticated. On one of these, published in Madrid in the late 16th century, rests Hot Springs' authority for being part of the 22 state De Soto observances planned for 1941 by the Mississippi River Discovery association.

The Tanico tribe was in possession of the springs in 1541, but all Indians were welcome, the belief being that the Great Spirit, who resided in his hot waters, wished all men to come in peace to the Valley of Vapors.

De Soto and his weary band were sighted long before their arrival, according to the chronicle of Garcilaso de la Vega, and thus saw signal fires burning on the pinnacles of all mountains bordering the magic valley, with answering columns rising from nearby summits. When they arrived they found Pawnees, Natchez, Ouapaws, Cherokees, Choctaws, Osages, and Chickasaws gathered around a camp fire at the base of a great cliff [presumably opposite where the Arlington hotel now juts up against a mountainside] and passing the peace pipe around.

Then, so the chronicle continues, De Soto ordered a great cross set up on the cliff, and his men and the Indians knelt side by side "while the priests of Spain blessed the magic waters and dedicated them to the use of mankind of all races."

Since 1832 the waters have been officially dedicated to the use of all men, for at that time the United States government set aside the 47 springs and 1,000 surrounding acres as a national park. The waters still gush out at the rate of 1,000,000 gallons a day, hot, crystalline, and pure, but the government stands guard always to keep them from being unscrupulously exploited.

Hot Springs today is little as it was in 1541. Only the waters remain unchanged—the waters and the pine crested protective mountains which shelter the three deep valleys in which huge bathhouses contain every scientific aid to hydrotherapy.

The city's most amazing characteristic is its potpourri quality—that of ancient rose leaves done up in modern cellophane, its combination of old world charm and 20th century science, of the soft burred tongue of Arkansas cotton field and the twang of Arkansas hills alongside the swiftly clipped syllables of visitors from all over the continent.

If you want the picturesque, you'll find it in this bewildering, almost fanciful city of contradictions, built on a whimsical fairy tale pattern. It nestles down between lofty mountains with tiny houses and great hotels, built in gay imperial tradition, rising against the slopes.

If you want science, you'll find it in its modern, streamlined bathhouse row, a quiet, tranquil lane bordered in spreading magnolias and conical holly trees, in which eight bathhouses rise in triumph. Into these, and into the seven other sanitariums, bathhouses and hospitals, not including the government's new army and navy hospital, go hundreds a day. These hundreds take the radioactive baths to recover their lost health or to retain their present fitness. Nothing here is quaint; all is shiningly scientific, done up in gleaming white tile, marble, and chromium or brass.

Here is the most advanced treatment in hydrotherapy; tub, needle, and vapor baths, electric applications, a Hubbard tub, and a therapeutic pool for muscular reëducation of paralytics. Certain conditions, such as arthritis, high blood pressure, and various rheumatic ailments, derive particular benefit from the waters.

Everything is under government control, from water to physicians to attendants. Even the price is regulated, allowance being made for the cost of maintenance or lease. There is magnificence, if you want it, or simplicity.

If you want rest, play, or natural beauty, all of it, too, is here, and little of it tarnished, strange as that may seem in a spot to which sophisticates have streamed for years.

In many ways Hot Springs, to which some 300,000 pilgrims find their way each year, resembles a religious shrine, for on its crooked streets and wide boulevards are always, the year around, a heart-rending procession of the lame, the halt, and the wheelchaired. Beggars, too, abound, as do charlatans, ready to offer you anything from a "genuine" Oriental to a Hot Springs diamond, which is a nice, but misleading, description of a well-cut crystal.

Plenty of able-bodied people are about, but they usually are off and doing things. Riding over the pine carpeted bridle paths thru the mountains. Playing golf on one of the city's three 18 hole championship courses.

All year fishing may be had in the silvery lakes surrounding the city. Lake Hamilton, an artificial body of water on the Ouachita river some 12 miles away, is one of the outstanding fishing spots in this country. It has an extreme depth of around 125 feet, with bottom water as cold as any from the glaciers of the Rockies, and it is a consistent bass and jack salmon [largest 16 pounds] producer. A two hours' drive will take the eager fisherman to Pine Ridge, in the hilly Lum and Abner country, where he will find varied stream water, riffles, rapids, or broad waters.

All in all, Hot Springs is an appealing combination of science and somnolence, of needle baths and pine needled trails, of eight course dinners and hot dogs, of auction houses, out of which the voices of auctioneers stream in a fine, musical chant at all times of the day, and artificial palm trees; of creamy magnolia blossoms and scarlet holly berries; and of the deep fragrance of a pine laden wind which sweeps down from the mountain tops to mingle with the steam of the 47 hot springs.

And today, as for centuries past, its patrons come, rich and poor alike, from all sections of North America for healing and for peace.

Chinese Delicacy.

Bulky sea puddings, considered a delicacy by the Chinese, are found along the sandy shores of Bermuda.

Seven Months of Skiing in Colorado

DENVER, Colo.—The best skiing in the Denver winter sports parks in several years is attracting thousands of devotees. Indications are that the Colorado Rockies will have at least seven months of the sport.

The National Down-Hill and Slalom championships will be on the Aspen course, March 1 and 2. The contest season will be opened with the Colorado Ski Runners holding their annual event in the Denver Winter Sports park. This winter recreation area of 6,000 acres has elevations up to 12,000 feet, vast regions above timberline, new tows, lodges, and conveniences for skiers.

Rocky Mountain National park has good accommdations for visitors and thousands of acres of high country ideal for cross-country treks.

Winter Golfing in British Columbia

VICTORIA, B. C.—Canada has an evergreen playground where snow is a novelty, flowers bloom the year round, and even in midwinter the day's recreation can include yachting, tennis, hiking, lawn bowling, fishing, or a round of golf.

Victoria, center of this British Columbia playground, has become an outstanding winter resort. This year it promises to experience its busiest season, with international exchange giving Americans a 10 per cent premium on their dollar.

A number of sports events have been scheduled. The main one is the Empress Midwinter Golf tournament, held at a time when other Canadian courses are under a deep snow blanket. This winter's tourney will be held on the Oak Bay course March 9 to 15.

Slot Machine Meals.

Sao Paulo, often called the Chicago of Brazil, has a restaurant where patrons obtain their food by putting coins in slots. In addition to regular meals, about 10 different kinds of ice cream—several never heard of in the United States — are featured there, and small cones are sold for 1 cent each.

Oleander Hedges.

For many generations Bermuda farmers have protected their fields by planting high hedges of oleanders.

Williamsburg Has Much for the Traveler

By June Provines.

A visit to colonial Williamsburg, seat of the government of the Virginia colony from 1699 to 1770 and now restored by the Rockefellers to its likeness of the days of Washington and Jefferson and Lafayette and Patrick Henry, is a joy at any time, but extra delight is offered the visitors at the time of the candlelight chamber music series in the spring and fall.

The musicals are held in the stately ballroom of the governor's palace. The room is adorned with great Georgian mirrors that reflect the light of hundreds of candles set in the antique lustre hanging candelabra, and the programs, played on harpsichord, violin, and violoncello, are chosen from music familiar to eighteenth century Virginia.

There is a singer also. At a recent series it was Ada MacLeish, wife of the poet Archibald MacLeish, head of the library of congress. One of our recollections is of her lovely soprano voice raised in Haydn's Fidelity: In the tomb or in the world, my heart is fixed on thee."

The harpsichord in the ballroom was built in 1762 by Jacob Kirkman of London, instrument maker to the queen, and the one played at concerts by Ralph Kirkpatrick is a reconstruction practically identical in character and specifications with the instrument owned by Handel, in London's Victoria and Albert museum—or perhaps now underground to safeguard it from Nazi bombs.

During the musical intermissions guests go thru the palace to see the fine antique furnishings and note the color of paint, ceiling cornices, marble work, and mantels that copy original pieces.

When Williamsburg was laid out in 1699 a "noble great street," six poles [99 feet] wide and seven-eighths of a mile long, was projected. This was later—and is still—called Duke of Gloucester street. Its western terminus is the College of William and Mary, modeled by Sir Christopher Wren with its lovely old brick gleaming between tall trees.

Four hundred and forty-two buildings of modern construction have been torn down, and 66 colonial buildings have been repaired or restored, while 84 have been reproduced upon colonial foundations. The Duke of Gloucester street and its vicinity have assumed their colonial appearance, with lampposts, fences, gardens, and plantings as shown in authentic records.

There are many things to interest the visitor. Among them are the Raleigh tavern, social setting for colonial Virginia, where George Washington frequently dined, with its fine old tap room, its Daphne room, and its Apollo room, the latter with the lovely blue paneling, marble mantel, wing chairs, and gleaming old furniture and brocades; the Ludwell-Paradise house, the capitol and the courthouse of 1770.

Whether the visitor is interested in history, architecture, colonial gardening, or interior decoration, he finds a splendid source of study and observation in Williamsburg.

Peru Opens Its Highway from Lima to Cuzco

Peru, which has made remarkable progress in recent years in bringing auto roads to the isolated cities of the Andean plateau, has just completed another engineering triumph in constructing a highway directly from Lima to Cuzco, ancient capital of the Inca empire.

Formerly, one proceeded, in a rather roundabout manner, down the coast by steamer to Mollendo, then by rail, three times a week, via Arequipa and Juliaca to Cuzco, a journey of 1,200 miles, which required—with luck and good connections—about five days.

The new, direct mountain highway is 750 miles long. One can drive thru in three days. In many places only one-way traffic is permitted, many permanent bridges are yet to be built, and much surfacing is yet to be done. But, to those who know of the breakneck country and seemingly bottomless canyons which must be passed, the marvel is that a road over which an auto could travel has been built at all.

Heretofore, the same journey on mule back, following the old Inca trails made for the llama trains, might require several weeks.

The road passes thru some of the most awe-inspiring mountain scenery in the world. The life of the Indians and their villages is fascinating. The Window's pass is crossed at 16,123 feet above sea level.

Tourist hotels or rest houses are being built by the government at Cuzco, Abancay, and Ayacucho. A new government tourist hotel has been completed in Arequipa.

Yuletide Events Enliven Asheville

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—The Yuletide calendar in Asheville sparkles with social events. It is highlighted by the Ensign ball of the Rhododendron Brigade of Guards, Dec. 21, at the Biltmore Forest Country club, and the Christmas ball of the Children's Welfare society, Dec. 31.

A series of major sports events will open the spring season. Scheduled by the Asheville Civic Sports association are the "Land of the Sky" $5,000 Open Golf tournament, attracting the nation's leading golf professionals to the Forest Country club course March 27 to 30; the Women's Invitation tournament,

TOURS—CRUISES

Plantations of the Southland Enchant Visitor

By Edith Weigle.

One of the most interesting sections of the entire Atlantic coastline lies between Wilmington, N. C., and Brunswick, Ga. It is an area blessed with a mild, almost balmy climate the year round. Here are famous winter and spring resorts, along with places visited by southerners in the summer when they want to escape from the heat of the inland regions.

Here are splendid golf courses [at Pinehurst, Southern Pines, Myrtle Beach, and Sea Island] and facilities for horseback riding, fishing, hunting, tennis, and swimming. Everywhere you'll find delicious food as only cooks south of the Mason-Dixon line prepare it.

When we visited Myrtle Beach a few weeks ago we found it drenched in sunshine and the fragrance of pine mixed with salt air. The wide, sandy beach, spoken of as the Strand, has beckoned lovers of the out of doors, and they have built white houses of the colonial type along the miles and miles of it and in the pine woods back of it. The mean average temperature is 64.6 degrees.

There are a number of good hotels in and near the village. One of them is an attractive club open to visitors and with its own grounds; another is an enormous building situated on the beach and open only during the early spring and summer months. If you're planning to go to Charleston to see its famous gardens in February, March, or April, you'll enjoy spending a few days at Myrtle Beach on the way.

Only a few miles away, on the road to Charleston, is one of the most beautiful green gardens in America. Thousands of acres of a historic plantation were purchased eight years ago by a New Yorker, Archer M. Huntington, whose wife is Anna Hyatt, the sculptress. Many of these acres have been made into a garden shaded by ancient, moss-hung live-oaks and softened by the dark velvet of lily pools. In this open air museum the Huntingtons have assembled an extensive collection of American sculpture, each piece in a niche of greenery, or in a mellow brick wall, or on an island in a pool especially planned for it.

Brookgreen Gardens are unique. Here are marbles, bronzes, and works in plaster and terra cotta by Saint-Gaudens, Paul Manship, Mario Korbel, Edith Parsons, Sylvia Shaw Judson, Harriet Frismuth, Robert Laurent, and many others. One can wander for hours along the flower and box bordered lanes, for the grounds are so large that there is never a feeling of crowding. Each piece of sculpture seems to have a place that is perfect for its size and type. Each seems to belong there inevitably.

The gardens are open free to the public daily from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Mr. Huntington has given them to the state of South Carolina, together with a fund for their maintenance. Unlike the renowned Cypress and Magnolia gardens and those of Middleton, Brookgreen is open the year around. It is always beautiful, because it does not depend on flowers alone for its loveliness.

It was our good fortune while in the neighborhood to have a glimpse of a famous plantation, now privately owned by a young easterner who is not so public spirited as Mr. Huntington and who never opens his grounds to visitors. Set a mile or more back from the highway and surrounded by towering live-oaks is the spacious, dignified old mansion, built in the West Indies manner popular among the wealthy rice growers of the 1790s.

Gracefully curving horseshoe double stairs lead up to the wide gallery and entrance door. A similar staircase is at the opposite or green garden side of the house, where the land slopes gently down to the Waccamaw river. There, in the old days, boats were laden with their cargoes of rice and sent to Charleston and thence to England, the mother country. It was at the neighboring plantation, then owned by the Allston family, that the lovely Theodosia Burr, daughter of Aaron Burr, embarked on the tragic voyage from which she did not return. Her ship was never heard from after it left Charleston.

Over an arched garden gateway commanding a fine view of the mansion just described are inscribed these words, typically southern in their graciousness:

> Here art and nature on equal > grounds did meet
> And wrought a picture beautiful
> Which your presence makes complete.

A similar type of antebellum plantation house, built in 1797, is Harrietta, 40 miles north of Charleston and just of highway U. S. 17. From Feb. 15 to May 1 it is opened to the public from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. There is an admission fee.

Also, several historic houses in Charleston itself are open all year and are worth a visit.

Singing Tower and Cypress Gardens Draw the Visitors

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—The most talked of twin attractions in Florida, and visited by more persons than any other beauty spots in the state, are the Bok "singing tower" and Florida Cypress gardens.

The Bok Tower, dedicated by President Coolidge in 1929 as a perpetual sanctuary and memorial to the grandparents of the Dutch immigrant boy who became one of America's leading magazine editors, has opened its winter season.

At the same time Florida Cypress gardens, four miles from this resort city, is rapidly approaching azalea and gardenia time, when the trees and shrubs are alive with vari-colored blossoms.

This season concerts in the sanctuary will be heard thru April 29. Recitals are offered every Sunday at 3 o'clock and at noon Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. The place is open to the public without charge from 8 in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

It's Summer in Chile When It's Winter Up Here

Chile is getting ready for the influx of summer tourists. Days are growing warm and balmy. Flowers, which grow in profusion in the California-like climate, are blooming everywhere.

Vina del Mar is getting ready for the season. The villas and castles perched high on cliffs overlooking the sea—where the wealthy Chilenos spend their summers—are being prepared for occupancy.

The gambling casino at Vina del Mar is going strong. Its gardens are ablaze with flowers. Its game rooms—and it has more than its rival in Monte Carlo ever had—and its cabaret, which accomodates 1,200 guests, are drawing large crowds, particularly on the "big" nights, Saturday and Sunday, when the residents of the nearby capital, Santiago, are week-ending there.

In Santiago the racing season is at its height with races staged every Sunday afternoon at the Club Hipico, one of the most beautiful courses in the world.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

KNOW YOUR COUNTRY.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 1. — To the Travel Editor: I flew from Chicago to New York and returned recently.

I kidded myself into thinking that time was an important factor and that I wished to get there and back in a hurry. But it wasn't that at all. I have done a good deal of flying on the big transport planes. And the real thing that motivated me was the thrill I get out of flying. There's nothing like it.

One wants to get away from his business or annoyances of any kind. Where shall he go? If he stays on the ground, he may travel in any conceivable direction, and will run into annoyances innumerable — politics, war-mongering pests; in fact, an infinite number of things that jar on one's sensibilities. But 'way up there in the clouds it seems one is next to God.

One can see the rivers, like tiny silver threads, winding slowly toward their outlets, like man's destiny, which is not so definite. One can even rise above the mountains and look down upon that in which he's stood in awe.

See that tiny boat, slowly making its infantile way over the surface of that little pool? Why, that's a giant freighter, and the pool is Lake Erie or Lake Michigan.

Yes, when you are up in the air you are seeing things in the third dimension. Reptiles and ants and other crawling things can travel in two dimensions. But only man can travel in the third dimension, and in almost perfect safety. I felt safer, up 14,000 feet in the big, 21 passenger plane, than in an automobile in city traffic.

And what attention one gets in a plane! The stewardess—Miss O'Connor, in this case—was alert, pretty, resourceful. She anticipated our needs even before we ourselves sensed them. At 14,000 feet, when we rose to hop over a storm, she saw that I was cold and shivering. Immediately she got a heavy blanket and wrapped it round my legs. Another couple were bothered somewhat because the great height affected a sinus trouble of one. Similarly, she supplied them with the means of getting more oxygen.

And what meals they serve on these modern planes! The gods, in their imperial residence on Mount Olympus, never tasted such food.

The railroads also are doing wonders for the traveling public. They have their own special advantages. You can see the scenery, the mighty canyons, the inconceivably beautiful landscape from a car window better than from a plane.

If one wishes to see America, there are many ways in which he can travel. The transport planes and the streamlined trains are up to the minute in everything. But there are other splendid means of transportation, such as buses, steamers, and private autos. Use all kinds. You'll be broadened, educationally and spiritually.

When one sees and knows his country, his love for it increases. He realizes that America is worth saving from the brutal invasions which other lands have suffered.

Travel as much as you can. Keep your money at home. And some day, we shall see America even greater than our dreams have ever pictured it.

ARTHUR J. RICHARDSON.

ASHEVILLE IN AUTUMN.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—To the Travel Editor: Three of us travelers, all of the masculine gender, traipsed recently to Asheville, in Prof. Kay Kyser's North Carolina, to visit a sick friend convalescing in the romantically situated Ambler Heights sanitarium, and incidentally to view the vaunted scenic beauties of the south in early fall.

Our initial disappointment was the lack of an observation car on our train. We were chugging along, swaying from side to side, thru the Great Smoky Mountains National park, from Knoxville, Tenn., thru Lanceville, Bridgeport, Del Rio, Wolf Creek, Volga, Alexander, Paint Rock, and Shaleville, crossing the French Broad river and recrossing it six times, endeavoring to obtain fleeting glimpses of the imposing peaks and precipitous rocks here and there, until we reached the Asheville station. To our regret we failed to see one Cherokee Indian.

We enjoyed our brief stay in Asheville enormously. The views of the Appalachian mountains were gorgeous. The famous Vanderbilt estate, which the widow reduced from 100,000 to a mere 10,000 acres, surely is worthy to behold for any mortal.

Nowhere, in all our travels over the United States, have we seen more impressive golf courses. A nearby inn, patronized by our Presidents, and a café situated on a hilltop are among the many enticing spots of the area.

All the main highways and secondary roads seemed to be in splendid condition even tho a raging flood had inundated the suburbs and some low districts.

We were advised to visit Asheville in May or June if we wished to gaze upon the most marvelous horticultural exhibits in the entire country.

JOSEPH ANDREW LASECKI.

SUGGESTS A FAIR EXCHANGE.

East Chicago, Ind., Nov. 24.—To the Travel Editor: Your department is a real source of enjoyment and relaxation every Sunday. We trust we may have the pleasure of enjoying it for many years to come.

Lately several persons have written to you in regard to scrapbooks, and we should like to make a humble suggestion:

No doubt there are thousands who collect clippings of various kinds and for certain reasons. The housewife collects recipes, household hints, etc.; the sports fans collect clippings on all events and people dealing with sports; the movie fan collects pictures of his or her favorite actors and actresses; those interested in travel and far away places collect articles on various countries; some collect pictures of scenery, animals, famous people, historical places, etc.

In all probability the majority of these persons never get any further than cutting the clipping out of the paper or magazine. They always think that "some day" they will finish the scrapbook—but how many have the time? Why not let the shut-ins finish the scrapbooks for you? A list could be furnished of those who are interested in making these books for others, and also a list of those who want their books completed. Those people interested in sports would, no doubt, want to make the sports books; others, interested in travel would probably want to complete the travel books. Don't you think the shut-ins would derive a great deal of enjoyment making these scrapbooks? And just think what it would mean to finally see your scrapbook completed!

We are thinking of those who would like to have something to do to pass the time, and others who never seem to have time to accomplish the things they want to. Don't you think it would be nice if they could get together? M. S.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Travelers and other Tribune readers are invited to send cards and letters to those unable to share in the wonders of travel. These requests have been received since the last previous list was published:

There's gold in the hills, compadres, and there's gold on the desert down Arizona way.

We do not refer to nuggets that must be picked laboriously out of a mountainside, nor the dust that must be panned from a stream, as in the roaring days of the rush to the west. The Arizona gold of this paean is the west's own brand of sunlight that now rains down from a sapphire sky, washing the 'and with radiance, brimming it with beneficent warmth.

The iron horse snorts in the station. The winged horse champs at the airport. It's time to mount and ride.

When winter comes, all Arizona trails lead southward to the desert Valley of the Sun, the Salt river region skirting the Mexican border. Here is the land of the giant saguaro cactus and of barking coyotes; of citrus groves and cotton fields and avenues of date palms; of ranches of fabulous extent where once roamed herds marked with the brands of Spanish Dons, and where today cowboys in gaudy shirts and ten-gallon hats wrangle dudes from the east and middle west, and other dudes with foreign accents, who, even now, despite the difficulties of travel, find their way to Arizona from half the countries of the world.

Here is a land where history walks down the once bloody Apache trail where Geronimo and Cochisi rode; past cattle rustlers' hideouts; thru ghost towns haunted by shades from the bold, bad days of the gold rush; and down the tortuous trail whose dust was stirred four centuries ago by the brown Franciscan robe of Fray Marcos de Niza and again by the feet of swashbuckling Coronado and his glittering expedition of Castilian knights who came in search of the fabled Seven Cities of Cibola. And everywhere here, thru the Pima and Papago country, echoes from the past answer the bells that ring from Padre Kino's ancient Indian missions.

Here's swimming in a vibrant ocean of light, is a vast world of strange forms. Fantastic red-purple and blue mountains rise abruptly, like cardboard cutouts, from the desert floor. Desert plants such as the ocotillo, "the devil's walking stick," octopus-like with its long tentacles, and the pale green paloverde, delicate as a coral tree, create a sea bed illusion—an illusion further embellished by the majestic white cloud galleons that ride the blue overhead.

At the heart of the Salt river region is Phoenix, a modern city of more than 65,000 inhabitants. The story goes that back in 1867—there were only a few Indians living in mud huts on the banks of the river then—business men from Wickenberg, 54 miles to the northwest, organized to dig a canal, build a brush dam, and lay out a town.

A vanished race whose civilization rivaled that of the Chaldeans and Egyptians had left in that spot the ruins of an elaborate network of irrigation canals. One Darrell Duppa, an English prospector, remembering the myth of the bird that splendidly rose from its own ashes, proposed that the town be called Phoenix.

The modern irrigation system carries water thru 1,350 miles of canals to a farm area of 400,000 acres encircling Phoenix. In this region, all year around, the chamber of commerce boasts, the Arizona farmer raises citrus fruits, dates, cotton, lettuce, and cantaloupes. But it is obvious to the visitor that the bumper winter crop is the tourists.

Thither the paying guest is wooed by a score of luxurious resorts offering fine stables, heated swimming pools, green golf courses, pleasant tennis courts, and faultless cuisine. Dances, fiestas, gymkhanas, chuck wagon picnics, barbecues, moonlight rides, campfire song fests, tours to historic and scenic spots—all these are on the regular calendar of activities.

A few days ago Phoenix turned out in colorful Spanish and Indian costume to celebrate its annual Fiesta del Sol. Early in January the horse racing season will open at the State Fair grounds. The Western Golf tournament, second largest in the country, will open at the Phoenix Country club on Jan. 31. Cowboys from all of the western states will gather in the Arizona capital on Feb. 13 for a three day championship rodeo. These are a few of the events on a full winter calendar.

The tourist taking his vacation with a more authentic wild west flavor will continue toward the Vulture mountains, where, back in '63, Henry Wickenburg discovered gold.

The town named for the old prospector is known as the "cowboy capital." Within its corporate limits are no fewer than nine such great ranches as the remuda of Priestley's "Midnight on the Desert." These are the ranches where a dude in easy blue denim levis can swing a leg over a horned saddle and discover for himself the way of the sun of and the wind; or, riding the blue night, if his imagination is what it should be, can even rope him a golden herd from the galloping western stars.

Now that summer is returning to Argentina many of its leading resorts are planning to entertain visitors from North America, and few have made more complete preparations than Mar del Plata, the nation's most famous seaside resort.

Last year Mar del Plata opened its $3,000,000 Grand casino as a tourist attraction, and this year it is adding several annexes to the gaming hall.

Greatness of Past Still Lives in Southwest

By Will Davidson.

When, four hundred years ago, a gallant and somewhat gaudy young Spaniard named Coronado led a clanking expedition northward from New Spain into what is now Arizona, and New Mexico, he passed not too far from an ancient Indian ruin which has since been named Casa Grande.

Today that ruin still is one of the landmarks of the old southwest—a land whose dramatic past has left to its energetic present many monuments as guideposts to a brilliant future.

Coronado was not by any means a complete fool in following Fray Marco's quavering reports of the golden Seven Cities of Cibola. He looked for the wrong kind of wealth, it is true, but he had another purpose—the discovery and fortification of the much sought Northwest passage. That he was a thousand miles short of one objective and a few hundred feet above the other merely adds color to his romantic, if somewhat tiring, journey.

Coronado today is something of the patron saint of travelers who venture into the southwest in search of wealth—the wealth of golden skies at sunset, of glowing gems of history and romance, of gorgeous set pieces devised by an extravagant and extroverted nature.

Casa Grande—the great house of some ancient Indian tribe—stands beneath a weatherproof canopy, silent to the ear, but speaking eloquently to the imagination. And out across the cactus spiked deserts and mountains stand other landmarks—both man made and natural—telling an ancient and moving story.

Thru the northwestern corner of Arizona the Colorado river cuts its stratified autobiography titled, "The Grand Canyon." For ages that are long even in geology's diary, the plateau has been rising and halting, to rise again after the river had cut to its level once more.

Farther east stretches the Painted Desert, the mad, gorgeous spectacle of some cosmic artist gone slightly berserk. Nearby is the burial place of a gigantic thunderbolt from space—Meteor crater. Not far away lie the rocky tree trunks of the Petrified forest.

Breathtaking sculpture lines Monument Valley and Canyon de Chelly and many other playgrounds of vigorous gods. Superstition mountain rises broodingly out of the sage and cactus east of Phoenix and throws rocky arms about the legends of hidden gold and unpunished crimes.

Southward stand the forests of giant cacti—the saguaro, with their spiny arms bent upward at the elbows as if in a fracture cast. There are picture rocks, with the doodlings of forgotten Indian transcients scratched on their weathered surfaces. There are flowers, richer and deeper in coloring than anywhere else north of the tropics. There are salmon and black Gila monsters that can be deadly or dull. There is the scent of greasewood and sand—a pungent, dry odor duplicated nowhere. And there are the missions.

California reveres its Capistrano, where the swallows go back to, and the many other missions that mark history's pilgrimage along El Camino Real. But before Capistrano there were missions in the southwest, and, of all the churches in the new world, the serene, white San Xavier del Bac has been designated the most beautiful.

A few miles south of Tucson, Ariz., San Xavier today serves as a place of worship for the descendants of those Indians for whom Father Kino and his Jesuit companions plodded weary missionary miles. Padres in brown robes carry on the work of the ecclesiastical community, and the intricate beauty of the ancient chapel gives inspiration to moderns as it did to those for whom it was built in 1700.

In the muraled silence of San Xavier, as in perhaps no other spot, the greatness of the past still lives. It embodies all the beauties and the pageantry and the ageless simplicity of the southwest. If Francisco Vasquez de Coronado is the somewhat patron saint of travelers to that exciting land, San Xavier should be their mecca.

A Globetrotter Finds Security in Native Land

By Philip Kinsley.

To one who has recently traveled more than 20,000 miles by train, airplane, and bus about the United States this country becomes more than ever "America, the Beautiful."

It is perhaps by way of contrast with the imagined horror of life in other lands, the daily impact of destruction, the limiting and sharpening of the old ways of freedom, the crumbling of old stabilities in thought and structure.

To offset this and find something of sanity and comfort in the universe, one may travel in other worlds that lie about us. There is the security of the small towns, where life has developed normally and appears untouched by the world's turmoil. The quiet, streets, the quiet skies, the cattle in the fields, the warm lights in homes and stores, enfold one as in a blanket of peace. There is no fear abroad in America. There is a feeling that the country is young, still on the way to the fulfillment of its dream, in sight of new horizons, not an abyss.

In the congested centers along the seacoasts thoughts are turned outward, to the troubles in Europe and Asia, but in the vast interior, in the middle west and particularly in the southwest, the people are going about their business of producing and developing. The midsouth is sharing in this new vitality. It visions itself as the new Ruhr of America. The endless plains of the Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma country are turning with the sun and rain, green with new crops, white with the blossoming cotton.

Every variety of climate meets the traveler, from the cold reaches of the stratosphere, where the earth unrolls as a rugged and almost uninhabited map, to the deserts which bloom with the touch of new water.

The bus rider gets the most intimate view of the country and its people. If his reading has taken in the pageant of American history in almost any section he may find himself wandering over trails that were first made by the buffalo and then by the Indians and the first adventurers into the wilderness beyond the seacoasts. He may ride in this way from Plymouth Rock to the Wilderness road of Kentucky, or along the Oregon trail, the ruts of which may still be seen in the ancient prairies.

The westward march of the American people seems but a recent adventure, one hardly begun.

New Highway to Cross Australia

Australia's new Transcontinental highway, connecting Darwin with Adelaide, is nearing completion and should be open for traffic by February.

The highway will be 2,100 miles long and run almost due north and south. This will make it possible for tourists to traverse the continent in three or four days. At present the only means of communicating is by water, a long and roundabout journey.

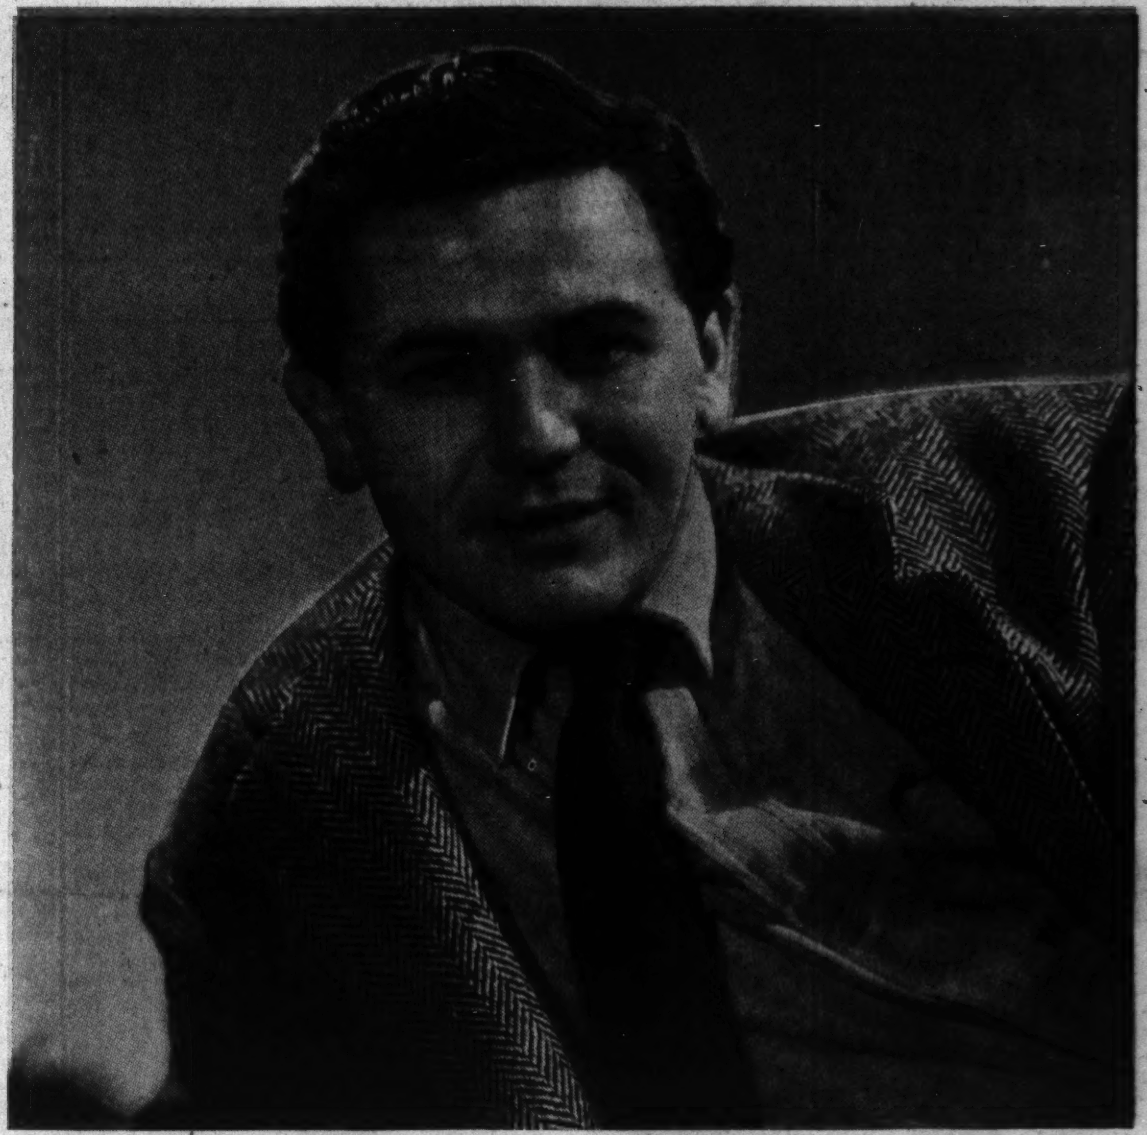
Miss Polly Ann Young is Loretta's young sister. And doesn't she look like Loretta? You will see her in "Roadshow." Adolphe Menjou and Carole Landis are the principals.

Yes, it's Lucille Ball, who recently made pretty peppy history in "Too Many Girls."

"Glamor for Sale" is the name of the movie in which Anita Louise is co-featured with Roger Pryor.

When Rosalind Russell and Melvyn Douglas come along co-starring in "This Thing Called Love," there'll be with them the popular Binnie Barnes. Here she is.



A rather happier-than-usual likeness of John Garfield, isn't it? Mr. Garfield's newest picture is "East of the River," with Brenda Marshall and Marjorie Rambeau.

Final Opera Week Promises Fine Performances

By Edward Barry

Determined that there shall be no lessening of interest during this, the final week of its season, the Chicago Opera company has announced a schedule of works and casts which should send all procrastinators scurrying like mad toward the opera house.

There are to be second performances of three of 1940's important revivals, and repetitions, with important changes of cast in two instances, of three standard year in and year out works.

Tuesday evening brings Strauss' "Salome" to the stage of the Civic Opera house for the second time this year It was given Thanksgiving night, but Marjorie Lawrence, who had been announced for the title rôle, was compelled by illness to surrender her place to Rose Pauly. This time Miss Lawrence will sing. The performance Tuesday will be almost entirely new, for neither Frederick Jagel (Herod), Sonia Sharnova (Herodias), nor Carl Alwin (conductor) took part in the last one.

The same composer's "Der Rosenkavalier" will be repeated Wednesday with two interesting changes of cast. Margit Bokor, who jumped into the rôle of Octavian a week ago Saturday when Risé Stevens fell ill, will this time sing the ingénue Sophie. Miss Stevens is to do her originally scheduled Octavian. Whether this performance will excel the enchanting one of eight days ago is not known at the present writing.

Tuesday night's repetition of "Salome" by the Chicago Opera company will have Marjorie Lawrence in the title rôle. The opera will be followed by a ballet.

Left: The new mezzo-soprano, Suzanne Sten, will sing in "Der Rosenkavalier" on Wednesday and in "Martha" on Friday.

Ruth Gordon Returns to Chicago Stage Tomorrow Night

Noted Actress to Be Starred in 'Here Today'

By Cecil Smith.

Tomorrow evening at the Selwyn theater Ruth Gordon, one of the leading actresses of the American stage, returns to Chicago after an absence of three years. Her play is "Here Today," a comedy by George Oppenheimer in which Miss Gordon was seen in New York in 1932, but not in Chicago. The present production is the third item in the current list of six subscription plays offered by the Theater Guild and the American Theater society.

Since Miss Gordon's last stage appearance here, as Nora in Jed Harris' outstanding revival of Ibsen's "A Doll's House," presented here at Christmas time in 1937, the celebrated actress has not been entirely out of sight and sound. Within the last year she has acted, with considerable éclat, in two excellent motion pictures—"Abe Lincoln in Illinois," in which she played Mary Todd opposite Raymond Massey's Lincoln, and "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," in which she was the wife of Edward G. Robinson.

In her varied and distinctive stage career Miss Gordon has never gotten herself labeled too completely as either a comedienne or a protagonist of serious dramatic parts. She has gone back and forth between comic and tragic rôles, and in one season appeared both as the rattle-brained heroine of "Three-Cornered Moon" and as the hard, underprivileged Ruby Bates in "They Shall Not Die," a drama of social preachment concerned with the famous Scottsboro trial.

A woman of sharp wit and broad interests, Miss Gordon has recently proved her mettle by appearing successfully twice on the brain teasing "Information, Please" radio program. The intelligence with which she conceives her rôles on the stage and the emotional force with which she projects them seems to appeal strongly to other people professionally connected with the stage. Lynn Fontanne, for instance, once made a curtain speech after a performance of "Amphitryon 38" urging her patrons to go to the theater next door, at the first opportunity, to see Miss Gordon in "A Doll's House." Alexander Woollcott, who is not always too easily pleased, devoted an entire broadcast to an appreciative tribute to the actress' work in this same drama.

"Here Today," Miss Gordon's current vehicle, is no Ibsenesque problem play. It is a light comedy, set in the Bahamas, with a heroine who has discarded her husband only to discover, in the course of the second act, that she wants him back. Inasmuch as the husband has already cast an interested eye in the direction of another woman, carefully formulated strategy is necessary to win him back to Miss Gordon's hearth.

"Here Today" is produced by Everett Wile. The cast, which has just completed a fortnight's engagement at the Copley theater in Boston, includes—in addition to Miss Gordon—King Calder, Alan Hewitt, Ethel Wilson, Augusta Roeland, John D. Seymour, Bert Whitley, and Pauline Myers.

The fourth attraction of the Theater Guild and American Theater society is only two and a half weeks away. On Thursday, Dec. 26, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne begin their long anticipated engagement in Robert Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night." Since this is likely to prove one of the most popular plays of the season, it is well to emphazie again the fact that the engagement will be limited to three and a half weeks, and that no extension will be possible, because of a subsequent transcontinental tour. Those who are not Theater Guild subscribers will do well, perhaps, to order tickets in advance by mail. At any rate, this department does not wish to hear the complaints and reproaches of those who find themselves unable, at the last moment, to secure seats for this timely and arresting play.

The Playwrights' company and the Theater Guild are coöperating, for the first time, in the production of "There Shall Be No Night." Mr. Sherwood is one of the Playwrights' five celebrated authors, and the Lunts—along with Richard Whorf and Sydney Greenstreet of the cast—always appear under the banner of the Theater Guild.

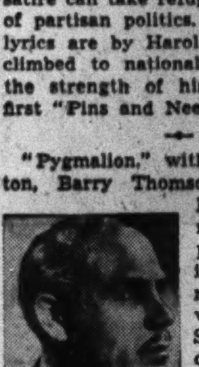
IN "PINS AND NEEDLES"

One of the leading players in "New Pins and Needles," relighting the Studebaker theater on Dec. 17, is Berni Gould. The revue is a presentation of Labor Stage and boasts a musical score by Harold J. Rome.
[Talbot Photo.]

Drama Notes

"New Pins and Needles," the Labor Stage revue, is in the fairly immediate offing, with its opening slated for Tuesday, Dec. 17, at the Studebaker theater. The revue will shatter precedent by playing at $1 top, tax free, except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, when the top price will be advanced to $1.50. "New Pins and Needles" is as new as its title indicates, with the exception of a single scene, "Sunday in the Park," which has been held over from the "Pins and Needles" we saw at the Grand Opera house in the spring of 1938. The new songs, skits and dances have been substituted for old ones one at a time in the course of a continuous New York run. The satiric material makes light of such serious people as Clifford Odets, J. Edgar Hoover, Herbert Hoover, Martin Dies, Hitler, and Stalin—certainly a list so broad and inclusive that no single subject of the satire can take refuge in any charge of partisan politics. The music and lyrics are by Harold J. Rome, who climbed to national prominence on the strength of his songs for the first "Pins and Needles."

"Pygmalion," with Ruth Chatterton, Barry Thomson, and Dennis Hoey, could by no means satisfy public demand in a single fortnight at the Selwyn theater. Since "Here Today" had already contracted for the theater beginning tomorrow night, the "Pygmalion" company moves to the Erlanger tomorrow for a fortnight's extension of the engagement. Since the Erlanger has another tenant—"Du Barry Was a Lady"—coming in on Dec. 22, admirers of Shaw and Miss Chatterton must find a way of working "Pygmalion" into their Christmas shopping schedule, or else spend the succeeding months regretting their lack of foresight.



Dennis Hoey.

Marguerite Namara, by all odds the most glamorous member of the cast of "Night of Love," the musical play at the Harris, is remembered by local operagoers for her performance of the title rôle of Massenet's "Thäis" with the Chicago Opera association. When she made her first appearance in the rôle, at the Auditorium theater on Dec. 31, 1921, the late Edward Moore, The Tribune's music critic, wrote: "She was a nice, young Thäis, more than ordinarily good looking, and with an agreeable voice, playing the part in the key of dependence upon good looks rather than on wiles and allurements. Her pictorial charm kept up to the end." Miss Namara went to Italy to study when she was 18. Her Italian stage name was Margharita Namara, tho her parents called her Marguerite Banks.

The Radio-Theater, Inc., will present "Protective Custody," a new play by Henry Rosendahl and Marion McGuire, at the Civic theater Friday and Saturday evenings. The play selected for production as the result of a playwriting contest sponsored by Radio-Theater early this fall. John McGee, former associate national director of the Federal theater, will direct, and the cast will consist of professional stage and radio actors.

Fresh from 51 weeks on Broadway, "Du Barry Was a Lady" reaches the Erlanger theater two weeks from tonight, on Dec. 22. The producer, B. G. de Sylva, has put three smash musicals on the stage in the past year, the other two being "Louisiana Purchase" and "Panama Hattie," both of which are still in New York. The inimitable Bert Lahr will be seen and heard as the washroom attendant who dreams himself away to the court of Louis XV., and Frances Williams, last seen here as one of the few bright aspects of a doleful piece called "Three After Three," will revel in the rich rôle of Du Barry. The tunes are by Cole Porter.

"Doodles" Weaver, a recent addition to the Grand Opera house cast of "Meet the People," hails from Hollywood. Only two years ago he graduated from Stanford university, whereupon he reaped the fruits of a college education by turning himself into what is described as a "one man Hellzapoppin." He has been in two pictures, "Little Abner" and "Three Girls and a Gob."

Aaron Lebedeff, a famous and popular Yiddish comic, arrived at the Douglas Park theater on the west side last Friday for an engagement of two weeks or more in a Yiddish musical comedy, "I Would If I Could." The music is by Sholom Secunda, composer of "Bei Mir Bist Du Schön." Other principals in the show are Emilia Adler and Julius Adler Jr. of the famous Adler family which also includes Stella and Luther, of Group theater fame.

Two New Plays Deemed Worth Talking About

By Burns Mantle.

New York [Special].—The theater has been rather exciting the last several days. Two new dramas—think of that—and both worth talking about!

One, "The Corn Is Green," written by the young English actor who wrote "Night Must Fall," has Ethel Barrymore as its star. Star and company took 14 curtain calls the opening night. Which should go to show just how hungry this theater going public is good for plays.

The other is a piece called "Fledgling," taken from a novel, "Follow the Furies," by Eleanor Carroll Chilton. Mrs. Chilton and Philip Lewis made the adaptation for the stage, and, while the result is not altogether in their favor, they at least hold the attention of their audiences and give them something to talk about after they leave the theater.

In "The Corn Is Green" Miss Barrymore is playing a middle-aged English spinster who inherits a bit of money and a small house in a Welsh mining village.

She is probably little like the English spinster type Mr. Williams had in mind [the play, incidentally, is in part autobiographical], but she is hearty and human and sympathetic, alertly intelligent, and altogether likable. So eight of the 14 curtain calls were for her alone. Next day the newspaper critics tossed their superlatives high and reminded her again of what a really fine artist she is. A fact that several of them overlooked when she was playing a 98 year old termagant in "Farm of Three Echoes."

Ethel Barrymore.

Miss Moffat, the spinster heroine of "The Corn Is Green," possessing a university degree and passion for widening the mental horizons of the illiterate, decides to start a school in the village to which she has come. Few of the miners' children can either read or write, she finds, and all the boys go into the mines at 14. But when she would help them there is immediate opposition on the part of the squire of the village and the mine owners.

When they will not help, she starts the school in her own cottage. When they continue to bedevil her, and her pupils develop more resentment than enthusiasm, she is almost ready to give up. The inspiration that keeps her going is her discovery of one lad with a real capacity for learning. Within two years she brings this boy to the winning of an Oxford scholarship, even tho she has to buy off the girl who seduces him, and finally to adopt his illegitimate child to keep him on the path to glory.

The time of the play is in the late 1890's and this puts Miss Barrymore in shirt waists and skirts. She recalls an early Gibson girl when she comes in wheeling a bicycle and wearing a straw sailor hat. This is not much of a show-off rôle, but is a fine part for this particular first lady of the theater, and she is happy playing it.

She has fine support from an English actor, Edmond Breon, come over to play the rebellious squire; Richard Waring, who plays the boy; Rosalind Ivan, and Thelma Schnee, the bad little girl.

In "Fledgling" we have a type of play that flourished in the Pinero-Fitch-Jones days. Problem plays, they were called then, and the audience furnished its own solutions. This one has to do with the problem of religious faith and the crushing menace of agnosticism.

Hugh Linton, as a young liberal, had eloped with Grace Dennis, taken her out of the Catholic church, and sworn, with her, to devote his life to "bringing light to dark places." The particular dark place in need of light, in Hugh's mind, was a belief in and dependence upon God as a savior of mankind.

The two children born of the marriage, a boy and a girl, are brought up to flout the Christian religion. When we meet the family the children are grown and restless. Mrs. Linton is afflicted with a creeping paralysis, and Mr. Linton, a highly successful liberal novelist, has taken a mistress as a spur to his creative work.

In the course of the play, which is pretty talky and a little affected, Mrs. Linton grows increasingly worse until Barbara, the daughter, can no longer stand her mother's misery and poisons her. Barbara, being without fear of a punishing God, justifies the act as a "mercy killing." When her conscience troubles her, and she seeks support from her father, even he lets her down by insisting that she had not thought the matter thru as she should. She also discovers that her mother had secretly gone back to the church the year before.

Ralph Morgan came on from Hollywood to play the novelist. Eight years since he was a Broadway actor. Hasn't changed greatly, tho his hair is grayer. Sylvia Weld, a young unknown, scored the hit of the cast as the tortured Barbara, a particularly well considered and expertly realized characterization. Tom Powers was a sympathetic priest.

Cabaret Notes

Michael Todd, who took Gilbert and Sullivan out of the red and into the black face, has finally announced his Chicago night life venture. A huge theater restaurant at the corner of Clark and Lawrence, it will seat thousands, at 50 cents a throw, and present twice nightly a show headed by Gypsy Rose Lee. Two bands, one of them Ben Bernie if Mike can juggle some contracts, will provide continuous dance music. You'll be able to eat dinner and get change back from a dollar bill, they say. Mr. Todd definitely and wisely rejected one suggestion for a name—The Hot Toddy—and will call it Michael Todd's Theater Restaurant.

Bobby Ramos has come into his own. The young Mexican born singer with the liquid and haunting voice has long been a favorite vocalist with such bands as Henry King's and Carlos Molina's, but now he's a maestro in his own right at the Colony club. With Emil Podsada, Nat Farber, and Fred Reid turning out attractive arrangements and a capable crew of musicians playing them, Bobby is giving the Colony some of its smartest dinner music since Cugat was around. And later in the evening when the plates are cleared and the Latin hour has arrived, the band pours out an infectious brand of rhumba and conga tempos. Monchito continues his excellent work as alternate band.

Chicago is hearing Ben Cutler's music for the first time, and returns from the Edgewater Beach hotel's Marine Dining room indicate that the handsome, ex-Yale man with the beautiful voice will enjoy a popular four week run. Ben and his attractive girl singer, Virginia Hays, offer a number of duets during dancing that are of unusually high quality. The Cutler music is very listenable

The Dorothy Dorben dancers have two cute numbers, a ballet turn, and a marionette finale featuring Bobby Belmont, one of the floor show stars. Belmont's disintegrating skeleton puppet is one of the funniest and most novel acts in that field. The Three Martells and Mignon stop the show with their breathless adagio routines.

WHY A $1 TOP?
On Tuesday, December 17, we're bringing New York's hit musical, "New Pins and Needles," into Chicago at movie prices. Our top for weekday evenings will be one dollar.
Frankly, this is an experiment. Theatre people have told us that we cannot hope to compete with the movies. Well, we're going to try. We have the show (completely different, incidentally, from the one we presented here two years ago). We think we'll have the audience, too. But instead of the usual limited $3.30 or $4.40 group of theatregoers, we're going to try to attract a new and more vital audience—the youth and the students and the great mass of people generally who don't go to the theatre because prices are too high.
We know we can't expect to make a fortune at a dollar top, but we can break even and do the theatre a service—prove that there is a tremendous enthusiastic audience awaiting any producer who has the good sense to lower prices.

the love seat. It was under the love seat, in fact, sir. It rolled under or got kicked under, I suppose."

"When was this?"

"O, on the morning after."

"The morning after what?"

"After it was lost, sir."

"What morning was that, Bianca; I mean the date or approximately, as nearly as you can remember."

"I think it was July."

"You mean by that early in July?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you recollect whether you were at the house on the evening previous?"

"I served dinner for Miss Leam."

"For Miss Leam alone?"

"No, sir; Mr. Wardlan was there. They had dinner that evening together."

"How late did you stay in the evening?"

"Until about 9. Dinner was served usually at 7:30; and about 9 I'd be finished."

"Then what did you do?"

"I went home."

"Do you remember whether Mr. Wardlan was at the house—I mean the manor house, of course—when you left?"

"I do, sir; and he was."

"Was anybody else there—any other guest, I mean?"

"No, sir."

"Just Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan alone?"

"Yes, sir."

"In the morning, when you returned to the house, who was there?"

"Just Miss Leam and Flora List."

"Did you find any indication that anybody else—any man other than Mr. Wardlan had been present during the evening or night?"

Bianca looked down at the lighter in her palm.

"I found this," she said; and June, glancing at the prosecutor, saw him step back abruptly. Once more Bianca's reply had surprised and displeased him. He considered her for a moment; and Bianca, looking up at him, suddenly said. "Is it all right for me, sir, to say something I didn't tell you before?"

June leaned nearer; and she could feel a quick tightening of attention. It caught the whole courtroom and there was utter silence. Mr. Netley did not know what to do, but he had to say something and, finally, he asked:

"Have you ever told it to anybody before?"

"Yes, sir. I told it to Flora at the time—Flora List; and I told it to mamma—at the time."

"At the time?" Mr. Netley repeated. "At what time?"

"The time I found this," Bianca said, looking down at the lighter and up at him again. It was plain to everybody that he would have sent her from the witness stand if he could; certainly he would cut off this testimony, unknown to him, which she so suddenly had offered; but he had to ask for it and risk it, whatever it was.

"If what you have to say is an answer to my question, Bianca, tell us what it is."

June's Pulse Pounds as Girl Testifies

Bianca nodded. "There were signs to me—indications, sir—in that room that morning that somebody very different from Mr. Wardlan had been there. Some man, I mean."

Mr. Netley had no choice; he stepped forward a little and asked, quietly:

"What signs, Bianca?"

"Plenty."

"What? You must be definite; you must describe them."

June felt choked and her pulses pounded. Ned seldom left a room in order; he was careless of ashes from his cigarets; he disarranged books and ornaments, he put things askew. June had not minded it; she had felt it a mark of his vigor and impulsiveness; but she always had been aware of it.

Bianca described how she brought the lighter to Flora and then asked Flora who it was that had been calling on Miss Leam. Flora had replied "Only Mr. Wardlan." Later Bianca had mentioned the matter to her mother and then she had thought no more about it.

"In other words," Mr. Netley's voice cut in quickly, "you came to the conclusion, after you thought it over, that you have been mistaken in your belief that some one else, besides Mr. Wardlan, had called; wasn't that it?"

"No, sir," Bianca's voice promptly denied. "I didn't think I was mistaken. I guess I just thought it wasn't so important—until I got to thinking it over again today."

There was a pause after that; and June turned back to Mr. Netley just as he said to Bianca:

"We will now go to the day, at the end of which Miss Leam was killed. You have a clear recollection of that day, Bianca?"

"Yes, sir. A Thursday it was," Bianca replied.

"You were off' that day; or you worked?"

"I worked, sir; I was at the manor house all day from about 8 in the morning, when I got there, to 8:30, or maybe nearly 9, in the evening when I went home. Then I came back again late at night—after midnight, that was—when Mr. Griscom told me Miss Leam was dead."

"What did you do when you first arrived in the morning?"

"I went into the kitchen, as I always did; then I went out to the upper terrace to set the breakfast table. The terrace was just outside Miss Leam's bedroom."

"Who, if any one, breakfasted there that morning, Bianca?"

"Nobody breakfasted at that table that morning, sir; or on the morning before, either; or on Tuesday."

"But on Monday, two people breakfasted on that upper terrace together?"

"Yes, sir. Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan."

"You served them, did you?"

"Yes, sir."

"And on other occasions before this Monday morning?"

"O, yes, sir."

"Did you ever serve on that upper terrace any other man besides Mr. Wardlan, the defendant here?"

"No, sir."

"Now, when you were serving them, you noticed them, I suppose; you saw whether they were congenial or quarreling; you would hear something of what they said to each other."

"Yes, sir; of course. And they certainly were congenial, Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan. They got along great; I never heard—until the last day—anything like a quarrel between them."

"You heard them quarreling on that last day, did you?"

"I heard something like a quarrel," Bianca amended, carefully. "You see Mr. Wardlan, when he was hurt by something, wasn't one to be loud about it; he wasn't one to kick things around and make a fuss; he——"

"One moment, Bianca," Mr. Netley had to interrupt his witness. "I did not ask your opinion of Mr. Wardlan's character. You mentioned a quarrel between him and Miss Leam. Tell us about that, please."

"Yes, sir; I was getting to it. I was saying Mr. Wardlan, when he was hurt, wouldn't make a fuss; he'd just stay away; and that's what he'd been doing that day."

"Thursday, you mean?"

"Yes, sir; the Thursday she was killed. I'd set the table for breakfast for him—for him and Miss Leam—and he didn't come. I set the lunch table for him—for him and Miss Leam; and he didn't come. I set the dinner table for two; for him and Miss Leam. And he came; but he'd had his dinner; or Flora told me that he had. She told me that Miss Leam had decided not to have dinner. She said Miss Leam wouldn't need me any longer. I could go."

"What time was this?"

"It was after 8 o'clock when I got word to go."

"Then did you go?"

"Not immediately, sir."

"What did you do?"

"I cleared the table."

"This was on the terrace?"

"No, sir. For breakfast and for lunch, I'd set the table on the terrace; but for dinner, I'd set the regular table in the dining room. It was that I cleared after I had word to go."

"Then what did you do?"

"After I had my supper, and had cleared up, I started for home; but I didn't go home. I went around to the front of the house and hid there."

"Hid?" Mr. Netley repeated.

"Yes; I hid just around the corner of the house from the terrace. I got as near to Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan as I could, without being seen. I was maybe 15 feet away, but they couldn't see me and I couldn't see them."

"You could hear them talking?"

"Yes, sir; it was perfectly quiet. It was night by this time; nearly 9 o'clock. The daylight was gone, but the moon was up. Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan weren't talking when I got there. They weren't stirring, either; they must have been sitting awful still. I remember I thought they must have gone off somewhere and I was just about to look around the edge, when I heard some one scratch a match.

"'Well,' I heard Miss Leam say, 'this is getting us nowhere.' And she laughed a little, not like real laughing, but like when one is nervous. 'Getting us nowhere—nowhere, fast.' 'Yes,' he said. 'But what can I do? The decision is wholly yours—whether I like it or not. I find myself helpless—helpless in your hands.' Then——"

"One moment, Bianca," Mr. Netley quickly interrupted. "You were sure it was Mr. Wardlan's voice?"

"Yes, sir. It was his voice. I knew his voice. Besides, I took a look around the corner of the house and I saw him."

"Clearly?"

"Yes, sir. It was bright moonlight; and I saw him and Miss Leam."

"They were alone? Nobody else was there?"

"Nobody."

"How were they seated in relation to each other?"

"Not close together, about five or six feet away from each other. She certainly wasn't in his arms, if that's what you mean—or close to it."

"Then did you hear anything more, Bianca?"

"Yes, sir; I heard something more."

"What was it, Bianca?"

The girl hesitated, staring at the prosecutor. Suddenly she forced herself—for it seemed to require her to force herself—to look at the defendant. She was utterly unlike Flora List when facing Geoffrey Wardlan; for Flora had wanted to accuse and condemn him; this girl did not want to do it.

Bianca brought her eyes again to Mr. Netley. "I heard Miss Leam say, 'You make me afraid of you tonight, Geoffrey.' Then I heard her chair move on the stones. She was getting up and she said: 'Let's not sit here any longer like this.' Then he got up; and I went back to the rear of the house and went home."

"Did you see either of them—either Miss Leam or Mr. Wardlan—again during the evening?"

Bianca shook her head. "Not Miss Leam; not alive. I saw him when the police brought him to the house, after she was dead."

"Then the last you saw of Miss Leam alive, she was alone with the defendant; it was after 9 o'clock——"

"A little after 9; yes, sir."

"And she had been expressing her fear of him?"

Bianca made no move and no reply for a few moments; then, reluctantly, she nodded.

"Answer yes or no, Bianca!"

"Yes," Bianca said.

Mr. Netley turned to the table at which sat the prisoner and the counsel for the defense.

"Your witness, Mr. Torpen," the prosecutor told him.

The tall attorney arose deliberately.

"When you went home, leaving Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan together," he said to Bianca, "it was shortly after 9, you said?"

"Yes, sir," Bianca answered. "It wasn't later than quarter past."

"And when you returned to the house, how much later was it?"

"It was after midnight, sir; three hours later."

"So you know from your own observation nothing of what might have happened at the manor house—who might have gone away and who might have arrived—during those three hours?"

"Nothing. That's right, sir."

"You testified, a few minutes ago, to discovering an unusual disorder—unusual untidiness and disturbance of things—in the drawing room one morning early in the summer."

"Yes, sir; I did. It was the morning I found the lighter."

"Did you find the same, or similar, marks of disorder on other mornings following that?"

"Not immediately following, sir," Bianca replied very seriously. "But I did some days later."

"And after this second occasion, did you find the same signs again?"

"Yes, sir. I should say, about a week later."

"And after that?"

"I found them once or twice again."

"Indications, you mean, of the repeated visits of a man unlike——"

"I object! I object, your honor!" Mr. Netley shouted. "What the small disarrangements in the room may have meant—if they meant anything at all—is a matter for the jury to decide for itself."

The defense attorney calmly waited.

"This witness has testified on direct examination, your honor," Mr. Torpen finally addressed the judge, "that Mr. Wardlan—to her knowledge—spent a great many evenings at the house with Miss Leam; and the witness said it was the rule that, in the morning, she found the drawing room in good order, showing few marks of disturbance and no ashes strewed around; but she described an occasion—and now she says that it was followed at intervals by four or five similar occasions—when in the morning she came upon some very different manifestations. If the state objects to the witness interpreting the manifestations she described, I am quite content to leave to the jury the question as to whether or not they indicate the secret visits of another person."

He turned to Bianca.

"On that last night, you said you looked over the terrace and saw Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan together. Were they drinking?"

"No, sir; not then. They were smoking; that's all."

"Were there bottles and glasses and the ice bowl on the table at that time?"

"That, sir," Bianca replied, "I cannot swear to. I saw them there afterward—after Miss Leam was killed. I simply can't say for sure whether they were on the table before."

"You cleaned up the rooms the next morning?"

"No, sir; I wasn't allowed to. I wasn't let to touch anything. Everything was being photographed and kept as it was."

The tall man nodded. "But you did see the condition of the terrace and of the drawing room, for instance."

"Yes, sir; I did."

"And how were they?"

Bianca Describes Disorder of House

Bianca bent forward. "I know what you mean," she said. "You mean, did they show the sort of disorder that I'd found when I found the lighter? Yes, sir; the terrace and the drawing room were in a state like that."

"Now one thing more, please," the tall man quietly said. "You have just told us that you cannot say for certain whether the bottles and glasses were on the table on the terrace early in the evening; can you say that you are positive, beyond any doubt, that you heard Miss Leam say the exact words which you repeated here?"

"What words," Bianca asked, "do you mean might be wrong?"

"It is of only one word—one syllable—which you must be sure," Mr. Torpen said. "You testified that you heard Miss Leam say, 'You make me afraid OF you tonight, Geoffrey.' Are you sure she did not say 'You make me afraid FOR you'?"

"I object, object!" Mr. Netley leaped forward. "This is outrageous, your honor! Counsel knows he cannot lead the witness in this way; he——"

"The witness," the judge ruled, "may answer the question as to whether she is positive that she heard the words she repeated."

Bianca gazed at the judge and then turned and looked at the prisoner.

"Whatever Miss Leam said there on the terrace," Bianca replied at last to the lawyer, "she certainly didn't sound afraid or look afraid of him then. When I heard she was killed, I'd no idea he did it—until they told me."

June was aware that the lawyers were wrangling again, but she did not even attempt to comprehend their quarrel. At last it ceased.

She felt a hand on her shoulder. It was Cora's hand and Cora's slim, strong fingers clasped her firmly and shook her slightly.

"Come," said Cora. "Get up."

She was standing; everybody else had arisen, June suddenly realized, but she, herself, felt as if she could not move.

"You've got to get up," Cora insisted, studying her curiously. "Court's adjourned; we're going to lunch."

June wanted no lunch; she could not think of eating. She wanted to be left alone by herself and undisturbed to think this out. This: Ned—if it had been Ned who had lost the lighter under the love seat—had called upon Lily Leam more than once. He—or whoever it was who had had the lighter—had returned on several occasions; for the last time, on the night that Lily Leam was killed.

"You know something," Cora whispered with so little breath in her words that June scarcely heard.

VICTOIRE, who was the French part of Aunt Claudine's legacy and had known Jane from babyhood, said, "O la, la!" which was her usual reaction to the unusual. But William said, "Don't be silly, my darling. Even if you are earning a wonderful salary as Dad's confidential secretary, you can't afford real estate. And rich, kind aunts don't die every day in the week, you know."

Then he had pointed out that in June she wouldn't be anybody's confidential secretary. She would be his wife. And he didn't like French cooks or country life. So Victoire would be "out" and the New Jersey farmhouse, known locally as "Sour Acres" dating back to 1776 with a Dutch oven, a superb view and no water supply, was out already.

Jane sauntered into the kitchen to warn Victoire for the last time not to put garlic in the soup because William detested garlic. It was a lovely spring evening—just the sort of evening she would have chosen for William and his mother to see "Sour Acres"—rechristened "Four Winds"—for the first time. The elms wore a film of delicate green over their strong limbs and threw delightful shadows over the farm's rejuvenated face, and for the time being obscured the fact that the new electric pump had ceased to function.

Victoire, who had been brought up in a country where a mere matter of ineffectual plumbing or indeed no plumbing at all was as nothing compared to a good soup, said, "O la, la," with indifference. Nevertheless, she agreed that M. Guillaume et sa bonne mere might be annoyed. Monsieur, she said, was "fort bien elene," which translated meant that William was a very proper gentleman and that Victoire didn't like him much.

"A real man," Victoire said, dropping a soupcon of garlic casually into the pot au feu. "When 'e see you 'e would not care if 'e 'ave 's bath or not. Tu es jolie a rendrefou—cherie."

Jane knew that she was pretty. But she was not sure that she was pretty enough to make William mad, in the French sense, and to the point of forgetting his bath. In William's opinion civilizations rose and fell with their hot water supply.

Jane Longed for Farm Since Early Childhod

Jane continued on her way out onto the porch and across the future garden, now a neglected vegetable patch. She kept her eyes down deliberately. She meant to turn at a certain vantage point and let "Four Winds" break on her as it had done when as a little girl her father had driven her out from the university tucked in a green hollow four miles away. Ever since then she had loved the place and wanted it for her own. She had even dreamed about it. So that now she felt that it had always been part of her life. William was part of her, too. The two parts, she thought wistfully, must surely come together.

And really William had been encouragingly nice about it all. Some men wouldn't have understood why, the very morning after she had agreed that he was absolutely right, she should have signed a lot of documents and a large check that a cherubic lawyer had laid before her. Afterward, what was left of Aunt Claudine's legacy had installed the pump. As the real estate agent had pointed out the furnace, electric light, and telephone had waited a long time and could go on waiting a little longer. Meantime there was always the Dutch oven and the view to look at.

Poor darling William. He hadn't seen her these last weeks except surrounded by blueprints and what she called estimates and which he called her futile efforts to prove that two and two made three and in optimistic moments even less. William, resigned temporarily to waywardness, had offered to come down and help. But Jane had said "no." "Four Winds" was to be a surprise for his birthday which fell in April when the place would be at its loveliest. She had already given him an icebox for a birthday present. The idea had been Victoire's and as William said, not without bitterness, quite French.

She looked up. The prospect was almost as pleasing as she had expected with one vile exception. A man was seated on the low stone wall that marked the end of the vegetable patch. For a moment she thought that William had arrived unexpectedly ahead of time. But then she remembered that William was never unexpected. So she was sorry that she'd been so impulsive as to wave. Because the stranger waved back, not with any enthusiasm, but as tho, since she insisted, he was willing to oblige.

A pair of spectacles were pushed up into his thick, untidy hair, and he was smoking a pipe that even in the open air announced its age. A faint growth of fair beard showed itself on a blunt, rather formidable chin. There was a badly mended tear in the right knee of his trousers and his whole attitude was disreputably negligent. It even suggested that she intruded, and she spoke quite sharply.

"Are you looking for any one?" she asked.

He shook his head.

"Not any one specially."

"This is 'Four Winds' farm. The road ends here. I'm afraid you've made a mistake."

"Not at all. As a matter of fact I live here."

She smiled.

"You don't," she said. "I do."

His gaze had reverted to the sunset. Now he glanced at her with a sort of remote attention as tho he had no objection to what he saw, but he saw it from a long way off and not very clearly.

"That gives us one thing in common anyway," he said. He jerked his pipe stem at the house behind him. "Your people have done quite a lot to the old place. I noticed the pump. Not functioning very well, is it? I would have done something about it. But I thought it politer to ask first. After all," he explained magnanimously, "it's not really my pump."

"You haven't any business here," she said. "So you ought to go——"

"But I have—a lot of business with whoever owns this place——"

"I do."

That roused him to quite close attention. He even adjusted his glasses to reconsider her. Oddly enough they made him look much younger.

"Good God. Do you really mean you bought this place?" he asked.

"Of course I bought it."

"Then you bought me too."

Jane drew a long breath.

"What nonsense!" she said quite calmly.

"It isn't nonsense. You signed a bill of sale, didn't you?"

"I signed something——"

"Which you didn't read——?"

"Well—not quite all of it——"

"A shyster lawyer's dream girl!" he commented. "Not that I blame you. I do that sort of thing myself. But are you sure no one even just mentioned me?"

Visitor Explains About Encumbrance Clause

Jane pushed the red-brown hair back from her forehead in an effort to lay hold of a memory that was dodging her round the corners of her mind.

"The lawyer did say something. He said the old lady who owned this place had been a bit queer in the head, but the executors had to carry out her wishes. That was why the place was going so cheap. But there was nothing to worry me. He even laughed about it."

"I bet he did."

"He called it a slight encumbrance."

"Well, I've been called a lot of things in my time," he said. "But I guess that's what I am. You see grandmother knew that I was a bit queer in the head too, and would never come to any good. It was a sort of bond between us. So she arranged that at least I should have a roof over me to my days' end. It was a kindly thought. I'm sorry you don't like it——"

"I don't care about it one way or another. It's absurd."

"But like so many absurdities, absolutely legal," he assured her. "When I heard about it I was pottering on a ranch in California. I hitch-hiked all the way——"

"And now you can hitch-hike back again——" she said indignantly. In half an hour she would have to meet William and his mother, and the prospect of explaining to them both goaded her into panic.

"If it's money you want——"

"Who doesn't?" he asked. "But I'm not begging, lady—not even for a square meal—tho the garlic odors issuing from your kitchen might incite most hungry men to worse——"

"I suppose you think you can hold me up because I'm alone. But I'm not. I'm going to be married—what I mean is I'm going to meet my fiancé now——"

He cocked a fair whimsical eyebrow at her.

"Believe me, lady, I'm only an encumbrance, not an impediment, let alone a just cause——"

"So you can't stay here——"

"But I can," he persisted with admirable patience. "There is, if boyhood's memory does not fail me, a pleasant little doghouse on the outskirts of your property where with a bed and table I can accommodate myself—at least till winter comes. Then, no doubt, we shall have to review the situation——"

"My fiancé, Mr. William Mortimer, will discuss that with you."

"I shall be delighted to discuss it with William. I'm sure he is a man of the world who will see at once that I am claiming nothing but my rights." He stood up. "Meantime don't worry about me," he said. "For tonight I can manage in the hay. I've managed quite often." He had an afterthought. "I didn't quite catch your name," he said.

"I've not the faintest intention of telling you——"

"Why not? It will make life so much easier. We can't just shout 'Hi—you there!' at each other."

"It's Wentworth—Jane Wentworth——"

"Jane. A firm cool name, capable of an affectionate diminutive. Mine's Breddon—my friends call me Rufus——"

"I don't care what they call you. I shan't call you anything——"

"I'm glad of that." He grinned quite pleasantly. "I thought you might——"

When she stormed into the kitchen, in a detour to the garage, she found Victoire, onion in hand, gazing wistfully out of the back window.

"It's a tramp," Jane said passionately, "and I hope William breaks his neck——"

Victoire sighed.

"Enfin!" she said. "C'est un beau jeune homme."

At least the pump was working. Dinner had gone well. William had overlooked the garlic and had even complimented Victoire in painstaking French. He and Jane were sitting side by side on the porch when Rufus Breddon strolled thru the lamplight and across the vegetable patch.

Gesture of Affection Is Deeply Reassuring

William held Jane's hand in his, a gesture of affection which had often seemed to her a little inadequate, but was now deeply reassuring. It reminded her of his calm capacity for dealing with difficult situations. Mrs. Mortimer was knitting and swaying herself gently in her rocker. She, too, added to the general atmosphere of reason.

"And who was that?" William asked.

"That," Jane said, "is a bit of real estate running around loose. It's what is legally known as an encumbrance——"

William was a lawyer. The word rang in his ears like a trumpet blast in the ears of a young war horse. Mrs. Mortimer dropped her knitting.

"It's in the deed," Jane explained. She had stuffed the document in her coat pocket and she produced it now, very crumpled. "It's in such small letters," she said. "Of course I didn't read it."

William held it to the lamplight. He had an eye for essentials. He said, "Good God!" and strode down the steps in pursuit of the retreating shadow. A bleak silence fell between the two women, broken only by the regular creak of Mrs. Mortimer's rocker. She was the type of tactful mother-in-law, Jane reflected bitterly, who would never say what she thought. But there would be always a rocker handy.

It was a long time before William came back. In the interval the New Jersey mosquito had made itself manifest and Mrs. Mortimer with a last slap and a faint sigh had gone indoors. William, looking very handsome and masterful, stood in the light from the screen door. There was a carefully controled satisfaction in his voice. It was as well meaning as a tooth drill and it had the same effect. Jane braced herself.

"I'm afraid it's true," he said. "He goes with the property and has the right of domicile for as long as he lives. He showed me the lawyer's letters. There's no use arguing with him. He's a deadbeat with no job and no scruples whatever." William sat down beside her and took her hand again and patted it. "I'm afraid that's the end of my little girl's country dream," he said.

Jane looked past him. A spark glowed in the darkness. A mosquito zoomed toward her, driven before a cloud of tobacco smoke. The smell of it was unmistakable.

"If any one thinks," she said, "that I'm going to be driven out by that they're quite mistaken——"

"Dear child, you can't break that clause——"

"I can't. But you can. That's what you're for—to break clauses and things——"

"Possibly. But I shan't try. I never approved anyway——"

"There are other lawyers——" Jane said "—who will. Lots of them."

"They'll want lots of money, darling. And you haven't got lots any more, have you? Obviously you have no alternative but to sell the place again——"

"With that on it?"

"At a great loss, no doubt," William admitted.

"I shan't sell," Jane said. "I shall ignore it."

"You may," William said. "Other people won't. They will think——" He forebore tactfully to say what they would think. He left it to her nice feeling. But at the moment she hadn't any. She said, "I don't care what people think. It won't be true. And that's all that matters——"

"Not quite, darling," William went on to explain about the importance of public opinion and of conforming to normal standards of good taste.

"I'm sorry," she said. "But my mind's made up, too."

William slipped his arm thru hers and lifted her gently to her feet.

"We won't argue about it now, darling," he said.

Jane Finds Visitor Fixing Eggs in Kitchen

Jane drove back from the station wondering whether she was shaking all over with grief or temper. Whatever her state it was not improved by the sounds of amicable conversation issuing from the kitchen. She found Victoire who when it came to any sort of man, young, old or indifferent, had no sex loyalty whatever, showing Mr. Rufus Breddon how to manage the oil cooker. He was evidently scrambling eggs.

"They're mine," he explained at once. "I always carry eggs round with me. It's the one thing I do really well." She noticed that he had shaved and that in spite of his clothes he looked clean. Or it might be that as the blue-eyed, fair-skinned type he would look clean in any case.

"I'm poor but honest, after my fashion," he continued. "You can trust even your vegetables to me. In fact I might even work your potato patch for you. Not that I want to work. All my life I've been thinking up ways to live without working." He looked at her with his head a little on one side. "Aren't we on speaking terms?" he asked.

"No," she said.

"How inconvenient! Does Fiancé William forbid it?"

"He's not my fiancé," she flared out.

"I thought you said he was——"

"He was——" she said bitterly.

"You're not suggesting that I'm an impediment after all——"

"I'm not suggesting. It's true."

"Well——" he said, looking with regret at his eggs which had begun to congeal. "I don't think that's fair. From my observation last night I gathered that William never liked this place anyhow. He was just making me an excuse to get you out of it. Unfortunately for him you're a very obstinate young woman——"

"I'm not."

"Oh yes, you are. Mind you, I'm not blaming you. I'm obstinate myself. I make up my mind what I want and then I go for it—just as you do. You wanted this house and you went for it. Neither William nor I, in our different ways, could stop you. You were quite unreasonable about it. Now William is essentially reasonable. I think it's lucky for you I turned up so that you found him out in time——"

"That's a very convenient theory. Breaking up people's lives evidently doesn't bother you."

"Your life isn't broken. It's only fallen into another pattern."

"You don't know or care, of course, that William's father happens to be my employer and that I shall have to resign my job."

"Do you really want it?"

"Of course I want it. I've got to live."

"We all have that illusion," he commented temperately. "I have myself. That's why I'm here."

"You might get a job yourself——"

"Why?" he asked. It was an idiotic question. It led to the retort, "Because you've got to live," which brought them right around to the vicious circle to where they started.

"Because you ought to work," she said. She added with malice, "—if you can do anything."

"I'm good at figures," he said.

"What figures?"

"Other people's."

"What for?"

"Frankly—" he said, "I don't know. It seems to be in my blood. I add up figures as a musician composes symphonies. In fact, I am what is known as an economist—"

"You look like one—" she commented acidly.

"You're perfectly right. I do. You see, an economist is a person who regulates international finance and in private life adds up two and two to make almost anything. As a result he is invariably broke."

"At any rate you and William have one thing in common," she said. "You both hope that you'll force me to give up this place and you're both mistaken."

"But I don't hope anything of the sort," he corrected. "In fact I should regret it. You may be obstinate and difficult. But I'm sure the next purchaser would be much worse—"

"There won't be any next purchaser. No one in their right senses would take the place as a gift—not if they had to take you with it."

"I agree absolutely. So that makes us both permanent fixtures, doesn't it?"

Jane went down the porch steps. It looked like a retreat. But it was the only way of getting rid of him.

Jane went up briefly to New York and gave up her little apartment and her large salary as Mr. William Mortimer's confidential secretary. Mr. William Mortimer Jr. wrote and called and telephoned and even telegraphed. In every way possible he offered to forgive her. As a result Jane came to the conclusion that orphans and only children were too apt to cling to almost anything and that William had been almost anything and a serious mistake.

In one way having no job was wonderful. It meant that she and Victoire could spend the whole summer at "Four Winds." But it also meant that by Christmas, unless a miracle happened, "Four Winds," Mr. Rufus Breddon, and Victoire would have to become some one else's problem. Taxes and wages stared Jane in the face and it was amazing how easily she evaded staring back at them. It was such a lovely summer. She went up to New York less and less often to look for a job, and there were times when she understood reluctantly why Mr. Rufus Breddon never looked for one at all.

She never spoke to him. When they met each other by accident he lifted his battered hat, if he happened to have one, or touched his forehead with a rather exaggerated respectfulness. In either case she looked straight thru him.

She gathered from Victoire who insisted on answering unasked questions that he earned a meager living by doing as little as possible for the neighboring farmers and she suspected Victoire of "handouts" from the ice box. In return the vegetable patch showed marked signs of recovery.

Doghouse Fitted Out Into Living Quarters

Apparently he sat up late. Sometimes his light showed till morning. What he did with himself even Victoire didn't know, and Jane refused to imagine. But once when she was sure of his absence she peered into the doghouse. From somewhere or other, probably with Victoire's connivance, he had procured a camp bed, a chair and a table on which was a real pile of papers. A wooden crate which must have arrived when Jane wasn't on the lookout served as a bookcase for some battered unattractive volumes.

Jane closed the door quickly.

The lovely fall evenings and Jane's bank balance shortened together. A tax collector called. He was patient and friendly, but Jane guessed that in time he would become less so. She went up to New York for the day to apply for a job again. She was an admirable secretary and good to look at, normally she had charming manners and a kind heart. But she regarded her prospective employer with open hatred.

She defied him to employ her and he didn't. So with a deep sigh of relief she went back to "Four Winds" and planted things in the garden and at night sat on the porch and watched the moon rise. Mr. Rufus Breddon, seated at a respectful distance and smoking placidly, watched it with her. She had become resigned to his shadowy presence and the warm, rich glow of his deplorable pipe.

It even gave her a faint satisfaction to know that some one else liked the moon, too. William had never really cared about it and Victoire had no use for it at all except as a source of absurd superstitions about love and marriage and the size and sex of the resulting family. Sometimes Jane felt as tho she and the encumbrance were carrying on a queer, silent but not unamicable conversation about the moon and anything else that came into their heads.

The next day Jane resumed work on her garden. Digging was fun and, what was more important, warm work. The supply of logs had almost run out and at daybreak and dusk the house exuded the chill, dank atmosphere of a tomb. Jane, who had caught her annual cold in an aggravated form, dug feverishly at a new bed for next year's daffodils. She knew that they would be some one else's daffodils, but she didn't believe it.

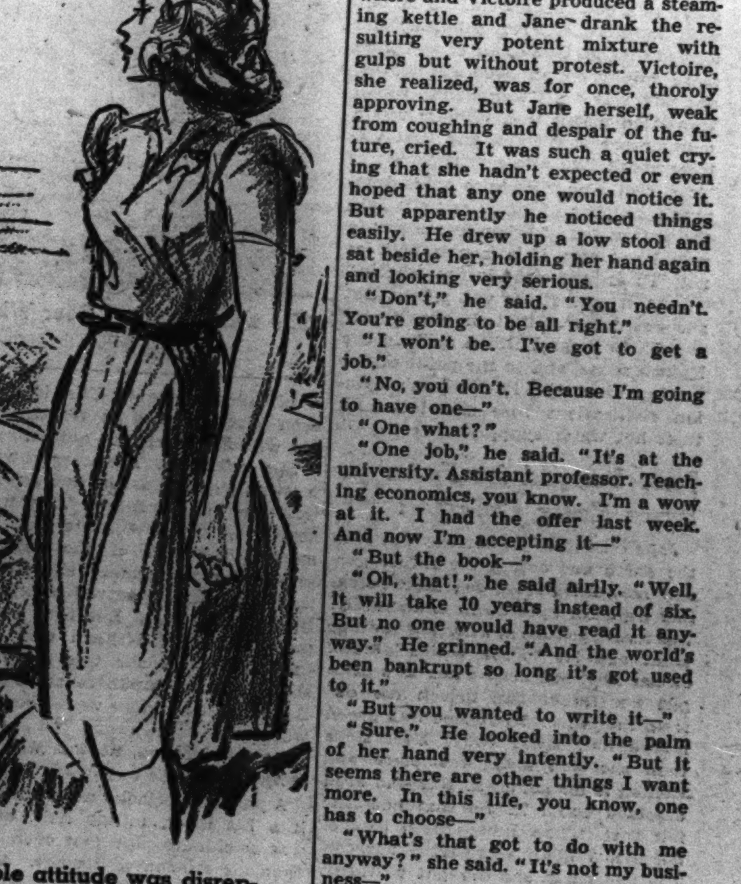
Something must happen to save "Four Winds" for her. It was hers by right of love. Even the tax collector must see that much. She was thinking of him in a vague, aching-all-over sort of way when she became aware that Rufus Breddon was digging too and that in fact they were steadily digging toward each other. It was an infuriating situation.

Either she had to retreat and thereby acknowledge his existence or else they were destined to meet head-on—unless his sense of decency prevailed. It didn't. Or more certainly he hadn't any. She stopped within a foot of him and stood up, regarding him with misery and fury and in immediate need of a handkerchief. He stood up too and wiped his forehead. But for once his manner lacked its usual detachment. It was even faintly worried.



His whole attitude was disreputably negligent.

"Are you crying about me?" he asked.

"I'm not crying, I sneezed—" She snatched at the proffered handkerchief, thereby putting herself at a ridiculous disadvantage. "I wasn't even thinking about you—" she added disagreeably.

"—not, of course, as a human being," he explained in haste. "I meant as an encumbrance merely. I'm afraid I've made things difficult for you. If you really care so much for that William fellow—"

"I wasn't thinking of him either—"

"I hoped you weren't. Because I'm sure he was a mistake. Any one who couldn't love this place enough to put up with me is obviously no one for you to live with. I mean, it would have led to all sorts of complications—you here and he somewhere else—"

"I shan't be here much longer—" She fancied he started slightly.

"Why not?" She sneezed again and he didn't wait for an answer. "What you need," he said, "is an oil furnace."

She was goaded into laughter, and the laugh ended in a cough. "You're catching cold," he told her.

"I've caught it. And anyhow it's not your business—"

"Oh yes, it is. I mean, I'm very particular. There aren't many people I'd be willing to encumber. If anything happened to you I should find it very inconvenient—"

"I hope you do. I hope the next idiot who buys this place for a song makes life hell for you—"

Perhaps he had recognized the tax collector. At least he seemed to understand.

"Are you broke, too?" he asked.

"Of course I am. I lost my job—just as I said I would—and I can't get another—not like it anyway. On William's account his father paid me much too much—"

"That's tough. It's the sort of thing William's father would do. It wasn't right. I mean, it must hurt your pride—"

"It does—" She became slightly less angry with him. "It shows me how silly I was and how right William was—I can't swing a place like this and I never could—"

He looked up quickly.

"William wasn't right. He never is. And you weren't silly. You were brave and adventurous. You knew what you wanted for life and you went after it—"

"Well, I've lost it now—" she said.

"You could raise a mortgage on the place—"

"Not with you on it—"

He shook his head at her.

"You're not quite fair, Jane. I mean you could get any job you really wanted. I could myself. We're very alike, you know—nice, harmless people who ask nothing but to dig potatoes and plant daffodils and watch the moon rise. And we're not allowed. People like William, full of stocks and shares and solid sense, insist on our being what they call useful." He seemed to force her to look at him and without his glasses she saw the boyishness of his eyes. "I'm sorry," he said. "When I realized whom I was encumbering I should have gone away. But you see, I'm writing a book. It's called 'The Solution to International Insolvency.'"

"I thought you said you never worked——."

"Doing what you want to do, isn't work," he explained. "If I don't work the book would take six years to write. If any one ever reads it, it might save the world. Of course no one will. But I felt bound to try—at all costs. I mean, it seemed more important than either of us——"

He lifted his battered hat. His hair, very thick and fair and not very well trimmed, looked young too. For the first time she got a sense of vigor and purpose behind his elaborate casualness. "I think now I was all wrong," he said. "I think I was a conceited 'ass——.'"

It was midnight when Victoire tapped at the doghouse. She knew he was awake by the light shining thru the one small window. He was still dressed and had pinned a couple of threadbare blankets round his shoulders.

"Elle est malade," Victoire said simply.

Mr. Rufus Breddon said nothing. He came out and led the way ruthlessly over the last chrysanthemums and into the house and up the creaking stairs, as tho the place belonged to him. Jane, shivering under six blankets, peered at him thru the candle light with the eyes of a sick unhappy child.

"I'm going for a doctor," he said.

She said hoarsely. "You can't. He's five miles away and we've sold the car and there's no telephone. Besides I can't pay him and he'd want to put me in a hospital."

"Sure he would. Only a murderer would want to keep a sick kid like you in this refrigerator." He spoke to Victoire in French. "You and I, Victoire, are going to build a terrific fire downstairs——"

"Pas possible, Monsieur. Il nous manque du bois."

"I know you haven't any wood. Fortunately I've been pinching wood from the surrounding country for weeks past. I foresaw we should need it. And then I'm going to carry you down——"

"Don't be idiotic——"

"I'm never idiotic. But I can be violent——"

He went away, but came back presently and gathered her up, blankets and all, with a strength and efficiency that was oddly comforting. William had been strong and efficient too and had merely incited her to childish opposition. She let her aching head rest against his rough tweed shoulder with a sense of thankful resignation.

Breddon Tells Jane He's Got a Job

He laid her on a couch before a fire that blazed just as he had promised. He produced whisky from somewhere and Victoire produced a steaming kettle and Jane drank the resulting very potent mixture with gulps but without protest. Victoire, she realized, was for once, thoroly approving. But Jane herself, weak from coughing and despair of the future, cried. It was such a quiet crying that she hadn't expected or even hoped that any one would notice it. But apparently he noticed things easily. He drew up a low stool and sat beside her, holding her hand again and looking very serious.

"Don't," he said. "You needn't. You're going to be all right."

"I won't be. I've got to get a job."

"No, you don't. Because I'm going to have one—"

"One what?"

"One job," he said. "It's at the university. Assistant professor. Teaching economics, you know. I'm a wow at it. I had the offer last week. And now I'm accepting it—"

"But the book—"

"Oh, that!" he said airily. "Well, it will take 10 years instead of six. But no one would have read it anyway." He grinned. "And the world's been bankrupt so long it's got used to it."

"But you wanted to write it—"

"Sure." He looked into the palm of her hand very intently. "But it seems there are other things I want more. In this life, you know, one has to choose—"

"What's that got to do with me anyway?" she said. "It's not my business—"

"Our business," he said—"yours and mine is to keep 'Four Winds' and put in an oil furnace. It's mine because I'm the encumbrance and have got to live here for the rest of my life. It's in the deed you signed and you can't break it. William said you couldn't. And I can't live here without you—"

"Why not?" she asked.

"I can't tell you. It's one of those mysterious, amazing, rather wonderful things that happen in life and that no philosopher or scientist, let alone an economist, has ever been able to explain. It just happens. Very annoying, of course." His grin had become a little crooked and wavering as tho he were suddenly less sure of himself. "The university is only four miles away. We could buy the car back. It's just a question as to whether you can live with an encumbrance."

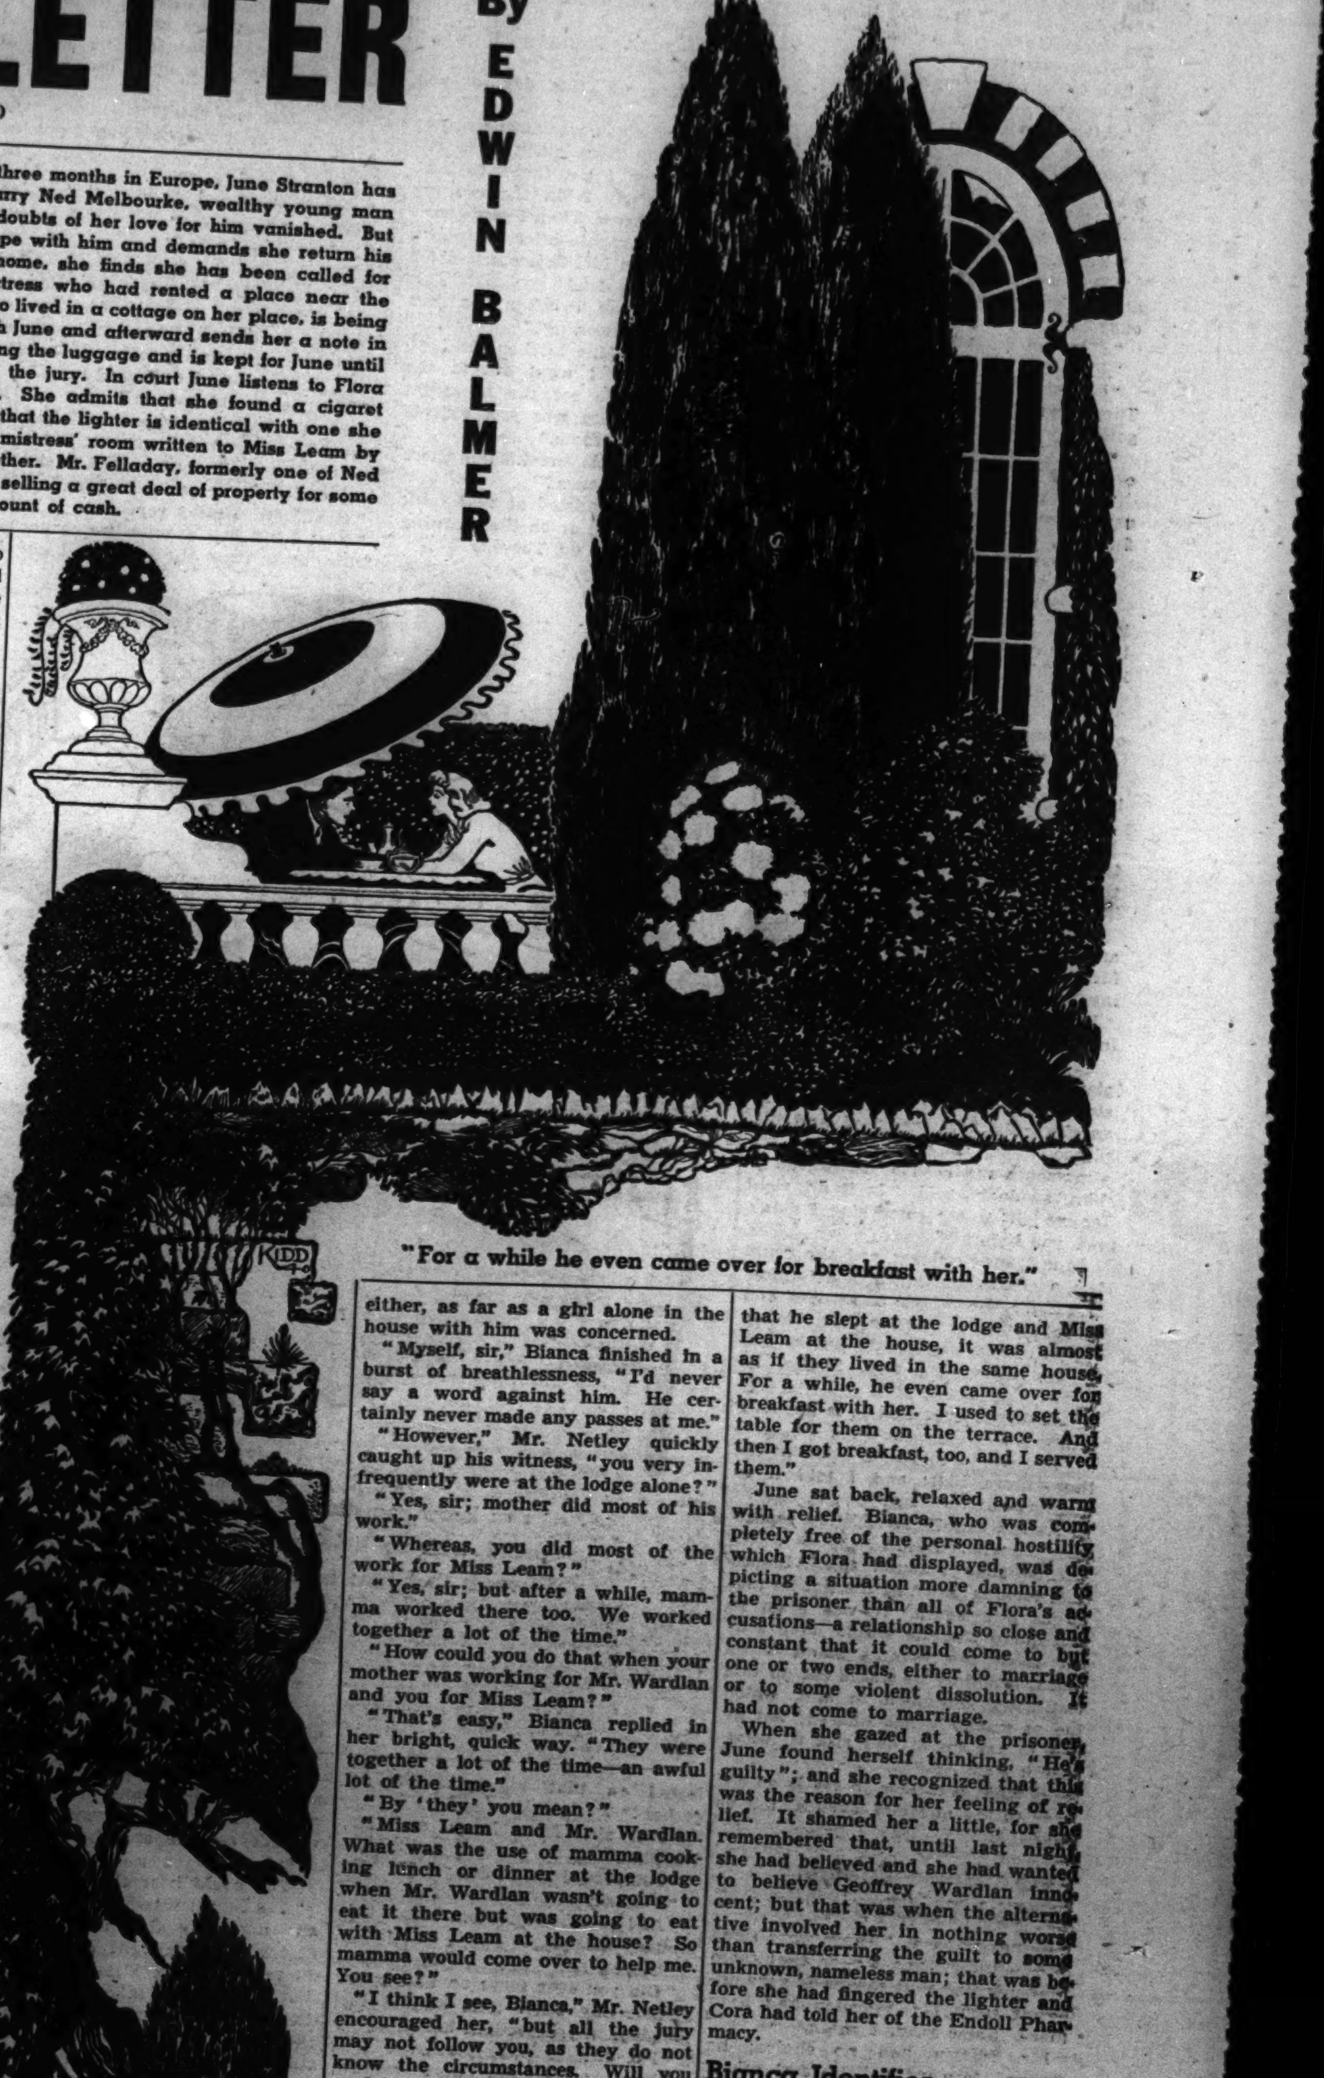
She closed her eyes. She knew that she was not quite sober. But she knew, too, that when she woke to the stark reality she would still feel warm and comforted and absurdly happy. She muttered drowsily, "The lawyer said it was only a slight one——"

Just before she slept she thought—certainly she hoped—that he had kissed her.

THE TORN LETTER

By EDWIN BALMER

(Copyright: 1940: By Edwin Balmer)



"For a while he even came over for breakfast with her."

What Has Gone Before

After thinking it over for three months in Europe, June Stranton has made up her mind to marry Ned Melbourke, wealthy young man about town. One of his love letters touched her so deeply all previous doubts of her love for him vanished. But instead of driving her home from the docks Ned tries to force June to elope with him and demands she return his letter she treasured. They quarrel and her doubts rise again. Arriving home, she finds she has been called for jury duty on a murder trial. Lily Leam, the murdered woman, was an actress who had rented a place near the Stranton estate in New Jersey. Geoffrey Wardlan, a research chemist, who lived in a cottage on her place, is being tried as her murderer. Ned makes a scene in the courtroom trying to reach June and afterward sends her a note in her suitcase, but the note is discovered by the police matron while searching the luggage and is kept for June until after the trial. June finds that Paul Rogell, a childhood friend, is also on the jury. In court June listens to Flora List, Lily Leam's maid, testify about her mistress' love affair with Wardlan. She admits that she found a cigaret lighter in Miss Leam's room that did not belong to Wardlan. June notices that the lighter is identical with one she sent Ned from Paris. Flora also testifies she found four love letters in her mistress' room written to Miss Leam by Wardlan. One of the letters, she says, was torn to bits and pasted back together. Mr. Felladay, formerly one of Ned Melbourke's guardians, calls on Mrs. Stranton and tells her Ned has been selling a great deal of property for some time and has now disappeared with a large amount of cash.

INSTALMENT X.

AT THE same hour, long past midnight, June was lying sleepless in her bed in room 414 at the hotel in Paignton. Cora, in her bed three feet away, also was awake, and June knew it.

Cora would have fallen asleep, if she had let herself; but she deliberately fought off drowsiness in her determination to whisper to June as soon as she felt it safe. She had waited hours, because Mrs. Lennon had shown herself unlike most placid and portly persons; she was the lightest of sleepers. The least sound or stir near her seemed to arouse her; and tonight Mrs. Lennon slept very close by. She was not sharing the large, corner room with Mrs. Wescott and Mrs. Enderberry; the constable's cot had been brought into 414 and placed against the wall on June's side of the room.

Mrs. Lennon had explained, casually, that "rules" required her to change rooms now and then, when she had more than one room "in charge"; but June knew this shift for what it was. Mrs. Lennon wanted to watch her; and so the constable was sleeping easily but lightly and not six feet away.

For the 20th time, or more, Cora slowly lifted up and supported herself on her elbow as she looked at June and at Mrs. Lennon. The only light came from outdoors but the moon was bright and both windows wide open. Cora seemed satisfied with what she saw of Mrs. Lennon and now the tall, thin girl got out of bed. She moved with utmost caution, testing the floor with her toes before taking the single step to June's bed.

She did not get into bed with June; she sank to her knees beside the bed and placed her lips close to June's ear.

"You know something," Cora whispered with so little breath in the words that June scarcely heard.

June shook her head.

"Yes, you do!" Cora accused. "Something about that lighter."

June denied it in the same soundless way again.

Cora had nothing more to say at that; she drew back a little but she remained on her knees beside the bed.

Suddenly June seized Cora's thin shoulders and pulled her close. As carefully as Cora had whispered, June asked in Cora's ear: "What happened at the Endoll Pharmacy?"

"A man—not Mr. Wardlan—phoned Lily Leam that morning."

"Where is the Endoll Pharmacy?"

"On 72d street—in New York."

"Near Park avenue?"

"Yes."

"Thank you; thank you," June breathed and let go of Cora and moved back on her bed.

Mrs. Lennon stirred. She turned over but she did not really awaken. Cora kept herself motionless. For more than a minute she knelt where she was; then, as cautiously as she left it, she returned to her bed.

June curled her arms about herself. It was warm under the bedclothes but she was shivering. "Thank you; thank you!" she had said to Cora; and why had she said that? Because Cora had told her that the Endoll pharmacy was near where Ned lived? Thousands, tens of thousands of men lived near that spot or passed by. But no tens of thousands, no thousands; no hundred men nor ten men; one and one alone would have lost the lighter that Bianca Danielli had found at the manor.

Exactly where and under what conditions had Bianca discovered the lighter? And had Bianca similarly found anything else—some other personal article left behind by the unnamed visitor at the house? For there had been another caller; not Geoffrey Wardlan. Had Bianca come upon something which would show more surely who he was?

June closed her eyes and tried to force sleep so that the night would pass and bring the morning when the state would put Bianca Danielli on the witness stand.

"Bianca Danielli!" a clerk of the court called in his clear, authoritative tones. "Bianca Danielli!"

In the jury box, June Stranton started almost as if her own name had been announced. Since the resumption of the trial at 10 o'clock, she had been waiting for this call. She had had to listen to the testimony of two police officers from Paignton, before Bianca was called. Both belonged to the squad which had hurried to the manor in response to Flora List's report of the murder on the telephone.

One of the officers referred to police records to establish the time, to a minute, when Flora had phoned; he testified to the exact moment of his arrival at the manor and described, clearly and precisely, what he had seen. He had made a diagram of the location and condition of the chairs and of the table on the terrace, what windows and doors were found open and what ones closed. He made a very good witness; and Mr. Netley questioned him for almost an hour.

Defense Attorney Begins Careful Questioning

The tall Mr. Torpen, for the defense, began his cross-examination a few minutes before 11 and he conducted it deliberately and most carefully.

It was plain, from both officers' testimonies, that Lily Leam had spent the late evening in company with a man—presumably the man who, at some time after 11 o'clock and before midnight, killed her. There were innumerable proofs of the presence of a man. Both testified as to the ash trays on the tables on both terraces, as to the glasses and the bowl and the bottles on the lower terrace and told where a chair had been overturned.

At last, Bianca was called. A lively, dark haired girl of graceful bearing walked toward the witness stand. She was of medium height, young, and slender; and June liked her as soon as she looked at her. Bianca stopped, in momentary confusion, before she took the steps up to the witness stand; then, very seriously, she put her hand on the Bible and was sworn.

She faced the courtroom, trembling a little. June was near enough to see this and to hear the shaky, scarcely uttered "thank you, sir" to the judge, who spoke to her kindly to reassure her.

Bianca sat down and her lovely eyes seemed larger and browner than before. She had a clear olive skin and she made an appealing picture in the big oak chair. With one accord the newspaper artists set to sketching her; and Mr. Netley put his first questions quietly.

She identified herself, very simply, as the daughter of the gardener of the estate which Lily Leam had rented; she said that she was 18 years old, had graduated from Paignton High school, and that she lived with her father and mother in the gardener's cottage, which was about a quarter of a mile from the manor house; and that Miss Leam had engaged her to work as waitress and parlor maid in the major house and that she did work there daily—except for occasional days "off"—from the time Miss Leam moved in and up to the day of Miss Leam's death.

"So you saw Miss Leam frequently, did you, Bianca?" Mr. Netley inquired.

"Yes, sir; I saw her several times a day—most days. And every day, I would see her once; because you see, when I had a day off," Bianca explained, "it was not all day. I would go up to the house first to do a few little things. I liked to go. I liked to speak to Miss Leam and have her speak to me. She was a very nice lady."

Mr. Netley waited a moment, more than satisfied with the impression his witness was making.

"You knew the defendant also, Bianca?" he asked.

"Mr. Wardlan, who is sitting there?" Bianca's warm brown eyes rested on him. "Yes, sir; I knew Mr. Wardlan. I knew him before I knew Miss Leam; for he moved in first. Into the lodge, I mean. I worked for him sometimes, before Miss Leam came."

"Will you tell us more about that, Bianca?"

Bianca nodded. "There is not much to tell, sir. Mr. Wardlan moved into the lodge about a year ago; it was empty before. Mr. Wardlan brought no help with him; so when he found us—I mean, sir, my family—living on the place, he asked mamma to cook and clean for him. I used to go up and we worked there together; sometimes mamma went by herself or I went by myself. Usually there was not much to do.

"I never saw a man quieter than Mr. Wardlan; nor more considerate—I mean not scattering his things around and leaving them for others to pick up. I never saw a nicer man either, as far as a girl alone in the house with him was concerned.

"Myself, sir," Bianca finished in a burst of breathlessness, "I'd never say a word against him. He certainly never made any passes at me."

"However," Mr. Netley quickly caught up his witness, "you very infrequently were at the lodge alone?"

"Yes, sir; mother did most of his work."

"Whereas, you did most of the work for Miss Leam?"

"Yes, sir; but after a while, mamma worked there too. We worked together a lot of the time."

"How could you do that when your mother was working for Mr. Wardlan and you for Miss Leam?"

"That's easy," Bianca replied in her bright, quick way. "They were together a lot of the time—an awful lot of the time."

"By 'they' you mean?"

"Miss Leam and Mr. Wardlan. What was the use of mamma cooking lunch or dinner at the lodge when Mr. Wardlan wasn't going to eat it there but was going to eat with Miss Leam at the house? So mamma would come over to help me. You see?"

"I think I see, Bianca," Mr. Netley encouraged her, "but all the jury may not follow you, as they do not know the circumstances. Will you explain them, please?"

Bianca swung about to the jury. "It was this way. Mamma made the bed and dusted and cooked for Mr. Wardlan. That was at the lodge. I cooked and dusted for Miss Leam. That was at the house. Flora—I mean Flora List—used to get Miss Leam's breakfast herself. She wanted to, Flora didn't want me to. Anyway, Miss Leam had practically nothing for breakfast—black coffee and a piece of toast and fruit. Never anything else, when she was alone; so Flora got that. Flora made Miss Leam's bed. I suppose she didn't have to; but she always did. So I just dusted and cleaned in the morning; then I got lunch and dinner. I did that alone—until they began getting together for most meals."

"Mr. Wardlan and Miss Leam, you mean?"

"Yes, sir; after a week, it began to be that way. They were together and they had meals together, whenever they could."

"Together?" Mr. Netley repeated. "Where? At the lodge or at the house?"

"O, never at the lodge. It was always at the house. I don't remember Miss Leam eating at the lodge. So with them eating together, two meals a day often, it was silly for mamma to cook at the lodge; she would come over and help me. Except that he slept at the lodge and Miss Leam at the house, it was almost as if they lived in the same house. For a while, he even came over for breakfast with her. I used to set the table for them on the terrace. And then I got breakfast, too, and I served them."

June sat back, relaxed and warm with relief. Bianca, who was completely free of the personal hostility which Flora had displayed, was depicting a situation more damning to the prisoner than all of Flora's accusations—a relationship so close and constant that it could come to but one or two ends, either to marriage or to some violent dissolution. It had not come to marriage.

When she gazed at the prisoner, June found herself thinking, "He's guilty"; and she recognized that this was the reason for her feeling of relief. It shamed her a little, for she remembered that, until last night, she had believed and she had wanted to believe Geoffrey Wardlan innocent; but that was when the alternative involved her in nothing worse than transferring the guilt to some unknown, nameless man; that was before she had fingered the lighter and Cora had told her of the Endoll Pharmacy.

Bianca Identifies the Little Lighter

On the table of the exhibits received in evidence, the little lighter lay only a few feet away; and, thru the morning, June had looked at it again and again. For the first time today, she felt comfortable as she considered it. Suppose Ned had it; suppose Ned had spent an evening with Lily Leam. His attentions to her might have been limited to one single occasion. At worst he could have had little to do with her; for it was agreed by two witnesses that Geoffrey Wardlan, here on trial for his life, had monopolized Lily Leam to the virtual exclusion of every one else.

Mr. Netley walked to the table and picked up the lighter. He held it up in front of the witness.

"You have seen this before, Bianca?"

"Yes, sir; I've seen it," Bianca said and put out a slim, olive hand for it.

"Where did you see it first?" Mr. Netley inquired.

Bianca fingered the smooth little cylinder appreciatively; and June knew something of her sensation. The weight of the platinum always surprised one and it was pleasant to touch.

"On the floor of Miss Leam's drawing room. It was on the rug beside

Week's Program Filled with Orchestral Music Treats

Fritz Kreisler to Be Soloist with Symphony

By Cecil Smith.

There will be no shortage of orchestral music in the loop this week. The Chicago Symphony orchestra, with Hans Lange conducting and Fritz Kreisler as violin soloist, plays its usual Thursday evening and Friday afternoon concerts in Orchestra hall, and Mr. Lange also conducts a popular concert on Saturday evening. This afternoon George Dasch directs the Chicago Business Men's orchestra in the Goodman theater. Paula Zwane, soprano, appears with the Illinois Symphony orchestra, Ralph Rose, conductor, in the Great Northern theater Monday evening. On Wednesday in Orchestra hall Izler Solomon's Woman's Symphony orchestra and Walter Aschenbrenner's Chicago Symphonic choir share a novel program. If you know where to go and when to go there, you need not starve for either standard symphonic music or attractive novelties this week.

Fritz Kreisler.

Mr. Kreisler has already played a solo recital in Chicago this season but his engagement with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in this jubilee year takes on particular significance, since his playing has been known to orchestra patrons for 40 of the orchestra's 50 years. His first appearance here took place in the tenth season of the orchestra, when Mr. Kreisler, who had previously appeared as a wonder child in joint recitals with Moriz Rosenthal, the pianist, embarked upon his first American tour after attaining adulthood.

Now a grayed and honored veteran of the concert platform, Mr. Kreisler is one of the favorite performing musicians in America. Whether because of the warm, heartfelt sentiment of his playing or the serene poise of his platform manner, he is one of those rare and fortunate artists whose audience remains utterly loyal thru the passing years.

In this week's symphony programs Mr. Kreisler is scheduled to play two works, Max Bruch's first concerto, in G minor, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Fantasie on Russian Themes."

• • •

Mr. Lange will begin the Thursday-Friday program with the first performance of a "Symphonic Overture in G" by Remi Gassmann. A native of Kansas, Mr. Gassmann spent several years in Europe as a thoro and diligent pupil of Paul Hindemith. After his years of voluntary expatriation, first in Berlin and later in Paris, the young composer returned to this country, and settled down here in Chicago in the fall of 1939. Last winter he and Dudley Powers played his cello sonata at one of Mr. Lange's chamber concerts. The Symphonic Overture is the second of Mr. Gassmann's pieces to come to local hearing. When he is not composing, he teaches musical theory to the members of the Civic orchestra.

The complete Thursday-Friday program follows:

Symphonic Overture in G..........Gassmann
[First performance.]
Concerto for Violin No. 1, G minor..Bruch
Fritz Kreisler.
"The Walk to the Paradise Garden," from "A Village Romeo and Juliet"..........Delius
Fantasie on Russian Themes.Rimsky-Korsakoff
Fritz Kreisler.
Symphony No. 5, E. minor....Tschaikowsky

In Saturday evening's popular concert, also in Orchestra hall, the following works will be played, under Mr. Lange's direction:

Dramatic Overture, "Melpomene"..Chadwick
Symphony No. 2, D. major..........Brahms
Prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun"..........Debussy
Symphonic Poem, "Danse Macabre"..........Saint-Saëns
Marché Slave..........Tschaikowsky

George Dasch and the members of the Chicago Business Men's orchestra will dedicate this afternoon's Goodman theater performance of the Chausson symphony to the memory of George Lytton, who founded the orchestra in 1921. For 19 years the orchestra has maintained a remarkable standard of excellence, despite the fact that all its players are amateurs, drawn from several dozen different professions and vocations. For the season's first concert today the following program is scheduled:

Prelude to "Hansel and Gretel".Humperdinck
Symphony, B-flat major..........Chausson
Overture-Fantasy, "Romeo and Juliet"..........Tschaikowsky
Waltz, "On the Beautiful Blue Danube"..........Strauss

Ralph Rose will conduct the Illinois Symphony orchestra in the first American performance of Constant Lambert's music from "Horoscope" in Monday evening's "Great Northern theater concert. "Horoscope" is a ballet, produced in London in 1938, consisting of five movements based upon five of the signs of the zodiac.

The soloist Monday will be Paula Zwane, Chicago soprano. She will be heard in the great Beethoven aria, 'Ah, Perfido!" and in "Leise, Leise," from Weber's "Der Freischütz." The detailed program follows:

St. Paul's Suite..........Holst
"Ah, Perfido!"..........Beethoven
Paula Zwane.
"Leise, Leise," from "Der Freischütz"
Weber Suite from "Horoscope"..........Lambert
[First time in America.]
Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla, from "The Rhinegold"..........Wagner
Prelude to "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg"..........Wagner

The Woman's Symphony orchestra, resplendent in new blue uniforms, shares its Wednesday evening program with the well known Chicago Symphonic choir. The first half of the program will be devoted to orchestral music, conducted by Izler Solomon. After the intermission Walter Aschenbrenner will direct the choir in a variety of choral works and arrangements, and at the end of the concert the choir and the orchestra will join in the Polovtzian dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor." The orchestral items listed are Eleanor Everest Freer's "Ballet Fantasy," Haydn's Symphony No. 26, in D minor, and Sibelius' tone poem, "Pohjola's Daughter." The choir will sing motets by Willan and Lvoff, and Mr. Aschenbrenner's transcriptions of compositions by Scarlatti, Bach, Tschaikowsky, Goldbeck, and Bortniansky.

BALLET RUSSE PRINCIPALS

When the Ballet Theater leaves after Dec. 15, Chicago will be without a dance group until the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo arrives for a short season at the Auditorium theater on Dec. 26. Mia Slavenska and Igor Youskevitch are two of the Russian company's leading dancers.

Current Music News

The University of Chicago Symphony orchestra, Siegmund Levarie, conductor, will give its first concert of the season tonight in Mandel hall, 57th street and University avenue. Like many another instrumental group, professional, academic or amateur, it will do its part in the celebration of Jan Sibelius' 75th birthday, which falls this day; for the Finnish composer's early [1893] "Karelia" suite, op. 11, will be played.

Mendelssohn's rarely performed octet for strings in E flat major, op. 20, will open the concert. It will be conducted by Charles Buckley, coach of the ensemble's string section. The third and last item on the program consists of two selections from Paul Hindemith's "Plöner Musiktag" or "A Day of Music in Plön." This is a lengthy work composed for a school by the great German composer in 1932 and contains music to be played at different times of the day. The numbers to be heard tonight are a solo for flute and strings and a Quodlibet for orchestra. These are presumably the first performances in this country of the two selections, but several other parts of "A Day of Music in Plön" were played in New York by the Greenwich House Music school in the spring of 1937. Both the "Karelia" suite and the Hindemith works will be conducted by Mr. Levarie.

Kirsten Flagstad.

Today brings the fourth attraction in the History and Enjoyment of Music series to the Auditorium theater, namely the famous Wagnerian soprano, Kirsten Flagstad. Her program is devoted entirely to songs, and features Grieg's cycle of eight songs called "Haugtussa." Five numbers by Brahms will open the concert: "Die Mainacht," "Die Liebende Schreibt," "An die Nachtigall," "Ständchen," and "Frühlingströst." Following the Grieg cycle will come works by four American composers, and the program will conclude with four numbers by Hugo Wolf: "Gesagn Weylas," "Wenn Du zu den Blumen Gehst," "Liebe Mir in Busen," will "Neue Liebe." Edwin McArthur will accompany Mme. Flagstad.

The Chicago Club of Women Organists will offer a Christmas recital in St. James' Lutheran church, 1856 Sheridan road, Evanston, today at 4 o'clock. Ora Phillips, Virginia Wells, and Esther Wunderlich will be the organists participating in the program, and the St. James' and Ravenswood Christian church choirs will sing.

A Christmas carol program will be proffered by Omega chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national musical fraternity, at Grace Episcopal church, 1440 Indiana avenue, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The artists appearing will include Virginia Franck, Barbara Malott, Louise Sunderman, Florence Boydston, the Omega ensemble, and Walter Flandorf.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow the Lake View Musical society will sponsor a program in the Arts club with and for the Civic Music association group from the Park Ridge school for girls. The children will sing carols under the direction of Marx Oberndorfer, and the subsequent program will be played for them. The performers in this second part will be Edith Aamodt, Charlene Dilling Brewer, Stephanie Zeigler, Grace Desmond, Holland and Ilsa Maren Karpell.

Thru next Sunday night the Ballet Theater will have a busy time of it. This afternoon, Thursday night, and next Sunday afternoon and evening it will offer all-ballet programs in the Civic Opera house. On Tuesday night it will supplement the Chicago Opera company's presentation of "Salome" with its excellent version of "Les Sylphides." In between all these duties it will continue to dance in the operatic performances.

Two important novelties mark this afternoon's program. The first, "Dark Elegies," being given its Chicago première, is another work by the gifted English choreographer, Antony Tudor, who has already to his credit such diverse and superior ballets as "Jardin aux Lilas," "Judgment of Paris," and "Goyescas." The new item is an earlier creation than the three just mentioned, but is considered one of Tuder's best. It is danced to Mahler's "Kindertotenlieder" and has décor by Nadia Benois.

"Billy the Kid" is the other new item this afternoon. It was given here a few years ago by the Ballet Caravan with a two piano accompaniment. Eugene Loring, the choreographer, has revised and expanded the work since then, and, of course, the orchestral score will be heard this time. It differs considerably from the same dancer's "The Great American Goof," but is still thoroly American. Its story is concerned with the famous western hero and its original score is by the eminent Aaron Copland.

Besides "Dark Elegies" and "Billy the Kid," today's program promises a repetition of Anton Dolin's "Capriccioso" and the "Bluebird" pas de deux.

On Thursday the Ballet Theater will devote the evening to its first Chicago performance of Michel Fokine's famous "Carnival" as restaged by the creator. The presentation of the beautiful revival of "Giselle" completes the bill. If Annabelle Lyon's injured foot has healed properly by Thursday she will dance the title rôle, previously taken by Nana Gollner.

On the afternoon of next Sunday the Ballet Theater will give the following program: "Swan Lake," "Billy the Kid," "Judgment of Paris," and "Quintet." The evening's gala farewell performance has not yet been announced. As usual, the able Alexander Smallens will conduct all performances.

Moissaye Boguslawski

Moissaye Boguslawski, prominent Chicago pianist, will give his annual recital this afternoon in Orchestra hall. Besides his activities as a concert artist, Mr. Boguslawski has found time to manage the Boguslawski College of Music, teach, compose, and edit several volumes of piano music. His program today is limited to the works of four great composers, and includes the Bach-Busoni Prelude and Fugue in D major, Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Paganini, Schumann's "Papillons," and Toccata, and six selections by Chopin.

The famous Australian composer, conductor, and pianist, Percy Grainger, will be guest artist at the Oak Park-River Forest Symphony orchestra's first concert this season on Tuesday night in the Oak Park club, Ontario street and Oak Park avenue. Mr. Grainger will conduct three of his own compositions and will have the solo part in Grieg's piano concerto in A minor. For the concerto, as well as the other two numbers on the program, Beethoven's Seventh symphony and Wagner's "Rienzi" overture, Gladys Welge will conduct. The program is announced for 8 o'clock.

Marion Schroeder, soprano, and Robert Kessler, tenor, will be featured on the musical to be given by the Lake Shore club this afternoon at the clubhouse, 840 Lake Shore drive. Isabel Ebert will be the accompanist and piano soloist.

Final Week of Opera Promises Stellar Works

Tuesday after a ten year silence, will be repeated next Saturday afternoon with the same cast.

The season's third "Aida," due tomorrow evening, will feature Rose Bampton instead of Zinka Milanov in the name part.

Mention of Miss Bampton is a reminder of the fact that she is this week engaged in some sort of musical chairs game. She is replacing Mme. Milanov in "Aida" and is being herself replaced by Maria Hussa in "The Valkyrie." The latter work has been selected to close the season next Saturday evening, and not only Sieglinde but also Brünnhilde, Siegmund, Fricka, and the conductor have been changed. Kirsten Flagstad, probably the most important figure in Wagnerian opera today, will have the rôle of the disobedient goddess. Lauritz Melchior is to sing Siegmund and Sonia Sharnova Fricka. Edwin McArthur, Mme. Flagstad's accompanist and favorite conductor, will be in general musical charge of the proceedings.

By the way, the opportunity to hear Maria Hussa in the tempting music of Sieglinde will be a valuable one. She is the Viennese soprano who aroused such favorable comment eight days ago when she made her Chicago operatic debut in the part of the princess in "Der Rosenkavalier."

Flotow's "Martha," scheduled to have been performed yesterday afternoon in a new English translation and with Helen Jepson, Suzanne Sten, James Melton, and Douglas Beattie in the four principal parts, will be repeated with the same cast next Friday night.

Altho this is the last week of regular performances, the opera company has announced a solitary "Manon," with Grace Moore, Tito Schipa, and George Czaplicki, for New Year's eve.

But this story seems to be mostly about changes in cast—a point which the reader may justly feel is academic. The really important things about the week's schedule are, of course, the quality of the works to be offered and the type of general performance which they are likely to receive.

It so happens that two of the most arresting products of the genius of Richard Strauss, highly important living composer, find place on the week's list. "Salome" and "Der Rosenkavalier," one a tragedy of blood and degeneracy, the other a gentle, regretful comedy with some of the most shining music Strauss ever produced, are scheduled for performance only 24 hours apart. By the way, the Ballet Theater's innocent little "Les Sylphides" will be offered as a nightcap after gory "Salome" Tuesday.

"The Jewels of the Madonna" is a melodramatic opus full of warm melody and numberless chances for spectacular stage effects.

As for "Aida," "Martha," and "The Valkyrie," their qualities and general character have been familiar to all opera-goers for generations. The first is the most brilliant and one of the most melodious of all Verdi's works, the second is a sparkling tuneful little opera with—of all things!—a happy ending, and the third is the most popular and probably the most diversified of the four music dramas which make up "The Ring of the Nibelungs." It has a movingly lyrical first act and an indescribably splendid third.

That the general quality of the performances this week will be very high is indicated by the presence in the casts of such persons as Giovanni Martinelli, George Czaplicki, Emanuel List, Helen Jepson, Suzanne Sten, James Melton, and Dusolina Giannini—these in addition to the artists named in the earlier part of this story.

Stage direction will be up to the company's high 1940 standards. The Ballet Theater will appear in all operas requiring dancing. The new young chorus will be on hand.

Times and casts follow:

Monday at 8: Verdi's "Aida," with Rose Bampton, Elsa Zebranska, Giovanni Martinelli, Giuseppe Cavadore, George Czaplicki, Virgilio Lazzari, Douglas Beattie, and the Ballet theater. Conductor, Paul Breisach.

Tuesday at 8: Strauss' "Salome," with Marjorie Lawrence, Sonia Sharnova, Lydia Summers, Frederick Jagel, and George Czaplicki. Conductor, Carl Alwin. Also the Fokine-Chopin "Les Sylphides" by the Ballet Theater. Conductor, Alexander Smallens.

Wednesday at 8: Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," with Risë Stevens, Maria Hussa, Margit Bokor, Suzanne Sten, Robert Long, Francesco Naya, Emanuel List, and Fred Destal. Conductor, Fritz Reiner.

Friday at 8: Flotow's "Martha," with Helen Jepson, Suzanne Sten, James Melton, Douglas Beattie, and the Ballet Theater. Conductor, Kurt Herbert Adler.

Saturday at 2: Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna," with Dusolina Giannini, Ada Paggi, Frederick Jagel, George Czaplicki, and the Ballet Theater. Conductor, Maurice Abravanel.

Saturday at 8: Wagner's "The Valkyrie," with Kirsten Flagstad, Maria Hussa, Lauritz Melchior, Fred Destal, and Emanuel List. Conductor, Edwin McArthur.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Ever since I played my first game of bridge, way back in auction days, I have been hearing about that mysterious, esoteric quality called "card sense." Even today, people I meet will say, "Mr. Culbertson, do you think there is any use in my taking up bridge? I'm afraid I haven't much card sense." Or, contrariwise, "Bridge ought to be easy for me—I have good card sense."

Let me say here and now that the first speaker, by deliberately building a barrier of doubt, is hurting his own cause and perhaps depriving himself of splendid entertainment. The second speaker, the confident one, is making just as big a mistake in the opposite direction. He will expect his "card sense" to lead him straight to expertness—and he is in for a decided disappointment! For the fact of the matter is that, of all the so-called instincts, card sense is by far the most overrated—if it exists at all. Read what a New England authority, my friend Frank Perkins, has to say on this subject:

"Card instinct is a much abused term. It is the pride of the expert, but the downfall of the fellow who bellows 'three no trump' at every opportunity—then goes down on a hand that ought to produce an extra trick.

"There is no question that success at the bridge table depends a great deal on the ability to size up competitive situations. Often, they are outside any book or system, and experts claim they depend on card instinct. We doubt this, and go so far as to deny any inherent card instinct. We believe the so-called instinct is the result of tremendous card table experience, backed up by a sound knowledge of technique. Furthermore, you will notice that the fellow who depends on "card sense" alone is almost always a losing player. We prefer to take our chances with a partner who is willing and able to count to 13. Let the other fellow have the instinct if he will promise to rely on it alone.

"Instinctive players have a great yen for no trump contracts, so here are a couple of deals where declarer played too much 'by ear.'

"North, dealer.

"The bidding:

"West led the diamond deuce.

"Being an instinctive player, South was delighted that West had opened the long diamond suit, and declarer had visions of winning every finesse in a blaze of glory.

"So declarer played a low diamond from dummy, and East won with the diamond jack. But East knifed declarer by shifting to a low spade. Declarer was now alarmed, and allowed the spade ten and the spade king to win the next two tricks. If West now led a third spade, declarer would be all right.

"But, after making his second spade, West led another diamond, and declarer again finessed, which was as good as anything at this stage. East won the trick with the diamond king, and then came back with a club, and declarer was ruined. If he put up his club ace he would eliminate his heart entry. So that finesse was tried, too, and the club king beat the hand.

"A player who felt less gifted might have taken the trouble to grab the game and rubber which was possible against any defense and any distribution after the first lead.

"Dummy's ace should have taken the first diamond and the A-K of hearts should be cashed. Then the club queen should be led and allowed to run and declarer would be sure of four hearts, three clubs, and the two side aces. South was helpless against the actual defense after the first mistake.

"Here's another hand:

"Contract, three no trump by South.

"West led the spade five.

"Declarer ducked the first spade when East played the spade king, but the spade ace captured the second round of spades.

"A quick glance assured declarer that he could run home with nine tricks, so he cashed the club queen, the club king, and the club ace. Then he suddenly saw that South's club six was higher than any club left in dummy and that it would block the suit. The heart finesse now seemed necessary, and the hand went down one when West showed up with the king of hearts and ran off the spades.

"If the adverse clubs had split 2-2, South could have won the third club, letting dummy win the fourth and fifth rounds. But against the actual distribution an unblocking play was needed.

"After the queen and king of clubs showed the club split, dummy should have led a losing spade on which South could get rid of his troublesome club six. Let the enemy make the remaining spades, for that would take only four tricks for the defense. After that declarer could regain the lead and spread his hand for the balance—five clubs and the four top cards in the other suits. And again:

"Contract, three no trump by South.

"West led the spade four.

"South knew instinctively that the hand that opens the auction is usually the stronger and that it is dummy in such cases that is likely to need entries.

"So declarer held off the first spade and won the second round. The club king was allowed to hold the next trick, and then another club was taken by East. East led a third spade, knocking out dummy's spade king.

"Dummy played the diamond queen, but was allowed to hold the trick. Then the diamond deuce was covered by South's diamond king and taken by West's diamond ace. The last spade was cashed and West got out of his hand with the diamond eight. South had no entry for his clubs, so dummy was stuck with the lead and a heart trick beat the contract.

"None of these hands were very difficult. They all have a point that required attention, but an experienced player should have had no trouble with any of them. Nevertheless, they were all lost by players who had years of experience at the bridge table, because they preferred to trust their native instinct rather than a cold blooded count."

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

Vaudeville

Anita Louise and her harp are a current attraction of the Oriental theater's stage show. The movie actress is co-starring this week with George Givot [the Greek Ambassador], and Johnny [Scat] Davis and his orchestra. Bernice Stone, acrobatic dancer, is an added feature of the bill. On the screen is "Dulcy," with Ann Sothern.

Mischa Auer.

One of filmdom's favorite clowns, Mischa Auer, is appearing on the stage of the Chicago theater. Leni Lynn, a 15 year old coloratura soprano, is also to be seen and heard. Other acts offer Novak and Fay, comedy team; the Fraday dancers, precision group, and the Shyrettos, novelty acrobats. At the Rialto theater the outstanding personalities in the stage show are Bozo Snyder, Joan Dare, and Babette. The excellent French picture, "The Human Beast," with Simon Simone and Jean Gabin, is to be seen on the screen.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning:

Sometimes, into a roomful of people, there steps A Presence! A Personality which causes all others to pale by contrast. As such I present to you Mr. James Stephenson who completely dominates "The Letter" even unto Miss Bette Davis' sure and canny performance.

You'll be asking about him—so here is what brief data I have. . . . Mr. Stephenson is an Englishman who starred on the London stage in "Counsellor at Law" and other plays. He came to Hollywood with the idea of playing character rôles. Enjoys acting and because he does, rarely takes a vacation.

• • •

In this movie he appears as a barrister of integrity, high in his profession, who sacrifices his ideals and risks his future thru purchase and suppression of evidence which would incriminate his client.

I have never seen a quieter performance. Never one that was more reticent, more completely revealing—more effective.

All of which is not saying that Miss Davis slips. On the contrary her portrayal is an arresting and a brave one. For the woman she depicts is evil. . . . A married woman who deceives a devoted and trusting husband, murders with deliberation the lover who has fouled his nest, when she finds herself deserted for another woman and, with consummate skill erects a castle of lies in which she coolly takes refuge, having convinced her husband and the lawyer who has long been a family friend, that she killed to protect her honor.

Convinces . . . and yet—you are aware that Howard Joyce is tormented by a gnawing doubt. A doubt he refuses to acknowledge even to himself. . . . And you're conscious of his complete lack of surprise when he learns that there is—THE LETTER!

THE LETTER—written by Leslie Crosbie. The letter summoning to her home on a night she knew she was to be alone [the night of his death] the man she has sworn was a most casual acquaintance and whom she had not seen for many months.

• • •

Suspense builds up slowly and terrifyingly from the moment coolie boys, asleep after their day's work on the rubber plantation near Singapore, are aroused from their slumbers by the sound of many shots. . . . Their mistress stands on the house veranda pumping lead into the still body of a man who has fallen at the foot of the steps.

One of the boys follows her into the house and looks her in the eye. . . . He runs away.

Thru all the trying days that follow Mrs. Crosbie's gentle nonchalance never deserts her. . . . Katharine Cornell in the stage production or Jeanne Eagels on the screen may have surpassed Miss Davis' performance, but according to my recollection they did not. . . . She is sinister—but she is appealing. She is fragile—but unafraid. And she is ruthless. During her scenes with Stephenson you feel as if you were sitting on top of a crater.

Herbert Marshall as her husband and Gale Sondergaard as the victim's Eurasian wife do brilliant work. Miss Sondergaard just scares the wits out of you. Fine cast thruout.

This is melodrama after Somerset Maugham's finest style. He travels, he observes—far more with his mind's eye than with his physical orb . . . and both are equipped with the equivalent of a telescopical lens thru which we gaze, too, via the medium of his all revealing pen.

Direction by Mr. Wyler is masterly.

See you tomorrow.

Dancing Frocks for the Young Are Ethereal

By Rea Seeger.

Young buds will dance in ethereal dresses of fine net this holiday season. Scorning all previous predilections for the slinky, streamlined costumes worn by their older sisters, this new crop of knowing clothes collectors wants the froth and foam and lace bows, net, and flowers that spell distraction to the stag lines. Once again fond mammas will beam from the sidelines, slightly bewildered, no doubt, over this sudden turn of the progeny.

Not since the days of Elsie Dinsmore has there been such a dither over party dresses of pink, white, and blue. Blissfully forgetting any desire to appear sophisticated, the gay dancers at any Christmas ball will be visions of fragile grace and charm. Clouds and layers of net swish with the proper amount of swish over taffeta underslips, underslips that measure the same billowing areas as the fluffy skirts above them. Shoulders are covered, puffed sleeves are back, and demurely low and lovely necklines please both the doting parent and the unblasé young dancer.

To the jaundiced eye of the deb out for a couple of years these lovely party dresses will look confectionery. To the fashion sleuths their eye appeal is tremendous. Girls can and never will look more angelic, and according to the poll from the stag lines, girls have, thank goodness, become something to try even a poem or two about. Party slippers, long capes of blue, red, navy, or black velvet, lined with contrasting colors, white bunny fur hoods and matching mittens, garlands in the hair, perky little velvet bows tied to cluster of curls, all the enchanting accessories of a first real honest to goodness party make any affair a sensational success.

Not a chance of a wallflower with any of these dresses. They're the most provocatively feminine party frocks ever gathered around a narrow waistline. Thick ruching of the net makes wide skirts sway in even wider circles. Thousands of twinkling sequins dazzle every one's eye under candlelight or floodlights. The pinks and blues are as delectable as the bonbon displays in a candy shop window.

White is one of the most successful promotions of the year. Young and not so young select it for dress parade. White with Christmas red ribbon trim, white with silver ribbon, white with gold or silver sequins, white with gold embroidery and with lace and brocade, it's the big fashion news of the season.

Pink and blue rate next in popularity, real confectionery pinks and baby blues, with interesting and telling contrasts, such as blue with pink, or pink with just hints of blue. White with red bowknots, with clusters of red flowers sewed hit and miss all over the wide, full skirts, is another holiday combine. A few pale yellows that look like silver gilt are spattered with tiny gold sequins or beads, and, as always, the all red dancing dress, whether in these delightfully filmy nets or chiffons, or clinging crepes, complete thefinds.

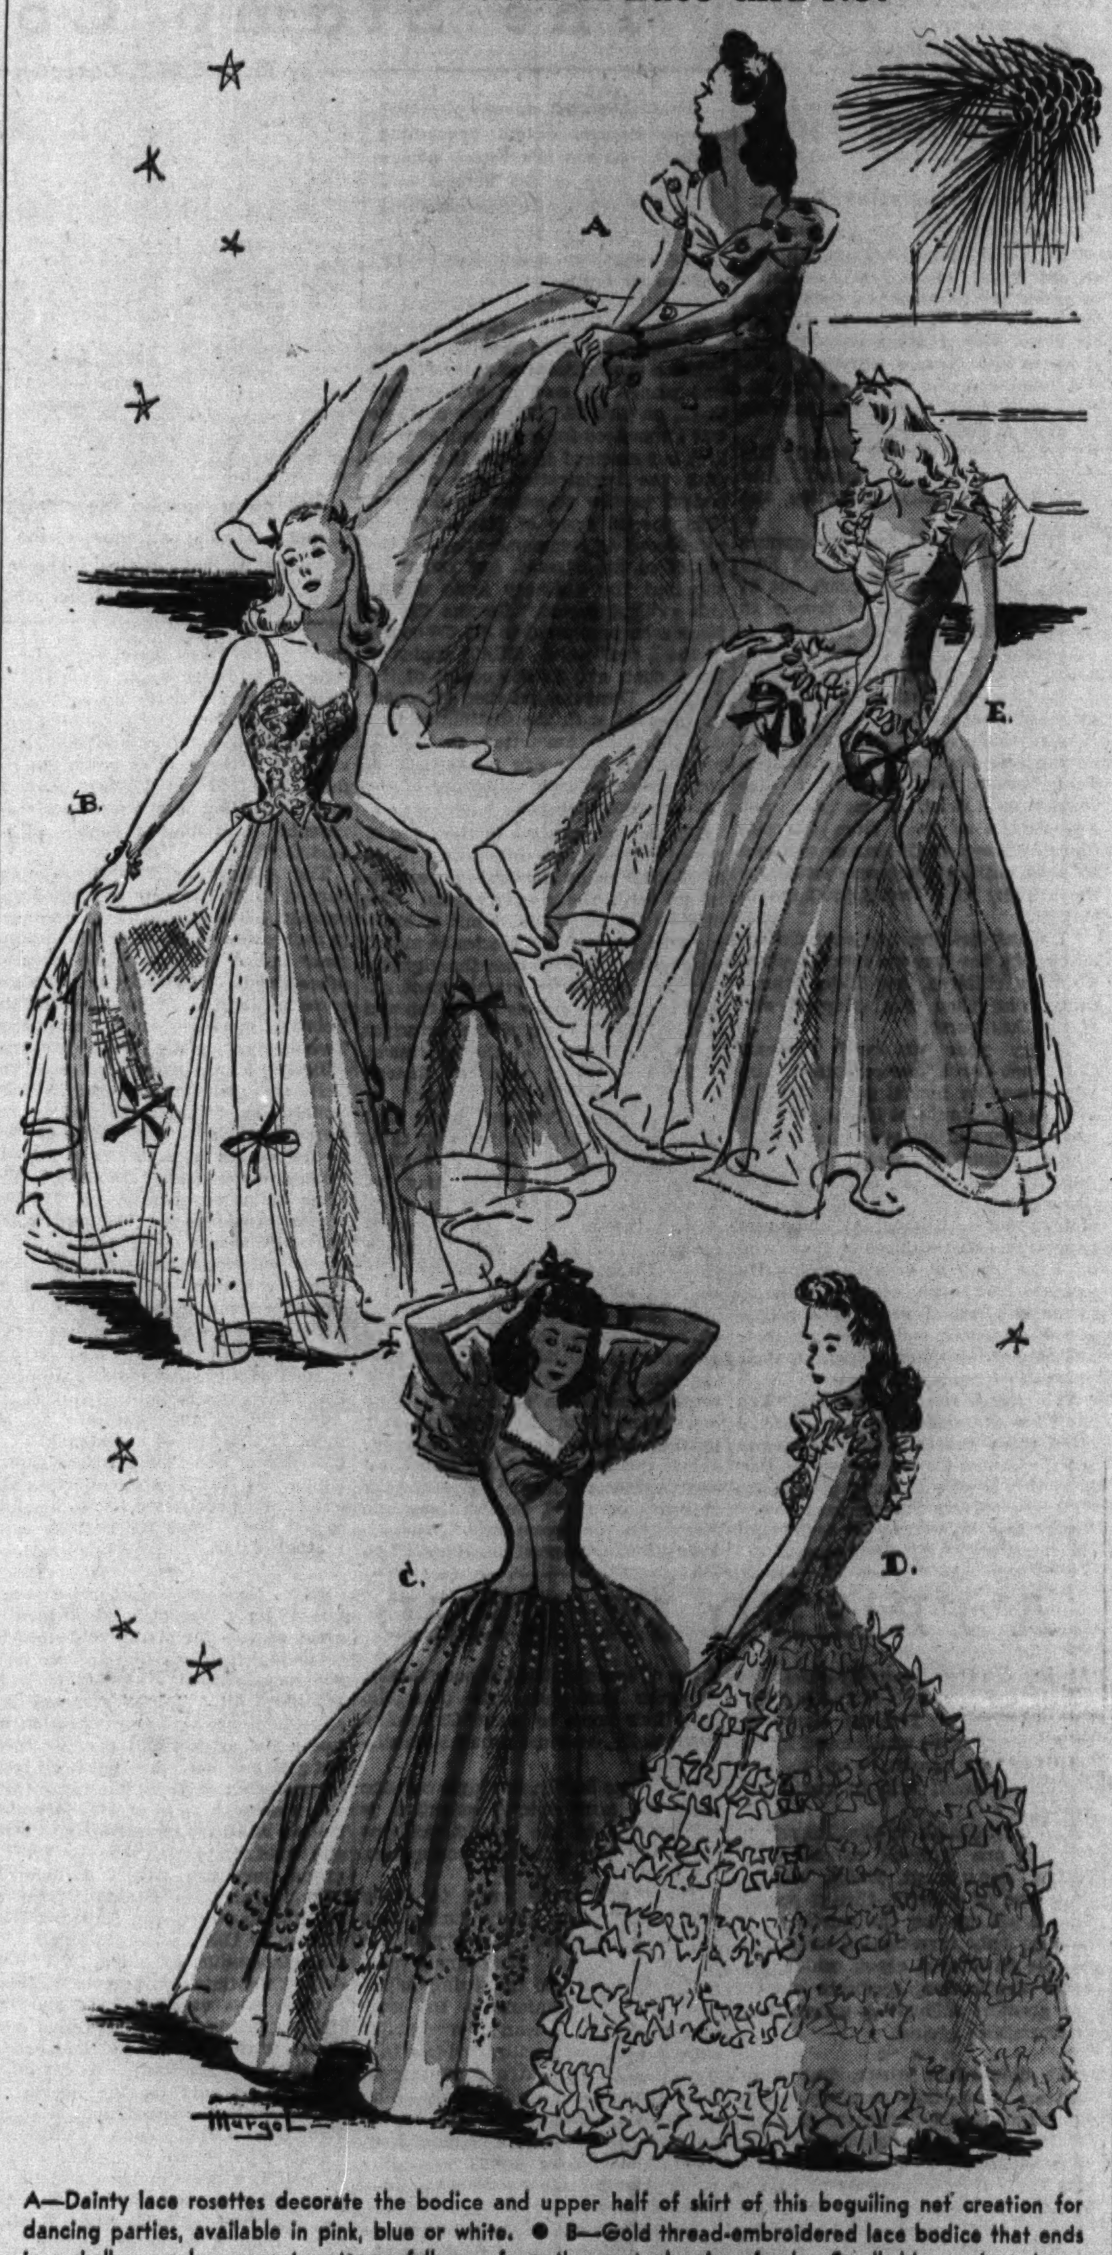
Clark College Club of Chicago to Attend Mass

The Clark College Club of Chicago will receive communion in a body at a special mass at 9 o'clock this morning at old St. Mary's church, 911 South Wabash avenue. Afterward the members will have breakfast at the Blackstone hotel. The Rev. James R. Keane, nationally known for his work in organizing Our Lady of Sorrows perpetual novena, will speak. Miss Janet Kean is chairman of the program, with Mrs. W. J. O'Neill, Miss Catherine Mahoney, Miss Louise Macku, Miss Madelyn Smith, and Miss Katharine Brown assisting her.

Froth and Foam of Lace and Net



A—Dainty lace rosettes decorate the bodice and upper half of skirt of this beguiling net creation for dancing parties, available in pink, blue or white. ● B—Gold thread-embroidered lace bodice that ends in a shallow peplum accents extreme fullness of another net dancing frock. Small blue velvet bows accent pink net of skirt. ● C—The girl who wears this dress of cool white net sprinkled with twinkling gold sequins will resemble an angel atop a Christmas tree. ● D—Dance dress with a future. Many bands of double ruched net whirl around wide skirt. Tiny bodice is fashioned of silver embroidered lace. ● E—Pale pink beauty has colonial manner. It's of fine net, cut with shirred waistline, cunning pockets at hipline, and fitted bodice, and trimmed with blue velvet bows.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt.

[Have you some favorite household help, something that lightens labor and gets results? Is there some special comfort or convenience you could enjoy? We'll be glad to pass on your ideas to our readers.]

Mrs. Marion Burns, Chicago — I find that if I roll old newspapers very tightly and then tie them into knots, I've helped myself to excellent kindling.

* *

Helen Sanders, Milwaukee—This is the time of year when dirt can get ground into a wax floor. When this happens I rub spots with a cloth dampened with turpentine until wax is gone. Then I wash floor with alcohol and wax it again to give it a new polish. If some of varnish is gone, I apply a little white shellack before I give it a fresh waxing.

* *

Mrs. Henry Carr, Chicago—Why can't we have double boilers that "whistle or sing" as a warning to the lady of the house that water is getting dangerously low?

* *

Joyce Long, Elgin, Ill.—When any of my brass pieces around the house get a bit tarnished I dip half a lemon in salt and rub brass with it. Tarnish comes off, and brass then can be polished with a soft cloth.

* *

Mrs. Len Stahl, Chicago—My husband cut a section from an old auto tire, supported it with brackets and fastened it to top step of our back porch. It makes a grand foot scraper, and certainly saves on floor scrubbing.

Miss Harlet Martin, Chicago—Why haven't manufacturers ever thought of designing pillow slips with pockets on the underside of them—as a parking place for your handkerchief which always gets lost somewhere in the bed?

* *

Miss Jessie Black, Aurora, Ill.—Before I wash my kitchen windows I wipe them well with facial tissues. This absorbs any greases on panes and eliminates spotting.

* *

And now—PLEASE—your idea!

Roast Baby Pig Is Christmas Dish De Luxe

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"The boar's head in hand bring I
With garlands gay and rosemary."

No boar's head have we with which to celebrate our Christmas. No boar's head decked with garlands and borne to table on a golden platter. But we can capture the spirit of that medieval Christmas, if we like, by serving, instead of the roasted boar's head, a roast suckling pig, crisp-skinned and decked with a garland of watercress or parsley or a string of cranberries.

For a really festive Christmas dinner roast pig is our meat. It looks picturesque, it isn't hard to prepare, neither is it difficult to carve. The meat is tender and flavorful.

CHRISTMAS DINNER WITH ROAST PIG.

[Four Courses.]

Tomato Cocktail with Caviar or Sardine Canape

Roast Suckling Pig with Sage, Onion, Chestnut, or Fruit Stuffing
Spiced Applesauce
Candied Sweet Potatoes or Boiled Rice
Cream Gravy (with rice)
Baked Corn Buttered Broccoli
Pickled Beets

Cloverleaf Rolls
Chicory, Cucumber, Celery and Watercress with Sharp French Dressing
Cheese, Wafers, or Straws

Mint Sherbet with Tiny Chocolate Drop Cookies
Bowl of Nuts and Fruit
Demi-Tasse

ROAST SUCKLING PIG.

Choose a pig from 3 to 6 weeks old weighing from 6 to 10 pounds. Have it cleaned and washed thoroly inside and out with soapy water, then rinsed well. If you like, sprinkle brandy over the inside of the pig, using about a fourth cup in all. If you use brandy a fruit or chestnut stuffing is best to use. Sprinkle salt and pepper inside and fill the cavity with the dressing of your choice, packing it rather loosely to allow for expansion during roasting.

Sew the opening, using a large needle and string. Bring the fore feet back and the hind feet forward, tying them so that they make a firm foundation for the pig.

Rub softened butter all over the piglet and place it on a rack in an open roasting pan. Curl up the tail and skewer this into position. Cover the ears and tail with cheesecloth moistened in water and spread with fat. The cloth will keep them from drying out or burning. Force mouth open and place a wooden block in it, to be replaced with a rosy apple after roasting.

Roast uncovered at 350 degrees for 3½ to 4 hours, depending upon size. It may be necessary to baste the pig once or twice during that time.

To serve transfer to a large, heated platter. Remove cloth. Garnish with parsley or watercress or surround the pig with baked apples. Place a wreath of greens or a string of cranberries around the neck, put a cranberry in each eye socket and an apple in the mouth.

To carve, first separate the head from the body. Then split the pig down the back. Separate shoulder and leg from one side and then carve that side at right angles to the backbone. Carve the other side similarly. There will be two or three servings from the ribs on each side. Or leave the head on and start carving at right angles to the backbone, making cuts about an inch apart. Run the knife along the backbone and under the meat to loosen it, then lift out each piece.

Some cooks recommend covering the pig with parchment paper or heavy oiled paper during roasting, but this isn't necessary if the oven temperature is kept moderate and the pig is basted now and then. The pig may be basted with heavy cream if desired.

Gravy may be made from the drippings, thickened with flour, and extended with milk.

Patterns by Clotilde

By Clotilde.

Aprons make acceptable gifts at any time of the year, but you'll find that Christmas packages containing attractive aprons receive a more than usually enthusiastic welcome. Today's patterns, including one for a short smock, should cancel quite a few names on your gift list.

No. 2039, a graceful smock for office or studio worker, and for the housewife, too. It's attractive in gay cottons, plain or printed.

No. 2710, a pinafore apron with simple lines, built for comfort. Printed cottons are pretty.

No. 3156, a frilly model with beruffled shoulders and bloused pockets on the full skirt. Contrasting bias tape makes pretty trimming.

No. 2540 goes patriotic with stars and stripes, but it's practical, too, and built on dressmaker lines.

No. 2839 is a dainty tea apron as feminine as your petticoats. Plain colors, that is, pastels, and the always beautiful white are preferred, and sheer fabrics are in order. Model also may be strictly tailored, as in other sketch.

No. 3125 creates a house frock with wrap-around lines that are comfortable, and paneling that is figure-flattering. Plain and printed cottons, of course, with contrast.

No. 2039 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material.

No. 2710 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. All sizes require 1 yard of 39 inch material.

No. 3156 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, 9 yards of binding.

No. 2540 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. Medium size requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 1¼ yards of contrasting and 1 yard of binding.

No. 2839 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Medium size requires 2⅜ yards of 39 inch fabric for bib style; 1⅝ yards with 7 yards of braid for one-piece version.

Style No. 3125 is designed for size 16, and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Detectograms

By Newton Wright

"Detectograms" is a word game with a twist designed to draw on your ingenuity and general knowledge. After you have verified your answers on page 15, write a postal card to The Sunday Editor, Chicago Tribune, 435 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, and tell him whether you would prefer "Detectograms" in place of the crossword puzzle, or would rather have the crossword puzzle continued. Here is how to solve "Detectograms"; Fill in the word for definition number 1. Add a letter to this word, rearrange the letters, and you get the word called for by definition number 2. Print the letter added in the diamond space on the left. Now add a letter to word number 2, rearrange the letters, and you get the answer to definition number 3. Print this letter added in the diamond space on the right. Repeat for each horizontal group of three words—4, 5, 6—7, 8, 9—10, 11, 12—etc. . . . The letters you print in the diamond chains will reveal

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Sunday, Dec. 8.

Generally favorable vibrations today; use them for planning your future, but don't permit a too pessimistic view of domestic matters to creep in. Week ahead holds numerous opportunities for alert people; be one of them and collect your share.

Your Success.

There is a success in everybody. It is a good substantial, satisfactory success, giving the individual the sense of achievement, of work well done, of life well lived, of debts paid, of measuring up to opportunities. But few of us make complete the success that is waiting for us to produce—we are lazy or ignorant, or both. Let us correct laziness with effort, and igorance with wisdom.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today, your birthday, looks good in proportion to how well other people regard you. Benefits will be indirect, thru others. Care with inferiors, and watch your health. Danger: Jan. 16-29, and June 2-11.

Tomorrow.

Favorable for minor matters; plan seriously in evening.

Have a Fairer Complexion with the Aid of Mercolized Wax Cream

A LIGHTER, lovelier complexion is obscured by the dull, drab, faded outer layer of your skin. Flake off this unsightly cuticle in tiny, invisible particles by using Mercolized Wax Cream, the Skin Bleach and Beautifier, according to directions. Mercolized Wax Cream, a famous cosmetic for nearly thirty years, has helped thousands of women to realize the beauty possibilities of their complexions. Get a jar now. Start using it tonight to impart a fresher, fairer skin appearance.

USE SAXOLITE ASTRINGENT—for Skin Freshness. As a quick freshener between a hectic day and a gala evening, try tingling Saxolite Astringent. Your skin will feel cooler, fresher, daintier. Saxolite reduces excess surface oil, tightens skin tissue by temporary contraction, and leaves the skin feeling delightfully refreshed. Just dissolve one ounce Saxolite in a half pint witch hazel and use daily.

PHELACTINE DEPILATORY—Takes Hair Off Face. Embarrassing facial hair can be removed quickly and easily with Phelactine Depilatory. Apply it in a few seconds then flick it off and see the hair come out from beneath the surface. Not a cream or powder. Has no offensive odor. Try Phelactine today.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy, at Home

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it eases breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Newest Pieces for Homes Are All-American

By Edith Weigle.

Want an all-American home? It's possible to have one now that artists and designers, craftsmen and stylists have joined forces and are producing furniture, fabrics, china, wooden-ware, glassware, and accessories that go together and that make a unified whole.

Stores all over the country are showing this new, strictly American home furnishing scheme. You can see model rooms done in it as well as special displays of fascinating new, man-made plastics that are part of it, and tables set in pottery, china, and glass that are taken from it.

Most of the items have a delightful, hand-crafted look. They are being made in seven regions in this country. From New York state come crude but useful wooden pieces. From Santa Fe, N. M., comes the lovely, hand-woven tablecloth which was designed by Marguerita Mergentime in an asymmetrical pattern in a color scheme of brown, chartreuse, and gray.

The simple earthenware dishes are made by hand in South Carolina, state famed for its artistic pottery, and the rich toned orange soup tureens, the covered casseroles, and the small ramekins, also made there, may be used for cooking as well as for serving. The stunning oyster white candlesticks are hand crafted and reminiscent of Chinese ceramics.

John Stewart Curry, the painter, has designed an unusually beautiful drapery material for this collection of Americana. Called Ozark orange, its pattern is that of gracefully curved, leafy boughs, ball-like "fruit" and hidden among the leaves, a mother dove on her nest.

Another American painter, Audrey Buller, has designed another of the drapery fabrics, an all over morning glory and wild rose pattern against a blue sky background in cretonne. Gilbert Rhode has contributed furniture designs to the scheme, one of them being a modern dining room ensemble in walnut and maple with mahogany veneer.

From Vermont's famous marble quarries there are low bowls for flowers and others that serve as ash trays. Joseph Platt designed some handsome modern glassware for the dining table. And Russel Wright did a bedroom grouping and some classically simple pieces for the table, among them a pitcher of a new synthetic that neither chips, peels, nor corrodes and that comes in a gold tone.

An interesting exhibition of these all-American home furnishings is now on view in Chicago. It includes room displays and displays of textiles, ceramics, and artwares.

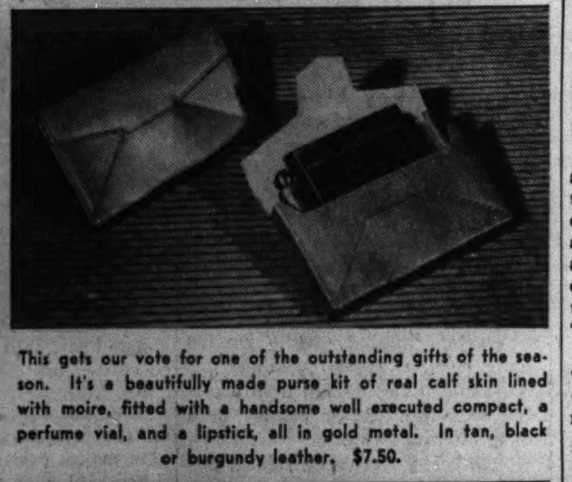
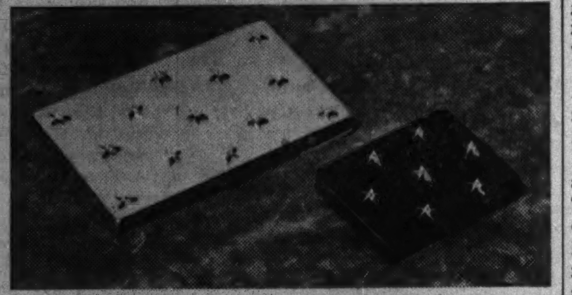
Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

Santa, take a good look at this overnight case! The preparations are in a separate compartment with waterproof lining, there is extra space under the tray for hairpins and gadgets, and there's even ample room for clothing. Everything she needs for skin care and makeup, and a handsome bag besides. $7.50.



This gets our vote for one of the outstanding gifts of the season. It's a beautifully made purse kit of real calf skin lined with moire, fitted with a handsome well executed compact, a perfume vial, and a lipstick, all in gold metal. In tan, black or burgundy leather. $7.50.



Stars shine on this compact and cigaret case. In black enamel or a gold finish, they're among the most handsome cases to be found. The cigaret case is $17; the compact, $14.

A dainty, full-sized hat box, beautifully decorated, houses perfume, face powder, bath powder, cologne, and an atomizer, all in a provocative scent. It's $8.75. A miniature hat box containing powder, rouge, and lipstick is $2.95.

A cosmetic candy cane for her Christmas tree. It contains two surprises, dusting powder in a lovely scent and a handsome, bright red lipstick. $2.50.

For information about these gift suggestions, telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0200, or write to her in care of the Chicago Sunday Tribune, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

The Lady of the House

Any old buttons? Any old books? Any old bottles? We are all collecting something these days, and finding it rather fascinating. At the moment the collectors of old glass are ahead; especially the goblet and pitcher collectors. Others are concentrating on buttons, penny banks, cookbooks, inkwells, salt cellars, paper weights, china figures, old lamps. Some prefer old fans, old laces, dolls, stick pins. One friend has a large group of beautiful luster pitchers. Another confines her collection to blue bottles.

Old houses, second hand stores, antique shops everywhere are being haunted by canny searchers. The other day there came to light one of those chubby, round pillows on which pillow laces were made—the various torchons, Clunys, Honitons, Guipures; Valenciennes, Binche, Duchess, Regency Point, Saxony, Mechlin. It was covered with some old bordered Persian print and mounted on a handmade stand. A scrap of torchor was still on the rusty pins, and there were little bundles of finished lace and much used, pin pricked patterns.

I wondered what the old lady thought about as she crossed and recrossed her bobbins and moved the pins along the pattern.

We have a real old time chimney sweep in our town—probably the last of his tribe—and our chimneys are all ready for Santa Claus. Only recently I saw his faithful pony in our block; and his own stout figure, with rope about the middle, bright blue eyes in sooty face under ancient stovepipe hat, nimbly climbing down from the old buckboard to do the last job of the season. I couldn't help but think that, with a change of color, costume, and equipage, he'd be a fine double for old Santa himself.

Serving the apprenticeship of his honorable trade many years ago in his native Bavaria, he has swept the chimneys of royal palace and lowly cottage. Now, well past his allotted three-score-and-ten, he no longer climbs the roofs to dance on the chimney tops, singing in tuneful time to his plunging sweep, to the breathless delight of youngsters watching below. Tho he still plies his trade he has a stout young assistant these latter days, and somehow the color and romance seem to be fading from the picture.

Even before we give back the land to the Indians, I'm for giving all the English sparrows and starlings back to the English. The crowd that lives around here goes on straight relief as soon as the cold weather comes. They are just plain spoiled.

When they first came to the feeding table set out for the winter town birds they were reasonably modest about taking their share. There was the tailless one who plunged about rather drunkenly when he tried to fly. And the one with a crippled foot, who had a hard time balancing on the edge of the tray, yet came back every time some greedy brother knocked him off.

Now they covet all the suet put out for the other birds—and they are getting it. Even when it is firmly placed behind wire mesh on the under side of an awkward branch, they manage to hang upside down long enough to knock off a bit and then eat it from the ground. Once we melted suet and poured it into crevices and small holes in the rough bark of the apple tree, for the nuthatches and brown creepers. Those sparrows promptly spotted it and, swarming over trunk and branch, cleaned it all up in a day or two. It is getting to be a regular battle of wits between us. When I studied zoölogy I dissected a sparrow's brain and made drawings of it. It looked like half a hickory nut. Now I find I underestimated it a lot.

Animated Luna.

Brushed by puffs of woolly clouds,
As quickly they slide by,
Dusting off the film that shrouds
Her beauty in the sky;
Polished to a lustrous glow,
She radiates and beams
On the night so dark and low,
Dispelling his black dreams.

Along about this time I go thru my scrambled collection of Christmas recipes and try to decide on them.

I turn the pages and find Chinese almond cookies, Christmas tree cake with Japanese frosting, Belgraber brod, basler leckerli, Nurnberger lebkuchen, Italian Capuchin bread, Danish vierknack, Austrian cinnamon stars, Norwegian fatigman's bakkels, Dutch cakes of St. Nicholas, Russian feast cakes, and find myself wishing with all my heart that by some beautiful magic I might restore to all little children of those sad lands their lost Christmases. Time to Get Ready

By Eleanor Jewett.

Now is the time that all little boys
And all little girls who know how to write
Are looking up paper and pencils and spelling
To tell Santa Claus what to bring on THE night.
All good little girls, all good little boys,
Bad boys and girls are out of this quite,
Are putting down lists of presents most wanted—
Santa Claus' mail must be a great sight!
No stamps are in order, you just need a fire,
A flame or a flicker, hot, yellow, and bright—
A touch to your letter, a smoke curl will post it—
Up, over the housetops, the mails go by night!

On the House

By Louise Bargelt.

There's a nice new molding available, some 15 feet long, of sponge rubber faced with solid rubber. In case you are bothered by cracks around a recessed tub, this molding can be inserted into such cracks and will act as a seal against water or steam. Easy to install, by house owner or home mistress, and comes with instructions for work, plus adhesive.

A window ventilator is a comfort in winter as well as in summer. Now appears one such unit—a perforated metal shelf, its holes staggered so you can keep out sleet and snow and let in air. It will fit nicely just outside your window sash and you can open a window wide or close it without disturbing the ventilator.

And as a small gift for a house, have you seen the new electric iron with a light which tells you "when" to proceed with your ironing, after you have dialed it for proper temperature of fabric you're about to iron? Or have you seen the new type glass block on the market which diffuses light. It lets the sun into your room but scatters its rays, so that if the day is very sunny you get a soft bright light instead of a glaring light.

Avoid Making Christmas a Hurried Time

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I'd like," said a mother I know, an old friend whom I always listen to when she speaks, "to spend just one Christmas in my whole life exactly the way I want to." It was about a week before Christmas several years ago and we were both sitting with lists before us, headed: "Things to Do."

"What would that be, exactly the way you want to?" I asked. And without a moment's hesitation she replied:

"First, I wouldn't do any shopping for presents. Not that I don't love giving, but it takes so much out of me to shop. So I'd give money to those I usually buy real gifts for.

"Second: To those for whom I can afford to buy only a trinket, I'd send instead a lovely Christmas card or a little personal note.

"And third, well, that would cover all the rest of my unfulfilled desires. Take church, for instance. I love church on Christmas morning, but I'm always so tired from the last minute doings of Christmas eve and so busy getting the house ready for the big day itself that I don't get to church.

"I adore making my own Christmas cards, the way we used to when we were children, but I don't have time," and then she stopped and opened her purse.

"Every year we read Dickens' Christmas Carol," she explained. "Do you remember how it goes? Well, I made a paraphrase of it last year the week before Christmas and here it is." And my friend read aloud:

"Christmas is a hurried time; Christmas is a harried time; a time of lists and hard shopping and tense expressions on the faces of those who do it; a time of crowds and extra expense and even debt; a time so hectic and full of detail that people spend all their time opening their purses and not enough opening their hearts to feeling and beauty."

You know the old saying, "You can't see the woods for the trees." I often think that lots of people can't see Christmas for the presents! Perhaps this is why so many people say, "I'll be glad when Christmas is over." Really this is no way to feel about this loveliest of all celebrations.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

With the approach of the holidays this department receives numerous calls from persons who, moved by the spirit of the season, wish to give various kinds of help to needy persons.

Those who wish to give baskets to families are directed to our Good Fellow department, which handles that type of activity, thru a special bureau set up for the purpose. It handles only investigated cases and is able to keep a check which prevents duplication, formerly one of the greatest difficulties encountered in Christmas giving.

We should like to ask, first of all, that any Christmas plans or suggestions be made as early as possible. In the past, we frequently have had calls as late as 5 o'clock on Christmas eve. It is impossible to handle such work properly, since mail, telephone, and personal calls always are doubled and tripled in number during the week preceding the holiday.

Warm-hearted readers have sometimes requested the name and address of some child of a poor family, in order that they may take him into their home to spend Christmas. Regretfully, we must refuse such suggestions.

In a large family, to single out one child for such special attention is hardly fair to the others, perhaps older and less attractive youngsters.

There are many ways to bring happiness to the needy during this season, a happiness which will last thruout the year. That small radio you no longer use can bring happiness and companionship to some lonely invalid. A warm overcoat for some elderly man will provide a lasting benefit. An extra comforter or blanket for some needy family living in poorly constructed and heated quarters, or a rug for a clammy basement home, such items are gifts which last far longer than the holiday season.

We always are ready to coöperate in such giving, but we do hope that readers who wish to make such donations will notify us as early as possible, so that we can avoid delay and confusion.

Attractive Pot Holders

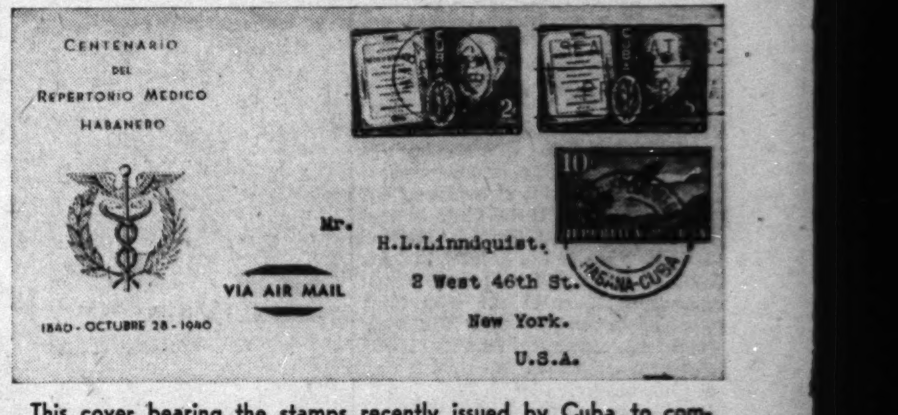
Here is a most attractive unit of crocheted pot holders for any red or blue kitchen. The boat, anchor, star, and sea are incorporated in one attractive group, with red, white, and blue the color scheme. A graph of "Ships at Sea" pot holders accompanies the instructions, and creating a set such as this is simple. It also affords an ideal gift suggestion. One cone each of the three colors only is required.

For instructions in crocheting the "Ships at Sea" pot holders, No. 878, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen



This cover bearing the stamps recently issued by Cuba to commemorate the centenary of the "Repertorio Medico," oldest medical journal of that country, is shown thru the kindness of H. L. Lindquist, publisher of Stamps magazine.

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

In order to call national defense more forcibly to the attention of the public a special issue of three stamps was placed on sale in Washington, D. C., on Oct. 16. The first day sale was announced for a different date at first but changed to make it coincide with the registration date as embodied in the selective service act. This special issue of stamps is not considered as commemorative by the postoffice department, but rather to supplant the ordinary issue during this critical period. On the day of issue sales amounted to 315,700 copies of the 1 cent value, 223,400 copies of the 2 cent, and 157,000 copies of the 3 cent. The total number of covers postmarked with the distinctive first day marking amounted to 450,083 pieces, but there are no records of the number of each value, nor of the various combinations.

The new stamps are in the form of a vertical rectangle measuring 75-100 by 80-100 inch, or identical in measurements with the regular issue. The designs are quite simple and in keeping with modern tendencies in stamp production. In each case the vignette occupies the entire stamp space except for narrow panels at the top and bottom which contain the principal inscriptions. That at the top reads, "United States of America" instead of the usual "U. S. Postage," or "United States Postage," while that at the bottom includes the value thus, "Postage 1 Cent," or "Postage 2 Cents," etc., as the case may be. These inscriptions are in colorless Roman capital letters on a colored ground. The 1 cent value shows a view of the Statue of Liberty with the top of the pedestal base, the 2 cent value pictures a 90 millimeter antiaircraft gun, and the 3 cent value presents a hand holding a torch aloft symbolizing enlightenment. Below the central design on each value is an inscription "For Defense" in outlined Gothic capitals. A caption placed above the central design varies for each value, reading "Industry-Agriculture" on the 1 cent, "Army and Navy" on the 2 cent, and "Security, Education, Conservation, Health" on the 3 cent. These inscriptions are in colored Gothic capitals. This Gothic lettering is not quite up to the excellent quality usually associated with United States stamps and may have suffered in the rush of preparing the dies. The "M" of "Army" attracts most attention for while perfectly readable it is unquestionably an inverted "W."

The plates for this issue were curved to fit the rotary presses and contain 400 stamp subjects arranged in four panes of 100 each. The stamps were issued to the public in post-office sheets of 100. All three values were perforated 11 by 10½ on the "electric eye" perforating machines. Twenty-eight plates were prepared adhesive stamp ever used, and the first postage stamps used in the Spanish colony of Cuba and in the Republic of Cuba. The central portion of the design incorporates a map of Cuba and the dates "1840-1940." The issue of stamps consists of 2,000,000 copies in sheets of 100, and 50,000 souvenir sheets each containing a block of four imperforate. The souvenir sheets were inscribed in dentations with a spoon and fill those with creamed, hard-cooked eggs. Sprinkle with grated cheese and minced parsley, and bake 10 minutes. English, French, and Spanish and were sold by the postoffice department of Cuba at 60 cents each. The first day of issue for this new Cuban stamp was Nov. 28 and collectors and others were requested not to attempt to use the stamps for postage prior to that date.

New York—Secret service operatives have recently performed a great service for stamp collectors by removing from circulation two men who are accused of falsifying overprinted United States stamps. Apparently there was no connection between the arrests of these two men, but just a coincidence that both were apprehended at about the same time. The men who were arraigned before United States Commissioner Cotter and held for action by the federal grand jury are Albert Rabinowitz who operates the Stamp Bazaar at 165 Fulton street, and Emanuel Bondell, alias Davis alias Rothstein, 403 Georgia avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Bondell, at the time of his arrest in Times Square, was carrying cuts showing the overprints for the Hawaiian commemorative issue and for the London-Orient Philippine issue. At his home were found cuts for the overprints used for Guam Guard mail, Kansas, Nebraska, Canal Zone, Philippine, Puerto Rico, Cuba and other issues, as well as a press and ink and thousands of the unsurcharged stamps. The search of the office which Rabinowitz occupied brought to light two presses, thousands of stamps with fraudulent overprints, and cuts for use in about the same abundance listed above. In addition he had a cut for converting ordinary stamps United States. There are 60 covers in the series. Please write directly into scarce Shanghai provisionals and a form locked up for use contained the "Kans." overprint. Collectors should avoid bargain offers in all of the overprinted United States stamps and buy only from reliable dealers.

Pencil sketches for the three values of the defense issue were prepared at the postoffice department. The 1 cent value which incorporates a portion of the statue of liberty was taken from a photograph obtained at the bureau of engraving and printing library. Carl T. Arlt engraved the vignette and William B. Wells and James T. Vail, the lettering. The gun shown on the 2 cent value was taken from a photograph furnished by the war department. Harry R. Rollins engraved the vignette and William B. Wells, the lettering. An imaginative torch was used for the 3 cent value. James R. Lowe engraved the vignette and Edward H. Helmuth, the lettering.

The Republic of Cuba on Nov. 22, placed on sale a 10 cent airmail stamp in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the use of adhesive stamps. The design incorporates facsimiles of three postage stamps and the portrait of Rowland Hill, the stamps depicted being the "penny black"—the first for the three values in September and October, as follows: 1 cent, 22661, 22662, 22663, 22664, 22673, 22674, 22679, 22684, and 22685; 2 cent, 22665, 22666, 22667, 22668, 22675, 22676, 22686, and 22687; 3 cent, 22669, 22670, 22671, 22672, 22677, 22678, 22688, 22689, 22690, 22691, and 22692.

The first printing was of the 2 cent value and started on Sept. 26 using plates 22665, 22666, 22667, and 22668, to Pilgrim Cachets for complete information.

Pilgrim Cachets, Box 158, Bergenfield, N. J., propose to issue a "God Bless America" cover for each state, territory, and possession of the On the same day printing of the 3 cent value was started on a press equipped with plates 22669 and 22670. On Oct. 2 a second press started to print 3 cent stamps using plates 22671 and 22672. On Oct. 4 two presses were equipped with plates 22661, 22662, 22663, and 22664 and started printing 1 cent stamps, and on Oct. 9 a third press began printing 1 cent stamps from plates 22673 and 22674. Only those plate numbers mentioned above should appear on stamps placed on sale on Oct. 16.

True Spirit of Holidays Is Reflected in Town and Countryside

By Cousin Eve.

Christmas and New Year's day are looming large upon the calendar in the rhythm of our American life. The holidays are almost here with what they mean of warmth and neighborliness—and let us be that and more, to our own people.

We have tons of things to be thankful for, but our greatest blessing is peace. Much of the charm and happiness of Christmas is its symbolism—the wise men on their camels following the star across the desert—the lovely babe in the manger, born to save mankind—the candles, wreaths, and glittering trees thru 20 centuries of faith.

Whoever doesn't thrill at a Christmas tree hasn't a thrill left in him. Whether it's in a mansion, piled round with gifts, or lighted in windows of little homes, or sparkling in the night on our peaceful countryside, a Christmas tree is a beautiful, symbolic thing.

Twilight rides over Illinois terrain are among the remembered hours of the old year. Long, dark distances lie dotted with trees shining in many colored lights, while in the near, gay little flocks of gleaming firs fill nocturnal voids. No longer ominous and drear, these black spaces are dwellings of humans with kind hearts, sharing their Christmas splendor with the chance passerby in the night. We salute our unknown friends and thank them silently.

Other beautiful things of Christmas are the Della Robbia wreaths, an Italian fantasy of long ago. Woven of spicy fruits and woodsey sprigs by boys of California's Junior Republic, these wreaths, like the boxes of super fruits from Oregon, are products of our precious American soil and make us doubly thankful for the Yuletime blessings that are ours.

One of the most fascinating things that happened to me in the past week was the aftermath of a luncheon, a large party chez Miss Sylvia West in Division street. Hers is a charming house, a thoughtful house, full of things collected and selected. Among the two dozen guests was a Russian lady, a creature of exquisite refinement, who had agreed, after much coaxing, to tell us about country life on Russian soil, before the revolution. After coffee,

Holiday Spirit Is Reflected in Town, Country

we sat in a circle around the narrator, and she spun a tale worthy of Turgenev, with many a thrilling variation, including a ghost story.

As a young girl, Mme. A. had inherited from her grandmother a charming old house in the province of Tula, built in the reign of Catharine II. It was a two storied mansion, surrounded by lilac bushes, "en pleine campagne," said she. Mme. A. took possession of her inheritance and before long found that a rather pleasant old ghost with white hair and a long white beard had been frequenting her own suite of rooms for long years. She got used to the old gentleman, it seems, but nobody ever knew who he was, or why he remained bound up in the ancient house. The life of Russian landowners prior to 1917 was a leisurely matter of visiting back and forth among neighbors, tennis parties, shooting and fishing, and riding.

At the beginning of the Russian revolution Mme. A. moved with her family to St. Petersburg and remained on until rather recently. One of her most vivid memories was of an evening call at a neighbor's such as any of us might make. The secret police came during the visit and took the whole company off to prison. Mme. A. was detained a fortnight and then returned to her family, as she was merely a victim of circumstances. She laughs gaily now at the adventure, and in fact speaks calmly and dispassionately of life in the great white land. Her lovely old country place was taken over by the bolsheviki and is now a "rest house" or something of the sort.

The fascinating characteristic of Mme. A. that made me charmed to know her was her poise and impersonal attitude to great human events.

It strikes me that we've had more than our share of war propaganda of late. Instead of dying down over the holidays and giving us time to breathe, day by day we've heard nothing but dreary stories of invasion and death.

A Dane who was my partner at a large luncheon of the week had just come out of Copenhagen by air to Lisbon and was en route to Brazil. He was a Danish big business type of man, "a go-getter," and hence I asked him if it were true that an armistice was due in March. He had stopped in Washington to carry messages from the Danish royalties to Crown Princess Martha of Norway, a member of the family—and came here to deliver good news to Ove Vett from his numerous relations.

Mr. Vett learned that his beautiful and distinguished cousin, Fru Julie Rinehardt, living in her Copenhagen house, was well and comfortable as to food and life in general. She has one heated room in the large mansion, a splendid dining room with carved oak walls where I lunched not long ago on a sunny July day. Also Baroness Wedell of Wedellsborg is well, if a bit chilly, in her castle in the country. One heated room in an old country house isn't much.

As to life under the Germans, my luncheon partner said it was normal except for the cessation of all business. There is absolutely nothing to do but play bridge. And bridge, he said, can become monotonous as a steady occupation. The king of Denmark, one heard, is superb—riding daily in Copenhagen on his big white horse, and encouraging the Danish people to calm behavior.

When King Haakon of Norway fled to England he had with him Crown Prince Olaf and various members of the Norwegian parliament. Among them was its president, Carl J. Hambro, who has been delivering lectures at Northwestern university. He also addressed the Council on Foreign Relations on the topic: "I Saw It Happen in Norway." Mr. Hambro is a fine looking Nordic, dark rather than fair, and the large audience was predisposed toward him. Many of us have traveled in his beautiful country and remember the long golden days of summer, the joy of the young Norwegians in the nightless days, and the simple life of the people.

The speaker's talk was not only a résumé of the April blitzkrieg, which was a terrific struggle as we already knew, but at long last it was an almost hysterical plea for Americans not to let democracy perish from off the earth.

Mme. Sigrid Undset was the Nordic novelist featured by the Woman's Athletic club last week, and a tremendous audience was out listening and lunching. Mme. Undset has a deep voice like a man's, and when I arrived she was paying her respects to the Danes in no uncertain language. In spite of being half Danish she thought the inhabitants of Denmark shouldn't have submitted to invasion, altho Copenhagen could have been pounded to pulp in a fortnight, she said. The noted writer reported the death of her eldest son in Norway's defense—he was captain of a machine gun crew—and then she proceeded to prove that Norway was not betrayed from within—it was scandalous to speak of fifth column. Norway was lost by her faith in neutrality, she said.

Mme. Undset was handsomely arrayed in black with a flock of red orchids on her shoulder. Her somber talk certainly left one's spirits way below par. It was hard to get them up to the mark later for the large luncheon in the Chinese room, where Mrs. Bruce MacLeish and Mrs. Mark Trude presided as president and vice president. Men were out for the event, the Scandinavian consuls and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Reimund Baumann, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Oldenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Sigurd Maseng were present, also Bruce MacLeish.

Ambassador and Mrs. Jefferson Caffery, here from Brazil on a visit with Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, are the reason for many a dinner and luncheon party of the holidays. Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis' Sunday breakfast in their honor at the Tavern included 30 of the younger married set and was very interesting. At that party we heard the latest diplomatic news—Alexander Kirk has been raised in rank to minister plenipotentiary, but will go to Rome before long and continue to head the American embassy there as counsellor. The reason for this seems to be buried in diplomatic procedure—some quirk in relations between our state department and Italy about Ethiopia.

Mr. Kirk has kept his house in Rome, a stunning one in the Via Nomentana, so that he is all set, having a host of friends in all parties in Rome.

It was very funny, that Portinari tea at the Arts club Wednesday afternoon. The long gallery hung with Portinari's works was absolutely empty, while the tea drinking lounge seethed with happy humanity. Ladies were pouring tea at a long table, vividly blue and yellow. Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Crompton Bangs, Mrs. Donald McPherson, and Miss Alice Barler had been chosen by Mrs. Henry Field as her tea pouring squad. The guests mostly stood ravished by the new, demure, charming young president of the Arts club, Mrs. Alfred Shaw, niece of an earlier president, Rue Carpenter. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, now in the "ex' 'class, was, however, far from being a "has been" in her white furs, hat and all strewn with black locks, the hotsy-totsy furs of the moment. She, too, was looking enchanted at having secured a president so much to the liking of the Arts club membership.

The Portinari show is interesting. Its black figures under the indigo skies of Brazil have poignancy and life. Many of them, I think may have been painted in 20 minutes, not even a half hour. But they convey something of the outskirts to the jungle. Portinari's portraits include those of Artur Rubinstein and his wife, and some of his smaller canvases swim with animation.

Maximillian Mopp's name attracted me as being unusually fancy. His portraits are remarkable, and it appears he is painting in New York now, being a refugee. Rudolph Reuter called my attention to a huge canvas painting of the New York Philharmonic with Gustav Mahler leading. The painting, being overlarge, was hung in a small detached salon, and Rudolph, having played with that symphony orchestra, was familiar with many of the men, whose portraits he said were excellent. Gustav Mahler was the composer-pianist-conductor who was brought to New York. He returned to Vienna where he died, possibly as a result of wrangles and jangles in the musical organization which featured him.

Anthony and Margaret Ryerson, returned lately from their honeymoon on Treasure Island, had a final chapter to add to their luncheon at Nassau with the duke and duchess of Windsor.

The ex-king of England and his American spouse are occupying a temporary government house, where the young Ryersons went at the hour appointed for luncheon. A trifle timid, one might suppose they would be, when a Negro butler opened the door and bowed them into the entrance hall. Just behind was a tall English butler, who came up saying: "Mr. Ryerson, don't you know me? I was butler for 20 years for your grandfather in Chicago." And great was the get-together of the young marrieds and the old family factotum. They asked him the correct manners of approach to their host and hostess and were informed of what was expected in this semi-royal household. Evidently things moved off nicely, for the duke and duchess were both informal as could be and later returned the visit and lunched with the Ryersons on their island retreat.

AT HOME IN OAK PARK

Mrs. Robert Clifton Keck is the former Ruth Petra Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scott Edwards of River Forest. The marriage took place on Nov. 2. Mr. Keck and his bride are at home in Oak Park.

Miss Marjorie Wells Is Engaged to Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Earl Wells of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie, to William C. McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. McCullough, also of Evanston. Miss Wells attended Northwestern university, of which Mr. McCullough is a graduate.

'Showmanship' Important to Being Lovely

If you have occasion, as we did recently, to be a lobby observer of a gathering audience you learn about women and what they have, or have not, to be lifted high above the mediocre, pictorially speaking.

Facing a barrage of cameras, the gorgeously attired women had to do what obviously seemed "the last mile" to a number of them, such was their apparent discomfiture. It probably was no more than a 30 to 40 foot walk from the main entrance door to the inner door, but many eyes were focused on each and every entrant, along with the aforementioned camera eyes.

Some of the women acted with perfect aplomb, others with regal dignity, as if it were their daily occasion to face such a lineup. And some did become jittery and ill at ease, accomplishing the inner door with little or no grace at all.

Well, it is a test. It's a severe test and you need a world of confidence to make the grand entrance beautifully. Nevertheless, its effect on one's whole appearance is startling to an observer. When an entrance is made according to all the standard beauty equipment, ease, poise, grace, charm, the woman answers unequivocably that question: "What has she that other women haven't?"

It's the world left to conquer. You have everything else, or know where you can get it, the coiffure, the lovely frock, the makeup, and the figure. Add to these talents of yours the aplomb of which we speak, and you're automatically raised to the perfect lead.

Friedrich Schorr, Metropolitan's well known baritone and vocal teacher, volunteered the information that it takes more than striking dress and exciting makeup to make a lovely woman or a woman lovely. A good voice and excellent diction, alone, he pointed out, do not make a successful singer. It takes poise, beauty of carriage, and movement to transform either of them into success.

Many young women come to Mr. Schorr to learn to sing. He teaches them how to use their voices, how to pronounce their words, but he also teaches them how to move, how to gesture, how to wear their clothes, and he makes them practice these lessons as conscientiously as they practice their scales, deeming them just as important.

Showmanship is the word he gives to it. Showmanship, just as vital to every woman as to a singer.

"No matter what you're wearing, or how you're wearing it," cautions Friedrich Schorr, "be sure your posture is erect, for nothing adds more to the beauty of an outfit. The tried and true methods of walking with a book on your head, and standing flat against the wall, are good, but I like the old theatrical 'I am' exercise best, not only for aiding posture, but for gaining poise. Simply, it is walking about a room, saying in a proud, clear voice, 'I am!' You begin with both arms at your sides, but as you walk you slowly lift the right arm and point its index finger at the middle of your abdomen. At the same time begin to say 'I' and continue it as you move the still pointing finger sweepingly up in front of the center of your waist, bust, neck, face, and head, breaking grandly into 'am' as your arm finally straightens up above your head, your finger points skyward and your whole body lifts up. You may feel silly at first, but doing this exercise 10 times a day will do wonders.

"Another good poise getter," adds Mr. Schorr, "is stopping a moment outside the door and taking a deep breath, straight from the diaphragm, before entering the room. This is a pet trick of actors as well as singers, and one of the first I show my pupils."

CHICAGOAN ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Stine of Lake Shore drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Natalie, to Avron Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Schneider of Sheridan road. Miss Stine attended the University of Illinois. Mr. Schneider is a graduate of the Wharton School of Commerce.

Too Talkative Woman Loses Man's Regard

By Doris Blake.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We find that women, particularly of the so-called successful class, are becoming more and more given to opinion expressing and elaboration thereof. Perhaps women always had that talent, but not until the days of equality with men, so to speak, were they given the same opportunity to voice opinions. What we really are trying to say is summed up in the sentence pronounced in description of a brilliant woman who plainly loves the sound of her own voice: "That dame talks herself out of a man's interest." It was a man speaking.

It's a habit that grows and grows on one, so that frequent checking up should be indulged in by women who still retain a woman's ambition to lure a man into matrimony. We feel that too many women of excellent material for the wife, home, and mother rôle just talk themselves out of masculine interest. And these women aren't always plain. On the contrary, often they are attractive.

We don't suppose that talking, in itself, is so hard on the men's ears. It's the argumentative, the opinionated, the aggressive tone that so often creeps into the voice of the "great talker."

We think men have come a long way from the "beautiful but dumb" preference. Men say they have, anyway. A little looking around, however, does dent their claim a bit in the nongreat talker you're likely to find being squired about by the other sex. We don't say "dumb" women that cling to their protective arm, but we might call these successes with the men smart but dumb girls. They're not always speechless, you understand. They know when to talk and when to turn the conversational job over to the man. And they know enough to turn it over frequently.

It is amazing, in a group of married couples, how often the man sits while his little woman expounds. You wonder how the man ever came to sacrifice his bachelor status for this incessant chatterbox. Then, some one will explain that she wasn't like that before she became his wife; that she would and did sit and listen. This may be just a phase of marriage evolution, and beside that point in our topic today, which is getting one's man, not having him and holding him. The married woman, unless she belongs to the group of business go-getters, is not as likely to give her conversation the tone of aggression that her single sister will. The single one carries into her social hour too much of that competitive element that marks her day, where she is selling herself as a highly capable being whose privilege it is to have a mind of her own and speak it.

As social ammunition, the too heady feminine tongue is a complete and total flop, as the boys say. Indeed, once in a while you'll meet a man with the courage to expose the masculine response to the talkative femme. Frank Case, New York hotel man and author of several "best sellers," baldly confides in his latest volume, "Do Not Disturb" [Stokes], that the man doesn't listen, nor does he make pretense of listening, nor does he attempt to stem the flood. A beautiful woman, Case says, can talk a long time before the man she is addressing begins to droop. "Not that he is paying any attention to what she is saying," the author explains, "for his mind is engaged with her in a direction unrelated to her words." But from the plain sister, no such pleasant mind venturing is granted, so her words must carry their own entertainment, or her audience walks out on her.

Which gives a fairly accurate idea of the waste of time and energy the "great talker" among women achieves in men's presence.

Men, Case explains, have not that gift God gave women to listen with the eyes, appear to be fascinated while the portals of the ear close tight and the mind goes off on pleasant little journeys of its own. Graciously Mr. Case allots that gift to women as a providential asset so that she may stay married to the same man for years and years and still smile.

Man, not having that weapon, escapes after a pattern of his own preference. He escapes in the direction of a fair one less given to views and opinion expounding.

Every day there appears, in the feature pages of the Chicago Tribune, a stimulating article by Miss Blake, who lends friendly counsel on a wide variety of problems.

Chicago [To the Home Building Editor].—Have heard there are ways of covering a battle-scarred door so it will look like new. What material is good to use for this?—Joe T.

Answer: Such a door can be covered with ¼ inch plywood or some hard pressed board. See your lumber firm or material supply house.

Chicago [To the Home Building Editor].—What material can I use to fill cracks around our bathtub? —J. Lane.

Answer: Get some putty-like caulking compound and pack it into cracks. Dust with a little talcum to eliminate stickiness.

Chicago [To the Home Building Editor].—We'd like to doll up our basement a bit for the holidays. Asbestos coverings on our heating pipes are grimy looking. What can we apply to brighten them?—M. J.

Answer: Aluminum paint. Or a half and half mixture of paint and varnish.

Chicago [To the Home Building Editor].—How can we remove greenish stain on our exterior stucco walls under the windows? Must have come from insect screening this last summer. It isn't bad but we'd like to get rid of it.—Frank S.

Answer: Dissolve some sal ammoniac in regular household ammonia. Brush on to stains and then in a few minutes rinse well with clear water. If this doesn't do it, make poultice of one part sal ammoniac to four parts whiting and moistened with ordinary ammonia. If stains are stubborn you may have to apply this poultice several times.

Chicago. [To the Home Building Editor.]—Is random width plank floor suited to a rather large colonial home?—J. Hansen.

Answer: Yes, very appropriate from point of view of authenticity and also of harmony with interior decoration.

Chicago. [To the Home Building Editor.]—What type of glue or paste can I make at home to repair pieces of glass or china?—Mrs. Thomas R.

Answer: You can make a cement by mixing white of egg to a paste with dry plaster of Paris. Thick shellac will sometimes do the work. Commercial "cements" for mending china are on the market and not expensive. I'd try one of them.

Personalities Slated to Talk Before Clubs

By Betty Browning.

Frederick Crockett, explorer among the New Guinea head hunters; Edvard I. Hambro, son of the exiled president of the Norwegian parliament and himself an expert on international affairs; Mason Warner, world traveler and writer; Clarence W. Sorensen, radio correspondent recently returned from Mexico; Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first vice president of the General Federation of Women's clubs; Will Durant, philosopher, and Mrs. Clara Adams, who broke the 'round the world travel record in 1939, will be among the personalities to appear on lecture platforms this week.

The leader of an 11,000 mile expedition into the South Pacific on a 59 foot schooner, Mr. Crockett will show motion pictures of the trip Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Geographic Society of Chicago at Orchestra hall. Mr. Crockett and his wife lived for seven months in a remote village of head hunters, and the pictures will show the life of these people.

Mr. Warner, whose travel articles are a feature of THE TRIBUNE's travel section, will speak on his recent trip to South America at a dinner of the Writers' guild Saturday at the Adventurers' club. Motion pictures taken by Mr. Warner will illustrate his talk. Mrs. Helen Miller Malloch is master of the guild.

Mrs. Helen Miller Malloch. [Heinsen Photo.]

Mr. Sorensen will describe recent social changes in Mexico for the Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women at a dinner Friday at the Chicago Woman's club. A documentary film in color will illustrate the talk, which is based on Mr. Sorensen's assignment as a correspondent to Mexico by a broadcasting company last summer.

• • •

Mr. Hambro will describe his experiences during and since the German invasion of his country in a talk, "Escape from the Nazis," at a current events breakfast of the Chicago Woman's Aid, Friday noon at its headquarters. Before the invasion Mr. Hambro was director of the department of international relations of the Michelsen institute at Bergen. Escaping from that city after its capture by the Germans, he fought in the army, was appointed liaison officer to the British expeditionary forces, and remained with them until their evacuation.

Dr. Durant, now internationally known thru his best selling "The Story of Philosophy," will discuss "A Blueprint for a Better America" at an open forum tomorrow evening at the Lake Shore club.

Mrs. Whitehurst, who is expected to become the next president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, and who also is one of its most dynamic speakers, will address a number of Chicago clubs this week.

Tomorrow evening the junior clubwomen of the Chicago area will gather at federation headquarters to hear the Baltimore club leader. The Chicago Woman's club will give a luncheon for her Tuesday. An advocate of "streamlining" club programs and procedure, Mrs. Whitehurst has charge of the federation's current golden jubilee celebration.

"East Is East—West Is West" will be the topic of Dr. No Young Park, Harvard scholar and humorist, at the annual dinner meeting of the 1st district, Illinois State Nurses' association Tuesday at the Chicago Towers club. The Most Rev. William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will give the invocation. Miss Mary Bogardus heads the district.

Miss Mary I. Bogardus [Moffett Photo.]

Dr. Franklin Ebaugh, professor of psychiatry at the University of Denver, will give a free public lecture on "Your Mental Health" under the combined auspices of the Chicago Medical society, the Chicago Pediatric, and the Chicago Neurological societies Wednesday evening at the Chicago Woman's club. The state program for mentally handicapped children also will be discussed.

• • •

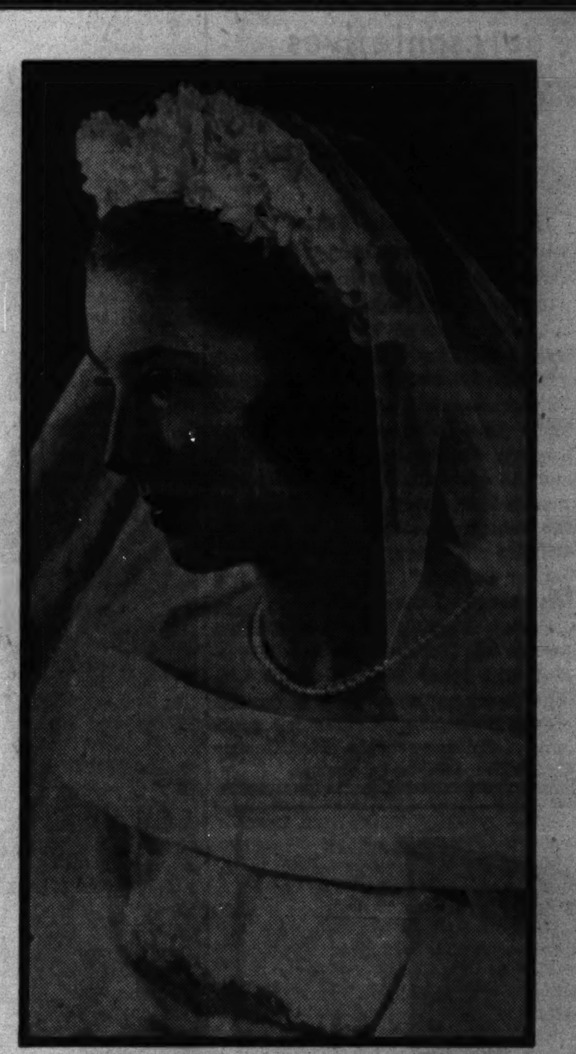
Mrs. Adams, who set a world record 18 months ago by traveling around the world on commercial passenger lines in 16 days and 19 hours, will speak at a joint luncheon of the Women's Pioneer Aircraft association of Chicago and the Amelia Earhart Memorial Civic club Wednesday noon at the Union League club. Dr. Irene Behnke is founder president of this organization. Mrs. Adams has flown extensively since 1914. Hiram Loomis, retired principal of Hyde Park High school, and Mrs. Claude I. Palmer will describe the late Amelia Earhart's school days at the south side school.

• • •

The proposed amendment of the Illinois eight hour day law for women workers, whereby executives and secretaries will be exempted from the law's provisions, will be discussed at a forum Wednesday evening at the Woman's City club.

Miss Ellen L. Nylund, president of the Women's Bar association, will speak in favor of the amendment, and Mrs. Frank R. Halas, president of the Illinois Woman's Trade Union league, against it.

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor, and wives of the aldermen of the 50 Chicago wards will be special guests of the joint committee on the Woman's Court and Detention home at a luncheon Thursday at the Chicago Woman's club. Leo M. Lyons, relief administration commissioner for Chicago, will speak on "Problems of the Unattached Woman on Relief."



ON CUBAN HONEYMOON

Hospital Will Observe Eastern Star Day Dec. 10

The Illinois Masonic Hospital association will observe the fifth annual Eastern Star Day Tuesday at the hospital, 836 Wellington avenue, with Mrs. Minnie M. Caperton of River Forest, worthy grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois, and other leaders as special guests. A tour of the hospital at noon will be followed by a luncheon and a program. Former Judge Edgar A. Jonas, president of the association, and William H. Teney, hospital superintendent, will be among the speakers. The Eastern Star contributes to the maintenance of the hospital.

Mrs. Anna Woldt.

Banquet to Mark 31st Year for Music Sorority

"Delta Omicron in American Music" will be the theme of that national music sorority's 31st Founders' day banquet Wednesday evening at the Auditorium hotel. Naomi Cullen Cook, soprano of the Chicago Opera company; Elaine Dahlgren, contralto, and Catherine Caligari, soprano, will appear on the program, together with the Evanston String quartet and the North Shore Alumnæ chorus. Compositions of Margaret Borchers, member, and of the sorority's national patrons will be featured. Miss Lela Hanner will be toastmistress. Mrs. Donald Reid is general chairman of the banquet.

Club Parties with Noel Air Fill Calendar

With Christmas little more than a fortnight away, holiday festivities crowd the calendar. A little band of 15 women, most of them retired women officers and officers' wives of the Salvation Army who now compose its League of Mercy, will give Christmas parties for an estimated 15,650 guests at nine of Chicago's largest institutions between now and Dec. 25.

A party for the war veterans at the Edward Hines hospital will begin the round Tuesday afternoon and evening. Gifts and a concert by the army's Chicago staff band will be in order. Mrs. Ernest I. Pugmire, wife of the army's commander in the middle west, heads the organization.

A series of 44 Christmas cheer parties to be given by the Ladies of Isabella at institutions in and about Chicago will be launched with St. Hilary council's party Saturday afternoon at the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children. Final plans for the parties will be discussed Wednesday evening at 7 South Dearborn street.

One of the most picturesque celebrations will be that of the American Daughters of Sweden. On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday they will hold their annual Christmas bazar at the Hotel Sherman.

The Skansen, Sweden's famous outdoor museum of native folk lore, an aggregation of log cabins, manors, churches and other buildings in various Swedish styles of architecture, will be reproduced in part for the bazar, and there will be a large exhibit of Swedish antiques, including heirloom possessions of members. Swedish wares will be on sale, and Swedish songs and folk dances will be featured on the program of entertainment. Miss Nellie Fredeen is general chairman.

Miss Nellie Fredeen

A bazar and Christmas sale will be held by the Women's auxiliary of the Illinois Masonic hospital Tuesday at the nurses' home. Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson is chairman.

The Lake View Musical society will be hostess to 25 little girls from the Park Ridge School for Girls at a Christmas party at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Arts club. The children will sing carols, and a program planned especially for them will be presented by Edith Aamodt, pianist; Charlene Dilling Brewer, violinist, and Stephanie Zeigler, soprano. Refreshments and gifts also will be provided for the young guests. Ruth Singletary will be in charge.

Food, clothing, and toys for Chicago's needy families and a donation of money for the recently dedicated Phi Omega Pi ward for blind babies at the Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington, Ky., will be contributions made by members of the sorority's Chicago Alumnae chapter at a Christmas luncheon Saturday at the Women's University club.

Miss Elizabeth Isaac and Miss Naomi Sutphin will give a musical, and there will be a grab bag. Mrs. Alfred J. Smith is receiving the Christmas donations.

A book shower for children's hospitals will be a feature of the Christmas program to be sponsored by the Better Film Council of Chicagoland, Friday at the Civic Opera building. Christmas books and films will be discussed at the all-day meeting. Mrs. David Slagle is in charge.

J. Phillips-Robertson, baritone, will tell the Christmas story at a membership dinner of the Central Eleanor club Friday evening. The audience will join in singing familiar carols.

A Christmas party with a grab bag and refreshments will follow the business meeting and election of Auxiliary No. 34 to Branch 11, National Association of Letter Carriers, Wednesday afternoon at 209 South State street.

Judge Frank H. Bicek will speak at the Christmas party of the Bohemian Woman's Civic club tomorrow at the La Salle hotel.

Gifts for the various philanthropies of the Chicago Society of Ohio Women will be brought by members to their Christmas program Wednesday at the Congress hotel. Miss Marge Coleman, harpist, will be presented.

The Big Sisters will hold a Yuletide dinner-dance Wednesday evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel in order to raise funds for their work in behalf of underprivileged women and girls. Mrs. L. Robert Mellin is chairman of the benefit, and assisting her are Miss Agnes M. Fay, Mrs. W. Harry Remien, Mrs. Leo P. Cummings, Mrs. William J. Corbett, Mrs. Simms McGuire, Mrs. John V. McCormick, Mrs. Charles A. Burns, Mrs. Glen F. Davis, Mrs. James W. Egan, Mrs. Leo P. Finn, Mrs. Marshall V. Kearney, Mrs. Charles P. Megan, Mrs. Charles Moody, Mrs. Timothy J. Sullivan, Mrs. Frank O'Brien, Miss Anna Hunt, and Mrs. Patrick Hall.

Mrs. Beulah Christian Maylier will give a Christmas message, and a radio commentator will speak at a Christmas dinner of the Lake Shore Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday at the Auditorium hotel.

"Around the World at Christmas" will be the theme of a Christmas program to be given by Henry Dearborn chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the Chicago Woman's club. Children of the American Revolution will be guests.

Frances Coates Grace will present "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame" and the Alvernia High school chorus will sing carols before the Catholic Woman's league, Saturday afternoon at its headquarters.

Children of the Civic Music association will sing carols at the Municipal Art league's meeting Saturday morning at the Art institute. Helen Parker will present illustrated Christmas stories, and Ida Carothers Merriam will give a Christmas message.

Among other Christmas parties of the week will be Pi Omicron national sorority's party for children of the Frances Juvenile home next Sunday at the Hotel Sherman. The Credit Women's club will give a Christmas dinner Tuesday at the Furniture club. Kappa Delta Rho Mothers' club of the University of Illinois will have a Christmas luncheon Friday at De Met's on Randolph street.

The Woman's Ed-So-Phil club will hold a party Thursday at the Palmer House, and the Chicago Home Economics Women in Business will have a buffet supper and Christmas home lighting program that evening at 72 West Adams street.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark.

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Dec. 9, 1892.

Dear Julia: We have been a very gay city this week, with no end of parties, but overshadowing all others was the Bazar of All Nations, held at the Palmer mansion on Lake Shore drive. That great house never lent its magnificence to a worthier cause—that of the Children's Building at the World's Columbian Exposition, to be held next year.

The Friday club—a fashionable literary group of our city—took the responsibility for the bazar and hoped to raise $20,000 for the children's work at the fair. To their surprise, it was found today that much more had been made, about $35,000, they now think. Could any other city have accomplished this? Mrs. James B. Waller was chairman of the committee which developed this bazar and it is to her tact, her gentle way of ignoring difficulties, that its success is due.

Lady Lavery. [Hazel Martyn.]

I was thinking, as I entered the door of the Palmer home, how many lovely entertainments it has seen. I smiled at the memory of the people who swarmed into the house last year, when Mrs. Palmer entertained the congressional committee and their families, invited to Chicago to inspect its facilities for being host at such an exposition as it proposed to hold. They all accepted, down to the most youthful offspring of the newest congressman, and I remember that, tho Chicago is always being twitted about its lack of cultivation, it was the wife of an easterner who nourished a noisy infant, as she sat on a needle-point sofa in the Louis Quinze salon of the Palmer mansion.

The two days and evenings of the Bazar of All Nations saw crowds of people in the Palmer home, where all was warmth, brightness, splendor. In the center of the main hall stood a Greek temple, in which members of catalog committee, attired in Greek costumes, stood selling books of the bazar, for a snug sum.

Mrs. Henry A. Knott, Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson, and Mrs. Shreve Badger were on duty when I came in. They are all fine looking women and the classic dress well suited them. Ranged all about in the beautiful rooms, upstairs and down, were the booths of Italy, France, Spain, Germany, Japan, China, Holland, Turkey, and Great Britain. The latter booth occupied Mrs. Palmer's own room and here stood Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, selling her own books, which she had autographed. I bought from her a copy of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," in which he had inscribed the sentiment: "It is the boys of today who hold the progress of the future in their young hands."

In the British booth the ladies were picturesquely dressed. Mrs. Willie McCormick, my dear and lovely neighbor, was a charming Henrietta Maria, and Mrs. McCormick Goodhart was a beautiful duchess of Devonshire. The French booth was in charge of Mrs. Dunlap Smith, intelligent and efficient, one of Martha Junior's best friends. Martha was helping in this booth, dressed as a lady of the court of Louis XVI. I thought she looked very lovely, with her white wig and court-plaster patches.

Probably the most fruitful enterprise of the bazar, from a financial standpoint, was the sale of the book, "Fame's Tribute to the Children," in which were reproduced sentiments about the little ones, written by famous people. Miss Mattie Hill, Miss Felicite Oglesby, Mrs. N. S. Davis Jr., and Mrs. Heaton Owsley did a rushing business in selling this book at $5. Last evening Mr. N. K. Fairbank, society's auctioneer par excellence, auctioned off the original autographs, getting $800 for them.

Celebrities abounded. Joseph Jefferson was much observed as he wandered about, buying generously. But I think Mrs. Palmer was the one every one wanted most to see. I heard people coming into the hall asking breathlessly "where is she?" and I knew who was meant. She was a vision, as always. Last night she wore a rich black silk, with a pale blue vest trimmed with finely cut jet. Her bonnet was entirely of pearls. Little Hazel Martyn was a dream of childhood beauty. Miss Eva Onderdonk as Queen Louise of Prussia will long be remembered by those who saw her. And think of all the money made for a good cause! Your loving friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Doris Is Found.

Many readers sent us the first verse and chorus of "Doris," and Mrs. H. E. Trovillo of Burlington, Ia., was able to recall the entire three stanzas, but most remarkable of all was a letter from a son of the man who wrote the popular song. From Dr. H. F. Slyferth, 3734 Pine Grove avenue, Chicago, came a photograph of George Maywood Schleiffarth, who not only wrote "Doris," but also collaborated with Harry B. Smith in the latter's first opera, "Rosita," produced in 1884. [Dr. Slyferth changed the spelling of his name after his father's death.] George W. Schleiffarth was born in Germany but came to America at an early age, and was known to many musicians as a salesman for W. W. Kimball and company.

Mrs. Caroline R. Keith, 6030 Kenwood avenue, celebrated her 92d birthday, Nov. 27. Mrs. Keith, born in Philadelphia, has lived in Chicago since 1914.

Hand-Crocheted Bedspread Best Washed this Way

Launder a hand-crocheted bedspread this way: Fill a tub with warm water and enough mild soap powder or shaved soap to make a good frothy lather. Soak the spread in this for 10 minutes to loosen the dirt, then squeeze the suds thru the spread several times. Remove the spread when the water is soiled and repeat with fresh water and suds. Rinse thru several warm water baths. Lift the spread out, drain it well, then carefully pin the spread to a large sheet and hang it up or lay on a flat surface to dry. Press the spread on the wrong side with a warm [not hot] iron.

Here's Etiquet for Current Debut Season

Do you want to make good on your job as a maid? Tips on what housewives expect, and on what maids should do, are given in the booklet, "Maid Service for the Average Household," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. Get your copy at either of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

The fall and winter social season will be getting under steam one of these days, and a great deal of the steam will be used in the organization and management of the hundreds of debuts that take place each year when the young daughters of prominent families are formally presented to society. Many of these coming-out parties will be great, expensive balls, altho the majority will be smaller and more modest "at homes" and afternoon receptions.

Debuts are among the most formal social events of any season. Invitations are naturally formal and guests must dress formally. When it is scheduled for an afternoon hour that means a very dressy afternoon dress, hat and gloves for women guests, and striped trousers and cutaway coat for the gentlemen. An evening debut demands formal evening dress for women, "soup and fish" for men.

It is customary for intimate friends and relatives who receive invitations to the debut to send flowers to the place at which the party is being held, addressed to the debutante. With them is enclosed the sender's personal calling card.

There are some invitations that ask for a response, in which case the invited guest must post immediately a formal note of acceptance or regret. Invitations to "at homes" and receptions that do not specifically ask for a response are given the following treatment: If the recipient can and will go, no acknowledgment is necessary, but if she can't go she is expected to send her own personal calling cards to the hostess to arrive on the morning of the affair. They bear no message, but their presence alone indicates that the invitation was received, but that the persons themselves cannot attend.

The same rule for leaving cards at the home applies when sending them thru the mail or by messenger. Women send cards only to women. Men send them to both men and women. In the case of a debutante and her mother and father receiving, a woman would send two cards, one for the mother and one for the daughter. A gentleman would send three cards, one for the mother, one for the debutante, and one for the host. Three is the limit of any one card to send or leave at the home.

Artists Show Fine Christmas Card Exhibits

By Eleanor Jewett.

We are now a week nearer Christmas and the spirit which prevailed last Sunday of wanting to encourage people to see the current art exhibits in the light of possible places where Christmas gifts could be bought, is seven days stronger. If there is a time of year when the commercial may be allowed to come out from hiding when art exhibits are in question, now is that time. Naturally most of us know that the paintings, sculpture, and prints which the galleries hang for us to see are for sale, but all too often we allow the knowledge to rust thru lack of use and what should have gone home with you to brighten a wall in your house, goes back to the painter who had hoped to exchange it for money with which to buy something, he could not create but ought to have—a new coat or food or coal. Artists are human and have the same needs as other men.

So if you should feel moved to follow up the various exhibits which are discussed below perhaps you will bear in mind the fact that the pictures may be bought as well as looked at.

One of the gayest exhibits this holiday season is installed at the America Fore gallery, 830 Rush street, where one may find a most attractive group of Christmas cards published by the Chicago Society of Artists. Ethel Spears, in particular, is to be congratulated on the whimsical gayety of her Christmas greetings. Her "Train" is the most dramatic, but her studies of little Christmas angels are extraordinarily charming.

Rowena Fry offers an exquisite study of birds in the snow framed by a circle of holly leaves. Florence Schofield has a determined Christmas feel to her string of hanging peppermint canes, and Frances Badger strikes a crusading note with her sturdy baby elephant carrying a Christmas tree in his trunk and swinging along with "Cheerio" echoing behind him.

Fritzi Brod offers a surprisingly lovely still life of flowers, beautiful in design and color and pleasantly conventional; Florence Faija will fascinate many a Christmas card enthusiast with her colorful little girl carrying in one arm a puppy and in the other a kitten. V. M. S. Hannell and Hazel Hannell submit cards in red and white, Mr. Hannel's animals a bit pain-ridden but Mrs. Hannell's deer distinctly joyous.

The Christmas exhibit in the same gallery is of arts and crafts, priced under $25. There really are many attractive things here; the show has variety and interest.

Another most attractive exhibit in which delightful little pictures are featured is that at the Findlay galleries, 424 South Michigan avenue, where an exhibition of water color caricatures by Peggy Palmer Burrows open tomorrow to run to Jan. 1. There is a group of "Christmas Stocking Sketches" [miniature portraits of 50 famous ladies] framed, priced from $2.50, which no one should miss. And you will find, too, the Windsors in Nassau, and Salome and the Seven Veils portrayed with that barbless malice for which Peggy Palmer Burrows' humor is famed. This is a MUST Christmas show.

Those who want something more substantial to look at will do well to visit the Arts clug, Wrigley Tower, where last Wednesday saw the opening of three new exhibitions. Paintings by Candido Portinari [whose work has already been seen here at the University of Chicago and later at the Marshall Field galleries and between those appearances was on view in New York] make a colorful showing. The other two artists represented in the exhibits are Maximilian Mopp and Aristide Maillol.

◆

If you want something in art of a pleasant and uncontroversial nature, there are the recent paintings from the Maine coast by Adam Emory Albright, an exhibit which is hanging at the Drake hotel under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts. These are nostalgic pictures, filling one with a wistful longing for ocean smells, hot suns, yellow sands and the days when one, too, was a child in brief rompers building castles that a kindly tho mistaken tide never forgot to erase between one bright morning and the next.

Still a different type of exhibit is that hanging thru December at the Katharine Kuh galleries, 540 North Michigan avenue. Here is a comprehensive showing of the work of Paul Klee, the modern painter who died last summer in Switzerland. As one of the leaders in one of the types of modernism which has influenced contemporary painting, Paul Klee's conceptions are worthy of serious consideration. If the exhibit does nothing else, it will provide those who see it with a choice and lively topic for holiday conversation.

An exhibit of portraits by Jay Datus is on view at the O'Brien galleries, 820 Tower court, with four cartoons for murals to go into the Arizona state capitol. The portraits are very well done. Jay Datus is one of the younger painters whose work has always appealed to us as being intelligent and forceful. The present exhibit is exciting for its proof that the artist's maturity is keeping the promise of his youth.

Another brilliant exhibition is to be found at the Chicago Galleries association, second floor, 215 North Michigan avenue. The exhibit will continue to Dec. 31. It is the annual members' show, always one of the most eagerly anticipated annuals and always one of the most successful.

The Chicago Guild of Free Lance Artists has an interesting exhibit to Dec. 14 in the galleries of Art Center, 820 North Michigan avenue. This is another must exhibit for those who want to keep in touch with the work of our finest artists, all of whom during these years of depression have kept themselves going thru their own efforts.

The holiday exhibit at the Hoosier Art gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, opened last Friday and will continue thru Dec. 31. It is a gay and pleasurable show. Water colors by Esther Ruble Richardson and landscapes in oil by Dale Bessire are an attractive combination.

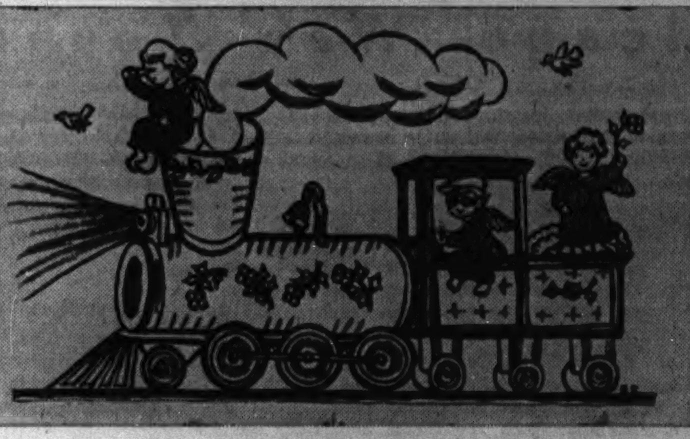
Exquisite portraits in wax by Ethel Frances Mundy and Old Prints of London [a fascinating group] are on view at the Ackermann galleries, 408 South Michigan avenue.

The North Shore Art guild announces new officers as follows: President, William F. Gingrich; vice president, Cora Debes; second vice president, John Hanny; treasurer, Myrtle Patzig; assistant treasurer, Cyrilla Gaffney; corresponding secretary, Muriel Strassburg; recording secretary, Vivian Witt; historian, Laura Gerbin.



"CHRISTMAS TRAIN"

Ethel Spears contributes this colorful and amusing Christmas card to the series which the Chicago Society of Artists is publishing this year. The cards are at the America Fore Gallery, 830 Rush street.

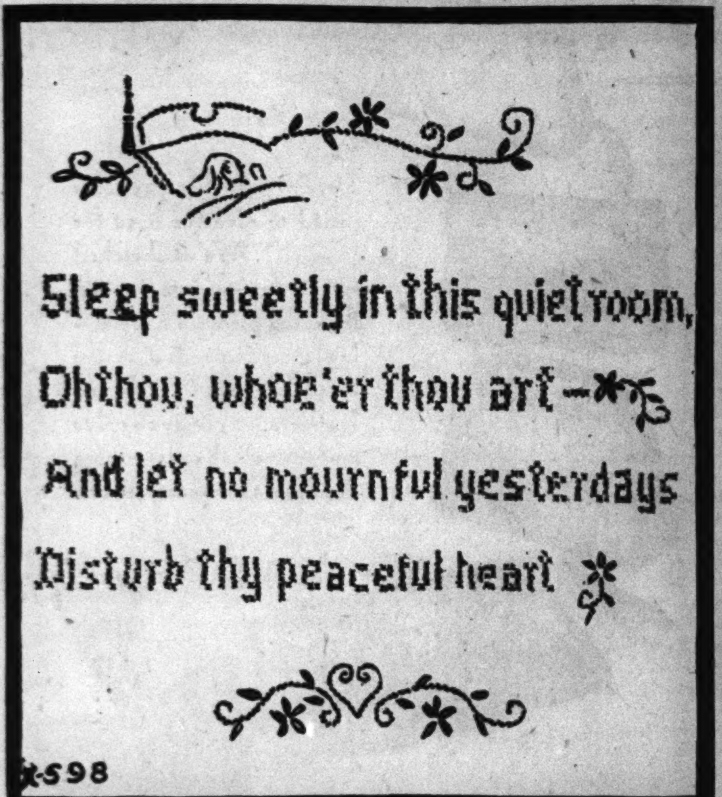
Motto in Cross-Stitch



Sleep sweetly in this quiet room,
Oh thou, whoe'er thou art—
And let no mournful yesterdays
Disturb thy peaceful heart 598

By Nancy Cabot.

This gracious motto, done in cross-stitch in quiet colors, will do a great deal to make a guest feel welcome during a week-end stay. It may be framed with either light or dark wool, and the background fabric may be in natural or a pastel shade. Cross-stitch is one of the simplest of embroidery devices, and makes good pickup work for summer afternoons and evenings. Such a motto makes an excellent gift, too, for one's week-end hostess or for a party prize.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the cross-stitch motto, No. 598, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

What Is Ideal of American Fashion Field?

By Bettina Bedwell.

What is the American "ideal" that makes our fashions "tick"? This is a question which has been agitating our fashion industries since the fall of Paris. Every designer with a length of goods, scissors, and the means of sewing a seam is shooting at some ideal when she [or he] makes a model. Some authorities here claim that the proper ideal for the United States is the average woman or girl, the rank and file. Others say that we have to aim higher, and that we'll fail to please the average woman unless we give her clothes that are inspired by topflight women and their taste.

It seems to me that aspiration is an essential part of our democracy, in which any one may be first lady, a famous star, a great author, or some other celebrity, provided she has "what it takes." For this reason our styles are pleasing only when they come from the top drawer of inspiration. For Miss and Mrs. America the best is none too good. It's our national credo.

The critics of this policy argue that styles created for luxury women, for royalty, and the socially prominent are not suitable for the girl who works, the woman who washes her own dishes.

The past history of our fashions proves that this is just stuff and nonsense. For years, while Paris fed America, styles were inspired directly from what was created for the topflight women of the western world. Adapted by our clever designers, aware of the conditions of life prevailing for the average woman here, these clothes were deemed perfectly suitable, and any inspection of the finest and most expensive clothes worn by the grandest women in this country shows that many of them could be worn by simple folk such as you and I. We benefit by finer cut, more beautiful colors, better lines, and greater elegance.

Observing socially prominent women during the fall season, I noticed that simple, well cut wool dresses, husky tweed topcoats, tweed suits and sweaters were what they wore for the outdoors and the country. In town, the basic dress, usually black or some other sober color, background for jewels, the furless coat with floating fur accessories, or the tailored fur coat, and something grand in the way of a hat made up the prevailing costume of the grandest women for daytime. Working and home women, those who have an eye for quality and taste in clothes, have been wearing things that look identical. It was only the girls who fall for the tinsel and gaudy school of dress, totally unrelated to what the "best dressed" wear, who looked all wrong.

• • •

When it comes to hats, the prevailing fashions of the season have stemmed directly from those worn by women famous for their elegance and distinction. The pompadour hat has gone over big, and the first original model was designed for the duchess of Windsor. It has also been worn with chic by the girls who haven't a penny to their names, in manner of speaking. And the turban, first designed by Lilly Dache, whose clients are elegant women such as Brenda Frazier, all-time high in debutantes, distinguished women such as Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mrs. Anthony Drexel Biddle, is quite as popular among the unknown "average women." Also, quite as suitable.

Representatives of Women Voters to Give Reports

League of Women Voters' representatives who have been visiting the various local governmental bodies will report their findings at the school of government of the Cook County league Tuesday afternoon at headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue. This session will be devoted to the study now being conducted by the league's department of government and its operation on the merit system in local governmental bodies. At the morning session Ald. Paul H. Douglas will discuss "The 1941 Budget for Chicago." Mrs. Will F. Lyon has charge of the school.

Friday evening the Professional League of Women Voters will present Miss Mary Herrick of the Chicago Teachers' union in a discussion of the financial and personnel problems of Chicago schools. Mrs. George G. Erskine will be in charge.

FOR THE GOOD OF YOUR HAIR . . .

Elizabeth Arden

BRINGS YOU A NEW

HEATLESS PERMANENT

MISS ARDEN never enthuses unless she is sure. But now, after trying and re-trying the amazing new "Willat Wave" (the only heatless permanent), she is bringing it—with assurance and excitement—to her salon clients.

★ Done without heat, without wires, without electricity, without steam, without a chemically heated unit, without a preheater.

★ So completely heatless it can be used close to the scalp—even those elusive hairs at the nape of the neck can now be curled.

★ Does a magnificent job with any kind of hair, especially problem hair, leaving natural waves with a thrilling lustre.

★ If you have ever been disheartened by brittle hair ends or frizz after an ordinary permanent, Miss Arden urges you to try this unique wave . . . One of Miss Arden's assistants will test your hair before you start, to show you the glowing results you may expect.

For your appointment, or for more information, telephone Superior 6950.

Look...
Tangerines!

ONCE A YEAR—as sure as Christmas—tangerines come to town!

And now's the time to enjoy these dainty little golden-ruddy fruit that nature puts up in tidbit "packages."

How easy they are to peel! Even the smallest fingers have no trouble at all "unwrapping" them.

How good they are for young and old! Loaded with vitamins and minerals—especially rich in the precious calcium needed by everyone.

Most of all—how good they taste! Seems like you just can't get enough of that tart-sweet luscious flavor.

Right now, Florida tangerines are at your market. But remember, the season lasts only a few short weeks. So keep plenty on hand—for bedtime and between-meal snacks; for school lunches, for parties—for goodness sake!

Tune in: MARY MARGARET McBRIDE, "America's Beloved Columnist of the Air." 3 P.M.—E.S.T., 2 P.M.—C.S.T.—Monday through Friday, Columbia Network.

Daughters of British Empire to Have Bazar

The Daughters of the British Empire in Illinois, nothing daunted by the double responsibility of British war relief, and of the British Old People's home and its "family" of 80 at Hollywood, Ill., are planning to make their annual bazar a gala event of the week.

The Sons and Daughters of St. George, the Welsh Woman's club, and the British Empire association will contribute to the success of the three day benefit, to open Thursday at the Congress hotel.

Lewis Bernays, British consul general; Sir Charles Morgan-Webb of Brighton, England, and Mrs. Harry Hughes, the Daughters' state president, will speak at the formal opening Thursday noon. Friday will be Chapters' day, and a children's costume parade and program are scheduled for Saturday. Luncheon, afternoon tea, and dinner will be served at a "Wayside Inn," and games, motion pictures, and booths will be in order. Mrs. Percy Mather is general chairman. Mrs. George Cooke-Adams, honorary president of the Daughters, also is president of the home.

Another important benefit of the week will be the earning fund luncheon of the combined auxiliaries of Rest Haven convalescent home, Thursday at the Palmer House. Mrs. Jacob L. Pohn, chairman, is arranging a program of varied entertainment.

The annual card party to be held by Aaron Miner chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, next Saturday evening at the Mills community house in Oak Park, will benefit underprivileged children. Miss Edith Spears is regent.

Mrs. F. E. Rutkowski.

The Friends of Poland will raise funds for Christmas baskets and for clothing for the needy thru a card party to be held Wednesday evening at the Army and Navy club, 600 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Walter F. Hinkle heads the organization, and Mrs. F. E. Rutkowski is arranging the party.

A card party will mark the annual philanthropy day of the Independent German - American Woman's club at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at the People's Gas company. Mrs. Gustav Meyer is chairman.

This evening the Chicago Club for Crippled Children will hold its annual earning fund dinner-dance in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Mrs. Herbert H. Kant is chairman. The organization maintains a brace shop at the Michael Reese hospital. Mrs. Louis C. Witt is president.

The annual earning fund drive of the Star auxiliary, oldest women's auxiliary contributing to the support of the Marks Nathan Orphan home, will close with a dinner-dance this evening at the Covenant club. Mrs. Samuel Holleb is president, and Mrs. Irving E. Glickman, chairman of the party.

The Lake City Woman's club will give its annual philanthropic card party at 1 o'clock Wednesday at the Morrison hotel. Mrs. William S. Olsen is chairman.

Miss Ruth Kahn, president of the National Council of Jewish Juniors, Chicago section, will report on the recent national board meeting at the section's meeting Saturday afternoon at the Standard club. The following afternoon at the club the juniors will hold their first "mixer" of the season, with Rabbi Jacob J. Weinstein as speaker.

Mrs. Louis Savitt.

A dinner-dance will close the annual earning fund drive of the Chicago Mothers of Young Judaea this evening at the Morrison hotel casino. This organization provides recreation and citizenship training for boys and girls. Mrs. Louis Savitt is president.

Plans for its forthcoming benefit luncheon and fashion show will be discussed by the National Council of Jewish Women, Chicago section, tomorrow afternoon at 185 North Wabash avenue. Mrs. Fred Bernstein is general chairman of the party, to be held Dec. 20 at the Stevens hotel. Council delegates will report tomorrow on the recent national convention. This afternoon the business and professional women's group will hear Mrs. William H. Sahud review "The Beloved Returns," at Miss Pearl M. Hart's home.

The annual "Life Saver" of the Ida Shaffer juniors, affiliated with the Chicago Consumptive Aid society, will be held next Sunday evening at the Hotel Sherman. Harry Riback is chairman of the dance.

The Fox River sanitarium will receive the proceeds of a minstrel show to be presented by the Abe Pearson juniors this evening at the Auditorium building. Miss Sarah Perelgut is musical director, and Miss Helen Aronson, chairman of the show.

The 9th annual dance of the Student Aid society of the Hebrew Theological college will be held this evening at the Congress hotel. Mrs. Herman Bland heads the society.

The Jennie Bernstein Aid will raise funds for the Douglas Park Day and Night nursery thru proceeds of its annual card party this afternoon at 4745 North Kedzie avenue. Mrs. Beatrice Rubin is president.

The annual fall dance of Phi Theta Chi sorority will be held next Saturday at the Sherry hotel. Miss Gerry Johnson is chairman.

The work of the Freda Komaiko Stone Heart club in behalf of cardiac patients during the last year will be reviewed at a meeting tomorrow night at the Morrison hotel. Miss Hattie Parks is president.

AT HOME IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Henry E. Gray and her bridegroom are at home at 5234 Dorchester avenue following a wedding trip thru the east. She is the former Elaine Winnecour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Winnecour.

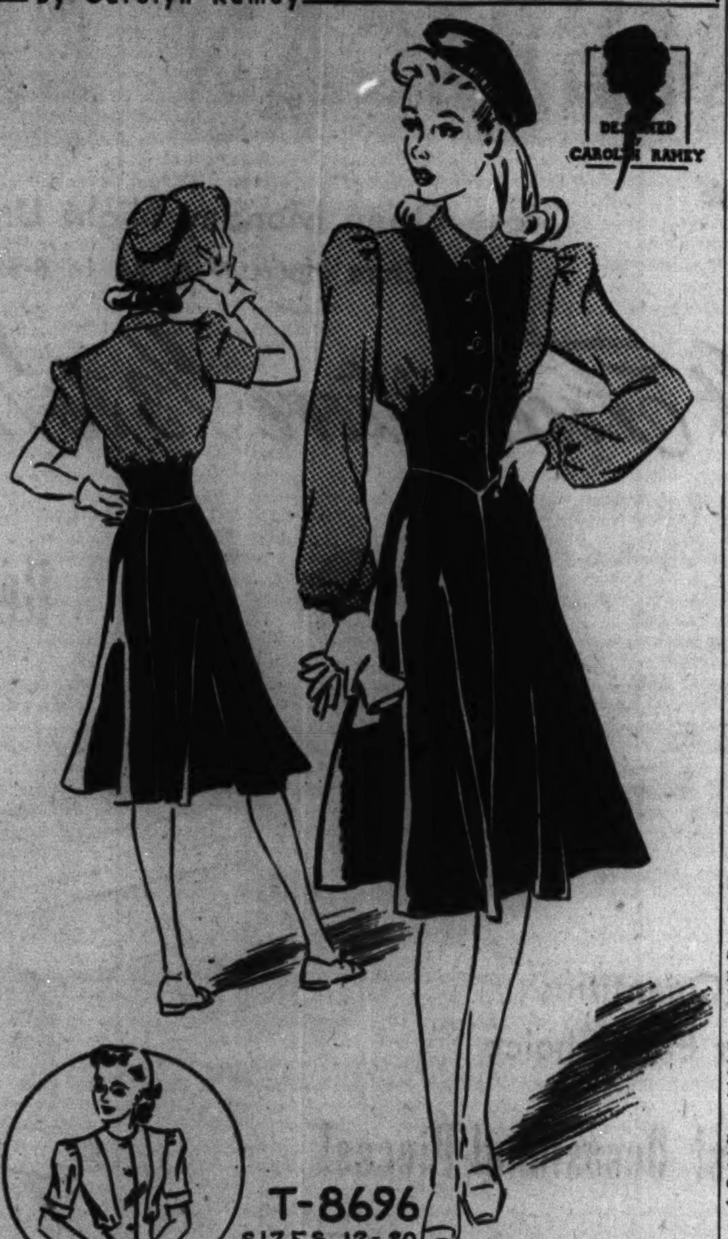
Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey



Contrasting colors are eye-compelling at any time, but exceptionally so in this season of drama in fashion. My new dress is a smooth number with bright red for the collar, sleeves and back of the waist. Combined with deep green wool, this color is a conspirator for attention gaining. It's bad taste to call notice to one's self, but a little exhibitionism is legitimate in this competitive world, methinks!

Of course, this frock, with its molded waistline, full sleeves, moderately full skirt and shirtwaist manner to the bodice, may be made in one color, but there's "punch" in the two tone idea, and this scheme brings out the lines of the dress so much more effectively.

Style No. T-8696 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 54 inch material for skirt and bodice front; 1¼ yards of contrasting for back, collar, and sleeves.

Order for Campus Modes.

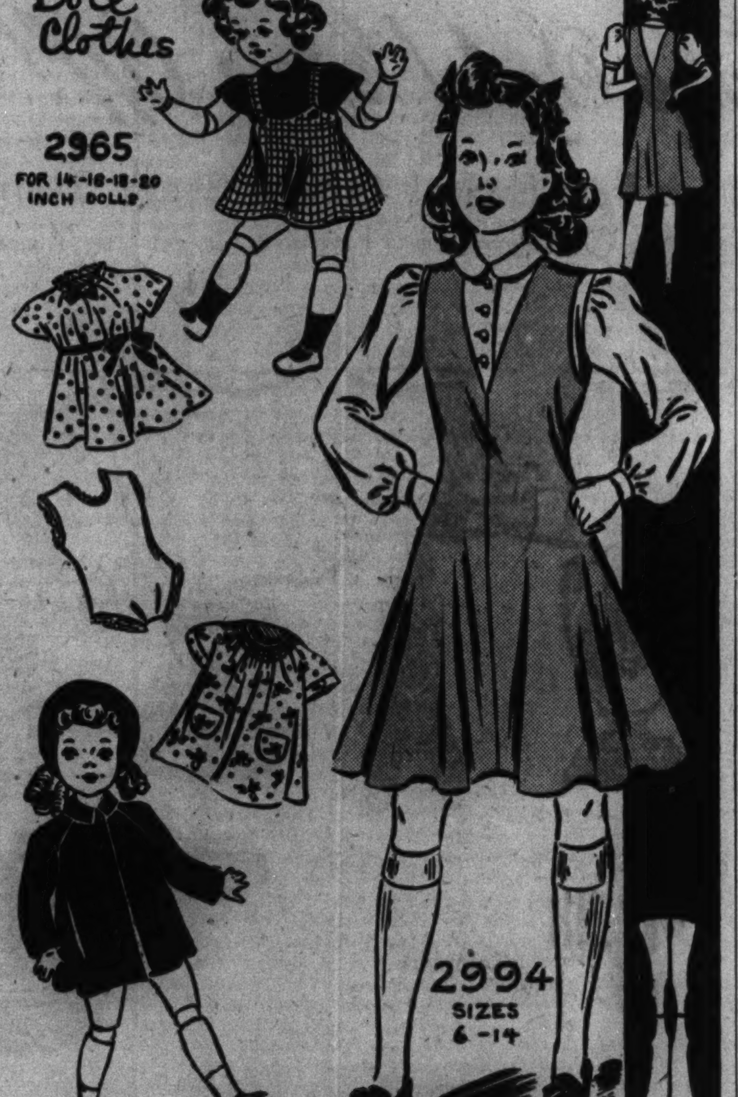
Pen Women Will Hear Original Play and Stories

An original play, short stories, and musical compositions by its own members will be heard by the Chicago branch of the National League of American Pen Women at a luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Women's University club, 410 South Michigan avenue. The program will include a play, "Casting a Play," by Jessie Dawson Plewes; two short stories by Caecile Illing; a mass and a hymn by Anna Miller Scott; songs with words by Lola Carter Robuck, and songs by Burt M. Hall and Mrs. Plewes. Della Hudmon Willien heads the branch.

Clotilde Children's Patterns



The popularity of the jumper dress, at least where juveniles are concerned, seems to be perennial. Here is the fashion done in a brand new manner, with "grownup" sophistication. The youngsters will like the tailored blouse with full sleeves, and the princess lines of the jumper skirt, which has a deep V neckline front and back, and no belt to break the lovely long line, which will make Cissie seem much taller than she really is. Make the skirt of either woolen or crepé, and the blouse of washable silk or cotton.

The doll clothes group will please girls of many ages. The remnant counters may be consulted for the fabrics, and mother will find that the doll wardrobe will cost very few pennies.

Style No. 2994 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch material for blouse; ⅞ yard of 54 inch fabric for jumper.

Style No. 2965 is designed for 14, 16, 18, and 20 inch dolls. Pattern includes suspender skirt, dress, underwear and hat and coat. For fabric requirements, see envelope.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde Children's Fashions to Chicago Tribune. P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

DEAR DADDY:

Can't you buy us a home for Christmas like Johnnie's Daddy did? We need one just as bad as Johnnie's folks do and by the way they bought it at QUIGLEY'S. They tell me they couldn't do without it and if they purchased another, they wouldn't go any other place. I dropped into QUIGLEY'S for a blotter yesterday and they told me about a home, near the school and I.C. for, I forget the price, but I know it is reasonable. QUIGLEY'S OFFICE is located at 2221 E. 71ST STREET and their PHONE NUMBER is BUTTERFIELD 6200. So many of my friends bought their homes from QUIGLEYS that I'm sure they could get us a good home for the price you want to pay.
Your son,
BILLY.

SMART GUY?

Nope! It's Just "Benny Didn't Know"

I KNOW
the used car market is going sky high.
I KNOW
that I can finance any man or woman who is employed with little or even nothing down.
I KNOW
that I can give 24 months to pay.
I KNOW
that I have 199 high grade automobiles that I must sell.
I KNOW
that it will snow and get cold.
B-U-T
I DIDN'T KNOW
that it would snow and snow and snow!
I DIDN'T KNOW
that it would get colder and colder and colder!
I DIDN'T KNOW
that the cold and snow would say WHOA to our sales!
I DIDN'T KNOW
that 22,000 sq. ft. of heated display area would not be large enough to hold all of our cars. So mister—

FAMOUS DIRECTIONS
TO RELIEVE PAINFUL SYMPTOMS OF COLDS FAST

Note Easy Steps in Pictures...
BE SURE TO GET QUICK-ACTING BAYER ASPIRIN

1. To relieve headache, body discomfort and aches, take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. For sore throat from cold, dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in ½ glass of water and gargle. Pain, rawness are eased in a short time.

3. Check temperature. If you have a fever and temperature does not go down—if throat pain is not quickly relieved, call your doctor.

Sore throat from colds also eased in a hurry!
No strong medicines to upset system.

Don't wait if you even suspect you are catching a cold. At the first sign, faithfully follow the directions in the pictures above—the simplest and among the most effective methods known to modern science.

See Your Doctor. Even though he may wholeheartedly approve using Bayer Aspirin to relieve painful symptoms, you should not fail to see your family physician, because many colds may lead to serious consequences. Largely with medical approval, this simple scientific method of relief has taken the place of old-fashioned "shot-gun" medicine for colds, which may upset the system, or have little or no effect. Literally millions have adopted it.

Try this way. You will say it is unequalled, we are sure. When you buy, however, be sure you are not given a substitute for the fast-acting Bayer product you want. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name, not for just "aspirin." And see that you get it.

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN STARTS TO WORK SO FAST
Drop a genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablet in water. Almost instantly it starts to disintegrate—is ready to go to work. Make this test, and see for yourself why Bayer Aspirin acts so quickly!

New easy-opening tin. Just press red spot.

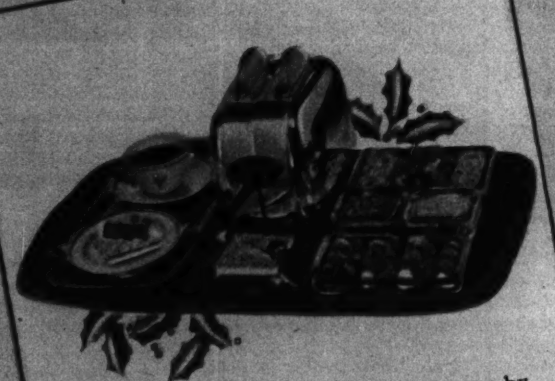
'Twas the Plight before Christmas

And all through his brain
Not a notion was stirring . . .
He puzzled in vain!

If it's your problem too—the Christmas conundrum of what to give Her—you will find the perfect answer here. Among these lovely Toastmaster gifts there is sure to be one she hopes for, longs for—a gift that will help solve some of her problems . . . social problems. A gift that will say Merry Christmas over and over again—a red-letter gift for a red-letter day, and for many happy returns through the years. . . . There's no name like Toastmaster to prove to her that you took time, pondered well, and wouldn't be satisfied with less than the best.



GIFT OF GIFTS! The De Luxe Hospitality Set by Toastmaster. Walnut tray, four lap trays, automatic toaster, toast-trimmer, and four appetizer dishes in the new heavy crystal by Imperial. $23.95. Standard Hospitality Set. $19.95.

TOAST 'N JAM! The perfect breakfast, between-meals, and midnight-feast combination. This De Luxe Toast 'n Jam Set has walnut tray, automatic toaster, and Franciscan Ware toast plate and covered jam and marmalade jars. $17.95.

HIT OF THE SEASON! Gay waffle parties call for this Toastmaster Waffle Service, with walnut tray, Franciscan Ware batter bowl and syrup pitcher, chromium ladle, and automatic Waffle Baker. $16.95. Waffle Baker alone, $12.95.

HAPPY BREAKFASTS! Years of them are wrapped up in this stunning fully automatic toaster. Set the button for light, dark, or in-between—and your kind of perfect toast pops up every time. No watching, turning, or burning. $16.00.

A PRIZE AND A PRICE! It's the Junior Toast 'n Jam Set, with clever, speedy, non-automatic Junior toaster. Walnut tray, with Franciscan Ware toast plate and covered jam jar. Complete set, only $8.50. Toaster alone, $7.50.

STREAMLINED BEAUTY! This 1-slice *Toastmaster automatic toaster is just what the smaller family has been waiting for. It pops up perfect toast every time, exactly like the famous 2-slice model. Finest chromium finish. $9.95.

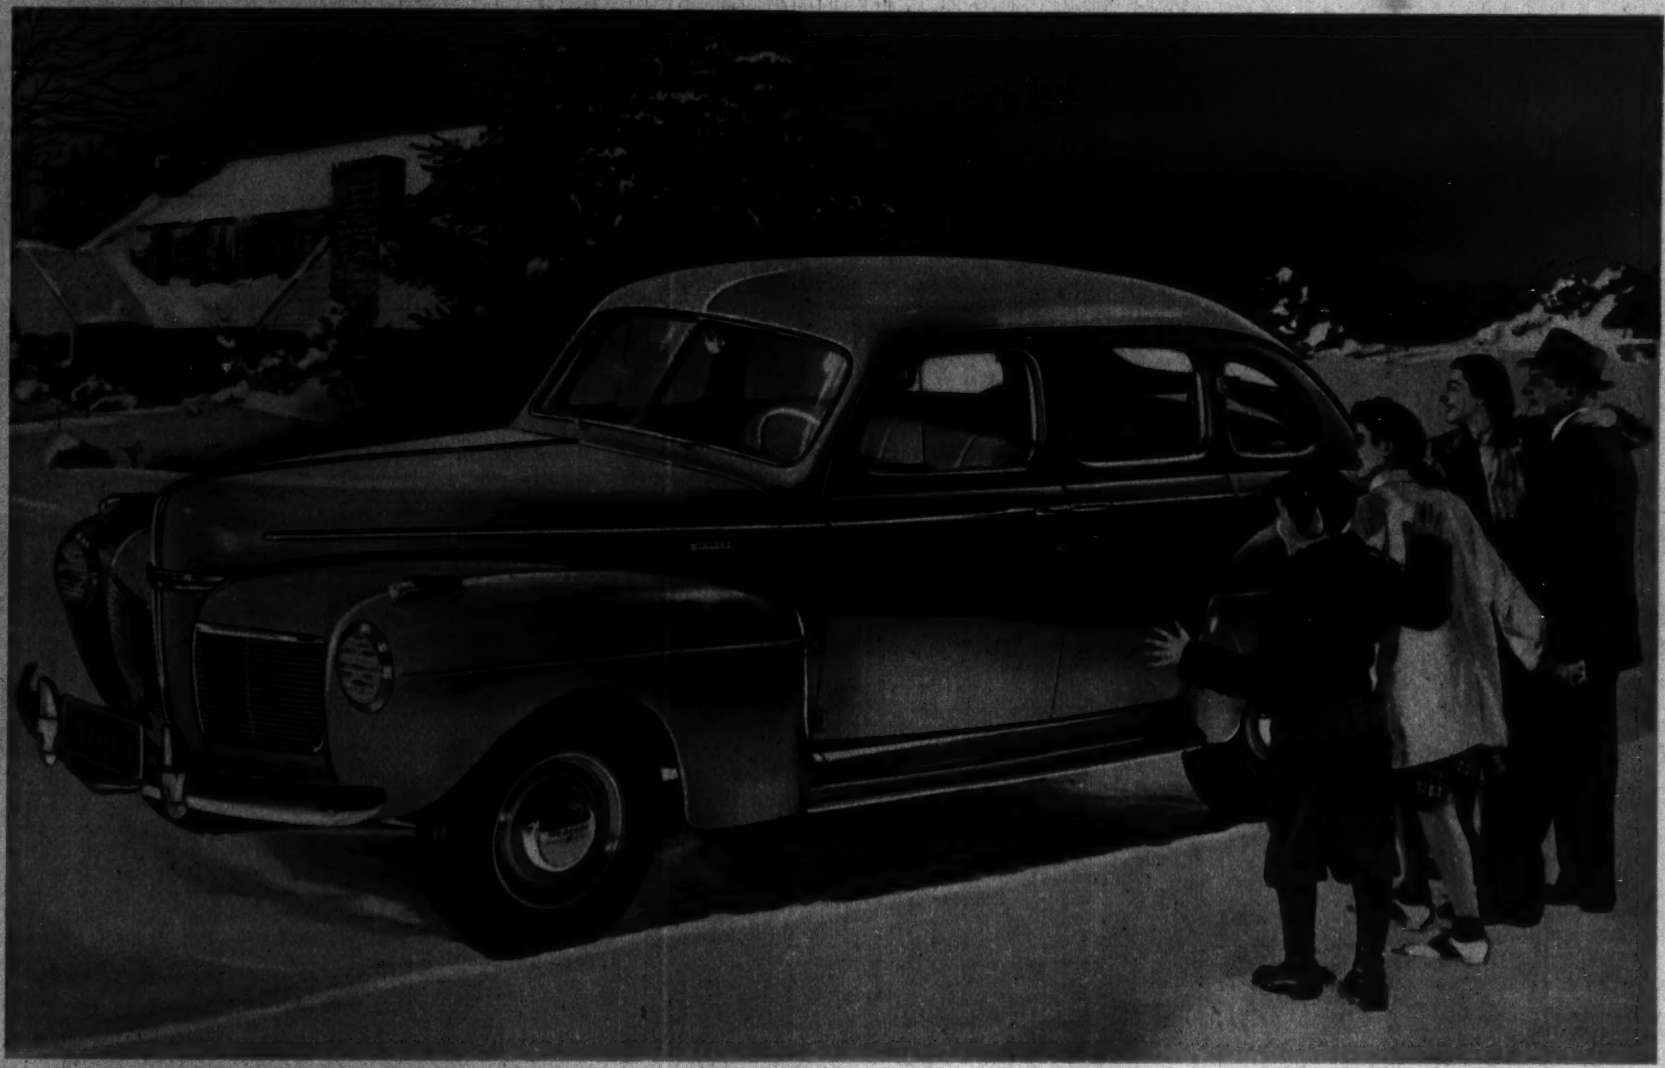
STUDY IN STRINGS AND SHADOWS.



That's what we want for Christmas!

IF EVER a car was built to delight every member of the American family, it's the thrilling new 1941 Mercury! Backed by two years of enthusiastic public acceptance, this clean-cut beauty is amazingly economical—roomier and more comfortable than ever before! It's a big car, too—with elbow-room and head-room for all the family. And it's a beauty that needs no frills.

You'll find hidden values even in the smallest details of this big new Mercury: gears that shift at a touch—sound-proofing that protects you from road and traffic noises—a combination of larger springs and shock absorbers that tames the roughest roads—powerful brakes that cushion you to a quick, sure stop every time!

Mother wants a Mercury because of its luxurious comfort! Interiors are spacious—cushions are invitingly deep and restful. Mercury's sleek, flowing lines and fast action . . . the smooth, confident way it darts ahead at the touch of the accelerator . . . have a sure-fire appeal for the youth of the family! And the head-of-the-house approves Mercury's eager, thrifty, V-type 8-cylinder motor that makes gas dollars go a long way.

Here is everything you would look for, hope for, and expect in a car that's scored such a sensational success in two short years. So remember . . . Christmas is just around the corner. And so is your Lincoln-Mercury dealer. Better do something about it!

BUILT BY THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY—DISTRIBUTED BY MERCURY, LINCOLN-ZEPHYR AND FORD DEALERS

GIVE HER EVERY CHANCE to build a sound body! Give her Scott's Emulsion! Many doctors say that nothing takes the place of cod liver oil in helping children to build strong bones and good teeth. And now THERE IS A BETTER, MORE PLEASANT WAY TO GIVE COD LIVER OIL . . . SCOTT'S EMULSION!

1—Scott's Emulsion has all the values of cod liver oil and is four times more easily digested.

2—Easily Digested—The exclusive method of emulsifying the oil permits digestion to start in the stomach, whereas digestion of plain cod liver oil does not begin until the oil passes to intestines.

3—Tonic-Food Supplement—Beneficial to grown-ups as well as children, especially helpful to those recuperating from illness.

4—Easy to take and retain by children and adults. Scott's Emulsion has a pleasant taste. Supplies normal daily requirements of important Vitamins A and D.

PHOTOS OF THE TWO $2,500 GRAND PRIZE WINNERS WILL BE USED AS MODELS FOR THE POPULAR ADVENTURE CHARACTERS, LEW LOYAL AND BETSY TRUE!

BOYS! GIRLS! If you haven't already done so, send your photograph at once. 20 prizes of $25.00 each are being paid each week to the boys and girls whose photos are published in the Tribune. (See this week's winners at the left.) Two Grand Prizes of $2,500.00 each will be paid at the end of the contest—one to a boy and one to a girl. Their photos will be used as models for Lew Loyal and Betsy True. Their faces will appear in this popular feature. And they will be tried out for broadcasting over W-G-N.

If you are under 15 years of age, paste the entry coupon below on the back of your photograph and send it in. Any snapshot will do. It costs you nothing. You will be made a member of the Lew Loyal Patriots and a beautiful badge will be sent to you.

Watch for winners every Sunday in this section.

GIRL'S GRAND PRIZE . . . . (To The Girl Whose Photograph Is Used As A Model For Betsy True.)	$2,500.00
20 PRIZES EACH WEEK FOR 10 WEEKS, $25.00 each . . . (Each week for 10 weeks the photographs of 10 boys and 10 girls will be selected and published in the Sunday Tribune. $25.00 will be paid for each photograph so published.)	$5,000.00
TOTAL	$10,000.00

1. Any boy or girl under 15 years of age at the date of entry may compete, except employees of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families. It does not matter where you live. It costs you nothing.

2. Any kind of photograph that shows the facial features may be submitted. No special consideration will be given to expensive prints. Any snapshot will do.

3. Paste on the back of your photograph a coupon from the Chicago Tribune, or a facsimile, giving your name, address and parent's consent. Photographs should be addressed, "Lew Loyal", Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. If you wish your photograph returned enclose sufficient postage. However, the Tribune does not guarantee the safe return of any entry.

4. Each Sunday for 10 consecutive Sundays, starting Sunday, October 27th, the photographs of 10 boys and 10 girls will be published in the Chicago Sunday Tribune. To each boy and girl whose photograph is so published the Chicago Tribune will pay $25.00 in cash, ($500 each week or a total of $5,000 for the 10 weeks).

5. In addition to these Weekly Prizes TWO GRAND PRIZES will be paid, $2,500.00 to the boy whose facial features and personality appear to be the most suitable for the character of Lew Loyal, and $2,500.00 to the girl whose facial features and personality appear to be the most suitable for the character of Betsy True. Every entrant will be eligible for the Grand Prizes whether or not his or her photograph is published during the 10 weeks. No entries will be considered after Thursday, Jan. 2, 1941.

6. By consenting to the entry, the parent, or guardian, agrees that the Chicago Tribune shall have all rights to reproduce the photograph and facial features of the entrant in any manner whatsoever without any other compensation than the cash prize paid; and the Tribune shall have the right to make, at its own expense, any additional photographs of the entrant without any other compensation.

7. Judges will be a Committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decisions in all matters will be final.

Like jewelry, the Parker Vacumatic Pen or Set is a handsome personal adornment, yet it's more—it's a Gift the owner will use every day for life!

It will keep you alive in his thoughts—or in hers!

Richly wrought of precious metals—combined with luminous Pearl and Jet Permanite—ring upon ring—as shimmering as velvet, a wholly original and exclusive style—winner of the Pen Beauty Contest.

You cannot expect to obtain such flawless performance in any other pen, due to our new non-brittle Parker 14 K Gold Points, fine-grained and extra resilient, and tipped with "oil-smooth" Osmiridium—so hard and dense that it won't wear scratchy as long as the owner lives!

The Parker Vacumatic is the only Pen of its kind in the world, the only "One-Hand" Sacless filler—no rubber sac, no piston pump, no lever. It makes room for nearly TWICE as much ink as our old style—is the EASIEST filler of all to operate.

And to match this revolutionary Pen is the new Parker Writefine Pencil, with double length lead of amazing strength, yet 39% thinner (21.7% smaller diameter) than old style, writing hair-line notes and figures, sharp and readable, with clear carbon copies.

Give Service Men the Pen that meets Army Regulations!

U. S. Army regulations require that pocket flaps be buttoned, and the Parker Pen or Pencil Clip is Army men's favorite because it permits this. It holds the pen low, flush with the pocket, and unexposed. A greater choice among Navy men, too, than any other 3 makes COMBINED, reports "Our Navy" magazine.

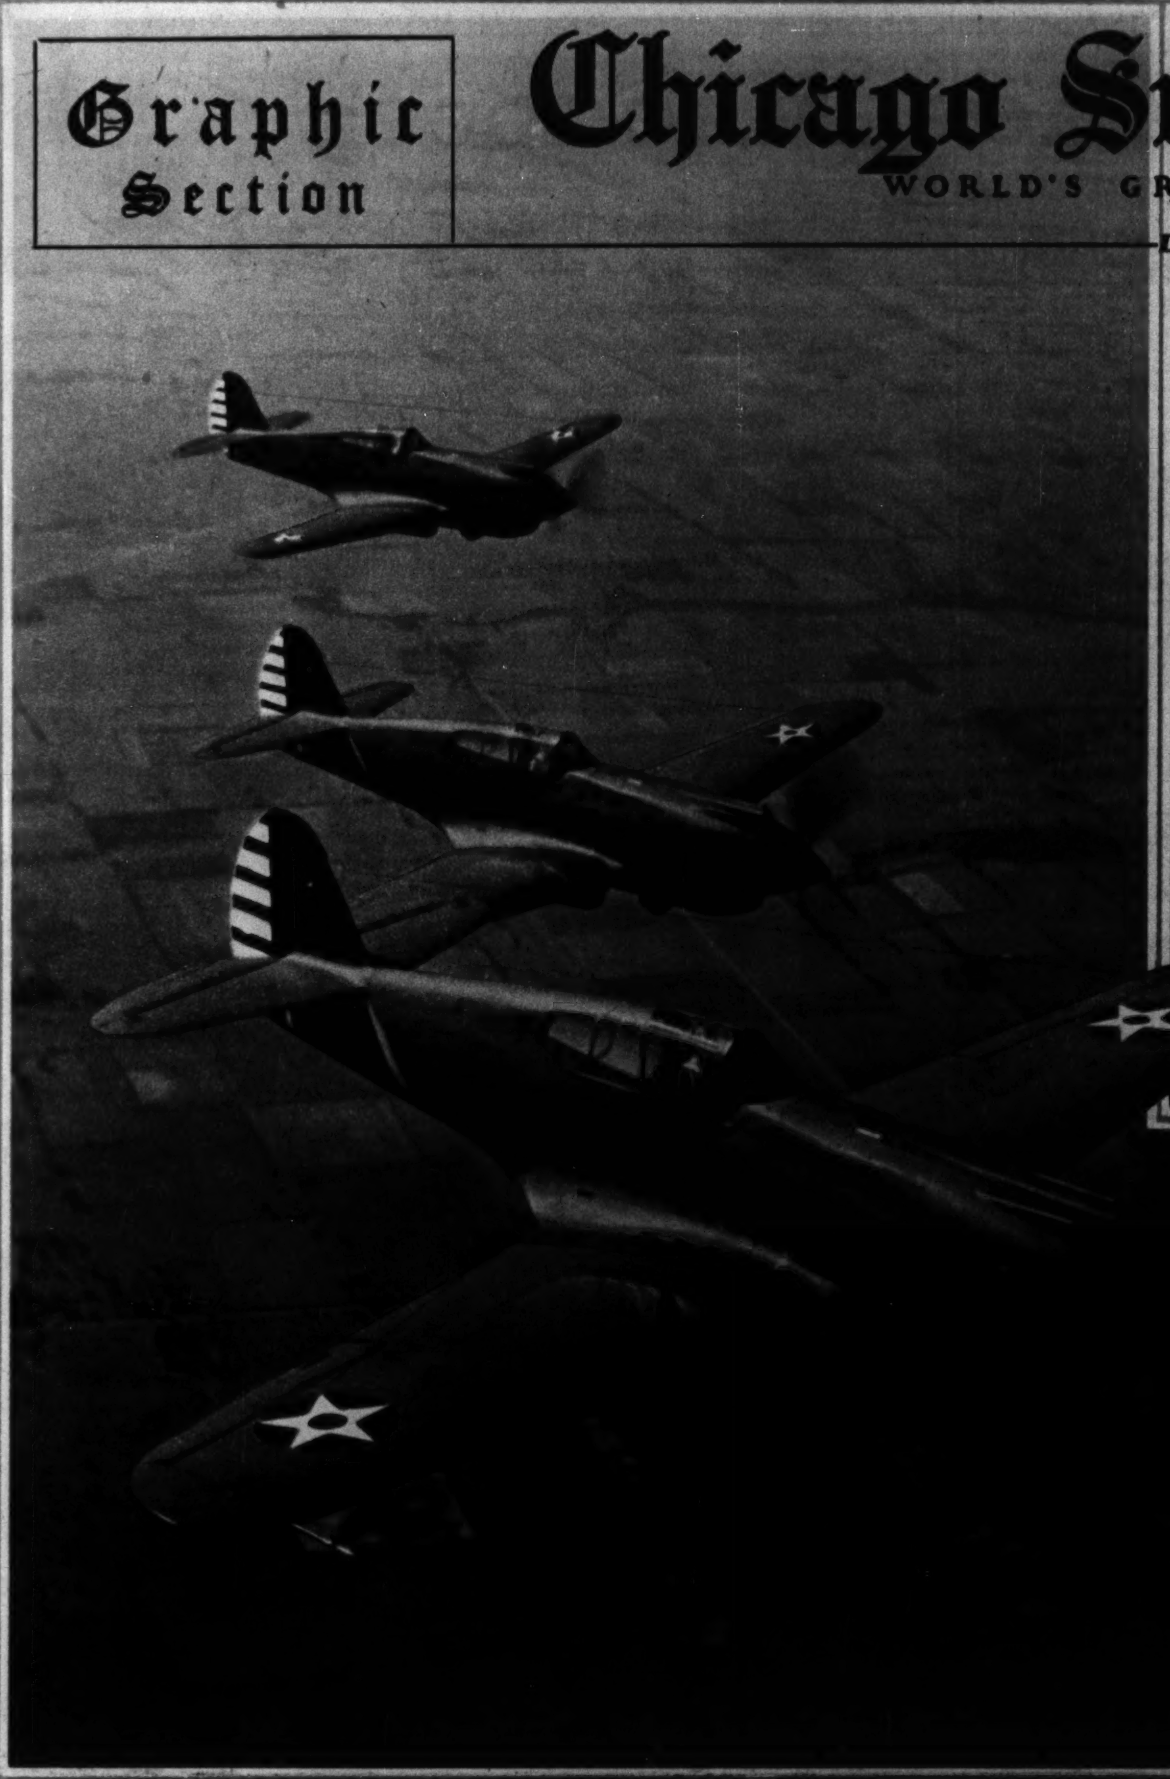
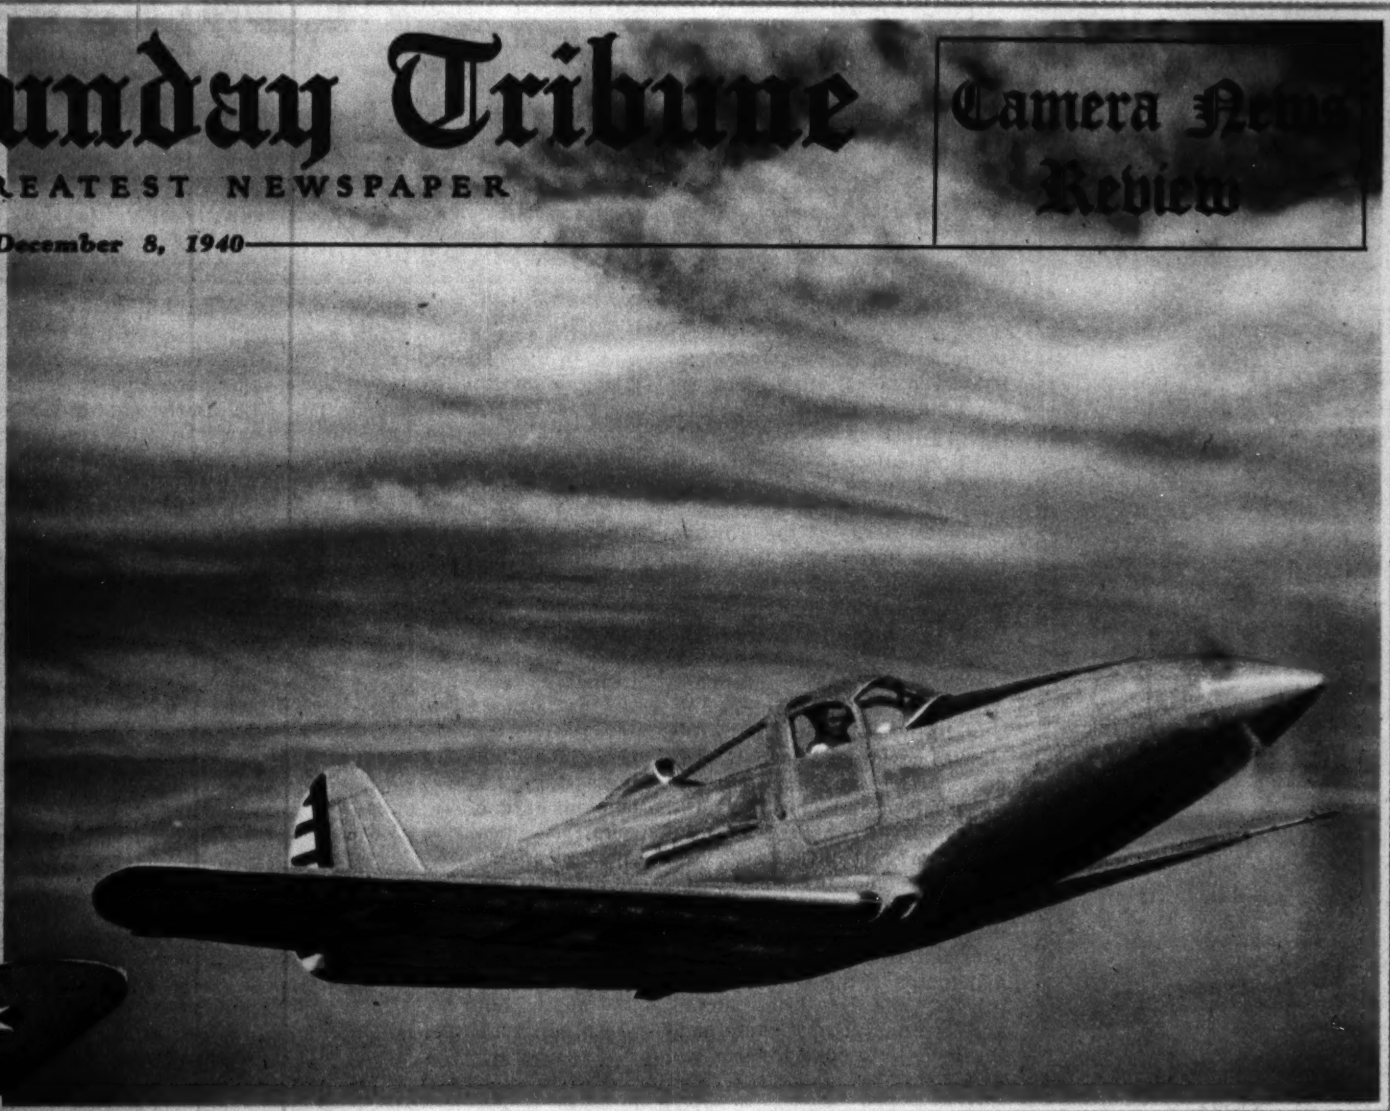
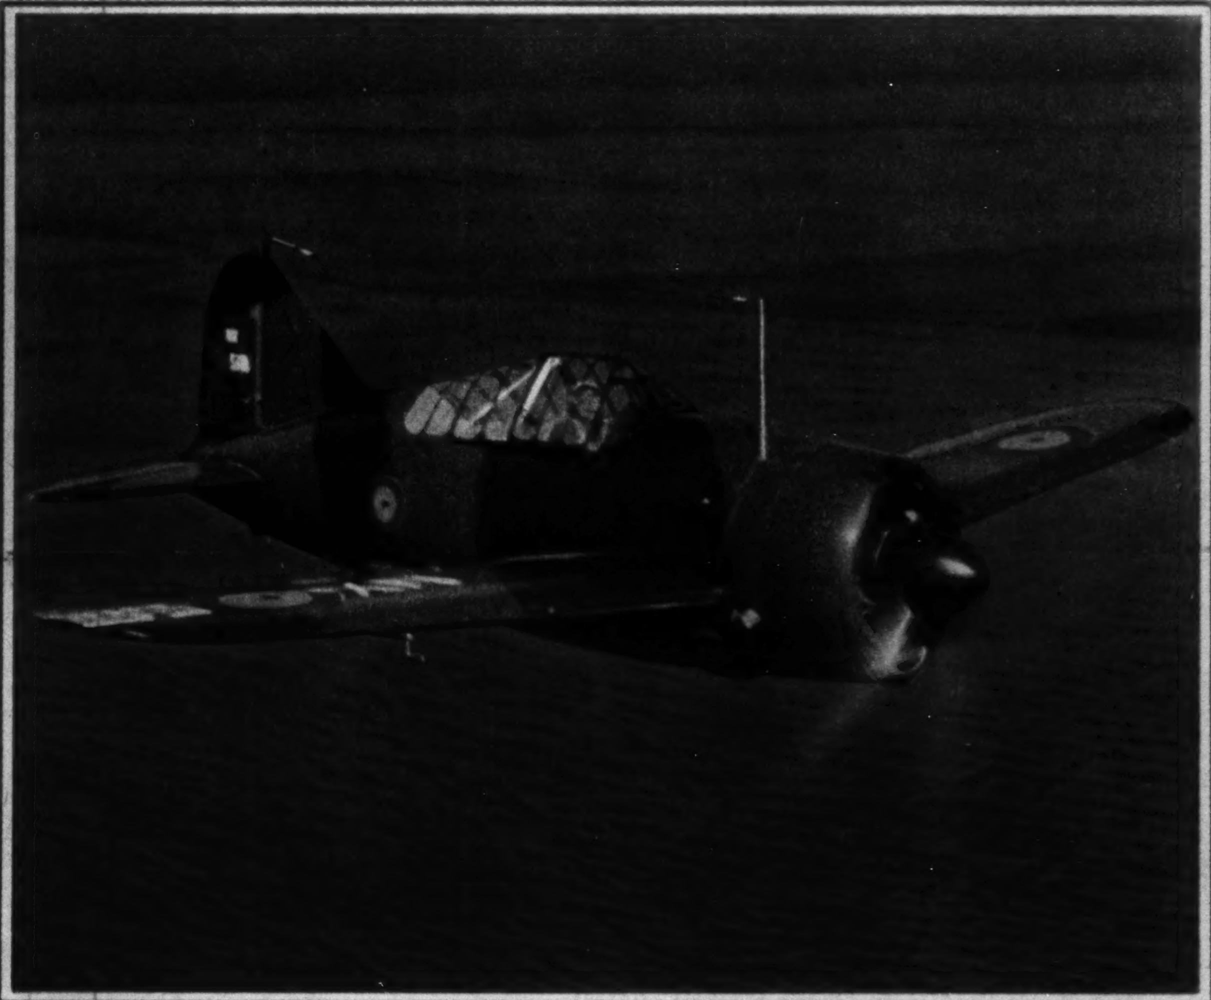
Camera News Review



Three new P-40 low-wing single-seater pursuit planes in delivery flight to United States army air corps. Armed with four to eight guns each, they are reported to have a top speed of about 365 miles an hour.

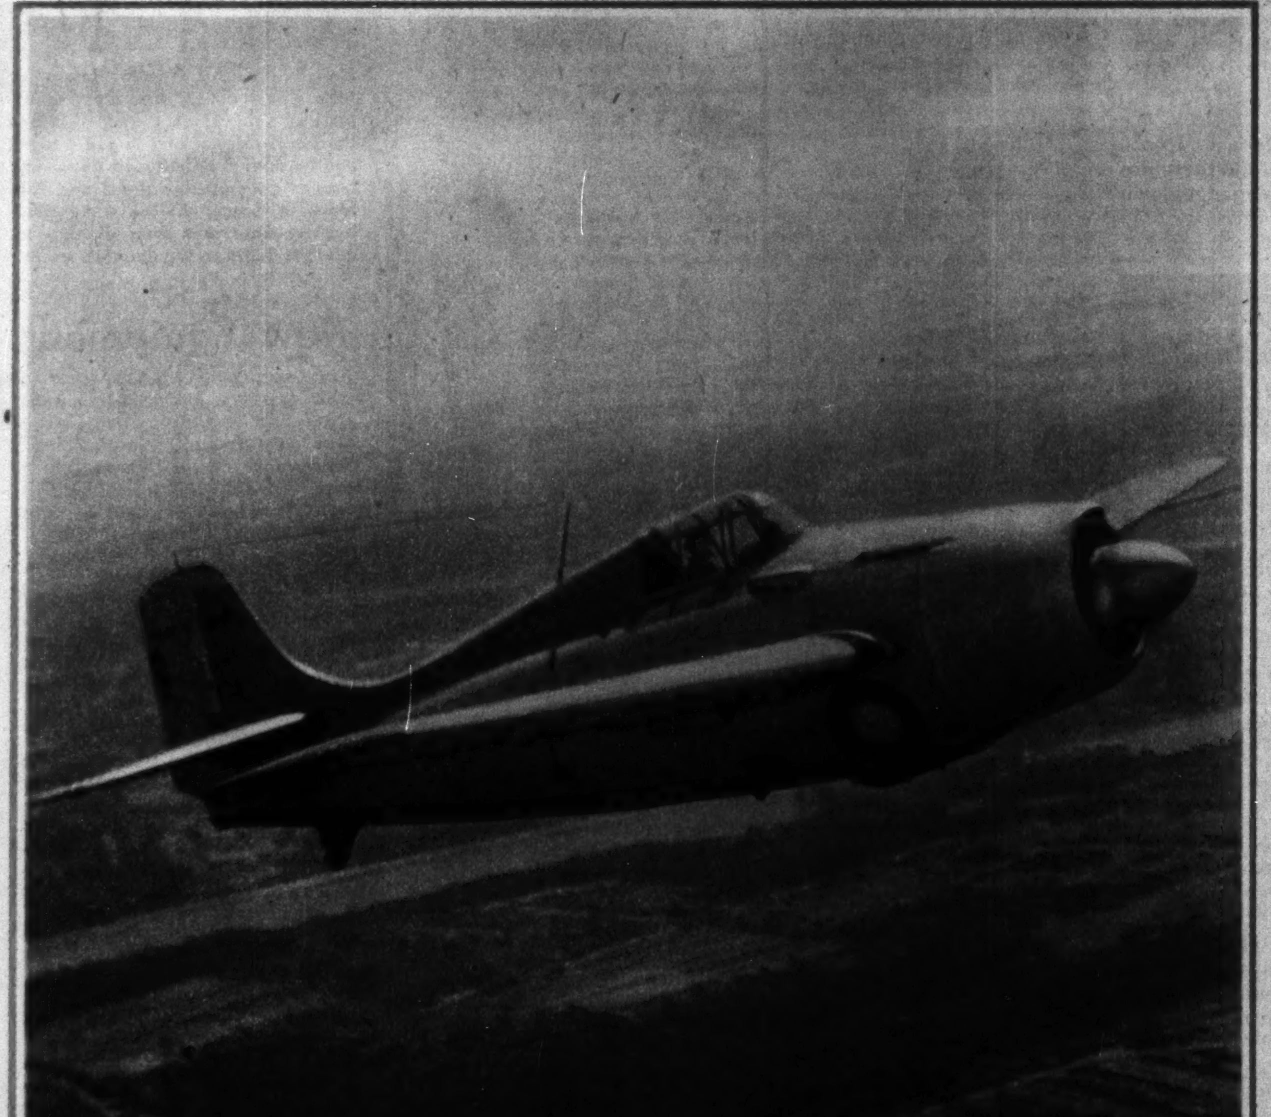


One of the fastest and most heavily armed interceptor-pursuit planes is the P-39. Equipped with a 1,000-horsepower motor, it is capable of 410 miles an hour. It carries nine weapons, including a 37-mm. cannon.



The 339 single-seater fighter is of the type now in use with the United States navy. A 1,200-horsepower engine pulls it along at 345 miles an hour. Its cruising range is 1,500 miles.

Color photos by Rudy Arnold



The F4F-3 is a single-place fighter and light dive bomber designed for use with aircraft carriers. It is armed with four 50-caliber machine guns; carries two light bombs for dive bombing operations.

Newest Fighting Planes for America's Defense

AMONG the newest of America's fighting aircraft are those pictured on this page—planes that fly at amazing speeds and deliver deadly fire. These ships, all of which have undergone severe tests, are being produced rapidly and in increasing numbers as a part of the nation's vast rearmament program.

The P-40 low-wing single-seater pursuit monoplanes shown in the illustration at the upper left are said to be, with their speed of about 365 miles an hour, considerably faster than the earlier type of pursuit planes known as the 75A. Highly supercharged for performance at high altitudes, the all-metal P-40 carries a battery of from four to eight guns. The span of the craft is 37 feet. The motor is of the liquid-cooled type, delivering 1,000 horsepower.

Of far greater speed than the P-40 is the P-39, pictured at the upper right. This is one of the world's speediest and most heavily armed interceptor-pursuit planes. It is being turned out now by mass production methods. The P-39 has a wing spread of only 34 feet and weighs barely 7,300 pounds. It is powered with a 1,000-horsepower liquid-cooled motor and is said to have been the first military aircraft of its type to mark up 400 miles an hour in sustained flight. Its top speed—at 16,000 feet—is 410 miles an hour. The armament of the P-39 consists of eight machine guns and a 37-mm. aircraft cannon. Its unusual tricycle landing gear permits the plane in emergencies to use automobile highways for taking off and landing. A special gasoline tank has been developed which gives this craft an extreme range of 1,800 miles.

Of the same type as planes already in service with the United States navy is the new 339 single-seater fighter shown in the illustration directly above. This ship carries a 1,200-horsepower engine which gives it a top speed of 345 miles an hour. The 339 has a nonstop cruising range of 1,500 miles and a surface ceiling of 35,000 feet. A number of craft of this model now are being produced for use with United States aircraft carriers.

A dual-purpose plane is the F4F-3 pictured in the illustration at the left. It is both a single-place fighter and a light dive bomber. For service as a fighter it carries four 50-caliber machine guns, and for dive bombing operations it carries under its wings two light bombs. This plane has attained a speed of more than 500 miles an hour in diving. Its actual flying speed is about 350 miles an hour, and it is capable of climbing up to a 37,000-foot ceiling. The motor of the F4F-3 is of the air-cooled type and delivers 1,250 horsepower. The cruising range is approximately 1,000 miles. A typical navy fighter, possessing not only speed but exceptional maneuverability, this craft is designed to take off speedily from the deck of an aircraft carrier.

When Hoodlums Made Whoopee

THE FIRST OF TWO STORIES ABOUT CHICAGO'S "BATHHOUSE" JOHN COUGHLIN AND HIS FAMOUS FIRST WARD BALL

"Bathhouse" John Coughlin

AT THE CLOSE of the World's Columbian exposition in 1893 Chicago had won something of a reputation for sinfulness. The roaring levee fringing the loop to the south, the new and splendid tenderloin district in the vicinity of 22d and State streets, the scattering of baudy houses along North Clark street, and the frequent robbings and killings received wide publicity that heralded coming reform.

Not the least of the Chicago iniquities that stirred the anger of decent citizens was the annual grand reception of the First Ward Democratic club—the First Ward ball of Aldermen "Bathhouse John" Coughlin and "Hinky Dink" Michael Kenna. The Bath called it the Derby. He was never happier than when he led the grand march in his dress suit of green billiard cloth.

The First Ward ball was the annual preview of Chicago's vice. Each December it assembled together under one roof the madams and harlots, the robbers and killers, the pickpockets and footpads, the swindlers and thieves, and the drug addicts and common bums who made the levee infamous thruout the world. The latter of these gentry came together to frolic and play, to meet the police in jolly good fellowship, to pay their respects to the Bath and the Hink, and to see what the madams had got together for their divertisement. As the reputation of the ball increased it was attended by prominent business and professional men, stockmen from the west, judges and congressmen, and an increasing number of stern-faced reformers. And, as the attendance yearly represented an increasing proportion of the country's "respectables," the ball got worse.

The First Ward ball was not only a preview of the parlor houses, but it was the means whereby

By LLOYD WENDT

Bathhouse John and Hinky Dink raised money for their campaigns for city council seats. The Bath got the take one year, the Hink the next, and they employed the money, which often exceeded $25,000 per Derby, for their mutual benefit.

The origin of the First Ward ball lies in the annual benefit staged by the madams and the saloonkeepers for "Lame Jimmy," a piano thumper and violinist in a levee resort, and the Veiled Prophet's Bal-masque, which was held every year at Tattersall's hall, 16th and Dearborn streets.

Neither of these affairs was commercial. They expressed instead the curious sentimentalism of the red light district in the '90s. When the madams and their strumpets gathered to honor Lame Jimmy at Freiberg's hall, business was forgotten, charity loosed the purse strings, the dips kept their hands in their own pockets, and joy, as Carrie Watson liked to put it, "reigned unrefined."

Jimmy stood near the door on these occasions, receiving the guests with soft-spoken words of appreciation. Later on he would sing and play, perhaps even his favorite song, "The Palms," which he reserved for special events. The police and detectives about would join in the festivities, drink up a few well chosen tributes to Jimmy, and then everybody would sing "Auld Lang Syne" and swipe away an honest tear.

It was the police in the end who broke up the Lame Jimmy balls. A policeman shot a colleague at Freiberg's during one of the revels, and the city administration not only stopped the ball but the Veiled Prophet affair as well.

Bathhouse John and Hinky Dink took over from there. The Bath had a deep and loving appreciation of the people of the levee. He felt they had as much right to social relaxation as the upper world farther north. The Hink was interested in campaign funds. As usual, their interests were mutual and not conflicting.

The first ball of the First Ward Democratic club came off in 1896 in the Seventh Regiment armory. The next year the Democracy of Cook County or-

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

(Managing Editor, Popular Photography Magazine.)

Check Up on Your Needs Before Santa Comes

WITH Christmas around the corner and photography on your mind, you can aid Santa Claus by preparing a list of the equipment which will help you take better pictures in the coming year. At the same time it is useful to review occasionally the field of countless gadgets just to clarify your own mind as to what the most important pieces of equipment are.

First, of course, you need a camera. But the camera is only the beginning.

One of the most expensive items is extra lenses for the camera. You can spend hundreds of dollars for them, but if you are an average amateur you had better stick to the one lens that came with your camera. It will permit you to take almost any kind of picture. But if you are interested in extreme closeups, long-distance shots, or subjects that call for a wide-angle lens, inexpensive supplementary lenses will do most of the work.

If you have money to spend or plan an appeal to Santa, better ask for other things. You need a case for your camera, preferably of the ever-ready type. A sturdy tripod is essential for taking many kinds of pictures, and it is of little help if you don't get a tilt top for it. A lens shade will help you make clearer pictures, while a set of filters will get you such things as clouds, snow, and many other good pictorial effects. If your camera has no ground glass screen, a coupled or a separate range finder will make focusing easy and accurate.

But long before these accessories you should get a good exposure meter, preferably of the photoelectric type. It will soon pay for itself by saving film and getting you results.

Of course, you need lighting equipment. Two clamp-on metal reflectors for flood bulbs are a good start. You can put to excellent use one of the new small baby spotlights, ranging in price from $5 to $10. And then there is flash equipment.

So much for picture-taking equipment. But you should always remember that snapping the picture is less than half of the work involved in making the finished print. Now is the time for you to start developing and printing your own. You can begin modestly with an outfit consisting of a ruby bulb, three trays, and a printing frame.

However, real pictures are made with enlargers, and once you get into this stage there are plenty of additional gadgets you can use—even tho there are only a few that you could not dispense with. The enlarger itself is a pretty expensive piece of equipment. It can cost you from $10 to $100.

For your darkroom you will need a safelight, developing trays to take the largest prints you intend to make, an easel to hold the paper in place and make white borders, a print washer and a print dryer. A foot switch will leave your hand free to "dodge" or otherwise manipulate your enlargements while printing; a darkroom clock with a large second hand, or an automatic timer switch for the enlarger, are essential for good results.

Other equipment you either need or can put to good use—a thermometer, graduates, funnels, a print trimmer, an enlarging exposure meter, a darkroom scale, an electric print dryer.

A Speed Graphic Picture by Leland V. Jones

Here is a really difficult picture to take. Fast action was stopped at just the right moment, and even tho the photographer had to use a high shutter speed, he stopped down his lens to get both the dress and the faces in focus. At the same time his exposure was long enough to capture detail in the dancer's gown.

Try Home Movies

DON'T put off trying home movies. You can make them as easily as you take still pictures. In fact, it's really easier. Your still camera takes two settings for correct exposure—shutter speed and lens opening. On the movie camera the shutter speed is constant. All you have to set is the lens diaphragm.

The errors the amateur movie maker is likely to commit, fortunately, are few and easily overcome. First, and probably most serious, is failure to hold the camera steady. If it is moved as a scene is filmed the landscape will appear to jump around on the screen.

Watch some fixed object as you shoot your scenes, and keep it at the same point in the finder all the time the camera is going. Better yet, use a tripod. Above all, don't "pan" aimlessly about. While the panorama shot, sweeping across a wide angle, is valuable once in a while, it should be avoided whenever possible.

Don't try to save film by shortening your scenes. This is false economy. It takes several seconds for the observer to really see a scene, and 10 seconds is a good minimum for average shots.

Remember to take closeups along with your distant shots. Too many broad views become monotonous. For a better reel, intersperse your distant views with closeups and semicloseups.

Watch your exposure. If you use a meter or follow the chart which is supplied with your camera you can obtain well exposed films.

Try to get natural action. As long as you have a camera that will record motion, take advantage of it. Don't line up your subjects in a row. Show them doing something.

If you make mistakes in your first movie reel there's still a chance to correct them. You can simply edit them out.

What should you shoot? Almost anything you do is good movie material if you approach it in an interesting manner. Make a little picture story of your next outing, or set up a couple of flood lamps in reflectors and film the children playing at home. There are plenty of able actors among your family and friends. Put them into your movies and see how they enjoy seeing themselves in your home productions.

New Equipment

For names of manufacturers who produce these items send stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Know Your Camera," Equipment Review Department, care Graphic Section, The Chicago Tribune. Be sure to mention serial number of item.

173 Your best negatives can be protected by a professional film preservative which seals the emulsion against drying, dust, and scratches. It is equally effective for both black-and-white and color film.

174 Test strips are packed with a new brand of enlarging paper, avoiding the necessity of cutting up full size sheets for tests. The hard and soft grades of the paper come in packages of six sheets, so that you don't have to buy large quantities of rarely used grades.

175 A new automatic timer for enlarging and printing operates on the electronic principle, without the use of springs, a motor, or a clock. It turns the light on and off at intervals you can set on a dial.

176 The latest all-metal printer accommodates negatives up to 4x5 inches and is equipped to make contact prints from 35-mm. negatives in uncut strips. A hinged platen turns the light on when film and paper are in contact; when it is released the light snaps off.

Looking at Hollywood

with John Chapman

Jim Stewart and Fellow Bachelors

One of Jimmy Stewart's hobbies is flying . . .

. . . and another is his own home movies.

Hollywood.

SOONER or later the draft will catch up with some of them, and when it does life for the remainder of Hollywood's small list of young bachelors will be more rosy than it is now. And goodness knows it's rosy enough right now, socially or professionally. It has been estimated that there are seven young, beautiful, and unattached girls for every eligible male under 40 in the film colony, and there are about that many good-paying jobs.

As of now the roster of unattached gents includes such attractive folk as Jimmy Stewart, Cary Grant, Cesar Romero, George Sanders, Randy Scott, William Holden, and Stirling Hayden. Some are fugitives from a busted marriage; others are, in the phrase of gentler times, keeping company—and some are gayly playing the field. That Victor Mature, for instance, whom the twitter columns report with so many different babes. Or that Desi Arnaz, a pleasant young Latin who got a great publicity department buildup as a lover before anybody ever saw him on the screen. He played the field for quite a while, but now seems ticketed for one girl.

But this didn't start out to be a piece about Young Love. It was going to be an investigation of how some of the heart throb boys live and work. Jimmy Stewart, for instance. Well, depending on which twitter column you read, he is or is not going with Olivia De Havilland.

He is also working at Metro, which considers him a young gold mine. About the time this article gets into print he will be seen in "Philadelphia Story"; he is working in two pictures at once—"Ziegfeld Girl" and "Come Live with Me"—and he is ticketed to go on loan to Capt. James Roosevelt for a Rooseveltian flicker called "Pot o' Gold," which has nothing to do with this young producer's immediate ancestry.

At the studio they will tell you Jimmy is a Typical American Boy, and you will say, "Aw, nuts, so was John Dillinger," but darned if he isn't. From Pennsylvania and a good middle class family; from Princeton and a normal college life; from a handful of stock company and Broadway plays to leads in Hollywood without getting temperamental, Stewart seems to have done about as well for himself and with himself as any fond mother could ask.

As one of the town's best bachelors Jimmy Stewart has quite a time—and, if you discount the fact that he earns more money than most guys of 32, it's a normal good time. His house is presided over by a housekeeper who is a champion cook, and here gravitate the footloose men of school, college, and theater days.

"I have to look in the bedroom to see who's in town," laughs Jimmy.

His offscreen interests are flying, home movies, and radio. His interest in flying dates from when he was 4, when he built a plane out of a pushmobile and some kites and set out on a maiden flight from the roof of the family washhouse at Indiana, Pa. Fortunately Father Alexander Stewart happened to come around the corner just in time to break the fall. Now Jimmy has his own ship, a pilot's license, and nearly enough hours in the air, complete with skull work, to get a transport license. In case of the draft—for which his is even more eligible than he is for marriage—he will be a valuable man in the air corps.

Right after young Jimmy nearly broke his father's neck with the flying pushmobile the old gentleman (old?—why, he was in the Spanish-American and World wars) got his son interested in building model planes, which are safer. Stewart still likes to build model planes. He wishes he had a shop at home, but because he hasn't he builds ships at Reginald Denny's. Denny has made a good business out of manufacturing airplane models and kits for making same.

The passion for radio is also a Typical American Boy affair for people of Stewart's age. Jimmy was the first lad in town to hear sound. He had started building sets when you could get nothing but code—and send it, too, which you can't do now without going thru a terrific pother with the FCC—and the big achievement was receiving the midnight time signal from Arlington.

The first voice broadcast heard in Indiana, Pa., was Jimmy's reception of the Harding inaugural. Later he followed the development of loud-speakers, which at first were ear phones stuck on phonograph horns. Volume was the thing. It was a great day when Stewart's loud-speaker made it possible to hear KDKA three blocks away.

"A great day," says Jimmy, "but not for the neighbors."

Stewart has carried his radio hobby right up to now. He had an idea that if you had a speaker big enough, even tho it played very softly, it would make music sound as tho it were all over the room and not just in one spot. Metro's sound expert, Douglas Shearer, contributed two big movie screen speakers, and Jimmy and an electrician doped out and built a circuit in the Stewart house, and the result is wonderful.

Screen biographies usually report that the subject finally made a screen test and the bosses liked it and he was given a contract and lived happily ever after—but they don't say what the test was. A test is more than just standing in front of a camera and looking handsome. It involves acting a scene from a play.

I asked Stewart what his test had been. He had been in two or three Broadway shows, had made an impression as a young Irish soldier in "Yellow Jack," and was in a piece called "Divided by Three" when Metro's New York scout asked him to make a test. So he did a scene from "Divided by Three," which I saw but can't remember, with a cute little number from the same play whose name was Hancey Castle. Miss Castle, too, was being tested, but she didn't get tapped.

George Sanders

William Holden

Another of Hollywood's estimable bachelors is Cesar Romero, the Cisco Kid. He lives with a couple of servants in a nine-room colonial he built in Brentwood. He keeps his parents and a brother and sister in other quarters in Beverly Hills, and he doesn't seem to go out with one girl long enough to make it look serious. His latest companion has been Patricia Morison. His closest friends are the George Murphys, Ann Sothern and Roger Pryor, and Joan Crawford. Right now he's busy making "Tall, Dark and Handsome" on the Fox lot.

George Sanders, another field player whose recent dates have been Barbara Lynn, an Earl Carroll beauty now contracted for Fox, and Evelyn Ankers, an English newcomer, lives in a leased Beverly Hills house with his parents and a brother, whom he brought from England. You'll see him as the villain in "Bittersweet."

Bill Holden, who has played nothing but leads in all his half dozen or so pictures, has been a top flight cinema bachelor—but may at any time lose his standing by marrying small, dark, and handsome Brenda Marshall, one of the Warner brothers' crop of divorcées. Now playing in Paramount's "I Wanted Wings," Bill lives alone in a modest apartment in North Hollywood. Not even any regular servants—just a Filipino boy who comes in occasionally to clean up. Bill is gun-crazy, is given an allowance of $20 a week by his manager, and blushes when you remind him that a sorority at U. C. L. A. last February named him as its ideal leap year date. He sings in the choir of a Pasadena church at Christmas time and between pictures goes to work as an $18-a-week merchandise checker at the industrial laboratory where his father is employed as a chemist.

Stirling Hayden is a newcomer to the bachelor list, having been in Hollywood only six months. His best friend is Bill Holden. He lives with his mother in a little house in Laurel canyon, and his infrequent dates are never more than twice with the same girl. He has been to a night club twice—once with his agent, another time with Madeleine Carroll, with whom he made his screen debut in "The Southerner." Hayden is ship-crazy and will go sailing with anybody from San Pedro to San Francisco who will ask him. He can't afford his own boat yet.

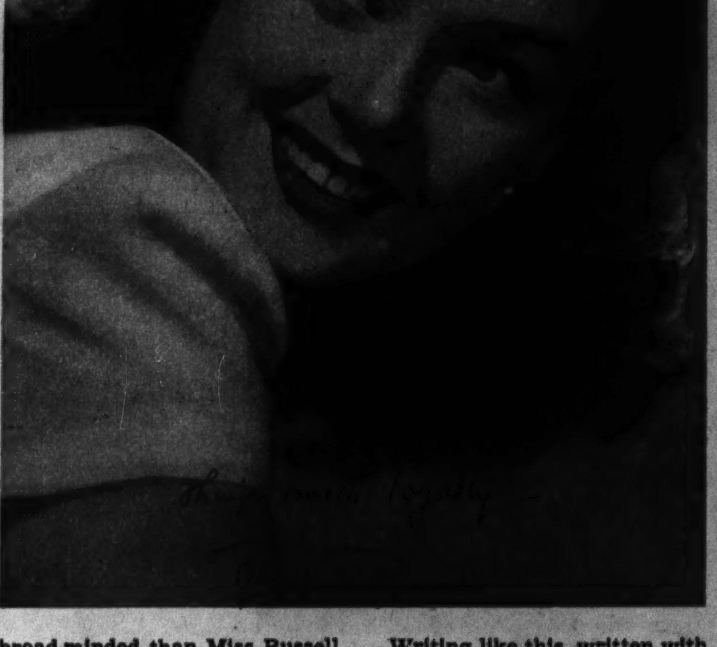
Not unimportant among the bachelor set is George Brent, who has had three wives but who has been single now for several years. Depending on whom you read, he's either all set with Ann Sheridan or it's all washed up. He lives alone in the valley, owns a schooner (on which Miss Sheridan has been a guest), likes to fly a plane, plays good tennis and good poker, and saves his money for buying real estate.

This is not a complete list, girls, but it's awful good.

Match Your Handwriting with the Movie Stars'

By SHIRLEY SPENCER

(Copyright: 1940: By Chicago Tribune.)



INDIVIDUALITY registers definitely in handwriting, and we find a high degree of it in the signature of Rosalind Russell. After seeing her enormous signature it is not hard to understand her rapid progress to the front thru her last few pictures, in which she handled various rôles with distinctive individuality.

Those large capital "R's" reveal her ambition, and her independence is something to be reckoned with. If any of your friends make enormous and unusually tall capitals, don't try to tell them what to do or how to do it. They will tell you what to do, but they don't take orders! If you yourself make capitals as large as these you won't be happy unless you can work out your own ideas to a large extent without supervision.

Miss Russell is uncompromising and will stand her ground against all odds. Her writing is clear cut, straightforward, and is written with firmness, positiveness, and dignity. She isn't afraid of revealing just what she feels and thinks, and her attitude is "take it or leave it."

The "d" in her first name is a Greek "d," indicating culture, and the simple formations show good taste and a clear mind.

You will note that her words are widely spaced, as are her letter formations and lines of writing, revealing an unusually generous mind and heart. There is nothing petty or small about those who can't get more than about three words to a line, as does this great-hearted young woman. No one could be more broad-minded than Miss Russell or more ready to respond to a just cause.

Maybe your writing isn't as large as Miss Russell's, because the average persons don't write such a large script. They don't have to dramatize their personalities to this extent, but if your writing is fairly large and widely spaced you have these same generous qualities.

Writing like this, written with force and control, indicates courage of a high degree. Miss Russell ran her standards up to great heights, and she isn't the type to haul them down in the face of any blitzkrieg. She knows her own mind, and she isn't afraid to stand by her convictions. This interesting young woman has a will and a way of her own.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper.
If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: Did Clark Gable play in "Mutiny on the Bounty"?

BARBARA CARLIN.

Editor's note: Clark Gable played the rôle of Christian in "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Dear Miss Tinée: I'm a young lady almost 16 years old. I'm a great admirer and fan of Miss Alice Faye. I've reviewed each of her pictures more than once since "You're a Sweetheart." She appealed to me very much. I've dreamed about her more than once. Please tell me where I can obtain an autographed photograph of Miss Faye.

Alice Faye

Incidentally, if you are reading this column, Miss Faye, would you kindly write to me? I've written to your studio many time but have never succeeded in obtaining an answer.

Well, I've got my fingers crossed. Here's hoping you'll answer, Miss Faye.

Here's all luck and success to your column, Miss Tinée.

PAT COSTELLO.

Editor's note: (O, Miss Faye, are you lookin'? Pat wants a photo and a letter! We'll welcome a word from you to her in this column.) For autographed photograph, Pat, send request and 25 cents to Miss Faye, care of Twentieth Century-Fox studio, Beverly Hills, Cal., and unless my information's wrong you'll get a picture of your favorite. Thanks for your kind wishes.

Dear Miss Tinée: Just want you to know I enjoy your column very much. Please—how about a picture of yourself in The Tribune and a short life history? Would you please print Bette Davis' address in your Sunday column soon? Good luck to you, and may I add, long live Mae Tinée! Sincerely,

S. MATUSINE.

Editor's note: I'm glad you enjoy the column. I enjoy reading the letters and answering them. Sorry, but I just haven't got a picture. You can write to Miss Davis care of Warners-First National studio, Burbank, Cal. Thank you for your cordiality, and do come again!

Dear Miss Tinée: For such a long time I have been reading your column but have never written you. The reason was there was nothing I had to say, but now I want to write you about my favorite actor. He is Louis Hayward. I like him because he's different, because he can act as villain or hero ("Man in the Iron Mask"), and he can be comical ("Duke of West Point"). O, and he is very good looking. Will you please tell me where I can write for his picture? Thank you.

C. JOHNSON.

Editor's note: I'm glad that at last you made our corner and that you've liked it for so long. You can write to Mr. Hayward care of United Artists studio, 1041 North Formosa, Hollywood, Cal.

Dear Miss Tinée: Many praises go to your grand column in The Tribune.

Judy Garland

The picture "Strike Up the Band," in which Judy Garland played, was terrific. Judy certainly deserves orchids for the swell performances she has given to the public. I think every one will agree with me on that point. Here's asking for information. I would like to know the address at which I might correspond with Judy.

I certainly would appreciate it if you would print my letter, accompanied with a picture of my favorite star. Thanks loads.

BABE KAYE.

Editor's note: Here's your letter and also a picture of Judy. You can write to her care of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, Culver City, Cal.

Fluid Coupling Provides Smooth Power

● This is the fourth article of a series on notable recent achievements in automobile engineering, designing, and construction.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

ONE OF THE outstanding achievements in the development of the automobile to its present high level of performance has had to do with the introduction of the so-called fluid or liquid coupling between the source of the power—the engine—and the rear wheels.

Altho based upon a principle with which mechanical engineers have been familiar for a number of years, the fluid coupling is fairly new to the automobile field in this country. It is featured in several makes of American cars.

The principle of the fluid coupling can be explained simply by means of two electric fans which are set facing each other. One fan, connected to an electric outlet, is put into motion by turning its switch. As its blades whirl the breeze that they create turns the blades of the other fan, which is receiving no electric current whatever. If a fluid is substituted for air and radial fins or vanes are substituted for blades the principle of the fluid coupling can easily be understood.

One of the companies that equips its cars with the liquid coupling describes the mechanism as being "similar to two halves of a metallic grapefruit from which the fruit has been removed by a spoon without damage to the sectional membrane.

"One half is attached to the engine crankshaft where the flywheel formerly was found. The second half, sealed within the first, is attached to the main drive shaft of the transmission. When the engine is idling the inclosed fluid is churned lazily about by the driving vanes. When the engine throttle is opened fluid is whirled smoothly by centrifugal force to the second half, which is forced into motion by the sheer mass of the engine-driven fluid."

The fluid coupling essentially is a closed-circuit turbine, consisting of a primary shaft and impeller and a secondary shaft and runner. The impeller is driven by the engine and, thru the turbine principle, drives the runner, which connects with the rear wheels thru the transmission and propeller shaft.

As the name implies, the engine is coupled to the transmission line by liquid, thus eliminating the clash of metal against metal and forming a cushion that absorbs shocks caused by starting, accelerating, or changing from a lower to a higher gear. These are shocks that ordinarily cause extra wear on certain mechanical parts of the car. Manufacturers who equip their cars with the fluid coupling therefore point to the smooth, cushioned flow of power as instrumental in greatly reducing wear on car parts and tires as well.

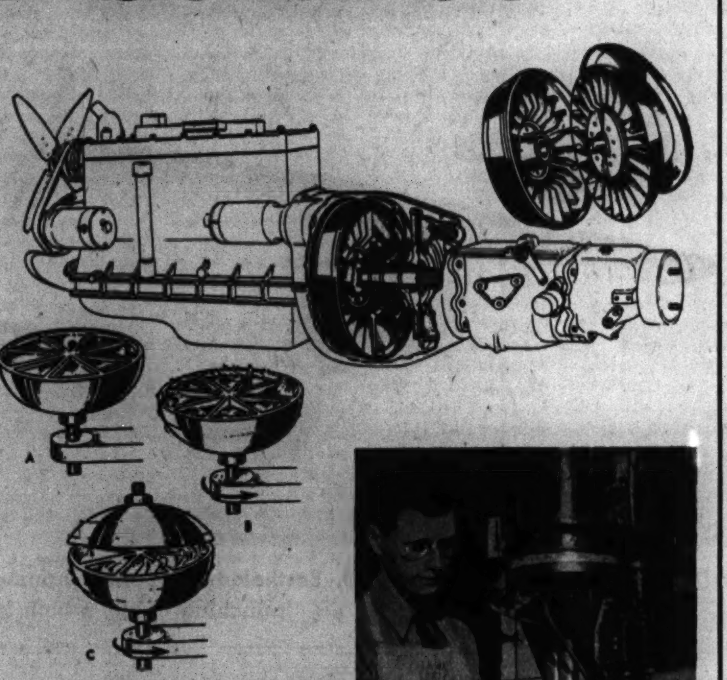
Whenever the driver half of a fluid coupling is revolving a force is transmitted to the driven half, but if the resistance to turning of the mechanism back of the driven half is great enough no motion is actually transmitted. So that, considering the normal bearing or chassis friction that exists in every power transmission system between engine and the rear wheels, there is enough resistance so that the engine can maintain a normal idling speed without the car moving. The coupling is, however, actually transmitting torque or pull to the car in all cases, but when the speed is low enough so the car is not moving this power is being converted into heat in the fluid of the liquid coupling, but this is usually negligible.

A fluid has been developed for use in the coupling. It is a special lubricant that is equally efficient in winter and summer. It is said not to change its viscosity—thin out or thicken—in many thousand miles of driving. Any good grade of 20-W engine oil may be substituted in the coupling for temporary use, according to engineers. In some of the fluid couplings it is not necessary to change fluid at all.

The fluid coupling is utilized in the motor car in combination with the conventional type of clutch and standard transmission, with semiautomatic transmission, or with fully automatic transmission. The last named is a "four-speed" transmission (four forward and one reverse), in which the engagement of what corresponds to a clutch in the standard type of car and the shifting of the gears are done automatically by a control device that is operated by the position of the accelerator pedal and the speed of the car. In the semiautomatic transmission part of the shifting of the gears is done automatically.

A strong argument advanced by the manufacturers for the combination of fluid coupling and fully automatic transmission is that it eliminates a majority of the manual operations of driving a car. For example, it is pointed out that in the conventional type of car the following separate operations are required to start it and put it into high speed: (1) Step on the starter; (2) depress the clutch pedal; (3) shift into low gear; (4) release the clutch pedal; (5) step on the accelerator; (6) release the accelerator; (7) depress the clutch pedal; (8) shift into second gear; (9) release the clutch pedal; (10) step on the accelerator; (11) release the accelerator; (12) depress the clutch pedal; (13) shift into high gear; (14) release the clutch pedal; (15) step on the accelerator.

To obtain the same final results with a car equipped with a fluid coupling and fully automatic transmission (a combination which goes under a trade name) it is necessary only to (1) start the engine; (2) select the direction; (3) step on the gas. Twelve of the original operations here have been eliminated.



Diagrammatic drawing showing position of the fluid coupling in regard to the motor, the clutch, and the transmission. Upper right: The two rotors of the coupling, showing their vanes. Lower left: Drawings to show principle of fluid coupling: A, half of coupling, which is attached to engine: B, this half in motion: C, transmitting power to other half by means of centrifugal force of fluid.

(Courtesy Chrysler corporation.)

Steel vanes of fluid coupling being welded into position. If this part, with its vanes, were cast, which would be necessary without the art of electro-welding, it would weigh twice as much as it does.

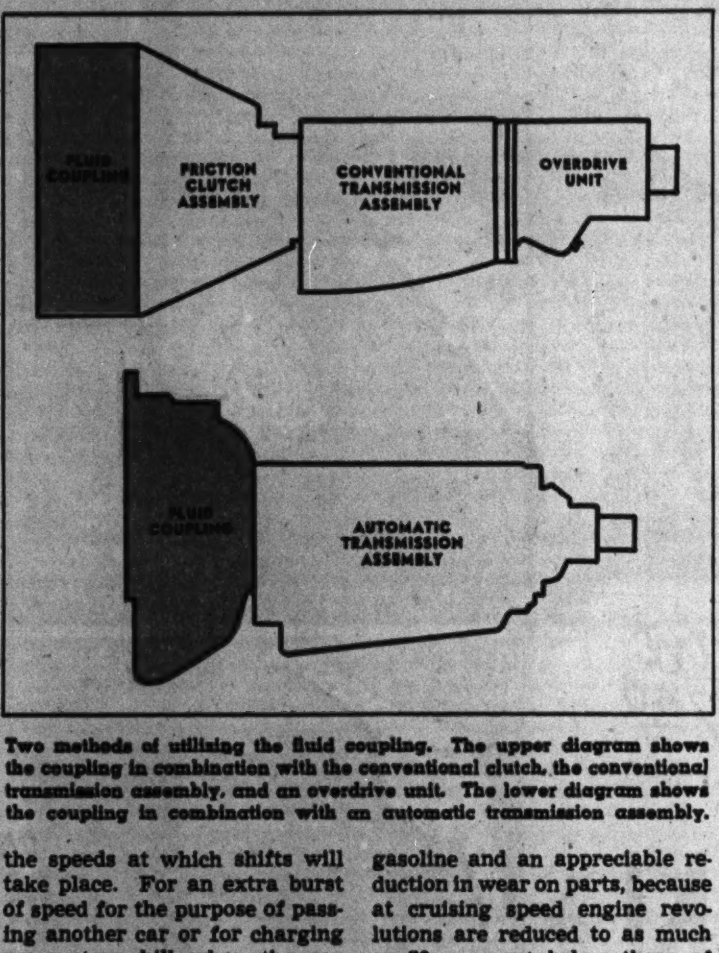
The second of the last three operations, the selection of direction, is accomplished thru a direction control lever located just below the steering wheel. In connection with this lever are four positions at which it may be placed. The position on the control device at the extreme left is neutral. The second position is designated as "Hi" and is used for all normal driving. The third position, designated as "Lo," provides the speed used in descending steep hills or for exceptionally heavy pulling thru mud or sand, when it may be desirable to hold the car in first or second gear. The fourth position, which is at the extreme right, is the reverse position. A lifting motion is required to put the control lever in the reverse position. This is to guard against accidentally changing into reverse.

The fully automatic transmission, as aforementioned, provides four forward speeds. The speed best suited is automatically selected. The car equipped with this mechanism moves forward smoothly, changing its own gears thru first, second, and third, until at 20 miles an hour it enters fourth speed, a direct drive with a rear axle ratio of 3.4 to 1. Varying pressure on the accelerator pedal gives the driver additional control over the speeds at which shifts will take place. For an extra burst of speed for the purpose of passing another car or for charging up a steep hill when the car equipped with automatic transmission is doing under 55 miles an hour the transmission shifts instantly, on full depression of the accelerator pedal, to third gear, giving 44 per cent more tractive power than in fourth gear or direct drive. The car returns to direct drive automatically when the driver lets up on the gas or the car itself attains a speed of 65 miles an hour.

With this equipment one can flick his control lever into Lo at any car speed under 40 miles an hour. At speeds above this a special cutout automatically takes the Lo range out of operation.

With the fluid coupling-automatic transmission combination, when one has left his control lever in Hi, Lo, or reverse in turning off the engine, an interlocking connection between the starter button and the control lever automatically shifts into neutral as soon as the starter is engaged.

It is claimed for cars equipped with both the fluid coupling and the fully automatic transmission that there is no stalling of the engine, that the car can creep along more slowly than a walk in traffic without jerking, and that there is a great saving in gasoline and an appreciable reduction in wear on parts, because at cruising speed engine revolutions are reduced to as much as 20 per cent below those of the conventional type car. Most striking, however, are the demonstrations of flexibility afforded by the performance on hills of cars provided with the fluid coupling-automatic transmission combination. They can be driven up a hill at a snail's pace and stopped on the steepest grade without the employment of the brakes. On a steep grade, by slightly depressing the accelerator pedal and putting just enough power thru the fluid coupling, it is possible to hold the car stationary. Further opening of the throttle will start the car smoothly and accelerate it on up the hill.



Two methods of utilizing the fluid coupling. The upper diagram shows the coupling in combination with the conventional clutch, the conventional transmission assembly, and an overdrive unit. The lower diagram shows the coupling in combination with an automatic transmission assembly.

Where the fluid coupling is employed with a conventional manually operated clutch and either a conventional three-speed forward transmission or a four-speed transmission involving an overdrive mechanism it successfully dampens engine vibrations and makes for more flexible direct driving performance. It permits starting in high gear without manually shifting.

Where the fluid coupling is used in combination with the semiautomatic transmission—a four-speed transmission without overdrive—the car may be operated in the high range for all normal driving. With this equipment low range is used only for starting on hills or in heavy pulling. When the gear shift lever is in the low range position two gears are available. In order to shift from low range to high range it is necessary to depress the clutch and move the gear shift lever manually. High range provides a gear for starting with a ratio that corresponds approximately to the high gear ratio of a standard transmission. The fourth gear of the transmission, obtained by releasing the accelerator pedal, is lower in ratio than that of the standard three-speed transmission. With this transmission shifting is semiautomatic and is achieved by the employment of springs and vacuum and electrical apparatus.

Manufacturers who feature with the fluid coupling the conventional clutch with a three-speed transmission, the conventional clutch with a four-speed transmission involving an overdrive, or the four-speed semiautomatic transmission, call attention to what they describe as the extreme simplicity of their fluid coupling, a simplicity which, they point out, does much to simplify maintenance and servicing problems of the car owners. That it is not mandatory to start their cars in low gear is one of their arguments.

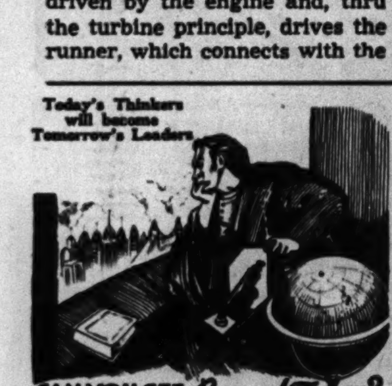
While the advantages of the fluid coupling as described here are many and make it a desirable feature of a car, it should be borne in mind that a large number of finely engineered automobiles of the latest models are not equipped with it. This in itself may be taken to indicate that the automotive industry as a whole is not yet completely won over to the idea. Or, on the other hand, it may be taken, as suggested by manufacturers featuring the fluid coupling, to indicate that production or other problems may have influenced some companies against the idea. With everything considered, however, it is obvious now that the desirable features of the fluid coupling (plus its companion mechanisms) assure its permanency in the automobile field. Interesting developments of it are expected in the future.

Used for the last decade in ocean liners, power houses, mines, factories, and other establishments in which smooth power is essential, the fluid coupling, after six to nine years of experimentation, now is recognized definitely as a step forward for the automotive industry. Its introduction in this field is looked upon as heightening the possibility for Diesel power in automobiles. Hitherto it has been the lack of a sufficiently flexible and smoothly reacting transmission as much as the relatively greater weight of the engine itself that has kept the Diesel motor out of the passenger automobile field except in an experimental way.

Lest this article be misinterpreted as an argument against the car without the fluid coupling, it should be pointed out here that the cars selling in greatest volume still retain the conventional clutch and standard transmission and have not adopted the liquid coupling. These include not merely the output of one manufacturer but that of a number. They include the three leaders of the low-priced field.

Altho their transmissions herein are referred to as standard, they have been improved to a peak of great efficiency. Silent operation has been accomplished and the danger of clashing gears removed by new engineering principles. Thru the use of a vacuum-operated mechanism, featured in some cars, the shifting of gears has been turned into the easiest of operations. The placing of the gear shift lever on the steering column directly under the wheel has taken much of the toil out of gear shifting.

In an early issue the subject of automobile styling will be discussed.



Today's Thinkers will become Tomorrow's Leaders

CAN YOU SEE Beyond Today?

TODAY is yesterday's tomorrow. Has it added anything to your life? Have you moved forward in thought as well as in time? Those who wait for today's events to give them the cue as to what to do, will find themselves lagging behind. The present is only a pedestal for progressive men and women to stand upon to see beyond, to look ahead to the great tomorrow. All about you are only the evidences of what has been done. They are now history—of the past. Can you visualize the tomorrow, next week or a year from now? If you cannot, you are a slave of the present, and marked for a life of uneventful monotonous routine.

This FREE book will give you a new view of Life.

YOU CAN possess the imagination, the creative thought and far-reaching vision that has produced some of the world's most dynamic characters. Behind every new development, act of progress or success was a silent thought—a creative idea. Thousands today, in the privacy of their homes, unknown, unheralded are using secret principles for stimulating the creative, unused faculties of mind. From their thoughts will come the new industries, finance, business and civilization of tomorrow. SHARE THEIR SECRET of accomplishment by writing your request for this book to the Rosicrucians. Therein will be explained how you too may acquire these teachings which can mean so much to you in the new tomorrow.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

A Puppy Is a Lively Gift

"SHALL we give Jimmy or Mary a puppy this Christmas?" Thousands of American parents are trying to decide that question now.

In past years Santa's pack has bulged with friendly puppies of all breeds. The American Kennel club estimates that 400,000 to 500,000 puppies were given last Christmas.

There are a number of reasons why puppies make desirable Christmas gifts. In the first place, a puppy is a live gift, one that is friendly and amusing. No mechanical toy can equal the capers and antics of a two, three, or four month old puppy.

And a healthy puppy that gets sensible care is an enduring gift, one which will pay for itself in companionship and loyalty. A puppy given to an 8-year-old boy this Christmas, for example, may be expected to serve as his companion for 10 years, or until the boy is ready for college. And as the dog ages and develops character and personality it actually increases in value in its owners' minds.

The question of which kind of a dog to buy for a companion and pet in the home always gets much attention before the Christmas holidays, especially among families that have had no experience with dogs. Mothers and fathers want the "best dog" for a boy or girl, and, because there are so many breeds, they are puzzled about a choice. In the final analysis there is no best breed, because no breed has a corner on all the desirable trait that all of us want in a dog. If a family doesn't have to consider the size of the dog in relation to the space available in the home, and doesn't mind about the expense of feeding a pet or the time required to look after it, one might pick at random from 50 or 60 of the recognized breeds and feel sure that the one chosen would prove companionable and interesting.

Regardless of the breed selected, we always advise families to buy a pure-bred puppy rather than a mongrel. All of us know that mongrels are all dog and mongrel puppies have the same wistful appeal as pure-bred puppies. But if you buy a mongrel puppy you must expect a grown dog of unpredictable size or shape. The most appealing mongrel pup often develops into a dog that is anything but good looking.

On the other hand, if you buy a pure-bred Scotty, cocker spaniel, Pekingese, dachshund, wire-haired terrier, collie, or any other recognized breed, you know in advance what your puppy will look like when it is a year old, and you also know what qualities your dog will have, because pure-bred dogs have been bred for generations to cultivate certain traits as well as definite size, conformation, and type of coat.

A mongrel costs from nothing up to a few dollars, whereas a pure-bred dog from a reliable breeder costs (as a rule) from $25 up. But when you divide $25 by eight or ten years of friendship and companionability the actual cost a per year of a pure-bred is very low.

Stake Your Reputation on Steak

By MARY MEADE

ASK ANY gentleman of your acquaintance what he likes best for a good meal, and if he doesn't take on a hungry look as he answers, "A juicy steak," then he's an odd one indeed.

A broiled steak with baked stuffed potatoes, a green salad, hot biscuits, and apple dumplings—there's a meal which is guaranteed to please any normal man and any woman whose appetite is not too dainty.

Broiling a steak is a simple matter. Just have the temperature moderately low and cook the meat until it is browned thoroly on each side, turning once, and seasoning at the turning point with salt and pepper. A high temperature may scorch the outside of the steak and leave it uncooked within, or dry out the meat.

It is better to cook a thick steak than a thin one. And I hope your family likes its beef rare or medium rare. There is so much more flavor and juiciness in a rare or medium steak than there is in a thoroly cooked one. An inch-and-a-half-thick steak requires about 15 minutes to the side, cooked rare, about 18 minutes to the side to be medium, and longer than that to make the "well-done" classification.

Some families may prefer the apple dumplings, others the pineapple bread pudding made with raisin bread, for dessert.

Whole baked spicy apples lurk under these crisp pastry crusts. These are the real thing in apple dumplings and are to be served with cream.

Man's favorite dinner—a thick, tender, puffy, juicy steak, accompanied by stuffed baked potatoes.

APPLE DUMPLINGS
(Serves eight)

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
⅓ cup shortening
½ cup milk
8 apples
¾ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup cinnamon candies
2 tablespoons butter

Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together. Cut in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board and roll an eighth of an inch thick. Cut into four-inch squares. Peel and core apples and place one on each square. Mix brown sugar, nutmeg, and cinnamon candies and fill centers of apples. Dot with butter. Pull corners of dough up over apples and seal. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream.

PINEAPPLE BREAD PUDDING
(Serves six)

8 slices day-old raisin bread
¼ cup soft butter
4 eggs, well beaten
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
3 cups scalded milk
1 14-oz. can pineapple chunks
Sugar, cinnamon

Trim crusts from bread and butter on one side. Combine eggs, sugar, and flavorings; add milk slowly, stirring. Cover bottom of baking dish with half the bread, buttered side up. Place drained pineapple on bread. Pour in custard and top with rest of bread, buttered side up. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, place in a pan of hot water, and bake at 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes, until firm. Serve with cream.

This is pineapple bread pudding, made with slices of raisin bread, pineapple, and custard.

BETTER-TASTING!
"GEE, WHAT SWELL EATS YOU MAKE WITH CRISCO—THE PIE JUST MELTS IN YOUR MOUTH!" said Bernard Brennan, of Kansas City, when his mother made pie in the Crisco test

OLD-FASHIONED MINCEMEAT PIE

the way Grandma made it— with real meat!

MINCEMEAT FILLING

2 tablespoons Crisco
¼ lb. ground beef
1⅓ cups finely chopped apples
1 jar or package prepared mincemeat

Melt 2 tablespoons of Crisco in a skillet. Sear beef in hot Crisco; stir constantly to break up particles of meat. (Be sure there are no chunks clinging together.) Mix beef, apples and mincemeat. (If dry type of mincemeat is used, add liquid according to package directions.)

CRISCO PIE CRUST—tender and flaky

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Crisco
3 to 4 tablespoons water

Sift flour with salt. With fork cut in Crisco till the mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Easy to do with Crisco so creamy! Stir in water with a fork or knife until all the dry mixture is collected into a ball. Divide dough. Roll out ⅛″ thick on lightly floured board. Line pie plate—add filling—cover with slashed top crust. Bake 40-45 minutes in hot oven (425° F.).

All Measurements Level

Yes—New Crisco is different . . . so easy now to get tender pie crust—flakier, too!

Don't envy the friend who has "a knack with pastry". . . just use the shortening that helped other women get grand success. Do as they did—try "Sure-Mix" Crisco.

Recently independent investigators visited hundreds of homes at random all over the country. They asked the "lady of the house" to make Crisco pie crust and compare results with her regular shortening.

4 to 1 vote for Crisco pies

Crisco pies were much preferred! In fact, when these women stated their preference, the vote was 4 to 1 for Crisco over all other shortenings combined.

These women reported "Crisco pies are flakier"—"I prefer it for making crust tender"—"My family said my Crisco pies tasted better, too!"

By the same 4-to-1 vote, Crisco was preferred for lighter cakes and for making crisp, better-tasting fried foods!

The greatest shortening discovery in years—it's patented—makes New "Sure-Mix" Crisco different from any home shortening we know of. And no shortening we know of comes to you purer, fresher, creamier than all-vegetable Crisco.

SOAP STEPS OUT this Christmas as it never stepped out before. The entrancing figures and whimsies beautifully executed in this amusing medium are positively exciting, doubly so because they're inexpensive.

There just aren't limits to soap sculptors' imaginations. This year we have those phenomenally successful little angels in snowy white with golden wings, or, for those who like a dash of flippancy with their sentiment, in blackface.

A back scratcher in soap is a perfectly modeled white hand with a pink and white ruffle. Look for a military drum, horses on a merry-go-round, Mexican pigs. Nearly every bit of soap sculpture comes in the "well under $2" class.

Herbert's "Sweethearts"

WHEN Victor Herbert died in 1924 he left in his will a list of his operettas that had been failures. They were only a handful, as one might expect, and one of them was "Sweethearts."

In the light of this work's later popularity this is difficult to account for. It has been professionally revived on the stage; its score, if not its story, was used for the successful motion picture starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy; high school and amateur dramatic societies have found it a highly satisfactory item for their special répertoire; and last night when the W-G-N Theater of the Air saw fit to present it over the Mutual network it seemed just as fresh and delightful as ever.

"Sweethearts" was written as a vehicle for Christie MacDonald in 1913 by Herbert and some of his faithful collaborators, Harry B. and Robert B. Smith and Fred De Gresac. It had a showing in the spring of the year in Baltimore and opened in New York in the historic New Amsterdam theater on Sept. 8.

JAN PEERCE

Assisting Miss MacDonald in the leading rôles were Thomas Conkey as Prince Franz, Tom McNaughton as Mikel, and Lionel Walsh as Percy Slingsby.

Why the operetta was not successful is a matter for interesting speculation. The critics were kind, if with reservations. Some thought the show too long. Others thought the authors were tactless to call their product "Sweethearts," since W. S. Gilbert's comedy of the same name was still well known and highly thought of in those days.

Yet all agreed that Herbert had again turned out a superior set of tunes to grace the operetta, from the opening chorus of laundresses, "Iron, Iron, Iron!" thru "Every Lover Must Meet His Fate," "The Angelus," "Pretty as a Picture," and "The Cricket on the Hearth," to the theme song and finale, "Sweethearts."

In last night's broadcast of the operetta Marion Claire shared starring honors with one of the most popular radio tenors today, Jan Peerce. This marked his third appearance on this series, and he is scheduled to sing again with Miss Claire on Dec. 28 in Victor Herbert's ever-popular "The Fortune Teller."

He is singing for the first time with the Chicago Opera company this season. Early in the coming year he will participate in a performance by the Chicago Symphony orchestra of Rachmaninoff's choral work, "The Bells," which the composer will conduct.

The tenor is Brooklyn born and bred. Altho he was permitted to take violin lessons during his youth, his mother insisted on his becoming a doctor, and he went all the way thru medical school before deciding to make singing his profession.

Mr. Peerce was discovered by the greatly loved late Samuel L. ("Roxy") Rothafel. The latter heard him singing with an orchestra at a celebration in honor of Weber and Fields' 50th anniversary in New York's Astor hotel. "Roxy" immediately invited him to sing at the opening of the new Radio City Music hall. Since that time he has appeared on the stage shows there regularly, meanwhile branching out into radio, concert, and meeting success in every field.

BALLET THEATER

WHEN the Ballet Theater was organized last winter it was intent on presenting "the best that is traditional, the best that is contemporary, and, inevitably, the best that is controversial" in the art of ballet. In doing so it employed two great American qualities, showmanship and teamwork. The result was an extraordinary success.

Therefore it was inevitable that the revitalized Chicago Opera company, using the same ends and methods in regard to opera, and the Ballet Theater should be drawn together. In planning the current season the opera company invited the youthful organization to provide ballets for its operatic performances as well as present several all-ballet programs. Such cooperation has proved valuable to both groups, for it has been several years since the dancing within the operas has been so well staged and performed, while the Ballet Theater has had a temporary home in which to work and create.

In its Thursday night and Sunday afternoon all-ballet programs at the Civic Opera house the Ballet Theater has already given evidence of the wide variety of its répertoire. "Giselle," "Les Sylphides," "Peter and the Wolf," "Voices of Spring," "Swan Lake," "Jardin aux Lilas," "Goyescas," and "The Great American Goof" represent diverse styles and eras in dancing. They represent, too, the creations of choreographers from Russia, Ireland, England, and America, while the dancers in them come from these and many more places thruout the world.

ganization, dominated by Ald. Johnny Powers, opened up in competition and presented the County Democracy dress ball, but it was a dull affair.

The Bath, major-domo of the First ward affairs, succeeded because he was a showman. At precisely midnight he led the grand march, a procession so magnificent as to awe even the owners of the glittering and famous parlor houses in the tenderloin. The march was led by Bathhouse John himself, gorgeously arrayed in a tail coat of green billiard cloth, lavender cravat and pants, a fawn-colored vest emblazoned with diamond studs, pink gloves, and high yellow shoes. In the boxes, which surrounded the dance floor, sat the madams and the loveliest of their "boarders," bedizened with gems, bare shoulders gleaming, silks rustling, and champagne corks popping as they sipped and smiled and bowed to their goggle-eyed public.

As Hinky Dink remarked, the ball never got good until after 3 a. m. Then, amid clouds of smoke and the reek of beer, the girls and their cadets, the thugs and plug-uglies, the robbers and sluggers, and the greasy-haired, dress-suited ushers began to fight and play. Drunks were tossed to the streets, pugnacious guests were summarily clubbed, and the entertainers from the lower dives offered their acts in the darkened corners of the basement or the annex.

These post-3 a. m. activities, which came "when the ball got good," brought down the stormy objections of the reformers. Each year the cry of indignation grew louder, and each December the guest line at the First Ward ball was longer and the clatter of the cash drawers made a more terrific din.

By 1908 the reform groups were definitely determined to stop the ball. Arthur Burrage Farwell, militant leader of the Chicago Law and Order league, presented to Mayor Fred Busse a report on the 1907 ball, which, he said, because of the vileness of the early morning revels, was simply unprintable.

"You must stop this ball," Farwell pleaded with the mayor. "You must stop this disgrace to Chicago. You must stop it in the name of the young men who will be ruined there.

"I put this matter up to you personally, Mr. Busse. Suppose you had a young friend whose character and life you prized highly. How would you like to have such scenes of debauchery as are allowed at this ball used to bring degradation and perhaps destruction to your friend? Prevent a repetition of such an orgy as occurred last year!"

Mayor Busse discovered that the liquor licenses necessary to the ball had already been issued. There was nothing he could do to stop it. He promised extra police, and Bathhouse John assured the public they would be welcome. They always were.

The reform groups marshaled their forces. Protest rallies were held, and petitions stacked up in the office of Mayor Busse. The Rev. William O. Waters, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, sought an injunction to prevent the Coliseum company from renting the hall to the First ward politicians. Judge Albert C. Barnes tossed out the petition, but advised the reformers that they ought to censor the ball.

Big Jim Colosimo

The Bathhouse and Hinky Dink gloated over the ensuing publicity. "It will be the best Derby we've ever had," the Bath assured his colleague. He ordered a new dress suit for the occasion. Hinky Dink got out an extra block of tickets. Every outlaw in the district was expected to buy at least one, and bundles of the pasteboards were sent to the saloons and brothels to be sold. If a café manager, a saloonkeeper, or a resort owner failed to take his quota he had police trouble immediately.

On the morning of Dec. 7 The Chicago Tribune dropped a bombshell into the preparations for the ball. A notice in blackface type appeared on page one of that issue.

"The Tribune desires to announce that it will print a list of the 'respectable' persons who attend the First Ward ball next Monday night," the paper said. "Every effort will be made to make the 'among those present' as complete as possible.

"The opponents of the affair," The Tribune continued, "believe the publishing of names of all attendants will keep business men and the better grade of politicians away and come pretty close to making the affair a failure from a financial standpoint. All of which might mean abandonment of the ball in the future and force Ald. Kenna and the Bathhouse to resort to other means to raise campaign expenses."

The Tribune scored a direct hit. The real money in the ball came from the respectable sports who went down to look over the strumpets and to witness the orgies from the dubious seclusion of the boxes. These persons prized nothing so much as their respectability, and the Bath and the Hink quickly perceived that their best source of revenue was being ruthlessly cut off.

They redoubled the ticket selling campaign, sent blocks of tickets to houses of prostitution downstate, on the theory that they could be sold there to business men who need not fear recognition by nosy Tribune reporters. The extra publicity and pressure boomed business, the town was tensely expectant, and the Bath held an extra fitting of his dress suit.

On the night before the Derby, as the Bath preferred to call it, he assembled 200 of his henchmen in a rally, while the forces of reform similarly rallied at the Church of the Covenant, Belden avenue and Halsted street. The Bath gave his men their final instructions.

"Youse boys will hafta wear soup and fish," he directed. "The Derby is gonna have tone."

He selected the outside men, the ushers, the bouncers, the cloakroom attendants (an honor from which pickpockets were automatically barred). Trusted precinct captains were made custodians of the cash, and the special friends of the Bath and the Hink, "Big Jim" O'Leary, the gambler; Ike Bloom, king of the brothels; Pat O'Malley; "Polack Ben" Zeller; Jim Colosimo, later lord of the vice district; and Matt Hogan were placed in general charge.

While the meeting was in progress, and as the Coliseum was being cleaned of the last vestiges of the live stock exposition, some one tossed a bomb at the front entrance. Windows were shattered up and down Wabash and Michigan avenues, but the Coliseum was undamaged. The police blamed reformers. No one else, they said, would toss a bomb so inexpertly.

The stage is set for the Bath's great show. Read what happened at the Derby in next Sunday's Graphic Section.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES
by MILTON CANIFF
BY THE LONG WHITE BEARD OF MY FAVORITE PROPHET... WHAT MANNER OF MISCHANCE IS THIS?
OH!
"OH," INDEED, MY STARTLED CABBAGE! THE HONORABLE MR. KIPLING SAID EAST AND WEST WOULD NEVER MEET! —BUT THE AUSPICIOUS EVENT HAS OCCURRED UPON MY VERY DOORSTEP!
PLEASE, VENERABLE ONE, MY FRIEND SUFFERS FROM A WOUND... I COULD CARRY HIM NO FURTHER! ...WE FELL EXHAUSTED! WE WILL GO... TO SAVE YOU EMBARRASSMENT!
I WAS NEVER EMBARRASSED IN MY LIFE, LITTLE CHICKEN! COME INSIDE!... A SENTRY MIGHT SEE YOU!...
HE IS AN AMERICAN—SHOT BY THE INVADER!.. HE IS RECOVERING, BUT MUST HAVE REST AND FOOD!
THEN LET KETTLE MEET FIRE! SUCH HARDY YOUTH DESERVES PERPETUATING!
HIS COLOR RISES! WE ARE GRATEFUL, VENERABLE ONE! PERHAPS WE HAD BEST BE GONE! YOU MIGHT SUFFER FOR OUR PRESENCE!
NO—YOU ARE DEEP IN OCCUPIED CHINA! THE GOLDEN CHILD WILL REST HERE, LEST THE INVADER FIND HIM! BESIDES, YOU BRING A NOTE OF YOUTH TO THIS POOR HOVEL!
WE ARE HUMBLY GRATEFUL! WE SHALL ABIDE BY THE ELDER WISDOM!
AH, IT IS GOOD TO BE ADDRESSED WITH RESPECT! IN DUE TIME YOU WILL TELL ME OF YOURSELVES! UNTIL SUCH TIME I WILL BORE YOU WITH MY OWN WEARY HISTORY—SO THAT YOU MAY NOT FEAR BEING BETRAYED TO THE INVADER!
MY NAME IS DR. PING! I WAS AN INSTRUCTOR IN THE UNIVERSITY HERE UNTIL THE LITTLE MEN FROM ACROSS THE EASTERN SEA DECIDED TO BRING THEIR PARTICULAR BRAND OF ENLIGHTENMENT TO CHINA.... WHEN THEY OCCUPIED THE CITY I WAS THOUGHT TOO ANCIENT TO WASTE A BULLET ON....
I WAS STARVING BY UNEASY STAGES, WHEN THE MILITARY GENTRY FOUND ME USEFUL AS AN INTERPRETER OF THEIR CULTURE TO THE HEATHEN CHINESE NOW UNDER THEIR BENEVOLENT PROTECTION!....
.... AH! THE FACE OF THE YOUNG PATRIOT FALLS! SHE THINKS THE OLD ONE HAS SUBMITTED TO THE ENEMY! ...FORTUNATELY, THE INVADER IS ALSO OF THAT OPINION!...
THE COMMANDER GAVE ME THIS TODAY! I AM TO MAKE COPIES IN CHINESE TO BE POSTED IN THE CITY! WILL YOU READ IT, LITTLE ORCHID?
"THE IMPERIAL ARMY WILL PAY 50 GOLD PIECES FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO THE ARREST OF THE CHINESE GUERILLA CALLED THE "BLUE TIGER", WHO IS KNOWN TO HAVE CAUSED THE WRECK OF AN ARMY SUPPLY TRAIN AT KOO-LING BRIDGE.."
I AM THE BLUE TIGER!

SIT DOWN AND EAT, MOTHER. I'M MAKING THE AUNT JEMIMA'S TODAY!
ATTA BOY, POP! I NEVER MISS AN AUNT JEMIMA!
HEY, MOM! CHESTER IS TWO PANCAKES AHEAD OF ME!
WELL, GEE WHIZ! A FELLOW CAN'T PLAY GOOD FOOTBALL UNLESS HE EATS PLENTY OF AUNT JEMIMA'S!
AND JUST TO THINK HOW I USED TO WORRY ABOUT WHAT TO GIVE THIS FAMILY FOR BREAKFAST!
I GET THE NEXT ONE!
IT'S SO EASY TO MAKE AUNT JEMIMA PANCAKES THAT EVEN DAD CAN MAKE THEM!
AUNT JEMIMA READY-MIX BUCKWHEAT, CORN & WHEAT FLOUR
AUNT JEMIMA READY-MIX PANCAKES

Dey's no easier way of makin' a hit wif your family than AUNT JEMIMA PANCAKES...

Serve 'em today and listen to de folks sing your praises!

Ask your grocer for both kinds of Aunt Jemima's magic Ready-Mix today—the red box for pancakes and waffles, the yellow box for buckwheats

From the OLD SOUTH—land of good eating—come these helpful mealtime hints!

BREAKFAST
Aunt Jemima's Pancakes, with butter, syrup and bacon.

LUNCH
Aunt Jemima's Buckwheats, with butter, syrup and pork sausage.

SUPPER
Aunt Jemima's Waffles, with butter, honey and ham slices.

These are toothsome treats your family will love . . . dishes that take the spotlight when you're entertaining guests. And they're easy as 1-2-3 to fix! No chance of failure . . . because Aunt Jemima's own secret recipe is already mixed for you in every box of her world-famous Ready-Mix. Simply add milk or water, mix, and pour on the griddle. That's all. No fuss or bother. Aunt Jemima's are nourishing, easy to digest, and inexpensive.

YOU'RE SURE OF SUCCESS WITH AUNT JEMIMAS!

ELEANOR HOWE, noted authority on home economics, says: "I've made pancakes from dozens of different cook-book recipes, and know you invariably get excellent results with Aunt Jemima's."

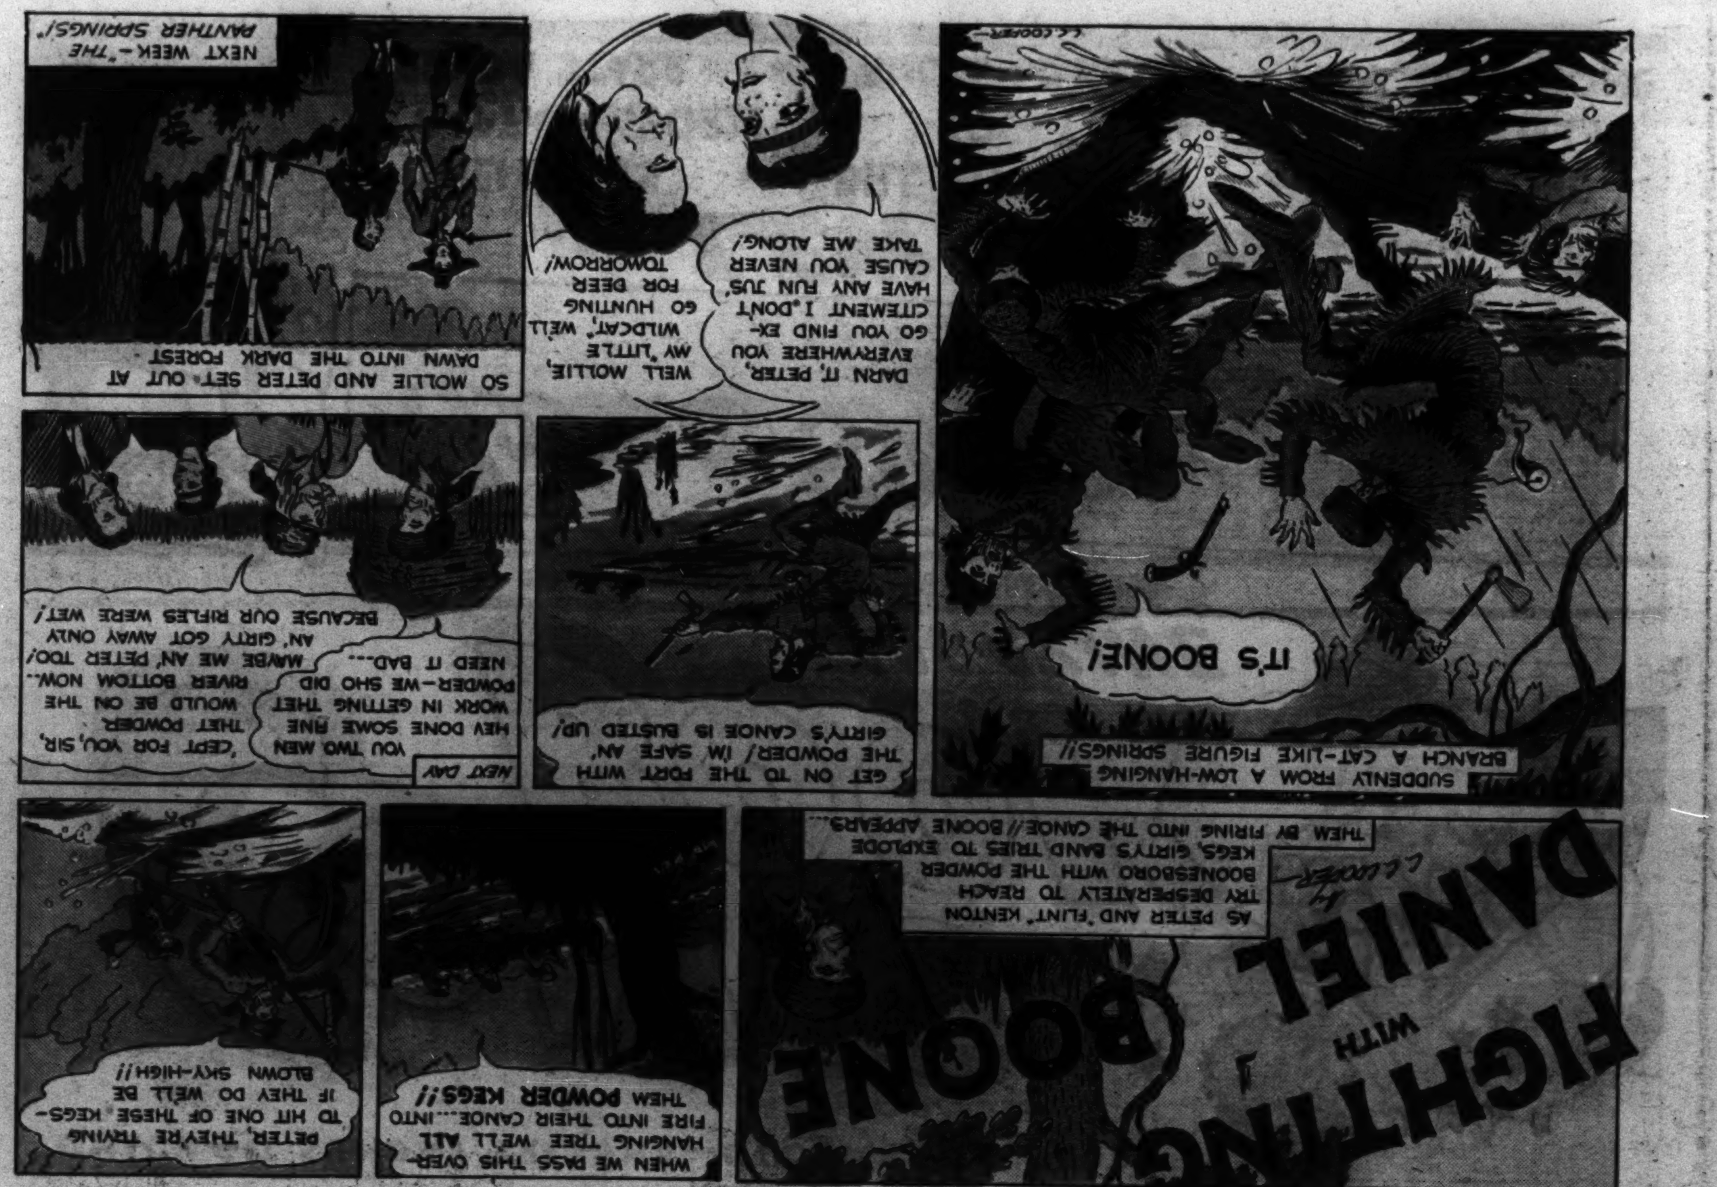
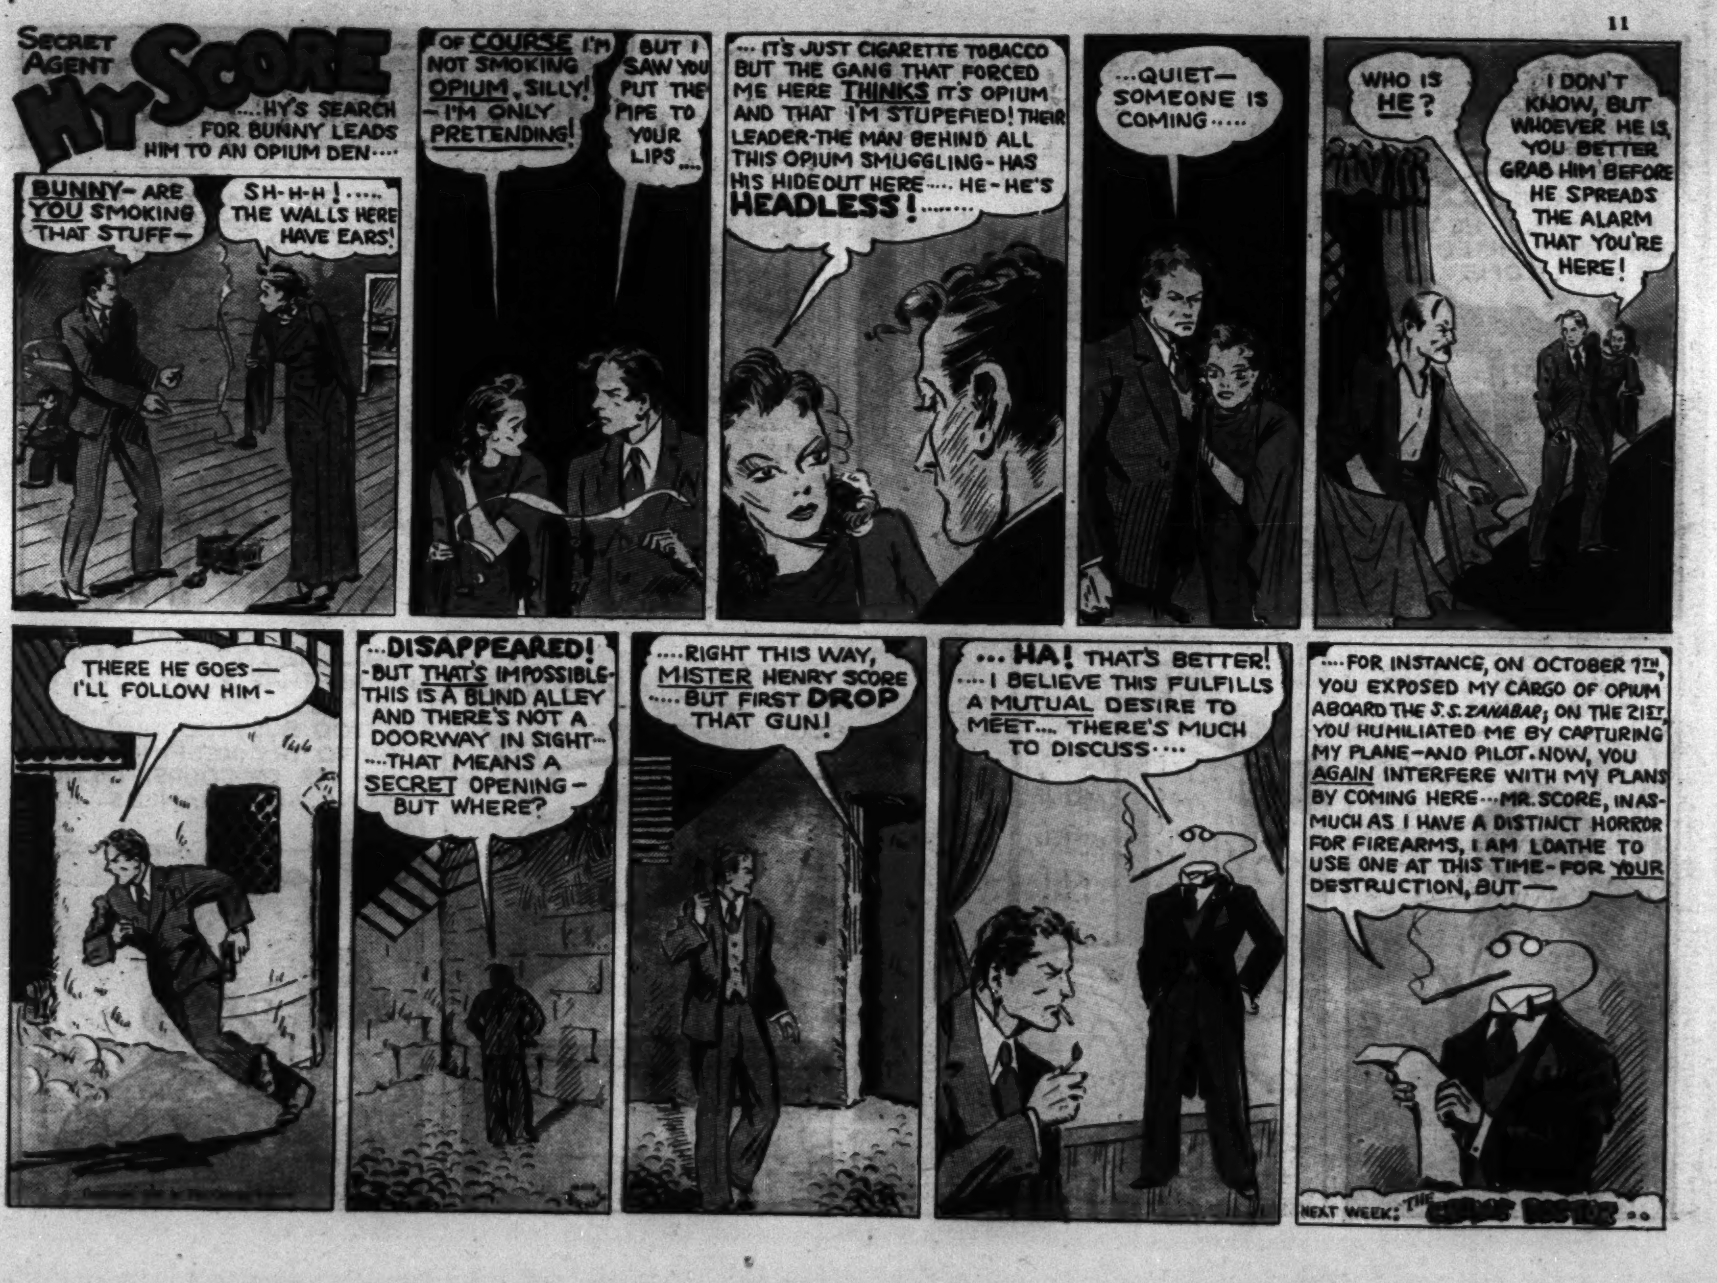
FIGHTING WITH DANIEL BOONE

by C. C. COOPER



AS PETER AND "FLINT" KENTON TRY DESPERATELY TO REACH BOONESBORO WITH THE POWDER KEGS, GIRTY'S BAND TRIES TO EXPLODE THEM BY FIRING INTO THE CANOE!! BOONE APPEARS...
WHEN WE PASS THIS OVER-HANGING TREE WE'LL ALL FIRE INTO THEIR CANOE...INTO THEM POWDER KEGS!!
PETER, THEY'RE TRYING TO HIT ONE OF THESE KEGS-IF THEY DO WE'LL BE BLOWN SKY-HIGH!!
SUDDENLY FROM A LOW-HANGING BRANCH A CAT-LIKE FIGURE SPRINGS!!
IT'S BOONE!
C. C. COOPER
GET ON TO THE FORT WITH THE POWDER! I'M SAFE AN' GIRTY'S CANOE IS BUSTED UP!
NEXT DAY
YOU TWO MEN HEV DONE SOME FINE WORK IN GETTING THET POWDER—WE SHO DID NEED IT BAD...
'CEPT FOR YOU, SIR, THAT POWDER WOULD BE ON THE RIVER BOTTOM NOW... MAYBE ME AN' PETER TOO! AN' GIRTY GOT AWAY ONLY BECAUSE OUR RIFLES WERE WET!
DARN IT, PETER, EVERYWHERE YOU GO YOU FIND EX-CITEMENT! I DON'T HAVE ANY FUN JUS' CAUSE YOU NEVER TAKE ME ALONG!
WELL MOLLIE, MY "LITTLE WILDCAT," WE'LL GO HUNTING FOR DEER TOMORROW!
SO MOLLIE AND PETER SET OUT AT DAWN INTO THE DARK FOREST
NEXT WEEK—"THE PANTHER SPRINGS!"

SECRET AGENT HY SCORE



...HY'S SEARCH FOR BUNNY LEADS HIM TO AN OPIUM DEN...
BUNNY—ARE YOU SMOKING THAT STUFF—
SH-H-H!... THE WALLS HERE HAVE EARS!
OF COURSE I'M NOT SMOKING OPIUM, SILLY! I'M ONLY PRETENDING!
BUT I SAW YOU PUT THE PIPE TO YOUR LIPS...
...IT'S JUST CIGARETTE TOBACCO BUT THE GANG THAT FORCED ME HERE THINKS IT'S OPIUM AND THAT I'M STUPEFIED! THEIR LEADER-THE MAN BEHIND ALL THIS OPIUM SMUGGLING-HAS HIS HIDEOUT HERE.... HE-HE'S HEADLESS!......
...QUIET— SOMEONE IS COMING......
WHO IS HE?
I DON'T KNOW, BUT WHOEVER HE IS, YOU BETTER GRAB HIM BEFORE HE SPREADS THE ALARM THAT YOU'RE HERE!
THERE HE GOES— I'LL FOLLOW HIM—
...DISAPPEARED! ...BUT THAT'S IMPOSSIBLE-THIS IS A BLIND ALLEY AND THERE'S NOT A DOORWAY IN SIGHT— ...THAT MEANS A SECRET OPENING— BUT WHERE?
...RIGHT THIS WAY, MISTER HENRY SCORE ...BUT FIRST DROP THAT GUN!
...HA! THAT'S BETTER! ...I BELIEVE THIS FULFILLS A MUTUAL DESIRE TO MEET... THERE'S MUCH TO DISCUSS....
...FOR INSTANCE, ON OCTOBER 7TH, YOU EXPOSED MY CARGO OF OPIUM ABOARD THE S.S. ZANABAR; ON THE 21ST, YOU HUMILIATED ME BY CAPTURING MY PLANE—AND PILOT. NOW, YOU AGAIN INTERFERE WITH MY PLANS BY COMING HERE...MR. SCORE, INAS-MUCH AS I HAVE A DISTINCT HORROR FOR FIREARMS, I AM LOATHE TO USE ONE AT THIS TIME-FOR YOUR DESTRUCTION, BUT—

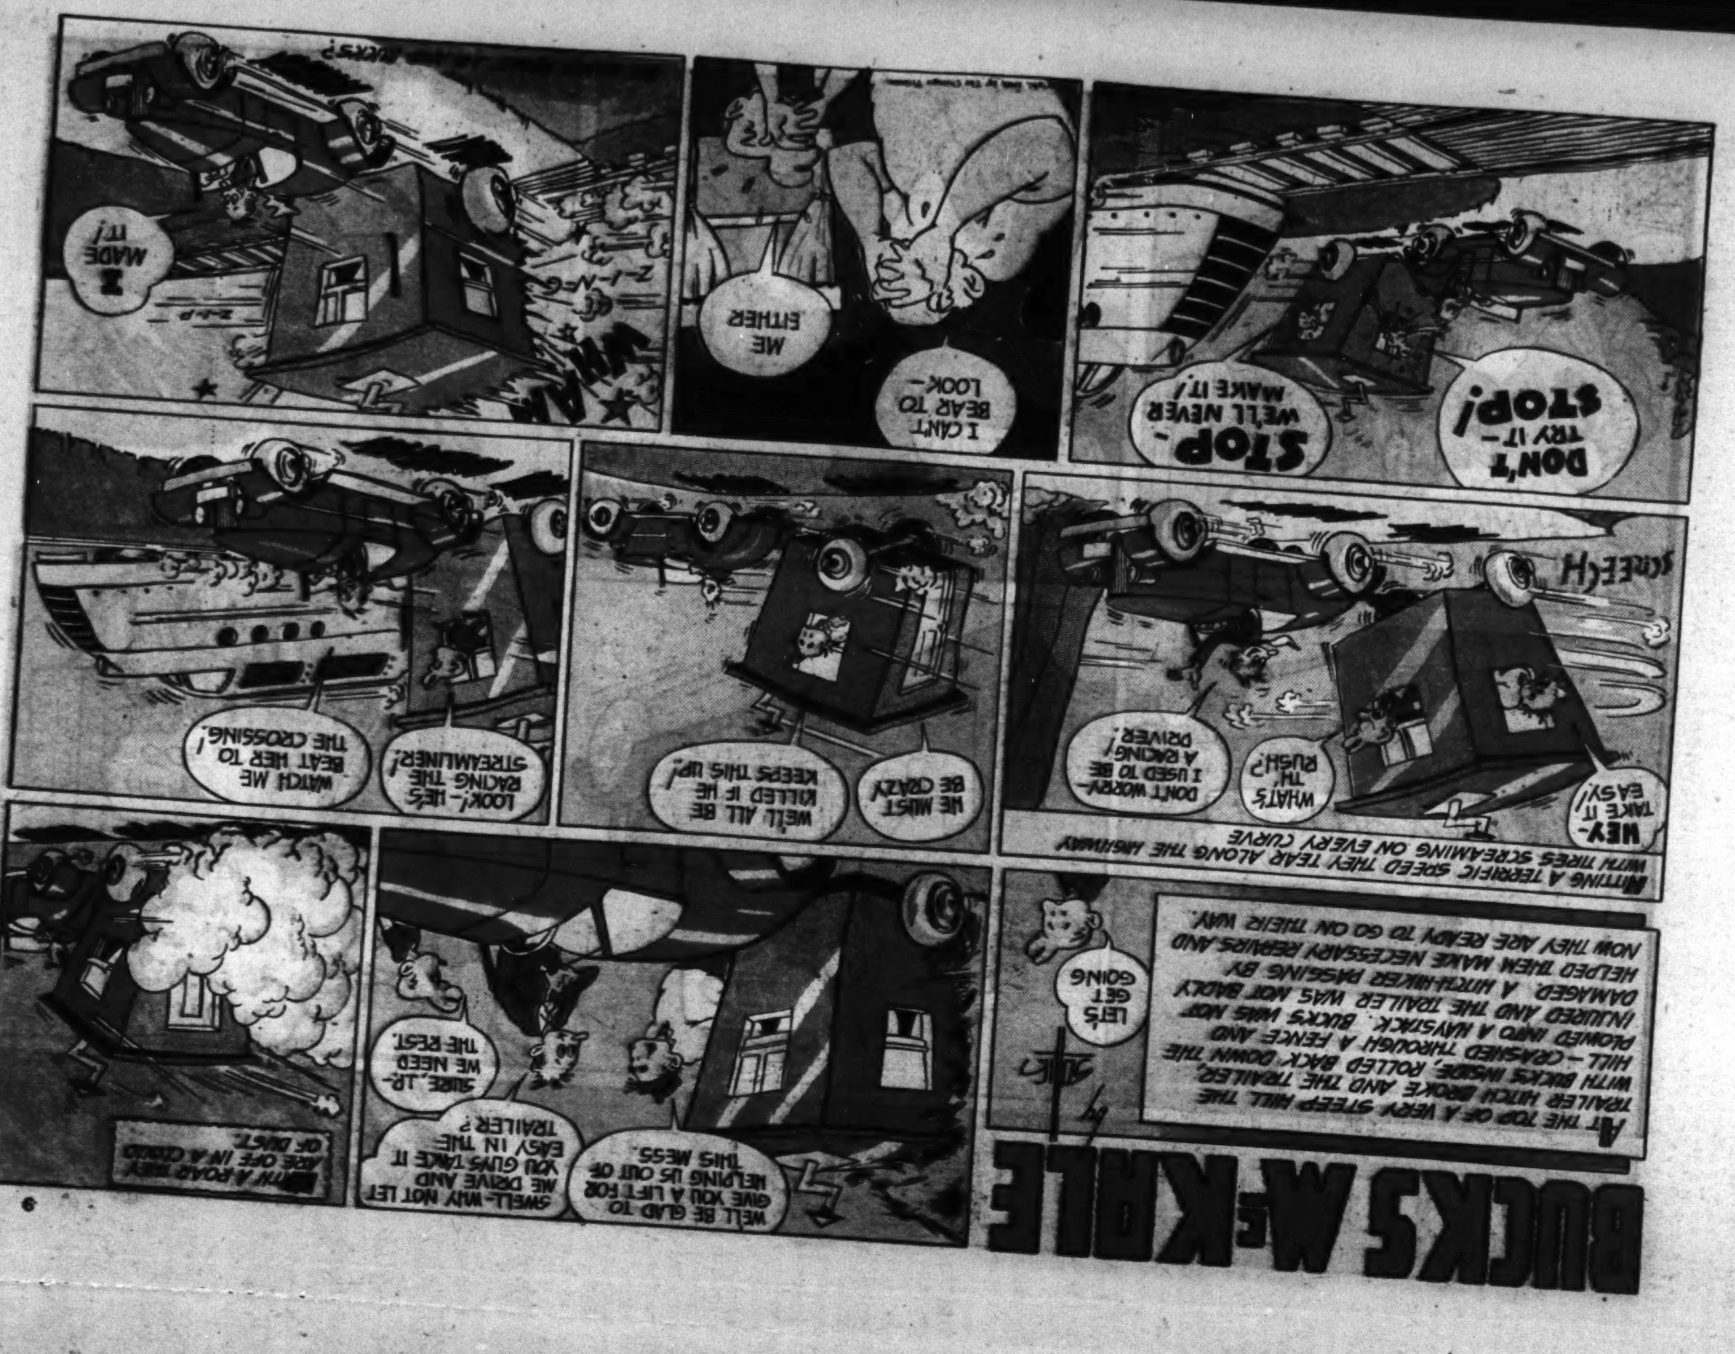
BUCKS McKALE



by Stiles
AT THE TOP OF A VERY STEEP HILL THE TRAILER HITCH BROKE AND THE TRAILER, WITH BUCKS INSIDE, ROLLED BACK DOWN THE HILL—CRASHED THROUGH A FENCE AND PLOWED INTO A HAYSTACK. BUCKS WAS NOT INJURED AND THE TRAILER WAS NOT BADLY DAMAGED. A HITCH-HIKER PASSING BY HELPED THEM MAKE NECESSARY REPAIRS AND NOW THEY ARE READY TO GO ON THEIR WAY.
LET'S GET GOING
WE'LL BE GLAD TO GIVE YOU A LIFT FOR HELPING US OUT OF THIS MESS.
SWELL—WHY NOT LET ME DRIVE AND YOU GUYS TAKE IT EASY IN THE TRAILER?
SURE—WE NEED THE REST.
WITH A ROAR THEY ARE OFF IN A CLOUD OF DUST.
WITH A TERRIFIC SPEED THEY TEAR ALONG THE HIGHWAY WITH TIRES SCREAMING ON EVERY CURVE
HEY—TAKE IT EASY!
WHAT'S TH' RUSH?
DON'T WORRY—I USED TO BE A RACING DRIVER!

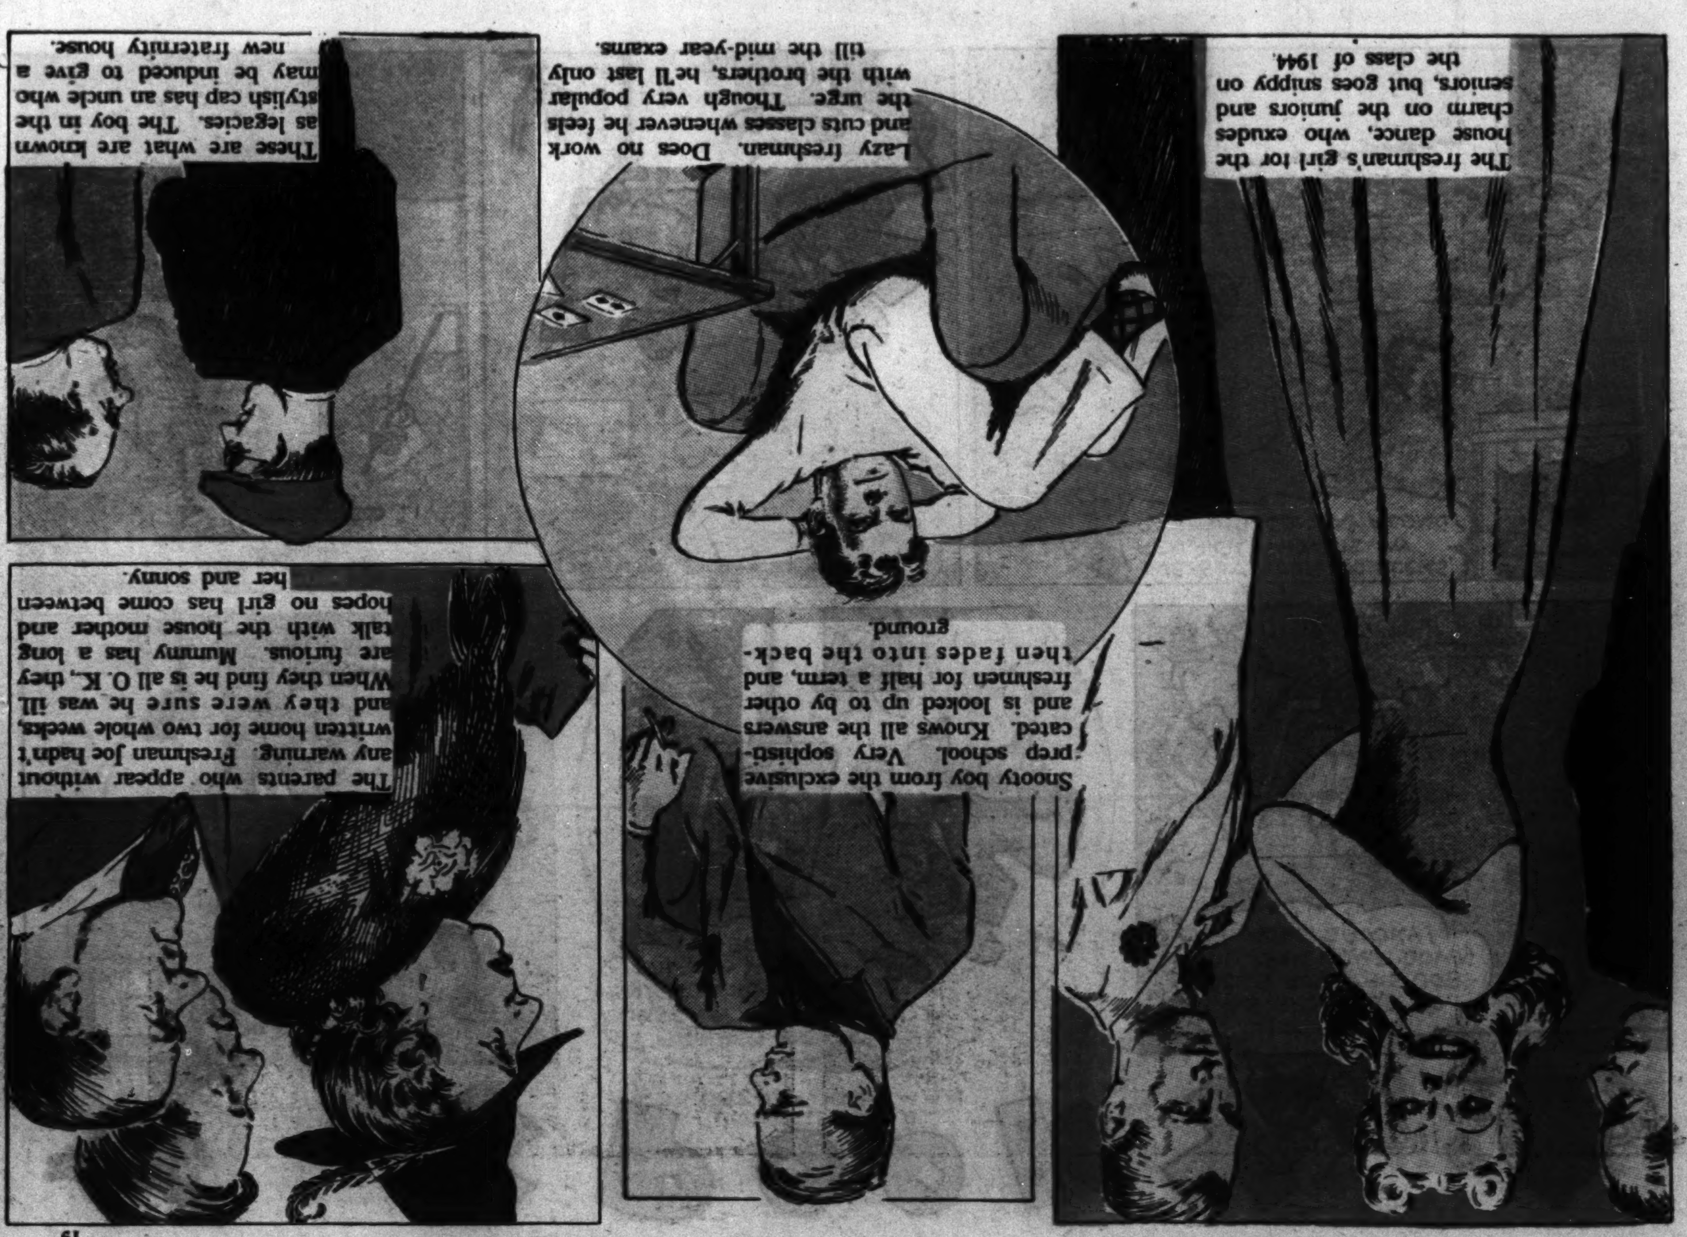
ALL CHEER FOR OLD SODASH

The boys who cultivate a reputation for chasing the women. Come to the fraternity house with wicked leers to tell the brothers how they picked up two swell numbers down on Eddy St., etc., etc.

The visiting alumni getting a look-see at the Fall pledges who have been lined up for a good old songfest.

The fresh guy with no respect whatever for upperclassmen fraternity brothers. Slaps them on the back and says, "How's the old soak this fine morning?"

The freshman football material. The brothers are mighty proud to have lured him into the fold.



Snooty boy from the exclusive prep school. Very sophisticated. Knows all the answers and is looked up to by other freshmen for half a term, and then fades into the background.

The parents who appear without any warning. Freshman Joe hadn't written home for two whole weeks, and they were sure he was ill. When they find he is all O. K., they are furious. Mummy has a long talk with the house mother and hopes no girl has come between her and sonny.

The freshman's girl for the house dance, who exudes charm on the juniors and seniors, but goes snippy on the class of 1944.

Lazy freshman. Does no work and cuts classes whenever he feels the urge. Though very popular with the brothers, he'll last only till the mid-year exams.

These are what are known as legacies. The boy in the stylish cap has an uncle who may be induced to give a new fraternity house.
